In #3 doubles, Matt Dietel and Shay Arnold won 3-6, 7-5, 6-3; 6-4, 6-3; 7-5, 7-5.

In #2 doubles, Zach Pajtas and Richie LaVoie won twice and lost once. The remainder of the Rayder team went 1-2 on the day.

Lundteigen said the biggest match of the year will be Friday's Regional Tournament in Traverse City. The top two teams from Regionals will qualify for the State Meet. Lundteigen said there are about four teams which have a good shot at qualifying for State and the Rayders are definitely one of that group.

Monday's weather was a bit brisk so Charlevoix pitcher Liz Grunch wore a sweatshirt while hitting. The sweatshirt didn't seem to hinder her as she had four hits on the day.

Foundation sponsors golf tournament

The Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation will host the Alyce L. Lesser Memorial Golf Tournament Friday, June 10 at the Belvedere Golf Club. The 18-hole, four-person scramble will tee off with a shotgun start at 2 p.m. There will be prizes for low score, longest drive, closest to the pin, longest putt and lots of door prizes.

Entry fee for the tournament is $75 for non-Belvedere members and $45 for Belvedere Golf Club members. The entry fee includes 18 holes of golf and dinner. Golfers may either form their own teams or be assigned to a team. Entry forms may be obtained by calling Mike Corcoran or Vicki Voisin at 547-9931. Completed forms and entry fees should be turned in by June 1.

The late Alyce L. Lesser was an avid golfer and involved in a number of community endeavors including the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation. The Enrichment Foundation uses interest revenue from money generated by donations and events such as the golf tournament to fund programs, activities, events and facilities for Charlevoix school students which are above and beyond the basic educational menu. Recent enrichment foundation grants include: money for an art and reading program coordinated between the Elementary School art department and library; and an advanced computer station for high school biology students. People interested in contributing to the foundation may write to Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation, P.O. Box 72, Charlevoix MI 49720.

School board discusses need for test consultant

By Laurie Lounsbury

The idea of having a $16,806 administrative test consultant was shelved for the time being by the Charlevoix School Board at their Monday evening meeting. Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson proposed retaining Condit Drury as a part time consultant to assist administrators in evaluating the Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) tests. Drury, who is retiring from his position as middle school counselor in June, spent about a third of his time compiling data from the tests after they're taken by Charlevoix students. From that information, school administrators and teachers worked to align curriculum needs with student test results.

Third grade teacher Karen Pierce objected to spending money on a test consultant when other educational needs aren't being met. "When we're talking about cost containment, spending $16,000 on a testing consultant instead of child education-centered needs seems wrong," Pierce said. She pointed out that the elementary school still doesn't have a certified reading consultant.

High school counselor Toni Felter expressed concern that adding the cost of a test consultant might reduce the position of middle school counselor. "If you're reducing counseling time for testing studies, then I'm totally against it," she said.

Middle School principal Dennis Van Guilder pointed out the necessity of understanding test results. "We can lose five percent of state funding if we don't make the state cut-off (on the test scores)," Van Guilder said. "The stakes are higher - like it or lump it," he added.

Other teachers and administrators from each building said they were already analyzing their own test results. Pam Smith, fourth grade teacher, said the money would be better spent on training and in-service time for the faculty so they can better analyze their own test results. "We all need to understand it," she said.

After polling each building administrator, the board determined that much of the test analysis is already being done in each building. Board member Mary Lee Campbell suggested that the hiring of Drury as a consultant be taken off the agenda and re-considered by the board. The board concurred.

Talk of Drury's retirement also raised questions about filling the position of middle school counselor. Several people expressed the need for a female counselor at the middle school. "We don't have a female person at this time for girls," said Tori Fisher, middle school math and health teacher. "Girls aren't getting enough female help."

In other business, city police chief Dennis Halverson gave a report on the status of the school liaison officer program. The program was started earlier in the school year. Four Charlevoix police officers took turns going to the school buildings one day a week, getting to know students and faculty. The officers explained laws to students, attended dances, and assisted counselors with students. Halverson said, "I'm very satisfied if for no other reason than I have four officers who have a better understanding of the school system, staff, teachers and students. We all grew because of it." Halverson announced that starting in January of 1995, he will have an extra patrolman on staff. The additional officer will spend two days a week teaching the DARE program (Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education) to fifth and sixth graders. The program was dropped two years ago due to lack of funding.

City Police to host bike safety rodeo May 21 at high school

By Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix police officer Jim Schlappi got a taste of the teacher's life last week when he spent three days teaching bicycle safety to elementary school students. Schlappi was there to promote bike safety and the upcoming Bicycle Safety Rodeo, an event sponsored by the police department and area merchants. The rodeo will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. May 21 at the high school parking lot. Students attending the rodeo will ride their bikes through an obstacle course, demonstrating their ability and safety skills.

The purpose of the rodeo is not only to promote bike safety but to begin bicycle registration in Charlevoix. Anyone may register their bicycle with the Charlevoix Police Department for a dollar. Schlappi said more than 70 unclaimed bikes were sold at the police auction two weeks ago. "If those bikes had been registered, we could have found the owner," Schlappi said, adding, "A lot of bikes get 'borrowed' in Charlevoix, then turn up later."

The Bicycle Rodeo has no age limits. Schlappi said toddlers on big wheels are as welcome as adults and older children. Anyone entering the rodeo will have a chance to be in the drawing. Two bikes will be given away, along with helmets, locks, and water bottles. Coupons to area restaurants will also be given away.

Mayor resigns

Felter to fill in until election

City of Charlevoix Mayor Dave Novotny surprised the community with his resignation after last Monday night's council meeting. Novotny said the resignation was something he'd been thinking about for eight or nine months. It was a culmination of several things that prompted him to resign last Monday. In an interview with the Courier last week, Novotny elaborated on the reasons that led to his resignation.

Courier: What were the strongest reasons for wanting to resign?
Novotny: "The main reason was personal. There are things I want to do for myself, things I have to get done. The time I spent being mayor was taking away from my job and other things in my life. The other reason is that I have a problem with people who are negative. Just about every council meeting there was a negative attitude among the people there. It seemed like they didn't want things to go smoothly. They were always trying to break down the system, trying to stir up controversy."

Courier: What circumstances, if any, could make you reconsider resigning from the job?

Novotny: "If people have problems, I'd rather have them call me up and discuss it first rather than bring it up cold at a council meeting. Not that I have a problem with people bringing things up at a meeting, but it could be brought up in a constructive manner if they had more forethought and information." "I wish I could change the misconception people have about the city council people. They don't understand the time and effort actually put into the job. The phone calls, travel, the meetings, (other than council meetings) all the things we do to try to make things better for all the people in Charlevoix. The average person doesn't realize the time put into it. They think we just go to council meetings. I've finally come to wonder if it's really worth it all."

Courier: If you could change one thing, what would it be?

Next mayor likely to be elected by write-in ballots

So how do you go about replacing a mayor?

The May 16 resignation of Charlevoix Mayor Dave Novotny, left several people wondering what the procedure is for filling the position of city mayor when it becomes vacant in the middle of a term.

City Clerk JoAnne Patrick and City Attorney Jim Young have researched the matter and reached the following conclusions:

The position of mayor will be taken over by Deputy Mayor Ted Felter at the next council meeting and he will serve through the November election. While the mayor normally only casts a vote to break a tie, Felter, one of the second ward's two council representatives, will continue to be a voting member of the council on all issues.

Another wrinkle in the issue is that Novotny is the only one who filed a nominating petition for the November election. Consequently, only his name will appear on the November ballot. However, Novotny's said that he's done being mayor.

That means the next mayor of Charlevoix will likely be elected based upon write-in votes.

By L. Scott Swanson

SN Thomas Leckrone from the U.S. Coast Guard Lifeboat Station registers a bicycle rider at this past Saturday's bike rodeo. The bike rodeo was sponsored by the Charlevoix City Police Department. Police officers, with the help of Coast Guardsmen and other volunteers, registered 80 bikes. Close to 100 children and adults participated in the event which took place Saturday in the high school parking lot.

Petunia planting: It's a dirty job, but hundreds of people do it

The beds have been made and now it's time for the petunias to lie in them. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful officials have checked with all the important gurus of northern Michigan weather and determined that between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. Thursday, May 26 there won't be a hint of rain in the air. Taking advantage of the weather will be hundreds of volunteers participating in the Thirtieth Annual Operation Petunia.

As though there's anyone in the community who hasn't participated in petunia planting at one time or another over the years, here's how it's done: You simply show up somewhere along Bridge Street between 4:30 and 5:30, find a block captain and let them know you ain't afraid to get your hands dirty. Block captains aren't hard to spot. They wear those bright orange vests normally considered fashionable only in highway construction and deer hunting circles.

Following the planting there will be a big picnic in East Park. Although the picnic is referred to as the "Petunia Picnic," nobody eats petunias. The menu includes hot dogs, soft drinks and other non-floral fare. Anybody afraid of getting fattened up by picnic food can burn off calories hoofin' to tunes provided by Dr. Goodheart's Home Remedy.

People who have purchased their tickets for the Aug. 7 Petunia Party by 6:30 p.m. May 26 will be eligible for the big early bird drawing which will take place in conjunction with the Petunia Picnic. The winner will receive two free tickets to the party and be hauled there in a big, snazzy limousine. The winning ticket will be drawn by the mayor of Charlevoix, or at least by whoever happens to be serving in that capacity at the time of the picnic.

Middle school students test knowledge in math competition

Saturday, April 30, twelve Charlevoix Middle School students traveled to Kirtland Community College near Roscommon to compete in the 19th annual MCTM Middle School Junior High Mathematics Regional Competition. The students took an hour-long individual test followed by a 10-minute, two problem, tie breaker test.

While the test results were being compiled, Charlevoix students along with more than 300 top math students from the northern part of the lower peninsula participated in a math walk. They had to solve problems to move from one location on the college campus to another and to be assigned a time for lunch. The awards ceremony honored the top 25 students from sixth, seventh, and eighth grade. All of these students received a t-shirt, and an invitation to compete in the state competition to be held in Mount Pleasant at Central Michigan University on Saturday, May 21. The top ten at each grade level also received trophies or plaques.

To prepare for the competition, students attended coaching sessions after school with Steve Stargardt, Tori Fisher, or Kay Fiedorek. Charlevoix's top finisher was sixth grader, Tyler Lieberman, who finished in ninth place. Other CMS students participating were: Sixth grade - Josh Moses, Luke Whitley, Adam Wood; seventh grade - Carrie Beemon, Dan Bennett, Nikki Bunting, Jamie Gowell; eighth grade - Leah Dulaney, Amanda Eaton, Katie Golski, Rhonda Williams.

Novotny: I wish more people would take an interest in government. Not just special interest groups. When something directly affects people, they get involved, but they should get involved with government as a whole, before special interests arise. It might alleviate some of the problems. I wish they would express an interest, whether it's pro or con, on any issue and let the city know how they feel. Everyone feels community pride. More people should get out and express that pride, get active in the community. A good example is committees. We have a heck of a time getting people to serve on committees. People don't want to give up their personal time to help make Charlevoix better.

Courier: How do you feel about the public perception of the city council and the work they do?

Novotny: "People on the council, the people helping, should be commended. Instead they mostly get negative comments. We've done a lot of good over the last few years. The council should be commended every once in a while for that."

Courier: Do you have any plans to stay involved with politics?

Novotny: "At this point I'm not interested in any involvement. I guess I'm a little stingy, but right now I just want time to spend on what I feel is important in my life."

Courier: What will you be doing with all your free time?

Novotny: "I'll be doing the things I should have been doing for the last three years of my life. I'll get my life back to normal - hopefully, I won't have to conduct my life under a magnifying glass anymore. I'd also like to go back and coach a kids' team, work with kids. I've always liked working with kids, through sports or with Boy Scouts. Sometimes I can make a difference in a kid's life."

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

Wow! That's what everyone says, who steps foot into the new American Music Center in East Jordan.

"There's nothing like it in the whole country," Fran Themm proudly announces. "This is not a concert hall. It's for DANCING!"

His wife, Tina, echoes his enthusiasm. For those who like to know these things, Tina is a Malpass, of the East Jordan Iron Works Malpasses, and as local as they come.

"We've been thinking about this project for two years," she says. "We've travelled to check other clubs in Florida, Las Vegas, Indianapolis, and most of them have bars. Our Music Center is non-alcoholic and non-smoking. We've found that serious line dancers don't drink alcohol anyway, and as for the non-smoking rule — that's going to be enforced everywhere soon enough."

The 28,800 square foot building, with a pre-cut steel-on-steel roof, covers a 10,000 square foot oak dance floor. Grooved in the floor are Tivoli light strips to demark the line dancers from couples dancing. A thousand people may be seated comfortably on two levels for viewing both the dancers and the entertainment. The 60 by 17 foot elevated stage has a complete sound system built into it. A sound analyst has checked the area to be sure that the people in the back of the room can hear well without blasting the people in front of the bandstand.

A soothing, teal green ceiling accommodates both daylight and mood lighting, as well as heaters, and climate controlled air conditioning that exchanges air every 40 minutes.

Not least of all, McDonald's has a company owned store with an expanded menu in one corner of the building. In addition, there are two McDonald express snack stations for the convenience of the dancers in other strategic locations of the room.

A western store - Ways of the West - will carry boots, hats, shirts and pants for men, women and children.

Dancers from Traverse City, Gaylord, the Soo, Petoskey and surrounding areas will find plenty of good free parking, as well as valet parking, in a lighted parking lot with security. As one enters a covered portico, there is a souvenir shop and two ticket stations, and four large bathrooms on each side.

Ground was broken on the 25th of August, 1993, and the Center expects to be open soon. The first Nashville Band, "Thumping," is scheduled for Wednesday, June 1. Prices will vary depending on who is performing. It may be the Big Band sound on Saturday nights and Gospel groups Sunday afternoons. Two teen Wednesdays are also planned each month.

In addition to the musical programs, the Jordan Valley Express American Music Center is available to book car and truck shows, home and boat shows, antique shows, conventions and parties. There have already been a lot of calls for weddings, but this booking is discouraged because it interferes with the Saturday night entertainment that is scheduled.

Both Themms have had experience in other fields. Fran, besides being a successful dairy farmer in Charlevoix, has played in bands for years. Tina has owned a horse farm in the area, and they both know how to delegate.

"We hope to give dancers enough room to dance in a comfortable environment with good music and to have fun." That's the bottom line, according to the Themms. And it won't hurt the town of East Jordan, either. There's already talk of building a motel nearby.

School talks about keeping public informed, but doesn't act accordingly

While willing to talk the talk, Charlevoix's school administration is proving unwilling to walk the walk when it comes to being open with the public in conducting school business.

Monday, school superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson refused to divulge the names of candidates to be interviewed for the high school principal position. This, despite the fact that the candidates are going to be interviewed in meetings which are required to be open to the public.

Anytime public officials hide public matters from the public it's disturbing. This instance is particularly distressing because as a community we just went through a big turmoil triggered by a closed-door decision process.

Many people spent many hours sitting through various meetings and expressing displeasure with closed-door management of the school system. Faced with this onslaught, Jackson and school board members said, Yes. Yes. We want everything to be open. We want the public to be informed and involved in the decision making process. We don't want to do things behind closed doors.

Not much more than a month later, those words ring hollow.

When asked for the names of the candidates to be interviewed, Jackson said she wasn't comfortable giving them out because if she did the school might lose some good candidates. Apparently her concern is that some of the candidates might withdraw because they don't want their current employer to find out they're interviewing in Charlevoix.

When you analyze this argument, it's pretty lame. The interviews are going to take place in a public meeting at a high school. Let's face it, you do an interview in those circumstances and anonymity is, as it should be, out the window. Certainly, the candidates realize that. The only thing releasing the names would have done is allow the public to know prior to the meeting who school administrators and board members are considering for the principal position.

It should be noted that school districts are allowed to paper screen candidates anonymously. That addresses the concern of candidates not wanting their employers to know they're looking into other jobs. However, once the field of candidates is pared down to a final few for interviews, a concern greater than the candidate's desire for anonymity takes over. That concern is the public's interest in knowing exactly who the school administration and board is considering placing in a key position regarding the education of the community's young people.

The Courier filed a verbal request for the names of the candidates under the Freedom of Information Act and when that failed to produce the information, filed a written request. The school has five days to either comply with or cite reasons for denying the request. By that time the names will be public anyway.

The point is if the school administration was sincere in wanting the public to be informed and involved in school decisions, there wouldn't be any need to file Freedom of Information Act requests. This issue boils down to the school administration wanting to be open to the public...but only when it wants to be open to the public. That's wrong. It's talking the talk, but not walking the walk.

Rainbow Shoppe complains about after-hours junk drop-offs

Editor,

Rainbow Shoppe Wish List.
We wish we could reach out to more nonprofit organizations. We wish we could reach out to more needy individuals. We wish we could reach out to more emergencies.

And...
We wish certain inconsiderate people would stop dropping off mattresses, sofas, other furniture and large appliances near our dumpster after working hours.

You say we can sell the above mentioned. No way! All of these articles are in no condition to be sold.

The refrigerators that are left must have the chemical foam removed. (It's the law.) The cost for this is $30. Then, Waste Management charges extra for anything that is not in the dumpster. Did you ever try to get an old refrigerator into a dumpster?

All of these deplorable acts mount up and many times result in a pick up bill of $400 for the month. This limits us in reaching out to more in the community.

And... our last wish is to catch these loathsome people in the act and make them pay the $400 bill.

Rita Orlowski, director on the board of the Rainbow Shoppe

The Long And Short Of Making More On Your Money, Whatever Your Economic Outlook.

Rising Rate CD For The Long Term.

FirstRate Fund For The Short Term.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to earn a great rate. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.
If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term deposit and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.SM

It starts at a rate of 4.00 APY. And you'll end up earning 6.00 percent for the final term. During the initial two-year term, you can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days after every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view.
If you predict rates will keep going up this year, deposit short term in the FirstRate Fund.SM The APY is based on the 91-day Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

An opening deposit of $10,000 is required. And you can add to it whenever you like. You can also access your money by visiting any branch location or by using your First of America ATM card, making your deposit liquid.

It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

Of course, your deposits are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per depositor. Because no matter what your point of view, you can't go wrong banking with us.

Wedding has a woodland theme

By Laurie Lounsbury

Mothers of the bride usually have their hands full in the last days before a wedding. Katie Kieren had her hands filled with flowers and birchbark on the eve of her daughter's wedding. Kieren drew on her floral expertise to arrange all of the flowers for her daughter, Nadeen's, nuptials. Kieren is a member of the Charlevoix Garden Club and works part time at Charlevoix Floral. She pulled out all of the creative stops for Nadeen's reception, to be held at Greensky Hill. "The theme is woodland - Not rustic, not country, just woodland, to take advantage of this beautiful setting," Kieren explained.

Kieren designed a decorative, multi-tiered birchbark cake to grace the entryway of the reception hall. She saw a similar cake in Victorian Magazine, and decided she could probably create one herself. The result is a stunning, yet understated, cake made of birch bark and dried flowers.

The bride will be carrying a bouquet of trillium and pink lilies of the valley, made by her mother just before the wedding. The matron of honor will carry a bouquet of cream colored daffodils from Kieren's back yard.

Kieren didn't want to leave her eight granddaughters and two grandsons out of the picture, so she created old fashioned Tussie Mussies for the girls. According to Kieren, Tussie Mussies date back to the Victorian era. They are small nosegays made of dried, aromatic flowers. "Victorian ladies would hold onto them, and if anything objectionable came into their space, they would take a big whiff of their Tussie Mussies before swooning," Kieren said. Her two grandsons will sport little boutonnières made of birch bark and dried flowers. "We really got carried away with the theme," Kieren said of the delicately shaped, birch bark boutonnières. The theme carries naturally through the setting at Greensky Hill and the newly built reception hall. Construction of the hall was completed earlier this spring. "The people at Greensky have been just great. It's a wonderful place to hold a wedding reception," Kieren said.

McConnell is a graduate of Chagrin Falls High School and attended the University of Kentucky. She will graduate from Lake Erie College in December. She is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

McClellan is a graduate of Tates Creek High School and the University of Kentucky, where he received a Bachelor of Science in management. He is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is employed by the National City Bank of Cleveland.

Making reading a team effort

For one month earlier this spring, fourth grade students were paired up with fifth grade students in a team reading program. Each pair of students was assigned to read four books during the month and file book reports. Those who completed the assignment took part in a pizza party May 4, devouring pizzas donated by Pizza Hut. Eighteen pairs of students participated in the program and 18 pairs of students completed the mission.

Charlevoix Country Club nearing completion

By Laurie Lounsbury

With ten golf holes open for play, a clubhouse nearing completion, and the remaining eight holes due to be finished in July, the Country Club of Charlevoix has launched into the next logical phase of development - the membership drive. Club developer Rik Lobenherz reported that the founding and charter memberships available have already been sold. Lobenherz expects to sign up 150 new members by late fall. "The new members are as excited about this club as I am," Lobenherz said.

The excitement seems to stem from the fact that Charlevoix finally has a traditional country club, an amenity that Lobenherz says is essential for any community. "The country club tradition is hundreds of years old, and Charlevoix has been lacking that. This is a long term project that's finally coming to fruition," Lobenherz said.

The whole theme driving the project is tradition. The clubhouse was designed by the late Charles Moore and Arthur Anderson, two nationally renowned architects. The impressive clubhouse will have all of the traditional amenities of a country club, with the flair of Charles Moore's designs. Lobenherz explained that the architectural firm was doing work on Drummond Island, designing Tom Monahan's 30 million dollar resort. "Typically, only a project of that magnitude would attract them," Lobenherz said. Since Moore and Anderson were in the area, they consented to design the clubhouse and cottage-style condominiums at the Charlevoix Country Club. Moore died last December, leaving the Charlevoix Country Club as one of his last projects. "Thirty years from now, Charles Moore's name will be used in the same context as Frank Lloyd Wright's," Lobenherz said.

Lobenherz fared well on his choice of golf course architects too. Jerry Matthews, golf course architect, is the current president of the National Association of Golf Course Architects. Matthews has received several awards for his winning courses in the last few years, including awards for the Elk Ridge course and The Natural.

Club memberships will last for one's lifetime, and can be passed on from generation to generation. Lobenherz pointed out that, unlike most clubs in northern Michigan, the memberships here will be transferable, with most of the proceeds going back to the original member. Full memberships currently sell for $8,500. The price will go up $500 with each 25 memberships sold. Social memberships are available now at $1,500, but will rise to $2,500 when the clubhouse is completed.

Matt Dickinson, Brian Martinus, Josh Dhaseler and Bush made up the Softball team wins league title

A split with Traverse City St. Francis last Thursday was good enough to give the Charlevoix girls' softball team their third straight league championship. Charlevoix finished at 9-3 in the league while St. Francis finished second at 8-4.

Charlevoix entered Thursday's double-header at St. Francis a game up in the league race. But St. Francis took the first game 9-5 and set up a league show-down in the nightcap. The Rayders' promptly showed they were up to the challenge, setting the tone in game two with a five-run first inning.

In the opening game, Liz Grunch took the pitching loss despite allowing only four hits. She also walked three and struck out 10.

In the second game, Grunch allowed more hits, six, but got the pitching win. She also walked one and struck out six.

Jenny Eveleigh and Waja Wujcik were the only Rayders to have a hit in both games.

Matt Dickinson (left) ran in both the 1600 and 3200 meter races in a warm weather Regional meet Saturday.

Baseball team splits with St. Francis

Charlevoix's baseball team split a pair of low-scoring games at Traverse City St. Francis Thursday. The Rayders took the opening game 4-1 and then lost the second game, 3-2.

In the opening game, David Skeel hit two home runs which was all the support pitcher Don Jess really needed as he allowed only five hits in throwing a complete game. Jess struck out two and walked three in the game. Skeel's first home run was a solo trip in the third inning while his second one chased a runner in ahead of him.

The second game was tied going into the last inning, but a solo home run by St. Francis proved to be the Rayders' downfall. Brandon Webb took the pitching loss, giving up seven hits while walking two and striking out eight.

The split left the Rayders' season record at 8-11-1.

Historical Society making plans for Depot building

The Charlevoix Historical Society has raised $20,000 for refurbishment of the old Charlevoix Depot building and hopes to raise another $30,000 before the end of the summer to qualify for a $50,000 matching grant offered by an anonymous donor. The Historical Society and the City of Charlevoix also will be splitting a $29,000 Michigan Equity Grant to help with work on the Depot building and the adjoining beach.

The cornerstone of this summer's efforts to raise the additional money will be a Depot Restoration Gala, July 7. The Gala will take place from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. There will be champagne, hors d'oeuvres and strolling musicians. The Historical Society will be selling memberships ($10 annual, $25 contributing, $100 life, and $1 student) as well as 750 limited edition prints of a painting of the Depot Building done by Charlevoix artist Jim Annis. They also will be selling 1,000 postcards of the painting.

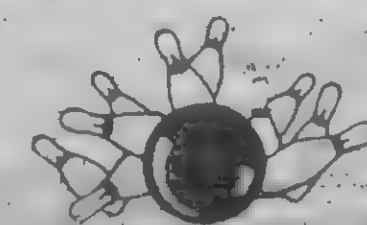

Historical Society members hope to have the building ready for occupancy by 1995. Once the building is refurbished the Society hopes to use it as something of a local historical and cultural center. Among the possibilities envisioned for the building are: table setting classes; historical education for children; rotating exhibits; and movies.

The Society currently operates out of the Harsha House on State Street and will continue to do so even after the depot is finished. The grand design is for the depot to be a museum with special emphasis on water and railroad related history. The Harsha House will be a research center and exhibit household related historical items.

Child abuse task force established

Child Abuse victims have special needs. The Charlevoix County Child Abuse Task Force is made up of representatives from the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office, law enforcement, child protective services, health department, school counselors, and doctors. The Child Abuse Task Force has been created to maximize the protection of children and community safety. The Task Force is committed to ongoing training to maximize the services they can offer to victims.

May 3 and 4 the Child Abuse Task Force members, and other officials from many Charlevoix County agencies, attended a training program in Traverse City on the handling of child abuse, particularly child sexual abuse. The program was sponsored by the Governor's Task Force On Children's Justice.

The objective of the seminar was to bring professionals together from numerous agencies involved with the protection of children, and assist them in developing a team approach to the investigation and prosecution of child abuse cases. Charlevoix officials attending included Charlevoix Prosecutor Richard May, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur, Craig Remsberge, of the Boyne City Police Department; Paul Ivan of the Charlevoix Police Department; Wendy Sewell of the Boyne City Elementary School; Gail Gennett and Toni Felter from Charlevoix Schools; Paul Timmons of the East Jordan Police Department; Sgt. Mike Wheat and Mike Russell of the Charlevoix Sheriff's Department; Paula Shuler, Bonnie Gates and Mel Sweet from the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services and Patricia Bishop of the Charlevoix District Three Health Department.

May is coordinator of the Child Abuse Task Force and will use the training as a starting point for the development of a written protocol to provide guidelines for thorough investigations of child abuse cases.

in a manner which will minimize trauma to victims. In cases involving physically and/or sexually abused children it is critical to have prompt response and the highest degree of cooperation between schools, law enforcement, social services and other agencies. During the training, the Child Abuse Task Force focused on understanding and working with communication skills of children at various ages to obtain a truthful and accurate story from the child. The interviewer needs to understand the child's language so they can ask questions that the child will understand. Interviewing techniques are critical so children are comfortable telling their stories without anyone suggesting the answer.

Another critical area training focused on is assessing the risk to the child if they remain in the home. Action must be taken promptly to prevent further abuse, safeguard the child and preserve family life where possible.

Foundation awards youth grants

Seven area programs that benefit young people recently got a financial boost from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee. Members of the committee recently awarded their first grants totaling $7,000 to a variety of nonprofit organizations and special projects aimed at making life better for Charlevoix County youth.

Projects selected for funding, and their grant amounts are:

*The Castle Farms Project, $1,000 to be used by the Charlevoix County Friends of 4-H, Inc. toward the purchase and renovation of Castle Farms as a community center.

*Beaver Island Community

School, $600 to help establish a Red Cross swim instruction program.

*Charlevoix County LOVE for Children, $1,600 to help link adult volunteers with at-risk children and families.

*Raven Hill Discovery Center, $1,200 to purchase two exhibits at the hands-on science museum.

*Charlevoix High School, $100 to help defray costs for all-night, post-prom activities.

*Northwest Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, $1,500 for educational materials and videos used for community awareness.

*Charlevoix County Multi-Disciplinary Team, $1,000 to help fund a program for children and families who come before Probate Court.

Pat McKeown (left) hands the keys to a red 1985 Mercury Lynx to Dana Pajtas, one of the organizers of the senior class all-night party which will take place June 5. Other donated prizes include a TV, a VCR, a microwave, an apartment refrigerator and cash prizes. Anyone wishing to donate additional prizes may take them to the high school office.

Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Swartzfisher's fifth grade classes made a quilt of the 50 states as part of a geography lesson. They are raffling off the quilt and donating proceeds to the Friends of 4-H Castle Farms. Tickets are $1 apiece with the drawing to take place June 1. Each student did a report on and designed one of the states. Lyddy Morrison, the mother of one of the students, served as a modern day Betsy Ross and used her seamstress talents to bring the nation together.

Cat case closed

By Laurie Lounsbury
Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater is not releasing the name of the officer who shot a cat while responding to a domestic dispute call. Lasater prepared a news release that gave some details of the case, but the officer's name wasn't included. The release said that the deputy sheriff was seriously bitten on the ankle by the cat inside the caller's home. The cat later "aggressively confronted" the deputy, then the deputy shot the cat while still inside the home. No charges were filed concerning the deputy's shooting of the cat, or in the matter of the domestic dispute. The cat was sent to the Michigan Public Health Lab for evaluation. The results haven't been received by the sheriff's office yet.

A shooting incident hearing board determined that the deputy made an error in judgment and the sheriff concurred with the board. The deputy will be removed from law enforcement duties for 30 days and be reassigned to duties as a communication/security officer in the jail. During his reassignment period, the deputy will be evaluated by a police psychologist and will review the department firearm policies.

Lasater said in the prepared statement, "This deputy has been a dedicated, loyal, honest and hard working sheriff's officer for 13 years, receiving numerous letters of commendations during his tenure with the sheriff's office. I concur with the shooting incident hearing board that he made an error in judgment, but I want to work with him as well as dealing with the incident so we can still salvage this officer and correct the problem so this type of incident does not happen again."

Author and students share books

By Laurie Lounsbury

Author John Mitchell was happy to speak to Charlevoix fourth graders about the books he's written on Michigan history. Then he turned the tables on the students and talked about the stories they'd written. Mitchell spent a day last week in the fourth grade classes, discussing a broad range of topics, ranging from good writing techniques to the woolly mammoths that once roamed the earth.

Mitchell is the author of Great Lakes and Great Ships, an illustrated history for children, and Michigan, a general history of Michigan for children.

Mitchell encouraged students to keep writing and reading, since practice is the only thing that will make them get better. Mitchell pointed out that first efforts are often unsuccessful. He told the kids he wrote his first book when he was in grade school, (he lost that book), then wrote two unsuccessful novels before he found his niche in writing Michigan history.

Mitchell visited each classroom and listened to each student's story they'd written on early Michigan history, then gently critiqued their work.

School candidates air views at forum

Approximately 40 people attended a candidate forum Tuesday evening to hear five school board candidates discuss their positions.

The five candidates for the two available seats are: Steve Kehrer, Sulane Hamilton, Dave Strawbridge, Norm Probert and Ardith Wieland. The two board seats which are currently held by Wieland and Scott Beatty will be filled by voters at the June 13 school election.

Tuesday evening the five candidates each offered a brief introduction, answered three prepared questions and responded to written questions submitted by the audience.

One of the prepared questions was what the candidates view as the role of a school board member.

Hamilton said the role of a board is to set policy, delegate authority to carry out the policy and monitor staff members to see that policy is being carried out. She said the other primary mission of the board is maintaining fiscal responsibility.

Strawbridge said the board's primary responsibility is shaping the direction and policy of the school system. He said a board member's role isn't to be involved in the day to day operation of the school, but that having a knowledge of day to day operation is imperative.

Probert said the board's role is to establish policy and procedure, but also to stay in tune with the day to day workings of the school system.

Wieland said the role of the board member hasn't changed. Board members are elected to serve the community. She said board members must be good listeners and make sure that problems are solved.

Kehrer said the board acts like a rudder on a big ship. He said board members must look, listen and act or react. He said the most important part of the board's role is communication and he doesn't feel that recently communication has been open in all respects.

In the June 13 election, voters will be asked to approve an 18 mill levy on all property other than a person's homestead and a two mill enhancement millage on all property. (A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's assessed value.)

Virtually all of the candidates voiced support for the 18 mill proposal. Kehrer joined in voicing support for the 18 mill proposal, but said he is currently on the fence regarding the enhancement millage.

In regard to financial matters, Wieland said she feels the school board has always been very watchful of dollars and tried to be careful how they were spent. Hamilton said it's easy to become numb to big numbers, but board members must realize those are dollars hard earned through blood and sweat. Probert said he feels Charlevoix's school system is administratively top-heavy. Strawbridge said he would compare Charlevoix's fiscal efficiency to other area school systems to make sure it compared favorably. Kehrer said he's seen examples of both frivolous and excellent spending in the Charlevoix school system.

Local woman killed in car accident

A Charlevoix woman was killed in a two-car collision near the Charlevoix airport May 26. Clara Lillian Compagner, 38, was killed when her car and a car driven by Randall Bret Wilkinson, 36, of East Jordan collided on US 31 just south of the airport entrance.

The accident occurred a few minutes before 11 p.m. Compagner was southbound, on her way to work in a 1980 Oldsmobile. Wilkinson was northbound in a 1984 Ford. Compagner was killed in the accident. Wilkinson was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital where he was in fair condition Tuesday morning.

US 31 was closed for about two hours while the victims were extricated and the scene was investigated. Anyone who may have witnessed the accident is asked to call the Charlevoix City Police Department.

Charlevoix veterans marched in memory of their fallen fellow soldiers Monday. Construction on State Street required this year's parade to take a different route, but beyond that ceremonies followed established tradition.

Weather breaks for petunia planting

Nearly 1,000 people turned out to help plant petunias during the 13th Annual Operation Petunia May 26. The weather was cold both before and after the planting, but during the planting and the accompanying picnic the weather was beautiful.

Frost threatened the petunias in the evening and the early morning hours following the planting. Dale and Marilyn Boss fought the frost by giving the flowers a liberal dose of water and most of the petunias are expected to be just fine.

While the petunias were planted in less than an hour, preparations took much longer. Early in the morning three local landscapers, Vince Currier, Thomas Louise and Len Wells, marked the beds for planters.

Karen Kelly LaVanway recruited double the usual number of block captains for this year's event. Patty Sitzema and Jean Seymour coordinated the picnic. More than 800 people attended the picnic.

Former mayor Ralph McRae drew Vivian Mettler's name as the winner of two free tickets to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's Petunia Party Aug. 7. More than a third of the tickets available for the party have already been sold.

Eight principal candidates interviewed

The Charlevoix school system has completed initial interviews of high school principal candidates.

Eight candidates were interviewed by school administrators, staff and members of the public May 24 and 25.

The candidates interviewed were: Thomas Antioho, a high school principal from Columbus, Wisconsin; Gary C. Grundman, a high school principal from Allen Park; Edward Hahnenberg, an assistant high school principal from Pinckney; Harry Ashton III, a high school principal from Mancelona; Richard D. Bologna, a high school principal from Brighton; David R. Clark, a high school principal from Niles; Timothy D. Culver, an administrative assistant to the superintendent and a former high school and middle school principal at Eaton Rapids; and Michael R. Matlosz, a middle school principal from Lowell.

A screening committee will meet and review written comments from interviewers and determine the next step in the process. The target date for hiring a new high school principal continues to be July 1.

New learning program considered

Members of the Charlevoix school staff, support staff and general public will be hosting a meeting to discuss a new learning program for the Charlevoix School System. The program is called the Institute for Quality Learning and Total Quality Management. John Champlin will describe the program.

The meeting will take place from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. June 2 in the Charlevoix High School study hall.

Following the playing of "Taps," local veteran lowered and raised a flag on the Submariners Monument in East Park Monday.

Fund established to help family fight illness

A relief trust fund has been established by friends of Roger and Pam Crain to assist the family while Pam undergoes treatment for cancer. She had been doing daycare, but is unable to continue during treatment. The purpose of the fund is to make up lost income and help with travel expenses. Contributions may be made at any CB North branch to the Crain Relief Trust Fund. Danya Drost, one of the people helping with the fund, said a spaghetti dinner is also being planned.

Pam recently spent time in an Ann Arbor hospital and for the next several months will have to spend three days a month in a Traverse City hospital for chemotherapy. She was upbeat in a phone conversation with the Courier last week, but expressed dismay with the disruption the illness is causing for herself, her family, friends and the children she babysits. She said she wants the community to know how much love and support she and her family have felt. She said it's been very touching.

"We sure appreciate it and we're overwhelmed with all the support we've received," she said.

People who would like more information may phone Drost at 547-6632 or Jerry Russell at CB North, 547-9916.

Boating safety to be demonstrated at city docks

The U.S. Coast Guard and local unit of the Coast Guard Auxiliary will demonstrate various boating rescue techniques between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. June 4 in East Park. Demonstrations will cover various methods of towing boats, a man overboard rescue from a boat or helicopter and proper mooring and docking.

The Auxiliary will also have an information booth in the park to distribute free pamphlets and answer questions about boating safety. Boaters may also bring their boats to the city docks for a free safety examination.

Michigan has more registered recreational boats than any other state. The Coast Guard Auxiliary's main function is to promote safer boating by teaching boating skills and seamanship classes, distributing pertinent literature, examining vessels for proper safety equipment, and by increasing public awareness of the need to know and follow the rules of the maritime road.

Showing Charlevoix's best side

One of the big debates of this year's Operation Petunia was how many grills would be required for the picnic. Dr. Jim Gibbons, chief hot dog chef, was sure that the one big monster gas grill provided by Terry Left was capable of handling the rush, provided it was manned in an efficient manner. Bruce MacArthur, who frets about every detail of the petunia operation at least once and normally twice, said that in last year's review of Operation Petunia, one of the things which came up was the need for additional grills.

In the end, there were several grills used. Even though Gibbons may well have been correct about one grill being sufficient, there was plenty of manpower from the Charlevoix Rotary Club available and the additional grills at the very least averted the problem of idle Rotarians.

Shortly before cooking began, one of the Rotarians was lighting up a big charcoal grill (fashioned out of half of a 50-gallon barrel) just off to the side of the bandshell. As he applied a liberal dose of charcoal lighter, an observer commented that he best not burn down the bandshell. As much of a hassle as it was getting that thing built, the community certainly wouldn't want to go through building another one right away. Fortunately, the grill was lit without incident.

Once the people began coming, the picnic food preparation area parked right up. Patty Sitzema and Jean Seymour had planned things out well, but still with a dinner rush of more than 800 people, things got busy.

Gibbons had the gas grill turning out dogs. Dr. Roberta Jackson and Susan VanWieren were doing some outcomes based grilling. At the next grill, Mark Fiegel was bullish on the dog market. Ken Hieninger and Jim Hisey were lining dogs up around the perimeter of the big grill. Even though Gibbons has the background in surgery, Joe Trojanek was wielding the knife and slicing open bag after bag of hot dogs. The Bible talks about Christ doing that thing with the fish and loaves of bread. The nearest Charlevoix has come to that was Rev. Bruce Hamilton scurrying from grill to grill collecting hot dogs and taking them to the Petunia Picnic serving table.

When hot dog production began to outpace hot dog wrapping abilities, Sitzema set up another wrapping table. Soon the program was back to being dogs ahead and the line of people coming down the hill to the bandshell quickly shrank to a manageable level. The picnic was an amazing example of people's ability to spot problems, cooperate in finding ways to solve them and produce.

If there's one observation that says more about the community spirit of Charlevoix than the cooperation at the Petunia Picnic it would be the following:

Everyone always comments about how the petunias make Charlevoix look so wonderful to people who are just driving through town. That's true. Yet, in the midst of petunia planting, did you ever stop to think how the actual planting must look to people driving through town? Nearly 1,000 people are kneeling in the street, backside to the roadway, planting petunias. To a person driving through town, Operation Petunia is blocks and blocks of butts. Butts, just butts as far as the eye can see. Three weeks later you can drive that same stretch of road and see some of the most colorful and wonderful petunia beds you could ever hope to see.

If you're familiar with all the hassles and controversies in Charlevoix and are also familiar with the beauty of Charlevoix, you realize that Operation Petunia captures the essence of how things get done in this town. We don't always show our best side to begin with, but in the end things generally turn out bright and beautiful.

Letters to the editor

Thank you for so many acts of kindness

Editor,

Please allow me this opportunity to once again thank all of our friends and family in Charlevoix for the outpouring of love and support my husband Topper and I received during the past year.

From the time Topper's brain tumor was diagnosed, we were overwhelmed by all the acts of kindness shown to us by so many from Charlevoix. Upon his death in February, the Charlevoix community continued to offer me its support through calls, visits, hugs, cards, flowers, memorial contributions and other warm and wonderful kindnesses. It has been so very comforting.

Topper and I were truly blessed with so many caring friends and family members in Charlevoix, Traverse City and points beyond. I am working my way through individual thank you notes, but I wanted to publicly thank your entire community. It is still somewhat difficult to even find words adequate enough to express our gratitude.

As I prepare for Topper's last journey to Charlevoix, and his burial on Friday at Brookside Cemetery, I cannot help but reflect back on so many memories of the area. He genuinely loved Charlevoix and will be at peace there forever.

With Love,
Nina Carey

Charlevoix being taken piece by piece

Editor,

In one more example of "having lots of money doesn't mean you have lots of social awareness," Charlevoix is now minus one of its Earl Young homes. Yes, one more of Charlevoix's treasures wasn't protected and someone with no regard for architectural heritage had one of the homes on Round Lake demolished.

Can you imagine this happening in Boston? In San Francisco? In Harbor Springs? No! Why hasn't some kind of historical designation (state or federal) been placed on Charlevoix's treasures? The Railroad Bridge is gone. The old Water Tower is a target of the city. And now our unique Earl Young buildings are prey to anyone with enough money. Charlevoix: "You don't know what you've got until it's gone!"

I wish our city leaders loved what "Charlevoix" is, as much as Earl Young did. Besides buildings, he helped give Charlevoix East Park. Every time one of the old harbor buildings on Round Lake burned, he'd go from business to business raising funds to buy the property and give it to the City. He'd do anything to improve his love — Charlevoix. And now we watch as someone destroys one of his contributions to our special ambience. Shame!

I'll bet the Charlevoix Historical (Photo) Society has some great PICTURES of this latest piece of Charlevoix's heritage to be destroyed. Please be careful not to wake anyone when you visit Harsha House to see them.

Sincerely,

Larry Freedman

Rev. Harold Kohn's life celebrated

A celebration of the life and works of the late Rev. Harold E. Kohn will take place Sunday, June 12 at the Charlevoix Congregational Church. The celebration has been titled "Walk In Wonder."

Kohn served as pastor of the church from 1952 to 1964. In addition to his work with the church, he also was a well-known author, artist and naturalist. His columns appeared in the Charlevoix Courier and the Los Angeles Times. Kohn was the author of eight books. During the last 20 years of his life, Kohn was in nearly constant pain following the removal of a tumor from the sinus area behind and above his right eye. Six more operations and total blindness followed. Despite his health problems, he continued counseling people and for as long as possible his writing and art work. Kohn died in May of 1975.

The June 12 celebration will begin at the church's 10 a.m. service with a children's play written by JoAnne Beemon. At 3 p.m. there will be a classical and Spanish guitar concert. The featured performer will be Ken Bier who studied with Guillermo Fierens and holds a performance degree from Grand Valley State University. He will be accompanied by Leslie Bier on the flute. A free-will offering will benefit Charlevoix's St. Clair Lake-Six Mile Lake Natural Area.

A reception will follow the concert in the Fellowship Hall where the works of Harold Kohn will be on display. In addition to Kohn's family's extensive collection, many other people have loaned Kohn's works from their private collections for this exhibit.

The public is welcome to attend any or all of the festivities.

The Long And Short Of Making More On Your Money, Whatever Your Economic Outlook.

Rising Rate CD For The Long Term.

FirstRate Fund For The Short Term.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to earn a great rate. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.

If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term deposit and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.SM

It starts at a rate of 4.00 APY. And you'll end up earning 6.00 percent for the final term. During the initial two-year term, you can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days after every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view.

If you predict rates will keep going up this year, deposit short term in the FirstRate Fund.SM The APY is based on the 91-day Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

An opening deposit of $10,000 is required. And you can add to it whenever you like. You can also access your money by visiting any branch location or by using your First of America ATM card, making your deposit liquid.

It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

Of course, your deposits are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per depositor. Because no matter what your point of view, you can't go wrong banking with us.

BUSINESS

Grey Gables patron becomes new owner

By Laurie Lounsbury

If your daughter and son-in-law are both graduates of the Culinary Institute of America, it's unlikely that you'd bring them into the family business of electrical contracting. Gary Anderson solved that problem when he acquired a new family business. Now Anderson, his wife Kay, and his daughter and son-in-law, Kelly and Darren Romano, are family partners and new owners of the Grey Gables restaurant.

Anderson was an electrical contractor in Milford for 30 years before he made the switch to the restaurant business. He and his family spent many summers up north at their cottage in Torch Lake Village. The Grey Gables was one of Anderson's favorite dining spots, so when it became available to buy, Anderson immediately snapped it up. "It's a little different working in the place you used to play," Anderson said. The ink had barely dried on Anderson's purchase agreement when he called his daughter and son-in-law in Naples, Florida and told them, "Pack your bags; you've got a job up here. I bought a restaurant."

The Romanos deftly took charge of the kitchen, with Darren in charge of the main entrees and Kelly handling the baked goods and desserts. Darren reported that the favorite old standards on the Grey Gables menu will remain in place, such as the stuffed pork chops, prime rib, and whitefish. Darren will add his own flair to the menu with new pasta dishes and lighter, vegetable dishes. Kelly's home-made soups and desserts are already bringing customers back for seconds. Kelly's Key Lime pie is made with Key lime juice shipped up from Key West. The chocolate in the hot fudge sundaes is Saunderson's hot fudge from Detroit.

Darren has expanded the restaurant's wine list to accommodate the menu. "They go hand in hand, a nice bottle of wine and a nice meal," Darren said.

With his kids keeping things under control in the kitchen, Anderson devoted his energies to other aspects of the business. He tackled some cosmetic renovations first, painting the bar area a warm, soft shade of khaki. Then he removed the wall that divided the back room and the cocktail lounge. In the event that he might want the wall on occasions, Anderson turned the section of wall, complete with French parlor doors, into a sliding partition. Talk of the sliding wall is spreading rapidly through the north. "A customer from Indian River came here and said he just had to come and see the wall," Anderson said, while sliding the wall back and forth.

Anderson and the Romanos worked together on the entertainment line-up. Rather than booking one act for the season, they decided to offer a smorgasbord of some of the area's favorite musicians, Chris Ventzke and the Doc Woodward ensemble, Steve Little, Maggie and Murray, Steve Sandner, and a Chicago jazz trio will all take turns at the piano bar, carrying on the Grey Gables tradition. "It's sort of a roundhouse of entertainment," Darren explained.

Charlevoix Personified

By Laurie Lounsbury

People call City Hall all day long to ask about zoning ordinances, street repairs, or just to air their frustrations about local politics. Whatever their reasons, most of the callers will end up listening to the soft-spoken, well modulated voice of Linda Weller. The voice goes with the job of soothing ruffled feathers and helping people communicate with city hall. Weller is the secretary to City Manager Mike Wiesner. She has acquired a number of other job titles in the 16 years she's worked at city hall. Weller is assistant to the zoning administrator, secretary to the city planner, secretary to the fire chief, and provider of general public information. "I've grown up with the job," Weller said. "The responsibilities and the job titles were not here when I walked in."

Weller takes her duties beyond the job descriptions. She fields questions about garbage, grass clippings and an occasional call from a tourist saying, "Help! I'm lost."

"I enjoy helping people, so I've got the perfect job for it," Weller said.

Weller is also the mother of two boys, aged six and seven. She worked as an emergency medical technician (EMT) up until last year, when she decided to limit her work load. "I wanted to be a good mother and a good employee, and I couldn't be both and be an EMT too," Weller said.

Best Part of the Job: "The old fashioned phrase, 'public servant.' I enjoy helping the citizens of this unique, wonderful city we've been blessed with."

Worst Part: Weller couldn't think of a worst part to the job, but did say, "I'm here to serve the people of Charlevoix, not the politics."

One thing she would change: "I'd like the public to know that all employees of the city are here to serve. If you have questions, come ask. We're here to help."

Senior athletes receive awards at annual Sports Boosters banquet

Central Michigan University assistant basketball coach Edgar Wilson told Charlevoix High School senior athletes that one of the most important things they can learn as they make their way in the world is the necessity of showing respect for both themselves and others. Wilson was the featured speaker at the 1994 Charlevoix High School Sports Boosters Senior Awards Banquet.

Wilson is a former basketball player and assistant coach with Michigan State University. In recent years, he had been working in business, but when his friend Leonard Drake took over as head coach at CMU, Wilson was persuaded to return to coaching. Cox completes first year on Aquinas team

Melissa Cox, a 1993 Charlevoix High School graduate, recently completed her freshman season with the Aquinas College softball team. Cox batted .278 and had a .977 fielding percentage as an outfielder. The Aquinas team finished with a 32-23 record overall and an 11-4 record in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference. They were the number three seed in the District 23 Tournament and advanced to the finals where they were defeated by Madonna University, 5-4.

The Cedar Ridge Rebels, a group of eighth grade girls, returned from the Battle Creek Gus Macker three-on-three basketball tournament with a second place plaque which they presented to their sponsor, Barney Way of Cedar Ridge Recycling. Shown from left to right are: Ann Terryberry, Amanda Eaton, Way, Lyndsay Blechel and Lisa Parrish. Blechel and Eaton won two games without Parrish and Terryberry during the preliminary competition Saturday. Parrish and Terryberry had to miss two of the Macker games because they were playing in a state AAU tournament for girls age 13 and under. Northern Exposure, their AAU team, placed sixth in the state.

Chicken pox (varicella) has long been recognized as a mild childhood illness. However, in certain people, it may have serious consequences. Since chicken pox is being reported throughout the area, Brian L. Youngs, M.D., Medical Director, is stressing the importance of being informed about the illness.

Chicken pox is a viral illness with sudden onset of slight fever, few serious symptoms, and an itchy rash. The rash begins as a spot on the skin and progresses to a chickenpox elevated area and to a clear fluid filled blister like area, 2-4 mm in diameter. The area around the spot reddens and faces as the fluid becomes cloudy (purulent) and the spot crusts over. The crust may remain 1 to 3 weeks. There may be several crops of lesions.

The illness is easily spread from person to person with onset 11 to 20 days following exposure. Children are contagious for 1 to 2 days before and 5 days after onset of the rash and for the duration of the blister eruption or until the lesions become dry. During this period of time they should not attend school or day care and should avoid individuals who never had chicken pox.

The disease is rarely fatal but may be severe in adults, children with underlying immune problems, newborns of mothers with chicken pox and premature infants. Immunocompromised individuals may include those with immune disorders, symptomatic HIV/AIDS illness, cancer treatment, or immune suppression treatment with medications such as steroids. There is an immune globulin called varicella-zoster immune globulin (VZIG) which may prevent or modify the disease in high risk individuals. There also is an antiviral drug which can be used to treat individuals with serious illness or disease. Reye's Syndrome has been associated with the use of aspirin in a child ill with chicken pox. Aspirin is not recommended for children incubating a viral illness such as influenza or chicken pox. Parents or individuals should contact their family physician concerning VZIG or treatment with medications. Some dangers of chicken pox include pneumonia, bacterial infection of skin lesions, encephalitis (brain fever), Reye's Syndrome, fetal damage, and shingles (herpes zoster). Most of the time chicken pox is a mild illness without residual problems. However, if high risk conditions or major concerns are present, or if the infected individual is more than mildly ill, especially with symptoms of a complication such as pneumonia, skin infection, or encephalitis, then a physician should be promptly contacted.

PLUS ONE SUPPLEMENT

Voters to decide two tax issues and select two board members

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix school district voters will be voting on two millage proposals and selecting two school board members from five candidates in the June 13 school election.

The first millage proposal seeks 18 mills for five years on non-homestead property. Non-homestead property is property other than your home. Property such as second homes, rental homes and businesses are considered non-homestead property.

According to Proposal A which Michigan voters approved in March to reform school financing in Michigan, taxpayers in Michigan automatically pay six mills on all property. In addition to that, with voter approval an additional 18 mills may be levied by local school districts on non-homestead property. The net effect would be a six mill levy on homestead property and a 24 mill levy on non-homestead property.

(A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's state equalized value (SEV). State equalized value is half of a property's theoretical market value i.e. what the property would sell for.)

There are some other wrinkles to Proposal A. Just prior to the state election, state legislators cut a deal with the farm lobby so that all farmland will be considered homestead property. While Proposal A cut property taxes and limits annual increases in assessed value, it also raised state sales taxes from four percent to six percent.

The Charlevoix school district levied 23.3263 mills for operations in 1993. With Proposal A, and if the 18 mill levy passes, Charlevoix school district taxpayers would be paying six mills on homestead property and 24 mills on non-homestead property. In other words, homestead property taxpayers would see their property taxes reduced by two-thirds while non-homestead property taxpayers would see their property taxes remain about the same in terms of millage. Both homestead and non-homestead property taxpayers would be paying higher sales taxes. Increases in assessed values would offset part of the tax decrease for homestead property taxpayers and result in an increase for non-homestead property taxpayers. However, Proposal A also capped assessed value increases in future years to five percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less.

For the Charlevoix school district, approximately half of the school's 1994-95 funding is riding on the 18 mill proposal. Charlevoix's 1994-95 budget calls for revenues of approximately $8.6 million. About half of that would come from a state contribution (funded primarily by the six mill levy and sales tax revenues). The other half would come from the 18 mill local levy.

School officials are concerned about the passage of the 18 mill proposal. Since Proposal A passed in March, there have been three millage elections in Michigan school districts. In all three school districts, voters turned down the local millage.

School superintendent Dr. Robert Jackson said that if the 18 mill proposal fails June 13, the school could come back to voters one time prior to beginning the 1994-95 school year. If the millage proposal failed a second time, the school district would be left to figure out how to operate on half of their anticipated budget.

The 2.25 mill proposal is a bit less complicated. Proposal A, in addition to allowing school districts to establish a local operational levy of up to 18 mills on non-homestead property, also allows school districts to ask voters for up to three mills for three years for school enhancement projects.

The Charlevoix school district is asking for 2.25 mills for three years for several school building improvement projects. The 2.25 mills will allow the school to pay cash for the projects instead of borrowing the money through bonding. Paying cash for the projects eliminates a variety of bonding and finance costs. Those costs add up. In rough terms, what the school can Trout Tournament ready to go - the whoppers await

By L. Scott Swanson

Based on the catch in recent weeks, fishermen participating in the Tenth Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament this weekend should do well this year.

Terry Weber, chairman of the tournament, said trout fishing has been very good and he expects a better than average year. He added that his suspicion is that this year there will be more big fish caught than in a typical year.

Prizes are awarded in four divisions: lake trout, brown trout, steelhead and salmon. Typically the largest fish in each division will be a 14 to 15 pound lake trout, a 12 to 15 pound brown trout, an 11 to 14 pound steelhead, and the salmon division is wide open. Some years only five or six fish are caught and entered in the salmon division. Other years the division fills up.

Registration for the 1994 tournament began Tuesday and will remain open from noon to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park. The entry fee is $20 for adults and $5 for young fishermen ages six to 14. The tournament will take place all day Friday, Saturday and in the morning Sunday. The awards ceremony will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday in East Park. There have been 693 entrants during each of the past two tournaments and Weber expects about the same number this year. He said about 60 percent of the fishermen come from Charlevoix and surrounding communities. The remainder come from all over the country. About 100 Canadian fishermen participate each year.

"This tournament's a sleeper," Weber said. "It's one of the biggest tournaments in the state."

There have been a couple of changes in this year's tournament. All lake trout must be at least 24 inches long to be entered in the tournament, regardless of whether they're caught in Lake Michigan or Lake Charlevoix. The tournament is also expanding the cash prizes to the top 20 places instead of the top 15.

Approximately $15,000 in cash prizes will be awarded. The fisherman catching the largest fish in each division will receive $1,000. From there down, prizes will range from $500 to $25.

Weber said the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament awards several cash prizes rather than a really large first prize for a couple of reasons. Tournament directors don't want the tournament to get cut throat and they like to spread the prizes among a lot of people.

"We've really always tried to make it a fun, family type thing," Weber said.

Matching the student to the job is one key to summer employment

By Laurie Lounsbury
If you're a teenager in Charlevoix and you want to earn some money, you're in the right place. One thing Charlevoix seems to have in abundance is summer employment opportunities for young people. The law of supply and demand in Charlevoix appears to be in pretty good balance, with enough teens and young adults to fill the positions available.

Some positions are more desirable than others, so local businesses may differ in their opinion of how easy it is to get teens to work for them. A very unofficial poll of area businesses and area teens showed where the young adults will be earning money this summer.

For anyone older than eighteen, the restaurants draw the biggest number of applications. Most of the restaurants reported having plenty of applications to fill the positions of wait staff and bartenders. Conversely, the restaurants have the hardest time filling other positions, such as dishwashers and kitchen help. "We're having a very difficult time of it," reported Steve Ager, owner of Harbor Vista Cafe. "It's virtually impossible to get anyone to work in the kitchen." Ager said he's run many ads in the paper offering work and gotten almost no response. "Maybe it will be different when school's out," Ager said hopefully.

Ager may be right. Several eighth graders said they will probably get summer jobs when school is out. "Because they're too young to wait tables, eighth graders often work as dishwashers or in restaurant kitchens."

Leo Markel of the Parkside reported that this is the first year he's had trouble hiring enough staff. "Usually I have stacks of them applying," Markel said. He suspected that a rumor of the Parkside not opening this year may have scared off some of the potential applicants.

Ranking high on the list of good summer jobs, from a teenage perspective, is any work that takes place outside. The city marina draws high school kids to the dock every year. Irish Boat Works and Ward Brothers Marina also attract teenagers, but once there, not all teens seem to be cut out for the work. "It's always a struggle finding kids with some good, solid skills and a boating background,"

"Charlevoix has always had a good crop of summer employees. Some of these kids work two or three jobs so they can pay for college."

Randy Carey of Carey's Shoes commenting on Charlevoix's student labor force.

said Jack Hodge of Irish. Hodge said that in past years teenagers had more boating knowledge than he's seeing today. He's hoping that the Lake Charlevoix Mariners and 4-H sailing program will help cure that problem for future teens.

Don Ward of Ward Brothers Marina said he's found enough teens to fill his staff for the summer, or at least for most of the summer. "We have a hell of a time making it to Labor Day," Ward said, since many teens leave early to start college or fall sports.

The golf courses in the area had no trouble finding teens to caddy or work as bag boys for the summer. "We usually get a pretty good bunch of kids," said Dave Poquette, golf pro at the Belvedere Club.

For every business you find in Charlevoix, you'll find just as many opinions about the work ethics of today's teens. Norm Carlson of Three Guys Painting said, "We've never had trouble finding summer employees. They're willing to learn, and willing to work hard, long hours." Randy Carey of Carey's Shoes said, "Charlevoix has always had a good crop of summer employees. Some of these kids work two or three jobs so they can pay for college."

Owners of businesses that require manual labor have a different opinion of the work skills exhibited by today's teens. One business manager, who preferred to be unidentified, said, "I'm amazed at the poor quality of training kids have today. Some high schoolers don't know a Phillips screwdriver from a flat blade." The manager said he wished kids were learning more mechanical skills in school. He also was skeptical of their real willingness to work. "They want a job, but don't want to work," he said.

Don Ward held a similar opinion. "It seems the work ethic is somewhat less than it ought to be. These kids don't really know what work is," he said. Ward added that any kids showing mechanical aptitude were very valuable to him. Ward gets both kinds of kids at his business. "There are good and bad in everything. Some are super kids, and some can hardly tie their own shoes," he said.

Leo Markel said, "Most of the kids are really good. You only get one or two bad apples in the bunch."

Mary Gillum found herself three summer jobs. She's working full time at the Weathervane and part-time at Nanny's as a hostess and salad girl. She also babysits for five children. She's turning 16 in July, and wants to earn enough to buy a car.

Where you'll find some kids working

The upcoming work force:

Drew Belding will go to work at Whitney's Oyster Bar as soon as he turns 14 in June. He'll work as a busboy, for minimum wages and tips.

Adam Morris, a 14 year old, said he's not going to work under any circumstances. "I'm a rebel. If I need money I'll get it from my mother," he said.

Josh Dennis, 14, is going to work at Wolohan lumber, stocking and doing some landscaping prep work. The job had two pluses - it's close to his home and close to Ferry Beach.

Kami Boyer is leaving the area to be a live-in babysitter for a family in Grosse Pointe. She likes the job, she said, because she likes being with kids, likes being by the pool, and going boating with the kids.

Megan McFarlin, 14, will work as the assistant manager of the Silver Birch Motel for her parents, the owners. She'll receive $30 a week for her spending money, and her parents will bank the rest of her earnings for a future Spanish Club trip to Spain.

City Council approves industrial expansion

CPI Products, L.C., one of the manufacturing plants in the Charlevoix Industrial Park, came before the city council Monday evening seeking approval for a plan to add 20,000 square feet to their plant and possibly add 12 jobs to the community.

Voicing no complaints about prosperity, the council told CPI to go right ahead and do that. Last month the city planning commission recommended approval of the proposal. City council approval for the request was unanimous. CPI designs and builds end-arm tooling for robotic applications in automotive press shops.

In other action the council accepted the resignation of mayor Dave Novotny. Novotny announced his resignation last month. Monday's action was simply formal council acceptance of the resignation.

Monday evening the council also authorized approximately $168,000 in electrical system work. A portion of the work involves line work near the hospital. Another portion of the work involves extending additional lines from the substation out M-66.

The council also voted to accept a state equity grant of $29,000 which will be split with the Charlevoix Historical Society and will fund work on the Depot building and Depot Beach. The city wants to build a pavilion and new rest rooms at the beach. The total project cost is estimated to be $65,000. The city has some money in the park fund to make up for the difference between the estimated cost and the $14,500 in grant money. The city will take bids on the pavilion and rest rooms. If enough money is available, both will be built this year. If money falls short, the rest room project will be delayed.

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

The June 13 school election is likely to be one of the most interesting in recent years. Charlevoix school district voters will be deciding two millage issues and electing two board members.

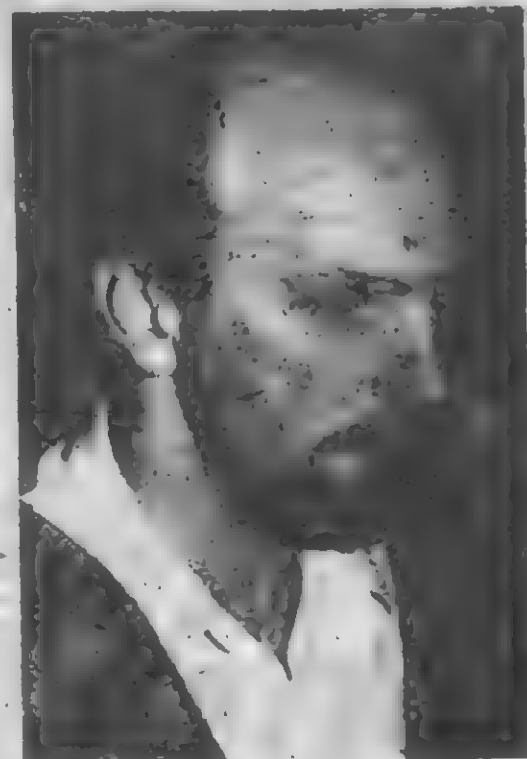

The millage issues ask for 18 mills for five years on non-homestead property and 2.25 mills for three years on all property. The 18 mills would be for operational funding. The 2.25 mills would be for some structural and technological upgrades.

Normally, with just a week until the election, if you're out talking to people you have a feel for how the election might go. Not this time. Perhaps that's because there are more factors than usual clouding the issue. The effects of Proposal A, an educational funding plan developed by the state legislature and approved by voters earlier this year, are the biggest cloud hanging over the election. Some voters apparently didn't understand Proposal A and didn't realize that even if it passed, there would still be millage elections. Other voters understand Proposal A; they just don't like it. On the local level, earlier this year the school board and administration went through a big turmoil over the reassignment of the high school principal. The effect of that turmoil on the election remains to be seen.

Much like the millage issues, the race for the two board seats is also much more difficult than usual to call. There are five candidates for two seats. The candidates are: Susan Hamilton, Dave Strawbridge, Norm Probert, Ardeth Wieland and Steve Kehrer. Voters may vote for either one or two candidates. When you have two positions open, rather than one, the vote can get split up in some really strange ways.

A candidate forum hosted by the school's parent ambassador group May 31 drew about 40 people. In a way, that small number was disappointing, but the reality is many people in this town are very busy. Despite that, don't be surprised to see a better than average voter turnout on June 13. But there's no telling what those voters will do.

Speaking of elections, another election which promises to be interesting will be the mayoral election in November. The only candidate on the ballot, Dave Novotny, recently resigned and has indicated that he doesn't want to be re-elected. So the obvious question is who do you elect? The answer is, you write in whoever you want. It would seem that between now and November somebody would initiate some type of sticker campaign, but no names have surfaced yet. If you think a five-candidate for-two-seat school-board election has the potential for strange results, just wait until you see a write-in mayoral election.

Another note on the aforementioned candidate forum. Traver Wood chaired the forum and he did an exceptional job. He chairs the ambassadors' meetings and prior to the forum, some of that group had mentioned that he is a very effective meeting chairman. During the forum, he kept the audience and candidates focused on the subject and he was aware of time constraints. One of the keys to a successful meeting is a chairman who has a sense of mission and keeps the meeting on track. That may sound like a simple enough assignment, but far too many people find it a challenge.

Along those same lines, another local person deserving credit for his ability to step up and be effective in front of an audience is Chamber of Commerce President Dick Joseph. One of the responsibilities which comes with the terrain as Chamber President is getting up in front of people to introduce speakers, award plaques or make speeches. Joseph does an excellent job. In making presentations, Joseph's comfort in speaking makes the audience comfortable in listening. He effectively uses his sense of humor to lighten up occasions that otherwise could be stuffy.

It's a talent which is often overlooked, but having someone with the ability to smoothly handle public speaking assignments is a great asset to any organization. A person with that ability is often the difference between people recalling an event as being dull or entertaining.

One last item to comment on. This past Monday Charlevoix played host to a contingent of city leaders from the community of Manistee. A few weeks ago a group of Charlevoix people paid a similar visit to Manistee. The exchange visits were part of a program called Mayor Exchange Day. The exchange program provides an opportunity for cities to see how other communities operate and to show off their own accomplishments.

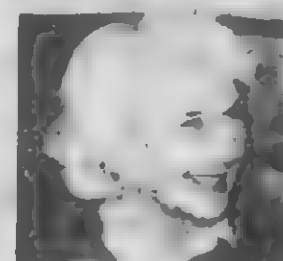

This year's pairing of Charlevoix and Manistee was particularly appropriate. Manistee, located on Lake Michigan south of Charlevoix and north of Ludington, is larger than Charlevoix, but has many similarities. Like Charlevoix, Manistee has a bridge between Lake Michigan and an inland waterway. Like Charlevoix, Manistee has a fascinating history and has worked hard to preserve it.

Guests from Charlevoix had their photo taken in the Ramsdell Theater. The theater is a beautiful old building which was built during the era of the lumber barons. The community has done a wonderful job of restoring and maintaining the facility.

Charlevoix is currently engaged in something of a similar endeavor with the Depot Building at Depot Beach.

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

Visitors from downstate blossom forth unexpectedly over Memorial weekend in Charlevoix, much like our lilac bushes burst suddenly into flower.

Neighbors, Peter and Julie Cummings, housed fifteen people over the weekend, including Julie's well-known parents, Max and Marjorie Fisher.

Soft spoken Max Fisher, backdoor diplomatic advisor to President Nixon, Ford, Reagan and Bush, Republican fund-raiser, entrepreneur and philanthropist, was my dinner partner at the sit-down dinner for twenty-six guests on Sunday, at the Cummings' summer home, overlooking Lake Michigan.

I was eager to ask him insightful questions on national politics and the Middle East — after all, hadn't he attended 21 State dinners? But that wasn't about to happen. Why? Because Max was too busy asking me questions about Charlevoix!

The Fishers have visited here many times in the past, and Max waxed nostalgic about the former Beach Hotel, Koch's gambling casino, and Mr. Gatti's famous restaurant.

The last time the Fishers were here was during the Art Fair when the Henry Fords were guests on their yacht. The two couples visited the Nathan Cummings' on Lake Charlevoix. The late Nathan Cummings, of course, is Peter Cummings' uncle. What goes around comes around.

After dinner, Peter showed his father-in-law the article that I had written about the summer house they bought last year on Michigan Avenue. It's the one where the sidewalks stops, and was once owned by Julia Scott, founder of the DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution) and aunt of Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson II. She named the house, "The Wilds," because it was so secluded. She entertained such dignitaries as Thomas Marshall, Vice-President under Woodrow Wilson. His claim to fame stems from his remark that "what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar!"

Max was charmed by my Detroit Free Press story and suggested that the article be framed for everyone to read.

He then promptly offered to send me an autographed copy of the book Peter Golden wrote about him, "Quiet diplomat: a Biography of Max M. Fisher," published in 1992.

It's a pity I can't give Max an autographed copy in return of the Charlevoix book I wrote in 1976 called "Summer Resort Life, Tango Teas and All." He would live it — but the book is out of print. I only have one copy and there's only one copy left in the Charlevoix Library. It tells all about the glory days of the Beach Hotel, where mothers' matchmaking was in full swing during the afternoon tea dances; it also describes the raid on Koch's gambling casino, and includes descriptions of Mr. Gatti's famous Italian restaurant, where an orchestra played and women danced in long evening gowns. And it included the article from the Detroit-Free Press.

As long as we're reminiscing, I must share with you the romantic story how the Fishers first met in Detroit so many years ago. Marge's aunt gave a cocktail party and invited Max. Marge wore a red off-the-shoulder cocktail dress and when Max saw her he said, "Scarlett!" and she laughingly replied "Rhett!"

I did have the opportunity before the evening was over to ask the Fishers a question. "What do you think of Charlevoix today?"

"We love it!" they both exclaimed, and to my surprise Marge added, "It's so relaxing."

Relaxing? With fifteen people including grandchildren under one roof, marketing, arranging seating for twenty-six guests and helping daughter Julie produce a lovely sit-down dinner and making everyone feel welcome? That's some relaxing weekend! But they made it look easy.

Letters to the editor

School millage opposed

Editor,

Taxation without representation?

All of the local efforts to gain a yes vote on the forthcoming millage elections for non-homestead properties seem to ignore the very un-American nature of this option. Those voting will typically all be homestead owners and unaffected by the results of their vote. Those affected will typically not be local residents and will not be entitled to vote. A YES vote is purely and simply a "tax the other guy" decision.

Those affected are already subject to the increased sales tax; full time if they are Michigan residents with second homes or property in our local school districts, part time while they are in Michigan if they are out-of-state residents. Further, virtually none of those affected, who will be paying the larger share if it passes (24 mills non-homestead vs. 6 mills homestead in Charlevoix) have any children in the local school system!

If you want our visitors to pay a large share of the cost of our children's education so that you may pay far less than your fair share, a YES vote is your answer. Many of us feel that it is un-American as to be an unsuitable option. A better choice is to vote NO, which is the choice made by the voters in three of the three such elections held to date.

Josh Barnes

School millage supported

Editor,

June 13th Charlevoix citizens will be voting on two very important millage proposals, which will directly affect the health, welfare and education of our children. The first proposal is for 18 mills, levied on non-homestead properties. Non-homestead properties consist of second homes and businesses. Voters in Michigan must pass this 18 mills in their local school districts. This voted portion of our school district's income represents about half of our operating budget.

The second millage proposal you will be asked to vote on is called an "enhancement" millage. State law allows us to levy up to 3 mills for a three-year period. After that time there will be no local school district enhancement millage. This board of education is asking for 2.25 mills. This money will be earmarked for physical plant improvements and technology only. Among the improvements will be replacing the 25-year-old carpet at the elementary school, properly installing electrical outlets and cords for computers, improving building access for handicapped students and community members; modernizing the boiler at the high school, and purchasing additional computers for the ever increasing technology demands. These improvements directly affect the welfare of our students.

The Charlevoix Board of Education encourages you to vote for the two millages, as the first will give us half of our operating funds; and the second will directly affect the health and welfare of students in our buildings.

Sincerely,

Scott Beatty, Joan Buday, Mary Lee Campbell, Ben Cunningham, Steve Czerkes, Larry Levensgood, Ardeth Wieland.

FAMILY

Susan Kennedy was one of the graduates who picked up their high school diploma at Charlevoix's commencement exercise this past Sunday.

Graduates told morals of stories

In delivering the commencement speech to the 1994 graduating class of Charlevoix High School, author Sue Harrison told four short stories, each with one of the following lessons: 1. People who know the rules usually have an advantage in life; 2. Be someone who encourages other people; 3. Don't engage in frivolous pursuits; 4. Take life one step at a time.

Harrison is an author who was raised in Pickford, attended Lake Superior State University and continues to live in the Upper Peninsula.

Valedictorian Jesse Beatty and salutatorian Matt Norton delivered a joint address.

The senior band selection was "Cats" by Andrew Lloyd Webber. Amy Phillips, a member of the 1994 graduating class, sang "Friends" by Michael Smith.

Correction

J.H. Heck was inadvertently omitted from the list of 1994 Charlevoix High School graduates in last week's Courier. Heck was among the 1994 Charlevoix High School graduates.

Scott Peebles didn't break out into a full smile, but he did at least wear a grin while receiving his diploma.

Council briefed on construction projects

City council members heard an update Monday evening on city construction projects this summer from city manager Mike Wiesner and three city department heads.

City water and electric superintendent Ed Whitley explained the status of the following projects:

1. Michigan and Petoskey Avenue water mains. This project was completed last fall, and a darn good thing too. The new mains replaced mains which were too shallow and had caused freezing problems for the past 40 years. This past winter was one of the worst in recent memory for line freeze ups, but the new main minimized problems in that section of town.
2. A new 12 inch main has been installed between Sherman Street and the hospital. This main will improve flow rates and fire protection in that area of town.
3. A new 12 inch main has been installed on West Carpenter and State Street and on the southern end of State Street. The water line work on that project is completed.
4. Removal of the old water tower. One demolition person looked at the tower and gave a removal price which was close to the estimated cost. In the near future bids will be taken for demolition.
5. Water lines on May Street incurred extensive damage from freezing this past winter as did sections of main near the intersection of Bridge Street and East Carpenter. The city has received $46,400 in disaster relief funds from the state and is providing additional information to the federal government for additional funds. When funding is available, these mains will be fixed.
6. Ninety percent of the posts are up for the new street lights downtown. The tops will be installed soon and the old lights taken down. The city will retain the old light poles and use them when needed in other parts of the community.
7. Several circuits throughout town are being worked on this summer. That work is part of an ongoing project to update the city's electrical system. One of the major recent accomplishments has been upgrading the voltage available at the industrial park.

City street department superintendent explained the status of the following projects:

1. West Carpenter Street between State and Bridge Streets and the south end of State Street are being repaved. That project should be completed by the end of the month.
2. The installation of new sidewalks along Bridge Street from Meech to Mercer and from Robinson to the airport is pretty much completed. Charlevoix now has sidewalks from one end of town to the other. Eighty percent of the cost of the project was covered by federal transportation funds.
3. Site improvements at the old light plant at Ferry Beach are ongoing. The old basketball court (which formerly had a slippery surface) has been resurfaced and another court has been installed. The new court will be full-size. Currently the courts are asphalt, but a tennis court type sealer will soon be placed on the asphalt.
4. The new city parking lot between Mason and Antrim Streets should be completed later this month.

City wastewater system superintendent Sam Creswell explained the following project:

1. A new pump station has been installed near the curve on Belvedere Avenue. The pump station replaced a station which had been installed in the mid 1930s. Charlevoix has about a dozen pump stations in various places around town. With the replacement of the Belvedere Avenue station, all of the stations are now less than 10 years old.

City manager Mike Wiesner explained the following projects:

1. The city recently received bids for the new airport runway and taxiway. The bids came in much lower than expected. Ninety-five percent of the cost of the project is being paid for by state and federal funds. The work will be done later this summer.
2. This fall the city hopes to be doing some work at Depot Beach. The centerpiece of this year's work will be a new pavilion and (if funding permits) rest rooms. The city is working with the Charlevoix Historical Society so that work done by the city is aesthetically harmonious with renovation work the society is doing on the old Depot building.
3. The city plans to do about $350,000 worth of work on the city softball fields. The city recently received approval on a state grant for $242,000. According to the grant criteria, the city has two years to do the work. Wiesner said the tentative construction timetable calls for the work to be done in the fall of 1995.

School discusses staffing needs

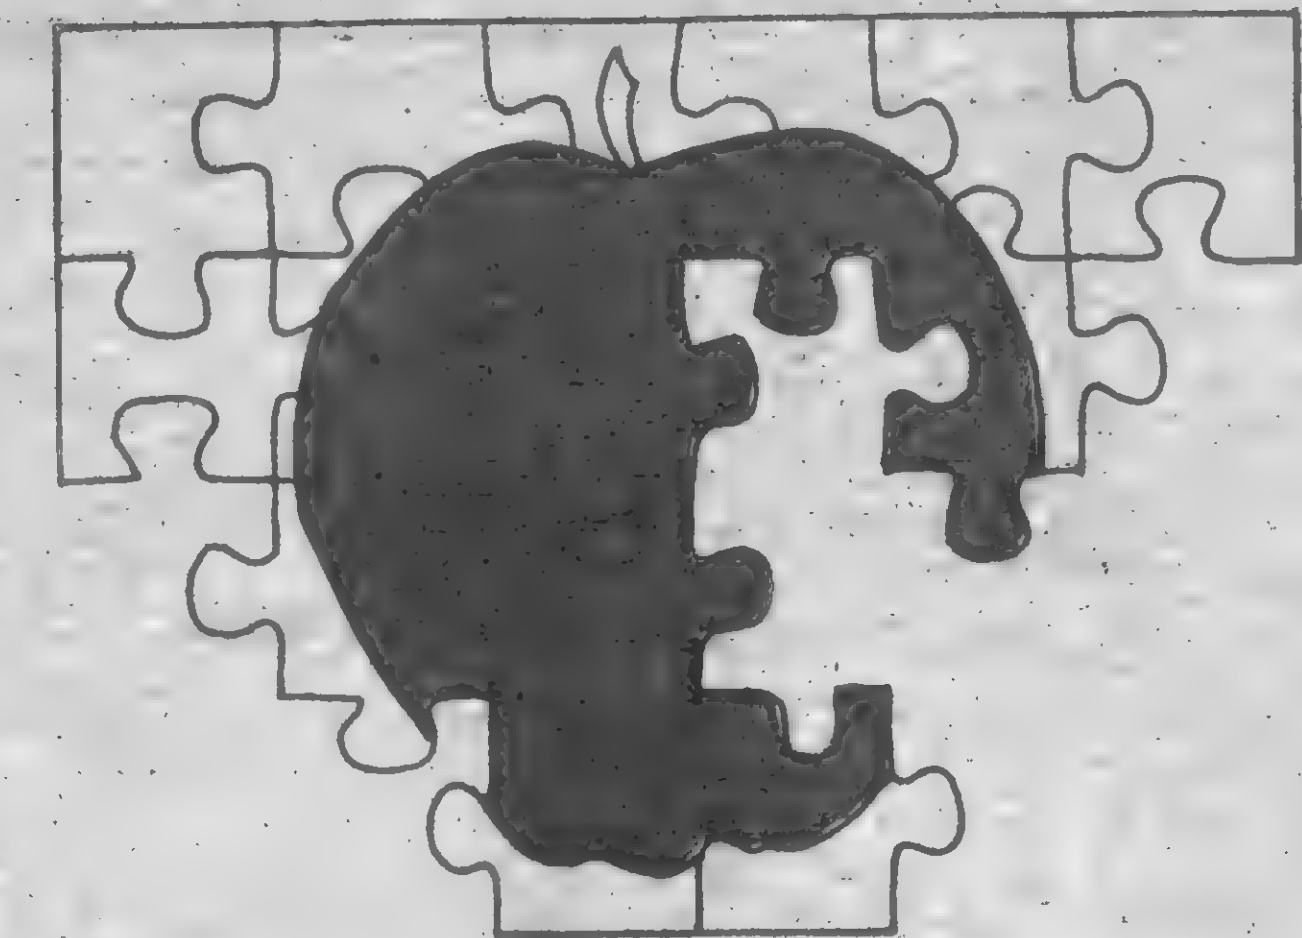

By Laurie Lounsbury

During the Charlevoix Board of Education work session Monday evening, the board discussed hiring of a new, part-time teacher to teach Life Management at the high school. Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson said there is enough interest from the student body to necessitate two life management classes. Board member Mary Lee Campbell expressed some concern about hiring new staff when the board is trying to reduce the budget. "We keep adding and adding without seeing where we're going to subtract. I don't think the budget is going to grow... I think we should consider that carefully before we make a decision," Campbell said. School counselor Toni Felter strongly favored the hiring of a new teacher. "We have a desperate need for these classes," Felter said, adding, "We want to start small and go big with this." Life management classes teach students about family relations, handling stress and making decisions in life, and human sexuality.

Middle School Principal Dennis Van Guilder reported that, due to a small incoming sixth grade class next year, the sixth grade staff could be reduced by one teacher for at least one year. Sixth grade science teacher Jerry Puhl is retiring at the end of this school year, and his position could remain unfilled. The remaining sixth grade teachers said they're willing to teach a unit of science in addition to their regular course load. The teachers proposed each taking a quarter of the science curriculum to teach, then rotating the students to a new teacher and a new unit every nine weeks. "I've met with all the sixth grade teachers, and they're willing to work with the board on this," Van Guilder said. School business manager Rich Kelly said the savings of not hiring a new teacher would come to approximately $42,000 for the year.

Third graders chronicle their trip to Beaver Island

During their recent trip to Beaver Island, Charlevoix third grade students kept journals. Following are a few of those journals:

My favorite thing about Beaver Island is the toy museum. Because I got a really neat Chinese finger trap. I also like the sand castle building contest. Todd Carey, my dad and I made a sculpture of a dolphin. We got extra chocolate. We played tug of war and we won. We also got to climb Mount Pisgah and we also got to go to the mormon print shop. We had a treasure hunt. We got to find all kinds of neat things. It was cool. It was the best time I ever had.

Trevor Kline

I like lots of things about Beaver Island. We went on a nature hike. My favorite flower is Jack in the Pulpit. We had a sandcastle contest. I saw a water snake. I liked the cabins and the bunks. We went to two museums. We listened to ghost stories. I like the boat. We had great food. I had great chaperones. Jodie, Megan, Katie, Linda, Brandy, Shauna, Elizabeth, Jamie, Jacqueline were in my cabin.

Janet Olach

My favorite thing in Beaver Island was the museums. We went to the Mormon print shop. And we had a treasure hunt. If you finished it we got a post card. They had a old jail outside of the shop. It was really old. I liked it a lot.

And we went to a toy museum. I liked it. Everybody got to bring three dollars. They had old toy cars. Mostly all the stuff there was cheap. I liked it there too.

We went for a nature trail walk. We saw Jack in the Pulpit and skunk cabbage and salamanders too. It was cool. We saw lots of other things too. We went to the Beaver Island light house too. We saw two freighters and the stairs were really scary. There were 50.

Jamie Left

My favorite thing about Beaver Island is the tug of war because Mrs. Pierce's class won. I liked the mormon print shop because it has old time things in the shop. I got to see Feodor Protar's grave and house. I got to go in the Beaver Island jail. My class saw King James Jesse Strang's picture. I got to climb Mount Pisgah and run down it. People were putting skunk cabbage in the girls' cabin. I like the Jack in the Pulpit. King James Jesse Strang was assassinated. I saw dead fish and rocks and shells. I like Beaver Island.

Jeff Riley

I liked it when we won the tug of war. My favorite thing was the sand castle contest. I made a family of turtles.

I liked the nature hike. We found lots of interesting things. I liked the food as much as anything. I think the chaperones did a good job of cooking and taking good care of us. I think the teachers were very good at taking care of us too.

Phillip Henington

I loved the treasure hunt. Some of the things we had to find are beetles, ants, beech nut, trout lily, a feather, and much more. We went on a nature trail. We saw Jack in the Pulpit, skunk cabbage (I'm warning you, don't pick that stuff!), salamanders, fiddle head ferns, and Dutchman's breeches.

On our beach walk we saw milk snakes and water snakes.

We told ghost stories. We saw Feodor Protar's house and grave. The grave was right by the rock he sat on when he read books. When we went to the Mormon Print Shop we did another treasure hunt and we got to go in the old fashion jail. We did a tug a war. Mrs. Pierce's class won. I think the smores were the best.

Elizabeth Blash

Day one at Beaver Island:

The boat ride was better than expected. Seeing the snake was no fun. We don't like snakes.

Day two:

Ashley Ager's big point of the trip was power shopping. Jessica Kelly thought that the treasure hunt at the print shop was fun. Neal stuff to find. Kim Foster liked learning about King Strang and the Mormon Print Shop.

Jessica Kelly, Kim Foster, Ashley Ager

First day: At first in our classes it was really zoeey until the teachers came in and they got us all seated.

Most of the chaperones were there and some weren't. Finally, we're off to Beaver Island. It was late afternoon before we arrived at camp then we got to our cabin, to beds, then ate, then told ghost stories, then we went to bed.

10 o'clock in the morning me and my group played a trick with balloons.

Marshall Bakker

Second day: It was in the morning when Nikki knocked on our door and threw a lot of balloons in our cabin and Cory popped them all. When we went to breakfast we wore funny glasses and everybody laughed at us and they found out who did the balloons. After breakfast we went on the trail and it seemed to last a lifetime, but it came to an end. After lunch we went to the print shop museum for a treasure hunt at the end we got a post card. Then we went to the toy shop and got some toys. Next we went to Protar's home and saw where he buried his horse. Then we went to his tomb.

Third day: In the morning we got all of our gear loaded on the truck, we ate breakfast, and went to the boat and got on it and took off. It wasn't very long until we got to Charlevoix and went to school to go home. When I got home I slept for about four hours.

School considers "systemic change"

Thursday, June 7, the Charlevoix Public School teachers' support staff, board of education and some community members attended an in-service presented by Dr. John Champlin. Champlin is from the Center for Quality Learning in Phoenix, Arizona. Previously he was Superintendent of Johnson City Schools in New York. The Johnson City School system has been widely written about and modeled because of their students' high achievement and overall quality of education from teaching methods to extra-curricular activities.

Dr. Champlin talks of "systemic change" in our schools to meet the needs of students in the nineties. Currently he believes our schools follow a factory model. Schools should be relevant and inviting. Today's schools should graduate students who have options. When children fall in school, Champlin feels it is the system which needs changing rather than the student. What goes on in our schools should reflect our basic beliefs about students and learning, and be based on the most current research and best knowledge. We must ask ourselves if what we are doing is getting us what we want. Champlin defines change as the gap between what we know and what we do.

School operating procedures from the community down to the students should be built on expectations; what do you expect of me, and what should I expect from you? Constant feedback is a necessity. In aligning expectations one asks questions as: this is what we agreed on, this is what I see, help me understand your behavior. According to Champlin, each person in the system is an agent of change and in fact responsible to facilitate

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

In response to the kind requests of so many, what follows is the poem that I wrote and presented to this year's group of graduating seniors. Think of them often and pray for them as they begin their adventures.

To The Charlevoix High School Class of 1994

You know Who and I am honored to bring you greetings once again. I hope it is because you think of him as your own special friend. See, whether you've known it or not, He's been watching you for a very long time.

And He wants you to know how proud He is that you all turned out so fine.

He was there around the K-5 building for those "weddings" the teachers didn't want you to have.

He even knew about the ski pole that saw Darren getting stabbed. Who could forget Beaver Island and the swallows circling each night? And to think, you fought over jump ropes! My, that must have been a sight!

Then there was Mr. Robinson at Middle School and his wonderful open book tests. Don't forget your choice of seeing the principal or staying in your "nests."

The great awakening continued when you hit the High School doors. You have inspired a lot of people with the MEAP and A-C-T scores. How many times, do you suppose, they played "Pomp and circumstance" today?

Enough to say thank you to Mr. I, for all the things he taught you to play?

I can't believe some of you went into Mrs. Seaman's class so shy. Except when Mrs. Ford got through with you, you had no voice to try. There's Josh with his red hair and Nick behind the wheel. The Cheerleaders made it to state; will the Marines still get David Skeel?

Let's pay tribute to Mr. Smith, even when he says, "Hats off in the hall!" Now we take our hats off to you for giving us your all! But we must come full circle, getting back to my special friend. And it is with some thoughts from Him that my rhyme will come to an end.

The race is still before you as you put this High School in your past. Fill your lives with faith, hope, and love; for these are the virtues that last.

So congratulations to all of you for all that you've come through. Greetings to the class of '94 from me, and you know Who!

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Welcome trout fishermen

One of the most popular aspects of the tournament is the children's fish pond in East Park. A couple of hundred rainbow trout are placed in the cement pond in front of the Odmark Pavilion. All day Saturday children are allowed to fish them out. The cost for children to catch a fish is $1 a fish. Poles and bait are provided. This year the fish are being donated by Pat McKeown Ford. Each dollar children pay to catch fish plus some additional money contributed by the trout tournament will be donated to the Northwestern Michigan Council to Prevent Child Abuse and Neglect.

In addition to the cash prizes for fish caught, the tournament also awards daily pot prizes for the largest fish caught this day; a cash prize drawing at the end of the tournament; and a variety of bonus prizes. Everyone who enters receives a free Stinger lure and hat.

Major sponsors for the tournament contribute either $500 in cash or $250 in merchandise. Major sponsors for the 1994 tournament are: Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau; Ward Brothers Boats, Inc.; Crown Motors of Charlevoix; Advance Tackle/Stinger Lures; JD's Outdoor Sportsman; Mike's Glass; and Nanay's Motel, Restaurant & Lounge.

There will be a leader board in place at the pavilion Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Both fishermen and nonfishermen are welcome to watch the fish being weighed and the children catching fish in the pond.

Sister Lydia leaving St. Mary's to find a new challenge

By L. Scott Swanson

Sister Lydia Korson expresses mixed feelings about leaving St. Mary's Parish School in Charlevoix. She says that on one hand she realizes that moving from job to job is part of her calling as a Dominican sister. "We are a pilgrim people. We have a mission at a place. We perform it. It's never permanent." On the other hand, she says, "I've never been so involved in the total parish as in St. Mary's of Charlevoix. I like challenges and I like to be involved."

At one time, nuns were assigned to various schools, but in recent times they've had to find jobs on their own. In 1987, after working at Ludington Area Catholic School, Korson was looking for a new educational challenge and received a phone call from Father Jim Gardiner in Charlevoix. Although she had grown up in Leelanau County, Korson wasn't particularly familiar with Charlevoix. "I kind of knew it was near the lake, north of Traverse City," she said.

While at St. Mary's, Korson has served as school principal and also taught one class. During the past seven years, St. Mary's school has taken many strides forward. Among those Korson is proudest of are: developing a school staff which includes teachers for music, art and physical education; upgrading the school curriculum with at least one new series of text books each year; developing a family life program; the creation of a pre-kindergarten program; upgrading furniture; placing a computer in every classroom with a comfortable selection of software; developing a more structured school board.

Korson extols the virtues of education at St. Mary's and other religious schools. "We give them the best; but we owe them the best," she said of the education the students received. St. Mary's only offers classes through the fifth grade. After that the students go into the public school system. Korson said most of the students make the transition very well. "If a student is happy, has good self esteem, and good study habits, they'll do well."

Korson said she believes there is a trend toward people placing their children in religious schools such as St. Mary's. She said parents like the environment the schools offer. She said the school has a Christian environment with a smaller enrollment and is very family oriented. She said one of the powerful forces a religious school has is the ability to gather the students and faculty together in the morning for a morning prayer. That sets a beautiful tone for the entire school day.

Ironically, Korson spent most of her school years in a public school, transferring to a religious school only during her final two years of high school. She said, "Parents want the best for their children and (they) know that in developing the best, faith is a part of it."

Although Korson is very pleased and proud of her experience in Charlevoix during the past seven years, she's also happy to be moving on to something new. "New assignments are enriching," she said. "There's always an area to pursue and excel in where other people left off. I find that very exciting. There's a mystery, a little bit of fear involved, but you go in spite of that."

Spaghetti benefit dinner planned

Friends of Pam Crain are hosting a benefit spaghetti dinner from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., Thursday, June 16 at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix. Crain is currently undergoing monthly chemotherapy treatments for cancer and is currently unable to work.

3200 meter team remains state's best

Charlevoix won the State Class C 3200 meter relay title for the third straight year Saturday at Bay City. Running on this year's team were: Matt Dickinson, Brian Martinus, Chris LeButt and Mike Bush. The team turned in a time of 8:08.56. A team from Napoleon placed second, nearly four seconds behind the Rayders.

Dickinson ran the opening leg, navigating his way amidst 24 other runners. Martinus, a freshman, ran the second leg and moved the Rayders up in the pack. LeButt took over on the third leg with the Rayders in third place. He passed the two runners ahead of him and handed Bush the baton and a one-step lead. Bush, a junior, took the baton and left the other runners like they were standing still...left the field behind like a Cecil Fielder home run...left like he was shot out of a cannon...left the pack, like a lone wolf striking out on his own...feel free to choose your metaphor, he just left.

Bush also placed third in the 3200 meter run. He was seventh in state last year. Travis Wood, a junior, cleared 13 feet 8 inches in the pole vault. The winning vaulter went 14-9.

Jerry Duhart placed fourth in his qualifying heat at 11.35 seconds in the 100 meter dash. The three runners who finished ahead of Duhart all placed in the finals.

The Rayder girls' 3200 meter relay team turned in a personal best time of 10:07, but didn't place. The team was made up of Chelsea Gorkiewicz, Nicole Moore, Liz Kelly and Becca Chamberlain. Moore is the only senior on the team. Gorkiewicz is a freshman, Kelly a sophomore and Chamberlain a junior.

The 800 meter boys' relay team of Mike Rostar, Seth Kilander, Wood and Duhart qualified for a state, but their chances hit the dust with a dropped baton.

Baseball and softball teams make early exits

Which was worse? Losing a 6-5 nailbiter or getting whopped 12-1? No matter. Charlevoix's varsity softball and baseball teams were both eliminated in the first game of the District Tournament in Charlevoix Saturday.

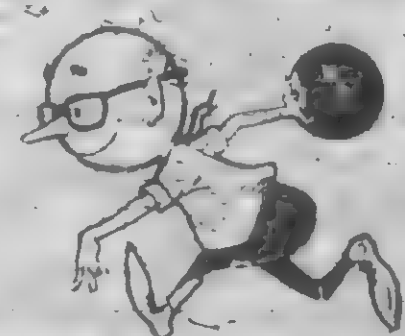

The girls' softball team lost to eventual tournament champion Boyne City 6-5. The Rayders fell behind 6-1, before coming back to score four runs and put the tying run on base in the final inning.

Liz Grunch took the pitching loss. Jenny Eveleigh, a freshman, had two hits for the Rayders.

The baseball team was beaten 12-1 by Mancelona. Mancelona lost to Boyne City 2-0 in the finals.

VERIFIED PETITION BY PLAINTIFF FIRSTAR AND COURT APPOINTED RECEIVER TO APPROVE SALE OF ASSETS

NOW COME Plaintiff, Firstar Bank Milwaukee, F/K/A First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee (hereinafter "Firstar") and Receiver, Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"), by and through their counsel, Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C., who hereby move that this Honorable Court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In support of this motion, Firstar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.9 million was entered by this Court on August 20, 1993, and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

2. At the time, the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, Walker & Walker, Inc., and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under their obligations under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991 line of credit agreement and note payable to Firstar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments thereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operations and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast licenses.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast licenses, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale, and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers as Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase Agreement with The McDonald Broadcasting Company on April 15, 1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

7. The Receiver, Jay Meyers, believes that the proposed sale, pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, is in the best interests of the Defendants and their respective creditors.

8. The sale contemplated by the Asset Purchase Agreement shall be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances. To the extent that such liens and encumbrances exist, same shall attach to the proceeds of the sale in their order, rank and priority. Closing of the sale will not take place until FCC approval of the transfer of the broadcast licenses, claims have been received as set forth below and this Court has made a final determination after hearing as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim.

9. A copy of this Petition and Order Re: Notice of Hearing On Petition To Approve Sale will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and will be sent by certified mail to all creditors of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, to which the Receiver has received written knowledge of existence. Objections to the sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the Court or the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J. Corcoran, Attorney for Plaintiff and James D. Clarke, Attorney for State of Michigan, at 201 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, by 5:00 p.m., July 8, 1994. If no objection is timely filed and served, the Court may enter the Order approving the proposed sale without a hearing.

10. Any creditor may file an appearance with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix and a Proof Of Claim or make a claim by contacting the Receiver, in writing, at 3349 Monroe Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618. A final determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further order of this Court before the closing of the sale is permitted to proceed.

11. It is HEREBY ORDERED that a hearing will take place on July 11, 1994, at 2:15 p.m. in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix to determine whether the Receiver may sell all the right, title and interest to the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Petition and proposed Order will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and that a copy of this Petition and Order be sent by certified mail to all creditors of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which the Receiver has received written knowledge of existence. Any creditor may file an appearance and request to be included in the disbursements of said sale/proof of claim or contact the Receiver in writing at 3349 Monroe Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further order of this Court in advance of the closing date of the sale contemplated by this Petition.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that objections to the proposed sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J. Millage passes - Hamilton and Wieland elected

By L. Scott Swanson

More than 1,700 Charlevoix school district voters turned out Monday to pass a large millage proposal, turn down a smaller one and fill two school board seats. Despite rainy weather, about 500 voters more than usual turned out for the election.

A proposal for 18 mills for school operations passed by a vote of 958 to 786. A 2.25 mill proposal to fund some structural and technical renovations and additions failed 1,004 to 712. Sulane Hamilton and Ardeth Wieland were selected from a field of five candidates for four-year terms on the school board.

The 18 mill proposal was the one which had school officials the most concerned of the two proposals. The 18 mill levy will be for nonhomestead property (i.e. any property other than people's primary homes and farmland).

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's assessed value. Assessed value is 50 percent of a property's theoretical market value.

With the passage of the 18 mill proposal, taxpayers in the Charlevoix school district will be paying six mills on homestead property and 24 mills on nonhomestead property to fund school operations. The six mills will be paid to the state and redistributed by the state to Charlevoix and other school districts. The 18 mills will stay within the Charlevoix school district.

The Charlevoix school district budget for the coming year is projected to be approximately $8.4 million. Half of that funding will come from local tax dollars and half from a state allocation. State funds will be derived primarily from the six mill levy throughout the state and from sales taxes which recently increased from four percent to six percent following the state's passage of Proposal A in March.

Charlevoix School Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson said she was very pleased with the passage of the 18 mill proposal and said she wanted to thank those who supported it. She said the failure of the 2.25 mill proposal is something the school facility committee can discuss and evaluate.

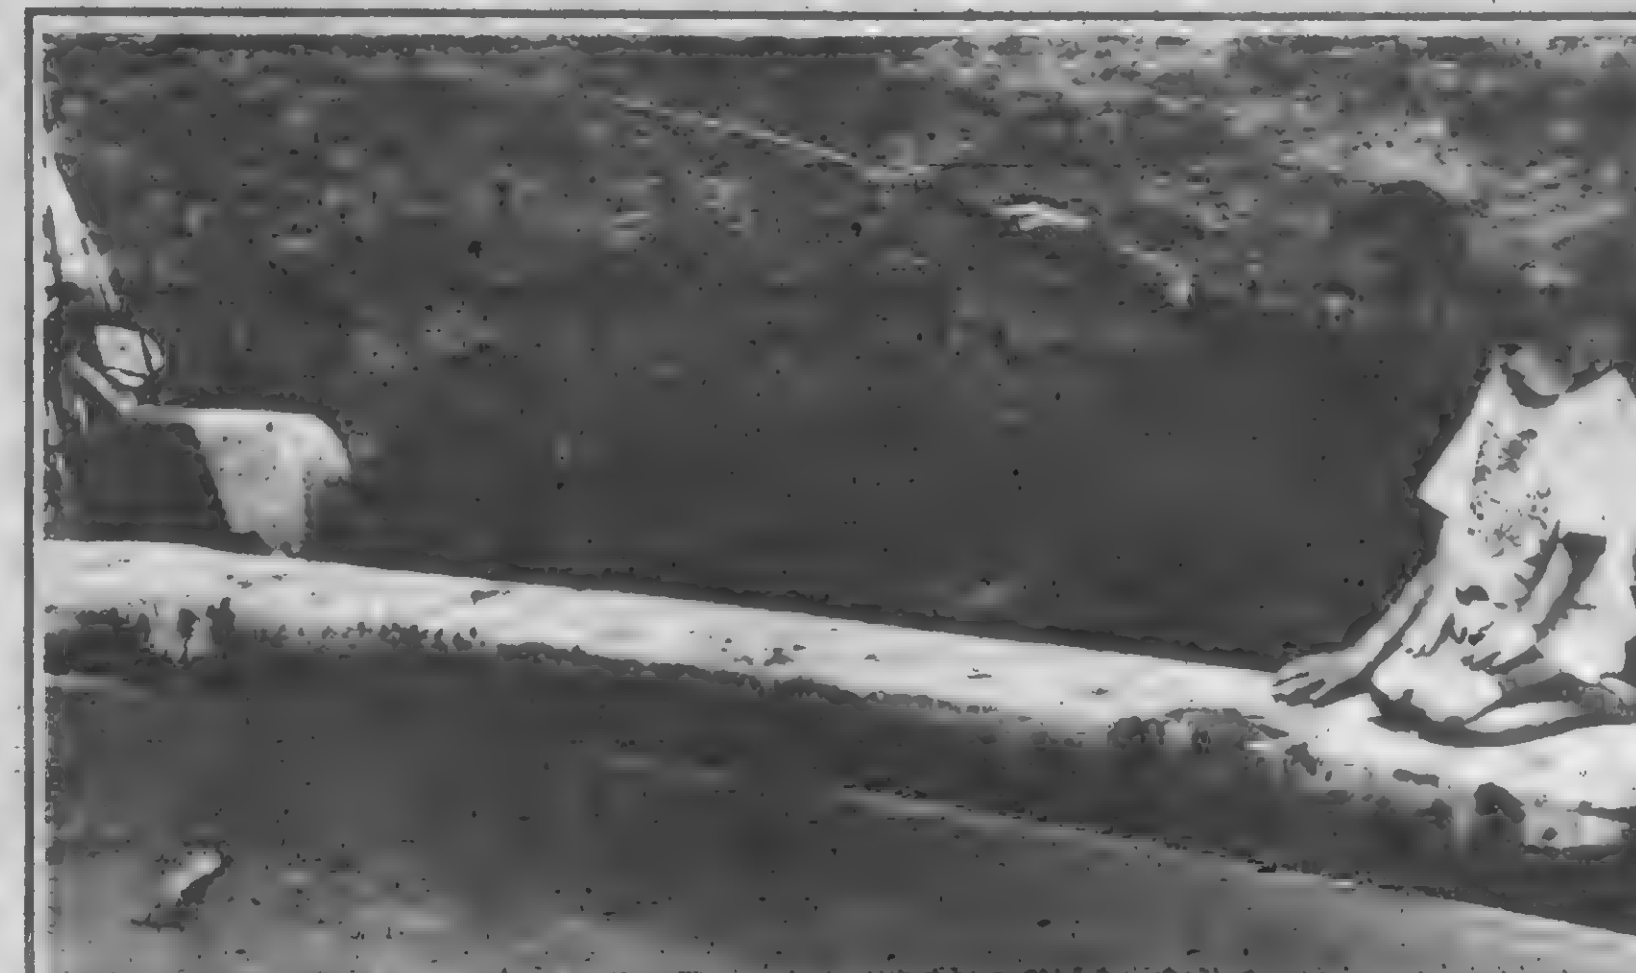

Hamilton received 808 votes in the school board race. Wieland, an incumbent who has served on the school board since 1974, claimed the other available seat with 697 votes. Dave Strawbridge finished third with 644 votes while Steve Kehrer placed fourth with 596 votes and Norm Probert came in fifth with 375 votes. The two seats are currently held by Wieland and Scott Beatty, who did not seek reelection.

Following the election, Wieland said she was very happy that the 18 mill proposal passed. She said she went door to door prior to the election and found that many people were in favor of the proposal, but only after it was explained to them. Of her own reelection, she said, "I think we (the school board) have some problems that we need to try to solve. Hopefully, the board will get together and try to solve them."

Hamilton said, "I'm obviously delighted to have won a seat on the board and equally delighted that there's millage to go with it."

"I'm obviously delighted to have won a seat on the board and equally delighted that there's millage to go with it."

Newly elected school board member Sulane Hamilton, commenting on Monday's school election results.

The kids' fish pond was a hotbed of activity during the Charlevoix trout tournament. This boy caught a nice fish and quickly ran off to have it put in a plastic bag.

Fishermen fare well in tournament

The tenth annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament ran as smoothly as the waters on Lake Charlevoix rest on a calm, clear morning.

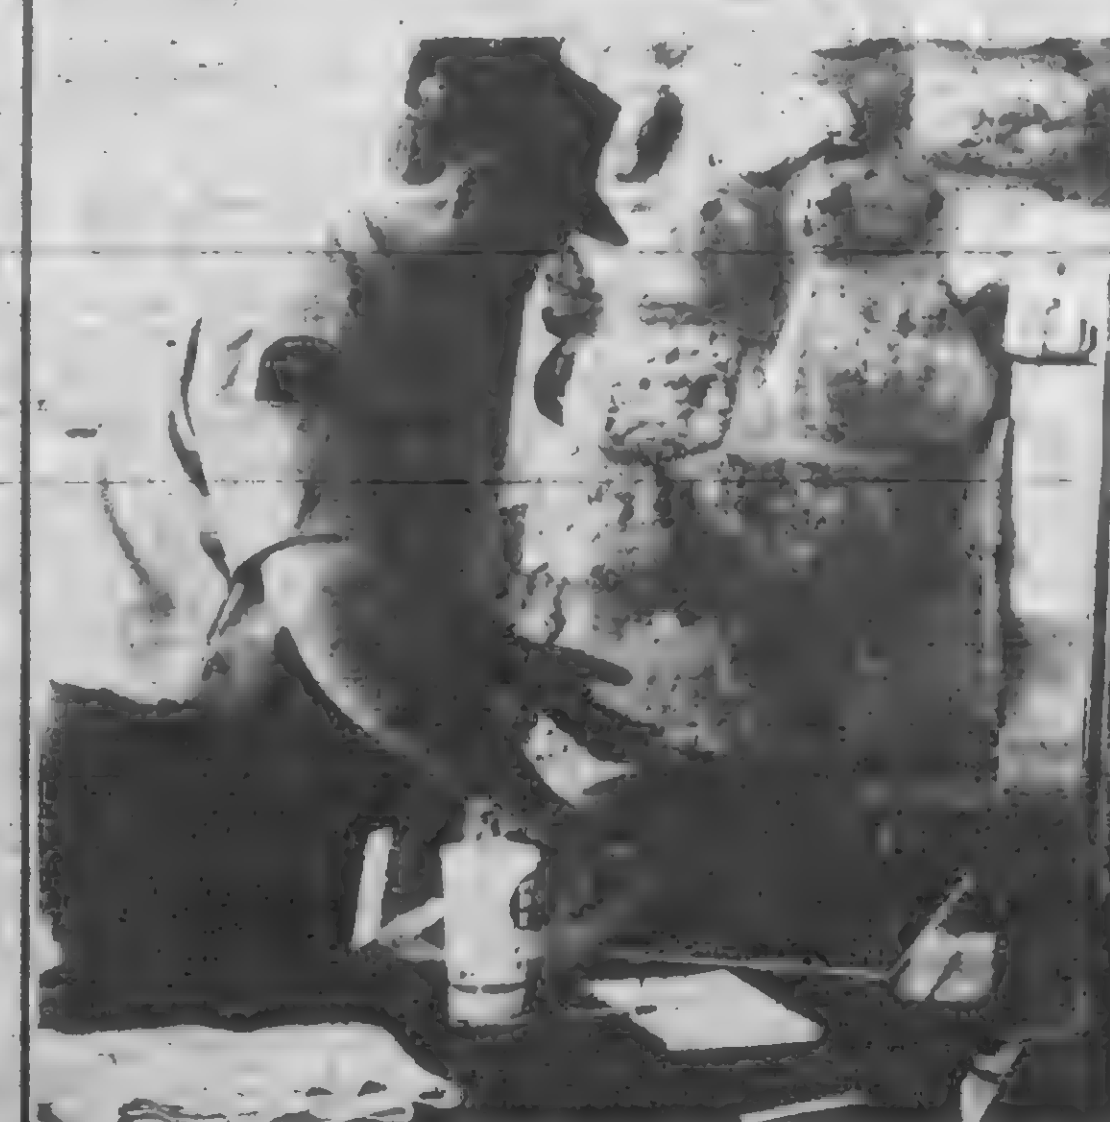

This year's tournament drew 751 fishermen, up from 693 the previous two years. Jean Weber of the Trout Tournament board attributed that to more of the fishermen getting their kids involved.

Taking the $1,000 top prize money in each of the four categories were: Mel Brimmer of Elk Rapids with a 15.02 pound brown trout; Jeff Ferris of Brutus with a 15.10 pound lake trout; Ron Grunch of Boyne City with a 12.74 pound steelhead; and Merle McVay of Ovid with a 13.68 pound Atlantic salmon.

Weber said the winning fish this year were bigger than usual and that the Atlantic salmon may have been the largest caught in tournament history.

In terms of numbers of fish,

Guilty plea entered in robbery of Walloon Lake bank

A man charged with the Aug. 23, 1993 armed robbery of the Old Kent Bank in Walloon Lake plead guilty to the crime Monday in Charlevoix County Circuit Court. John Vincent plead guilty to armed robbery and the use of a firearm while committing a felony. The firearm charge carries an automatic two-year sentence which is to be served in addition to, as opposed to concurrent with, any sentence imposed on the armed robbery charge.

According to Michigan sentencing guidelines, Vincent will receive a minimum sentence of three to eight years on the armed robbery and could receive up to a life sentence. Vincent will be sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas. Under terms of a plea agreement a recommendation will be made to the Michigan Department of Corrections that Vincent's time be served at the Michigan Training Unit which is a secure prison for youthful offenders.

Vincent was originally charged with the robbery and firearm charges and other lesser offenses. The charges on the lesser offenses will be dropped. Given the way Michigan's sentencing guidelines are structured, dropping the other charges will not have much of an effect on the amount of time served. Under Michigan sentencing laws, someone convicted of a crime serves time for the most serious of the convictions. Sentences for lesser offenses are served concurrently, i.e. at the same time.

Bodem schedules County office hours

Charlevoix Personified

Out of town visitors shopping at Oleson's grocery store know him as "the Mel Gibson look-alike." Locals know him as Danny McKenzie, the affable frozen foods and dairy manager. McKenzie's been a familiar face at Oleson's for more than two decades, working his way through just about every job in the store.

McKenzie started at Oleson's 23 years ago with a part-time job he considered just temporary employment. It grew to a full-time job, and he never left. "I just like Charlevoix so much I never really looked around for any different work," McKenzie said.

It helps that McKenzie loves his work, which puts him in contact with people all day long. "I like them all - the young, the old, little kids. I like to goof around with them," McKenzie said. "I could be more successful, with a high powered job, on the road all the time, but I'd miss the people," he added.

When McKenzie's not working, he's usually spending time with his wife, Laurie, and their two daughters, Ashley and Madison. He occasionally carves out a little free time for himself, to play basketball or golf. "It helps to let out my stress," McKenzie explained. If McKenzie ever feels stress, it's hard to tell by watching him at work. He always greets people in the store with a big smile, takes time to talk to them, and reassures little kids who accidentally knock things off the shelves.

Best Part of the Job: "Talking to the people, seeing new faces in town. Even seeing the same faces is great."

Worst Part of the Job: "When the freezers break down and you have to pull the product out."

One Thing you would change in your life: "I guess I'd want to do better, be more successful. But I'm happy now, and I don't know if I'd be happy if I was more successful."

State Police program is ill conceived

If you're traveling downstate during the next few weeks, beware. The State Police may pull you over even if you're not doing anything wrong.

According to a CNN report, Michigan State Police are participating in a test program where drivers are pulled over for vehicle safety inspections. Of course while police are conducting the safety inspections, if they happen to notice anything else that's wrong they can bust you for that too.

Supposedly the purpose of the test is to determine whether random safety inspections result in safer highways by removing unsafe vehicles from the road. What the program actually tests is whether Michigan citizens are willing to tolerate undue police intrusion and disruption of their daily lives.

These safety checks are much the same as the police sobriety check stops. Both are misguided and neither should be tolerated in a society which values individual liberty and personal freedoms.

If a person is driving an obviously unsafe car down the road or is swerving or exhibiting erratic driving behavior, they should be pulled over. But if a person is doing nothing other than going about their daily business and not harming anyone, they should be left alone. Aside from the moral issue involved, people shouldn't have to leave home 10 minutes early in case they happen to have the misfortune of getting caught up in a road block.

In addition to the issue of creating a nuisance for the public, there's also the question of the use of police time for the program. Any time you hear debate about the problems of crime in society, one of the issues raised is the need for more police officers. If indeed there is a problem with police manpower, one obvious step toward correcting it would be terminating silly test programs and allowing state police to serve and protect, rather than annoy, the public.

In a phone conversation with the Courier, an officer at the Petoskey State Police Post said that to the best of his knowledge the test program will not be taking place in Northern Michigan. Good. It would be even better if they weren't doing it anywhere in Michigan.

Letters to the editor

Senior party is appreciated

Editor,

We would like to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to those responsible for the wonderful "all night" senior party that was given for the Charlevoix graduating seniors the night of June 5, 1994. We were lucky enough to still be at home when our daughter came home from the party. She could not say enough wonderful things about the party and the night as a whole! It was wonderful of the parents who gave their time to plan and those who chaperoned and to our community that donated so very generously of money and gifts that were given, raffled and auctioned away. How wonderful to have such a positive outlet for all that energy and emotion the day of graduation, and all that leads up to it, can build in the seniors. We are certain that we speak for other parents as well, when we say please accept our humble, sweat and tears that went into planning this year's party and then seeing it through the night!! How wonderful for us parents to know that our sons and daughters were safe and enjoying their friends in such a healthy and positive way! Hopefully this tradition will be carried on and those who do not have this for their seniors will hear about it and begin one of their own. What better way to show the youth of a community how valued they are and how much they are cared about! Our seniors were certainly shown your caring and concern with a most perfect night to "cap off" a wonderful day that followed a beautiful graduation ceremony.

Again, thank you to the planners, chaperones and those who donated not only their most precious time but the gifts and money as well, to see that our daughter and her senior class had this wonderful, safe and positive experience to not end their times together but to reflect on the past and go into the future. "Thanks for the memories!"

Sincerely,
John and Karen Slattery

Marine Lance Cpl. David J. Agnew, son of Steve J. Agnew of Charlevoix, recently departed for a six-month Mediterranean deployment with the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit, Camp Lejeune, N.C., as part of the aircraft carrier USS George Washington Joint Task Group (JTG).

More than 12,000 Atlantic Fleet Marines and sailors comprise elements of this JTG which includes units of the aircraft carrier USS George Washington Battle Group and the four-ship USS Guam Amphibious Ready Group.

The JTG is made up of cruisers, destroyers, frigates, attack submarines, support ships, and more than 85 aircraft, along with an amphibious assault ship, a tank landing ship, a dock landing ship and an amphibious transport dock. Deploying with the Guam ARG are approximately 2,000 Marines from the special operations capable unit.

Modern Naval Expeditionary forces are unique national security assets. No other country has the flexibility or combat capability that the Navy Marine Corps team can provide our nation and its citizens, from the sea.

The 1991 graduate of Charlevoix High School joined the Marine Corps in May 1991.

Heather Livingston, daughter of former Charlevoix residents, Bruce and Mary Livingston, graduated from Western Michigan University April 23 with a degree in Elementary Education. She is presently residing in Venice, Florida and is employed as a pre-school teacher in Sarasota.

During the course of a career an officer encounters a lot of different crews, but it would be tough to match the one U.S. Coast Guard Commander Steve Corporan recently encountered. Kindergarten and Young 5 program students taught by Dianne Priess and Dorothy Miller recently toured the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia. Corporan's son, Weston, was among the kindergarten students.

Paintings and herbs to be displayed at Jordan River Arts center

Watercolor scenes from the islands of Lake Michigan and intimate nature studies of trillium in the snow will be accented by cascading baskets of hanging flowers and herbs. This feast for the eye will be on display June 19 through July 1 at the Jordan River Arts Council in East Jordan. The watercolors were created by local artist/teacher Pat Tinney. The artist came to Michigan from Vermont 12 years ago and presently teaches art at the high school in East Jordan. Tinney states that her works reflect the many hours that she spends on the open waters of Lake Michigan and in the woods and gardens that surround her studio and they are created to help the viewer get through the long winters in Michigan. Many paintings from private collections will be exhibited and many new creations will be for sale.

To accent these watercolors, Circle Herb Farm will place hanging baskets of flowers and herbs that will also be for sale. Single plants as well as flats will be available for sale. This show will open June 19 with a chance to meet the artist and the gardeners. The gala opening will be between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. at the Arts Council Building on Main Street in East Jordan.

Republicans meet to plan annual picnic

The Charlevoix County Republican Party will host its monthly meeting at the Dilworth Inn, Boyne City, Thursday June 16 at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Items for discussion will be the annual picnic to take place July 10 at Whiting Park and also the August State Convention in Grand Rapids.

Roger Fox was one part trapeze artist, one part gymnast, and one part painter last week when he dangled from a rope to paint the First Congregational Church's steeple.

The picnic, as always, will have plenty of candidates to meet, lots of great chicken to eat, and home cooked dishes to pass. Pop and refreshments will be furnished. The picnic will start at 1 p.m.

Howard H. Wilson

Howard Hensel Wilson, 94, of Charlevoix, died June 9, 1994 at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

A family service was held at the Lintz Funeral Home in Indian River, Mich. A memorial service for friends and family will be held later in the summer at the Wilson cottage on Burt Lake where Mr. Wilson had been a summer resident since 1920.

Mr. Wilson, known to all his friends as "Bill," was born May 22, 1900 in Fremont, Ohio, the son of William and Emma (Hensel) Wilson. Mr. Wilson's maternal great grandparents were among the early settlers of that county. He grew up in St. Louis, Mich., and graduated from St. Louis High School in 1918. He was the composer of the St. Louis High School fight song. In 1924, he graduated from Cornell University in Ithaca, NY with a degree in engineering. He lettered in track and field while at Cornell and was a member of Zeta Psi fraternity.

On April 18, 1931, he married Helen Marland Percival in London, Ontario. During World War II, Mr. Wilson worked as an associate engineer for the Way Department's Detroit Ordnance District and traveled throughout the state, assigned the duty of procuring ordnance material. In 1948, Mr. Wilson joined the Automotive Engineering Department of the Ford Motor Company.

After several company relocations, the family moved to Grosse lle, Mich. in 1953. Mr. Wilson retired from Ford Motor Co. in 1965 and eventually moved to Charlevoix in 1988.

During the early 1930s, Mr. Wilson was captain of the eight-man crew at the Detroit Boat Club which won several championship rowing races throughout the eastern U.S. and Canada. He was a charter inductee into the Michigan Oarsman's Hall of Fame.

After his retirement, Mr. Wilson served on the board of directors of the Michigan Lakes and Streams Association for more than twenty years. He was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Survivors include his wife, Helen, of Charlevoix; one son, Daniel of Traverse City; two daughters, Judith (Mrs. Patrick) Wilson and Mary (Mrs. Ronald) Pair, both of Charlevoix. Mr. Wilson's survivors also include six grandchildren, William, Christopher and Joshua Wilson, and Edith, Lillian and Walter Pair.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Little Traverse Conservancy or to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

Margaret G. Vance

Margaret Gertrude Vance, 77, of Grand Rapids, Michigan passed away Tuesday, June 7, 1994 at Blodgett Memorial Medical Center in East Grand Rapids. She is survived by her brother Lester Stoffel of Downers Grove, Ill.; daughter Susan Vance and husband Tim Griffin of Beverly Shores, IN; son Peter and Eljije Vance of Fenton, MI; son Douglas and Kathy Vance of Grand Rapids; daughter Emily and Charles Beynon of Houston TX; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mrs. Vance was born in Lakewood, OH and was a graduate of the College of Wooster. She lived many years in Oberlin, OH and spent her summers at Sequanota Club in Charlevoix. She was an avid reader, gardener and community volunteer. Most recently she taught English as a second language to many people who came to Grand Rapids from other countries.

Memorial services took place June 10 in Grand Rapids at the Trinity United Methodist Church with Dr. Gerald L. Toshalis officiating.

Business notes

LexaLite International Corporation's Charlevoix manufacturing facility recently received ISO 9002 registration from Entela Quality Systems Registration Division. The ISO 9002 program is designed to promote quality standards in manufacturing.

"Completing this comprehensive ISO registration process has reinforced and refined the integrity of LexaLite's quality systems previously in place," said Tony Lee, Director of Materials Management at LexaLite. "ISO 9002 has also enhanced our capabilities and our assurance of supplying quality products to our customers."

LexaLite is a major producer of injection molded optical components for the lighting industry and provides product design, tool construction, part molding, part coating and assembly operations at plants in Charlevoix and, Dickson, Tennessee.

John Campbell, President of Site Planning Development, Inc. of Charlevoix, was recently reappointed by Michigan Governor John Engler to the Board of Landscape Architects. The board is responsible for the registration of persons practicing landscape architecture and prescribes qualification and examination requirements for registrants. It also provides penalties for violation of state landscaping laws. Campbell's reappointment runs through June 30, 1998.

Site Planning Development, Inc. was featured in the March issue of the American Society of Landscape Architects publication under Michigan Chapter News. Among the Charlevoix projects discussed in the article was a long-term land plan for Medusa Cement Company's Charlevoix plant.

Community Foundation awards $11,240 in grants

Programs for young children, senior citizens, and just about everybody in-between recently got some financial help from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. Trustees of the Foundation approved grants totaling $11,240 to seven non-profit organizations serving Charlevoix County. The grants were funded with interest earned on the foundation's permanent endowment, now valued at nearly $1.3 million.

Mike Stowe, vice president of the Foundation and a member of the committee that reviews grant requests and selects projects to fund, says the group considered applications from 15 different organizations. "We tried to choose programs that target a variety of social needs and have the potential to help a great number of people throughout the county," he explains. "As our Foundation grows, we'll be able to expand our grantmaking and have an even greater impact on our communities."

Projects that were chosen to receive Community Foundation grants include:

The Castle Farm Project: $5,000 toward the purchase of the historical farm and restoration of its buildings. Once completed, Castle Farm will be used as an area-wide community center that will host family and children's activities, concerts, art fairs and festivals, sporting events, and a variety of enrichment programs.

Char-Em Housing Coalition: $500 to sponsor the cost of repairing and painting a home in Charlevoix County during the Second Annual Paint Blitz.

District Health Department #3—Charlevoix County Multi-Agency Task Force: $1,000 for publication and distribution of a special senior citizen resource directory for the providers of care and serviced for the elderly.

Charlevoix County MSU Extension Office: $740 to help the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance provide timely information to community leaders and businesses throughout Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet counties. The grant will be used to purchase special computer software that will supply data to assist those who make decisions about community growth and economic development in our area.

Raven Hill Discovery Center: $2,000 to equip a news display on the Periodic Table of the Elements at the hands-on science museum. School classes and youth groups from throughout the region come to Raven Hill to learn about wildlife, explore the environment, and get turned on to the wonders of science.

Volunteers in Probation: $1,000 to the Victim Restitution Program to help develop a revolving fund that will reimburse victims of crime.

This is the fourth group of grants made since the Charlevoix County Community Foundation began nearly two years ago. Earlier this year the Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee made its first grants, totaling $7,000, to several area programs aimed at improving and enriching life for young people. Altogether, with grants and scholarships, the Foundation has channeled over $50,000 into the community.

The first Alay-Lesser Memorial Golf Tournament drew more than 60 golfers and raised at least $2,000 for the Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation. Lesser, who died last year, was an avid golfer and had served as a member of the Enrichment Foundation board. The four-man, best-ball tournament took place Friday at the Belvedere Club Golf Course. A team comprised of Sam Supernaw, Bill Supernaw, John Yaroch and Walt Franzek won the tournament.

Vicki Voisin, enrichment Foundation President, said the tournament came off without a hitch and she hopes to do it again next year. Money raised by the tournament will be distributed by the foundation board to Charlevoix students to help them receive some things that aren't able to be funded through the school's regular budget. Voisin said the response from local merchants and business people in contributing to the tournament's success was "overwhelming." She also gave credit to tournament chairman Mike Corcoran who organized the event.

Golf lessons begin June 20

The following 1994 hunting regulations were approved by Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harmes at the regular June 8 monthly meeting of the Natural Resources Commission at the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center in Rosecommon:

1994 Elk Hunting Regulations: The 1994 elk census indicated a winter population of 1,260, compared to 1,350 for the winter of 1993. In order to continue moving toward better balancing of the elk herd with available habitat, the Director authorized two hunt periods, one in September and one in December. Elk license quotas will be determined by the director later this summer.

Bear Hunting Regulations: The Director eliminated special rules which formerly had restricted the type of hunting arms which could be carried in an area frequented by bear during the bear hunting season. The Director eliminated special dog registration requirements for Michigan's resident bear hunters.

1994 Deer Management Regulations: Upper Peninsula hunting groups had requested that the use of second buck licenses be prohibited during archery and firearm seasons. After considering recommendations from staff and receiving further public input from various hunters, the Director decided to allow licenses statewide. Director Harnes stated that he believes the current use of second buck licenses results in increased hours of recreational hunting, without having an adverse impact on the Upper Peninsula deer population.

The Director established bucks-only deer hunting regulations for both archers and firearm hunters in several deer management units where the deer herd has failed to increase as intended, despite being closed for several years to the taking of antlerless deer during firearm season. This new regulation will help determine whether protecting antlerless deer during archery season will help the deer herd recover in a few deer management units where previous restrictions have not been sufficient.

Offices in the Charlevoix County Building will be closed from noon to 1 p.m. June 21 to allow county employees to attend a seminar. The seminar will be presented by Citizens Against Crime, a group based in Grand Rapids. The seminar is entitled "Living Safely In A Dangerous World." The seminar covers various subjects related to crime, including ways to avoid crime situations and ways to provide a safe work environment.

There may be a limited amount of openings for public participation in the seminar. For more information, phone 547-7203.

In addition, the Director approved boundary changes for several deer management units to meet future population objectives.

Furbearing Hunting and Trapping Regulations: The Director approved regulations establishing a bag limit of two bobcats in the Upper Peninsula only, updating tagging and registration requirements for fur takers, and starting the fox and coyote season October 15 in Zone 3. The Director also approved rules clarifying that residents may hunt coyotes with a small game or fur harvester's license and listing fur bearers that may not be shot.

1994 Pheasant Hunting Regulations: The Director approved rules establishing an experimental pheasant hunting season for December 1-11 in portions of the central Lower Peninsula. Data gathered from this season will be used to determine future pheasant hunting regulations.

Sharptail Grouse Hunting Season: Sharptail grouse numbers have steadily declined, due to natural changes in their habitat. In response to this decline, the Director approved rules reducing the season length, bag limit and area open to hunting.

Ruffed Grouse Hunting Season: Ruffed grouse numbers have steadily declined since the recent peak of 1989, due to the population's cyclic nature and the natural loss of habitat. In response to the current low grouse population, the Director approved rules reducing the daily bag limit to three birds in Zones 1 and 3 Grouse hunting regulations in Region II will remain unchanged for one year to avoid disrupting the grouse research project underway. Changes in season dates and big limits may be considered for 1995 based on the results of the research project.

Beaver, Otter and Fisher Trapping Regulations: In response to high beaver populations, the Director approved extending the beaver and otter trapping season to the first Sunday following April 11 in some portions of the Lower Peninsula.

Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"), by and through their counsel, Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C., who hereby move that this Honorable Court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In support of this motion, Firstar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, which owns and operates WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM in Charlevoix by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.6 million was entered by this Court on August 20, 1993, and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver, and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix.

2. At the time, the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, Walker & Walker, Inc., and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under their obligations under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991 line of credit agreement and note payable to Firstar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments thereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operations and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast license.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast license, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers as Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase Agreement with The McDonald Broadcasting Company on April 15, 1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

7. The Receiver, Jay Meyers, believes that the proposed sale, pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, is in the best interests of the Defendants and their respective creditors.

cumbrances. To the extent that such liens and encumbrances exist, same shall attach to the proceeds of the sale in their order, rank and priority. Closing of the sale will not take place until FCC approval of the transfer of the broadcast licenses. claims have been received as set forth below and this Court has made a final determination after hearing as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim.

9. A copy of this Petition and Order Re: Notice of Hearing On Petition To Approve Sale will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and will be sent by certified mail to all creditors of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. Charlevoix, to which the Receiver has received written knowledge of existence. Objections to the sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the Court or the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J. Corcoran, Attorney for Plaintiff and Receiver, at 201 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, by 5:00 p.m., July 8, 1994. If no objection is timely filed and served, the Court may enter the Order approving the proposed sale without a hearing.

10. Any creditor may file an appearance with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix and a Proof Of Claim or make a claim by contacting the Receiver, in writing, at 3349 Monroe Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618. A final determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further order of this Court before the closing of the sale is permitted to proceed.

Easy there. You're just trying to pull the fish out of the water, not decapitate it. The excitement of the moment had some of the youngsters doing some pretty zealous fishing in the kids' fish pond this past weekend.

This 13.68 pound Atlantic salmon caught by Merl McVay is one of the largest salmon ever entered in the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament.

Donna Wessander of the DNR Fisheries station weighed and checked fish caught during the trout tournament. Data gathered at the tournament helps the DNR plan for future fish management needs.

Handgun safety class offered by sportsmen and police

The Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department are cosponsoring a handgun safety class Saturday, July 9. The class is designed for women and will include both classroom and firing range instruction. The Charlevoix Prosecuting Attorney's office will discuss the rights and responsibilities of handgun ownership and self-defense issues. There is no charge for the class. Participants who successfully complete the class will receive a certificate.

Deputy Jim Owens of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department will be the instructor for the class. Owens is certified as an instructor by the National Rifle Association and the Law Enforcement Training Council. The class is open to any area women 18 years or older, but registration is limited to 20 people. If demand warrants it, another class may be offered for both men and women. Participants should bring their handgun to the range locked in the trunk of their car or if there is no trunk the glove box. They should also bring the handgun's registration permit, 50 rounds of factory ammunition, ear and eye protection. All handguns will be inspected prior to firing on the range.

In offering the class, the Rod and Gun Club and Sheriff's Department are not taking a position on handgun ownership. That's an individual's decision. But if people do choose to own a handgun, the class offers an opportunity to learn how to handle and shoot a gun safely.

To register for the class call 547-9062.

Let there be light New street lights finally installed

By L. Scott Swanson

There's been an argument for nearly every watt, but Charlevoix finally has new ornamental downtown street lights. The new lights were installed during recent weeks and officially dedicated during a ceremony Tuesday evening.

The new street lights replace lights which were installed during the fall of 1975. The old lights were 400 watt high pressure sodium lights on tall silver colored posts. The new lights are a combination of 175 watt and 250 watt metal halide lights on ornate green posts.

Improving downtown street lighting was on the initial Downtown Development Authority (DDA) project list in 1982. Over the years, particularly in 1989 and 1990, arguments about the need for new street lights had the project on and off the DDA project list.

Proponents of the new lights argued that the old lights were ugly and out of character with Charlevoix's downtown business district. Opponents of the new lights argued that the old lights provided ample lighting and consequently the expense of new lights was unwarranted.

The ultimate cost of the new lights ended up being approximately $241,000. That figure includes the cost of the new lights, engineering, installation and the removal of the old lights. It does not include the cost of conduit which was installed when other sidewalk work was done. That conduit is also used for downtown Christmas lighting and will also be used for wiring when a downtown sound system is installed.

The decision to install the conduit followed a lengthy argument. At the time, the city had not committed to going forward with the new lights. Even so, it was contended that if the city ever did choose to install new lights, it would make the project much easier if the conduit was in place. Monday morning, as the light installation was being completed, city electric superintendent Ed Whitley said having the conduit installed simplified the project immensely.

A committee appointed by the city worked with LexaLite International to design the lights. LexaLite is a Charlevoix manufacturing firm which designs and produces lighting fixtures used around the world. LexaLite donated the design expertise to assure that lights in the company's hometown look good.

Ron Sitzema, Vice President of LexaLite's Lighting Services Group, said creating Charlevoix's new lights was quite a project. Devising lights which were both aesthetically pleasing and provided the proper light required the creation of a special reflector. The light posts and fixtures chosen for downtown Charlevoix are an old-time fixture which was popular in the first 30 years of the century. The problem was that using modern lights with the old fashioned fixture caused the lights to overheat. In order to correct that problem, the new reflector was created.

Sitzema said the new lights will be more energy efficient. The lighting level provided won't be as intense, but it will be more uniform with fewer bright spots and shadows and less glare. The white light from the metal halide will also make colors appear truer than they did under the yellowish-orange of the sodium lights. A car that's blue in the daytime in downtown Charlevoix will now also be blue at night instead of black.

"It should be very nice," Sitzema said.

Workers from Sky Electric install one of the new street lights in downtown Charlevoix. A dedication ceremony for the new lights took place Tuesday evening.

Take a hike - on a 3,200 mile nature trail

By L. Scott Swanson

During the week, Richard Seibert of Charlevoix works at Medusa Cement making cement used in highways, driveways and sidewalks. During the summer, when he's not working at the cement plant, Seibert makes time to work on the North Country Trail, a narrow hiking trail making its way through the woods of the eastern Charlevoix County.

Seibert got involved with the creation of the North Country Trail four years ago when he responded to a newspaper story seeking volunteers. "That was my first fatal mistake," Seibert now says.

When it is completed, the North Country Trail will be a 3,200 mile hiking trail extending from North Dakota through Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania into northern New York. Currently the trail is about half completed, but there are several miles of trail currently available for hiking in the northern lower Michigan.

As someone who works on the trail, Seibert said one of the things he really hopes to see is more people know about the trail and use it.

"It's all public property. You and I and anybody have the right to go on it and enjoy it," he says.

Construction of the North Country Trail is something authorized by an act of Congress and administered by the National Park Service. Seibert said that as far as he knows he's the only Charlevoix person working on the trail. He frequently works with Arden Johnson, a 71-year-old summer resident of East Jordan who coordinates Charlevoix

"It's all public property. You and I and anybody have the right to go on it and enjoy it,"

Richard Seibert, who is helping construct the North Country Trail

County trail efforts.

Where the trail runs through wooded areas, it is a clear corridor four feet wide by eight feet high. Seibert said the actual construction of the trail isn't as much of a challenge as all of the planning to come up with a proposed route. Choosing a route for the trail requires hours of checking maps, surveying, walking property and talking to Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and National Park Service personnel.

"It's a matter of trying to figure out how to get from place to place," Seibert explains. Occasionally private property owners will grant permission for the trail to cross their property, but that is rare. The vast majority of the trail is on public property and occasionally veers out to a roadway. Currently the trail comes through the Jordan River Valley. It goes south to the Manistee National Forest and goes north up to Thumb Lake and then nearly to Petoskey. Trail developers are hoping to hook into some bike paths near Petoskey and then get up to the state park north of Petoskey and ultimately hook into another trail in Wilderness State Park.

Seibert says there are two different kinds of people who hike on the trail - day hikers and through hikers. Day hikers go out and come back on the same day. Through hikers are people who are backpacking across country. One of the things which is important along the trail, particularly for the through hikers, is the availability of drinking water. Trails are marked with reassurance markers which are little blue diamonds painted on trees.

Seibert said trail developers also try to mark places where the trail crosses roads so that people will know the trail is there. Occasionally there will be problems with vandalism and people taking down trail markers. Seibert said the problem there is usually deer hunters who don't want people coming around their deer hunting spot even though it's on public property.

In building a trail, Seibert said the object is to establish a place where your feet can feel and your eyes can see that you're on a trail, yet leave the area natural and not cause erosion. As an example of the end result, Seibert talks about the old logging trails which you find all over the woods in northern Michigan. Even though they haven't been used in years, if you're paying attention and looking you can see right where they go through the woods.

Although Seibert said building the trail has its points of frustration, he concludes, "I guess I like doing it because I wouldn't be doing it otherwise."

He would like to see more people take advantage of the trail. He says it's kind of a strange thing that in big cities there are people who want to hike, but don't have the land available. Here, we've got the land, but not that many people hiking on it.

People who want to get on the trail can get on at Deadman's Hill, Landslide Lookout or Pinney Bridge in the Jordan River Valley. If you're not familiar with those locations, you can call Seibert or Johnson for directions. You can also write to the North Country Trail Association for maps. The address is P.O. Box 314, White Cloud Michigan, 49349. A group called the Grand Traverse Hiking Club was also recently formed in Traverse City.

Keeping Charlevoix's beaches safe in the summer

By Laurie Lounsbury

"It's the hardest summer job in Charlevoix, because people's lives depend on it," said Ike Boss, director of the city recreation department. Boss was referring to the job of lifeguarding at the city's three beaches. To the people visiting the beaches, lifeguarding looks like a day at the beach, or rather a whole lot of days at the beach. The sleek, well-tanned young adults sit by the water's edge in a beautiful setting. What could be better? But the job of lifeguard is not just bronzed-skin deep.

Charlevoix's lifeguards met last Wednesday to review their duties before taking up their beach positions. The talk ranged from proper first-aid procedures to doggie bags for poop scoopers.

Charlevoix lifeguards frequently find themselves babysitting, although that's not in their job description. Parents are required to accompany any children under the age of 12 to the beach. In spite of that rule, kids as young as five find their way to the beach without an adult. Lifeguards must find out who the child's parents are and call them to get their child. The only other alternative is to call the police. "As soon as kids are old enough to ride a bike, they head for the beach by themselves," said Brian Alofs, head lifeguard.

Boss cautioned new lifeguards Scott Cooper and Amy Drenth, "Don't be nice your first week." The other lifeguards concurred, saying that it's much easier to start out tough and strict, then ease off as the summer progresses. With hundreds of people's safety at stake, the lifeguards need to strictly enforce the rules. The more experienced lifeguards know how difficult that can be. "Some kids think they don't have to listen to us," Alofs said, adding, "The parents, especially tourists, don't think they have to listen to us either."

Lifeguards have plenty to contend with at the city's three guarded beaches. They must make sure no one dives off the dock at Ferry Beach, the raft at Depot Beach, and the pier at Michigan Beach. Shallow water, rocks, and strict insurance policies make diving too risky. Guards keep an eye on kids using inflatable rafts. Strong offshore breezes often carry rafts and children out of the swim area. The guards also check visitors for glass bottles, which aren't permitted on the beaches. While alcohol is allowed on the beaches until sundown, the guards make sure anyone drinking is of legal age.

Dogs present another problem. Dogs are allowed on the grass in the parks if they're on leashes; but not allowed on the sandy portion of the beach. Dog owners are supposed to clean up after their dogs. Lifeguards have a supply of doggie bags to provide for clean-up.

Boaters, wave runners, and jet skis fall into the lifeguards' jurisdiction if they come too close to the swim area or don't obey the no wake laws surrounding the swim area. Each guard is equipped with a megaphone to warn off boaters and wave runners.

Lifeguards have their hands full enforcing all of the park rules, but they know their first responsibility is to guard the safety of the swimmers. The experienced guards reported that they usually make sev-

Charlevoix has spruced up for summer

by EDITH GILBERT

Only a few weeks ago, every able bodied man in Charlevoix seemed to be standing on a ladder with either a paint brush or a hammer in his hand. The town has been spruced up for another summer.

On Bridge Street the new graceful Victorian lamp posts blend in neatly with the new bridge railings. Plus, you'll find shopping on Bridge Street the best ever with a wide variety of tempting, trendy merchandise for the early Christmas shoppers.

Next to the movie theater, the renovated Harbor Vista restaurant has already established an enthusiastic following. Dave Juilleret, masterminds his famous specialty breakfasts and Steve Ager, owner of the Argonne, has joined forces with executive chef, Bob Foster. Together they offer pleasing lunches and dinners — if one can remember to eat while being entranced with the panoramic view of Round Lake!

On Belvedere Avenue, the Grey Gables Inn has been taken over by an attractive young couple, Darren and Kelly Romano, both graduates of the Culinary Institute of Arts. The dining room has been spruced up and the menu wisely features some old favorites as well as new temptations. For those who think it may be too pricey, try the Early Bird dinners.

Next door, Tim and Karen Watters, formerly of Saginaw, have opened the Belvedere Inn. This bed and breakfast Victorian Inn has been treated inside to a new coat of paint, new carpeting, and new plumbing fixtures. In contrast, a variety of antiques ranging from Art Deco chests to brass beds assist in turning back the clock. No phones or TVs in the rooms help to promote the quiet, get-away-from-it-all feeling. Parking is no problem either as there is a large lot adjacent to the Inn.

The Watters seem well suited for this new venture. Tim graduated from Delta college with a degree in electronic technology and has worked on many jobs including building robots. Karen has been general manager of a restaurant chain in Saginaw, and she also has had experience in handling special events such as weddings and mystery weekends for the popular Montague restaurant. In addition to her executive ability, according to husband Tim, her breakfast offerings are equally well executed — especially her fruit-filled or stuffed French Toast.

Daughter Stephanie will enter Charlevoix High School as a senior this fall, and son Jeff is currently stationed with the American Air Force in England.

All in all, the paint should be dry all over town by the Fourth of July weekend. Hot fudge will cool gradually on the marble tables at Muddick's. Ducks and seagulls will be nudged aside by boaters at the city docks. The new parking lots downtown will be filled with fancy cars bearing out of state license plates. It may be a long, hot summer — only the melodic sound of cash registers jingling will ease the strain of the annual and welcome summer tourist invasion.

Editorial

We're blessed with great beaches

For about a week, the most active place in town has been Ferry Beach. Is it possible the 80 and 90 degree temperatures had something to do with it? Yeah, probably.

Depot Beach and the various beaches along Lake Michigan also probably saw a fair share of people in recent days.

In Charlevoix, we take having our choice of readily accessible public beaches for granted. Ferry Beach is a nice family beach with plenty of room for swimming, life guards, pavilions for cookouts, playground equipment for children, volleyball and basketball courts for the ambitious and horseshoe pits for the would-be ambitious. Depot Beach is similar, but without as many amenities. The beaches on Lake Michigan, particularly at Fisherman's Island State Park and at North Point, offer more seclusion.

Although we have beaches everywhere you turn in Charlevoix, it's not that way in a lot of towns, especially in mid-Michigan. In Mount Pleasant, a trip to the beach isn't just a quick trip to the beach. It's an organized expedition. Oh sure, you can go play in one of the rivers, but if you want a lake, you've got to do some searching. Even then the lakes you find just don't compare to Lake Charlevoix. With only a few exceptions, the lakes in the interior part of the state pale in comparison to Lake Charlevoix. Compared to the lakes we have in this part of the state, those little lakes should all be named Lake Afterthought.

Even closer to home there's a shortage of lakes. In Mancelona, they have a little lake called Wetzel Lake. It's a nice enough lake for what it is, but nothing compared to the beaches we have on Lake Charlevoix.

East Jordan has two beautiful beaches close to the center of town — Tourist Park beach and Elm Point Beach. But Boyne City, despite having a beautiful public waterfront area, has only had a swimming beach in town for the past few years. Prior to that, Boyne City residents hauled on out to Whiting Park or Young State Park.

In Charlevoix, you're seldom more than three or four blocks away from a nice beach. Obviously, somewhere along the line people in the community had the foresight to preserve some stretches of beach for the public. And when the weather's as hot and humid as it has been recently, that has its advantages.

Letters to the editor

Scenic reserve area needs to be protected

Editor,

SCENIC RESERVE NO MORE - MAYBE

The City of Charlevoix will be holding a special meeting with the Zoning Board of Appeals on Wednesday June 29, 1994 at 7 p.m. in the Charlevoix City Hall.

This time a request by the developers' attorney dealing with encroachment in the Scenic Reserve area. They have asked the city for a ruling allowing them to have a deck and/or porch within the fifty foot setback zone.

My neighbors and I have had to send many letters to the City Council and staff since construction began in December 1993. We continued to cite what we feel are multiple violations of the zoning codes.

Many people have expressed their concerns about the character of Charlevoix. They see how it changes each season and begins to look more like Detroit. Maybe someday, we will have to tell our grandchildren about the once unique Charlevoix-the-Bautiful as we continue to grow like Southeastern Michigan.

Citizens of Charlevoix do you remember how you jammed City Hall in September 1989 when SCENIC RESERVE was brought up? Do you still care? Will the residents of the City sit back and allow another treasure of Charlevoix be done away with like an Earl Young home on Round Lake? Will this happen with SCENIC RESERVE?

Look forward to seeing you on June 29, 1994 at the ZBA meeting.

Regards,
Norm Probert

Volunteer efforts allow Club 77 to reopen

Editor,

Club 77 has opened again and just in time for the end of another school year. Since January, Club 77 has been closed to the public so that the building could be brought up to safety code. Changes included adding a handicap rest room, installing lighted emergency exit signs, adding an emergency exit door, modifying existing wiring, and painting. These projects were completed with time and material donated by dedicated volunteers. Without the help of this small group of people, Club 77 would not be open for the youth of Charlevoix. The grand opening took place Saturday, June 18 with a guest speaker, a martial arts demonstration and activities for the kids.

Thanks,
Kevin Janisse, Club 77 Vice President

eral trips into the water each summer to rescue a struggling swimmer. "Usually it's a child blowing away on a raft," reported Kathy Klimas, a four year veteran Charlevoix guard. Sometimes it's a case of a child not being able to get back onto the dock after jumping in the water. "A lot of times we rescue them for the comfort of the child. They get frightened, and we don't want them to be frightened of the water," Klimas said.

Boss is proud of the safety record of the Charlevoix lifeguards. "We haven't had a drowning on a guarded beach in 39 years," Boss said. Boss does have one regret about the lifeguarding staff in Charlevoix. "I just wish more Charlevoix kids would get lifeguard certified. It's a good job, and it pays pretty well," he said.

For those planning to visit the Charlevoix beaches this summer, here's a look at the guards you'll be seeing.

Brian Alofs, 23, is head lifeguard, with seven years experience. He's spent the last few years working at WKHQ in the off season. This year he plans to return to Western Michigan University after the summer.

Scott Cooper is an 18 year old from Ellsworth. This is his first year as a Charlevoix lifeguard. He received his Red Cross certification from Harbor Springs. He'll be attending Michigan State University in the fall.

Kathy Klimas, 24, is originally from Grand Rapids but has spent her summers in Charlevoix for years. She's a four year veteran lifeguard in Charlevoix. She was a competitive swimmer at Central Michigan University. She worked at Mettler's clothing store for three years.

Amy Drenth, 20, is from East Jordan. She will be the swimming instructor as well as lifeguard at Ferry Beach. This is her second year guarding at the Charlevoix beaches. She worked as a lifeguard at the East Jordan pool for three years and as a guard at Central Michigan University before coming to Charlevoix.

Amy Spang, 19, is a Charlevoix native. This is her first year as a Charlevoix guard. She received her Red Cross certification at Northern Michigan University, where she goes to college during the school year. She learned to swim at Ferry Beach as a child.

Rick Gotts, 21, is from East Jordan. He's new to the Charlevoix beaches. Gotts wants to be a fire fighter, and is working as a lifeguard because he thought it would be good experience for a future job of fire fighter.

Patty Beson, 18, comes from the downstate area, and is new to Charlevoix this summer.

City Band begins 1994 concerts in park

The Charlevoix City band will present the first of six summer band concerts Tuesday, June 28 at 8:15 p.m. in the Charlevoix East Park. The band will continue to give concerts in the band shell in the Odmark Pavilion on Tuesday evenings throughout the month of July and in the first week of August. The concerts, which are generally about 45 minutes in length, will feature a variety of music including marches, overtures, and selections from Broadway musicals.

The Charlevoix City band is a tradition which has existed in the community for more than 50 years. Its members are volunteer musicians of all ages and abilities who live in Charlevoix and surrounding communities. Rehearsals of the group begin in early June and continue until the end of the concert season. The band is always looking for new members and anyone who plays an instrument is invited to come and rehearse with the group. Concerts are informal, and people wishing to hear the band may bring lawn chairs to the park or sit on the lawn and listen. There is no admission charge for the concerts.

Local musician releases third tape

By L. Scott Swanson

Before you start making hits, sometimes you have to take a few hits. After seeing his musical efforts take some painful turns and twists, Charlevoix singer and songwriter Kuri Puffpaff will soon be releasing his third tape. The tape is called Heaven and Hell and will be available in area stores later this month.

Puffpaff's first tape "Don't Wait 'Til It's Too Late," sold well and was well received. His second tape, "It's Midnight," didn't do as well for a number of reasons.

Flush with enthusiasm from his first tape, Puffpaff set out to make a second tape that would do even better. Nice thought, but in making the second tape Puffpaff found himself pulled in too many directions. In writing and recording the music for the second tape, he found himself not thinking about whether he was making his best music; but would the world's intangible "they," whoever "they" are, like it? For the most part, "they" didn't. "It's Midnight" ended up being something of an amplified rock and roll disappointment.

On the heels of that, Puffpaff fell into a bad recording deal in which he ended up taking a financial loss. By the time insult had finished being added to injury, he was so disillusioned that he put his guitar in the case and quit playing for several months.

But then some friends put together a band and asked him to play with them. Out came the guitar. Playing with the band turned out to be just what Puffpaff needed. It didn't bring a lot of pressure. It was jamming with some friends, enjoying the audience and having fun.

As his music took a turn for the better, some other things also started to fall into place in Puffpaff's life. He had been living and working in Kansas City, but an opening on the sales staff at LexaLite International allowed him to move back to his native Charlevoix.

"Heaven and Hell" is also some-

It will never be the same

Side Two

Rising Star

Do you want to know me

thing of a return to earlier times for Puffpaff. Rather than evolving toward an amplified rock sound, Puffpaff decided to go back to an acoustic "unplugged" sound. Although Puffpaff also plays the bass, drum and piano, clearly the central sound on Heaven and Hell is the 12-string guitar.

Puffpaff recorded Heaven and Hell with the help of Bob Bollinger at Playtown Sound Productions in Petoskey, and by the time the long hours in the studio were finished, he had a recording he was happy with. As to whether or not other people would be happy with it, that was a secondary question and yet one that Puffpaff still wanted an answer to: He took a copy of the tape and handed it to someone who is a fan, but also happens to be someone who can be trusted to offer a candid opinion. Puffpaff handed a copy of the tape to his father, Fritz Puffpaff and then left the house for a couple of hours. A while later the phone rang with the verdict. Heaven and Hell had received the Fritz stamp of approval. Heaven and Hell will be available locally at Harmony House and 7-Eleven and also at music stores in Traverse City. Puffpaff will be playing at various events around Charlevoix during the summer. For those who have heard Puffpaff play, songs recorded on Heaven and Hell are: Heaven and Hell; Money; Can you Rock me; Jack of all Trades; It will never be the same; November Bells; Rising Star; Count on Me; Do you want to know me; She plays fair.

Crooked Tree to host famous pianist and conductor

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, June 22, 1994 - PAGE 9

Karl Haas, world famous pianist, conductor, lecturer, host of the daily radio broadcast, "Adventures in Good Music," begins the 1994-1995 Crooked Tree Arts Council Concert Series on Tuesday evening, Sept. 27 in McCune Arts Center. Never in the history of broadcasting has a daily hour of good music been so widely acclaimed nor has it continued for an uninterrupted run of thirty years. The program is not only heard in the Americas, including over WIAA-FM, Interlochen, Michigan, but it is broadcast over a great part of Europe and over 400 stations of the American Armed Forces Network.

In 1991, Haas received the National Endowment for the Humanities' prestigious Charles Frankel Award, which was presented to him at a ceremony conducted by President Bush at the White House honoring his work of "enriching our national life by sharing his understanding and appreciation of music, as well as humanism, with his fellow citizens."

The second program on the CTAC Concert Series takes place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20 bringing the international Leontovych Piano Quartet to the state of Michigan Arts Center. The Quartet is made up of members of the Leontovych String Quartet with Robert Guralnik, pianist. The Leontovych Quartet was founded in Kiev, Ukraine. It was one of the finest ensembles in the former Soviet Union, appearing in major international festivals and concert halls throughout the European continent. During the last few years, the Quartet has built a large following in the United States through its annual tours which drew rave reviews for its warm, rich sound and impeccable ensemble work. Mr. Guralnik, pianist with the Leontovych, has become a popular performer at McCune Arts Center in past years having presented his theatre portrayals of the famous composers, - Liszt, Brahms and Chopin.

Eisenhower Dance Ensemble from Oakland University was founded in the summer of 1991 by Laurie Eisenhower with former members of the Harbinger Dance Company rounding out the CTAC Concert Series on Sunday afternoon, March 12, 1995 on stage in Petoskey's Middle School Auditorium. A professional repertory dance company, Eisenhower Dance Ensemble features original works from a wide spectrum of artistic viewpoints - from comedy to social commentary to pure dance works. The dances are set to a variety of contemporary, classical and original music scores.

"This year, the concert series offers four types of price ranges. The student series at $15 is intended to reach school enrollees and includes the three concerts with unreserved seating. The basic series at $30 offers the same format for the general public. The patron series at $50 features the three concerts with seating in the reserved section and admittance to the afterglows with the artists. The family series at $60 admits parents and all children to the three concerts with seating in unreserved sections. Members of Crooked Tree Arts Council, who belong at individual supporting level or above will receive a free ticket to the concert series and need not mail or call in an application, as member tickets will be sent out automatically. No single tickets will be sold for the Karl Haas Concert.

To reserve CTAC Concert Series Tickets, call the Arts Council office at 616-347-4337.

New shop features products which are kind to the environment

By Laurie Lounsbury

Some of what Diane Liverance offers at her new business, Rose Cargo, is for sale. Some of what she offers is free. Liverance recently opened a retail store catering to environmentalists and recyclers. All of the products she offers are either made from organically grown materials or recycled materials. What she offers for free is education about environmental issues. "One of my primary goals is education," Liverance said. "People can leave here with some fun things and feel like they've made a start towards recycling. I hope people feel welcome and they can learn some things without feeling like a dummy," she added.

The products Liverance sells cover the spectrum of recycling and protecting the environment. She sells non-radioactive smoke detectors. It's a little known fact that many smoke detectors contain radioactive materials. She sells Deja shoes, made from recycled diapers, milk jugs, and used carpet pads.

Her clothing line, made from organically grown cotton, is proving to be quite popular. "I'm getting teased about the underwear," Liverance said. "I promise, the underwear isn't recycled, it's just made from organically grown cotton."

Liverance offers stationery and paper products made from hemp instead of trees. Her carry-all bags made from cannabis hemp are popular with the younger set.

Liverance practices what she preaches with her displays. She took an old piece of lattice work, found in her garage, and recycled it into a clothing display. She acquired old wire spools from Top Of Michigan for her table displays. Antique trunks were given a fresh coat of paint and are used for storage.

Liverance has always been sensitive to what is good for the environment and healthy for people. She worked with District Health Department #3, coordinating the breast and cervical cancer screening program. She is familiar with environmental sickness syndrome, brought on by overexposure to chemicals in the environment. "We don't always pay attention to what we're doing until it's too late," Liverance said.

Diane Liverance of Rose Cargo shows some of the environmentally friendly products available in the shop on Mason Street, just off of Bridge.

erance said. Liverance understands that most people don't have the time to research what's good and what's bad for us. She's planning to offer that information along with the products in her store.

Spending an hour in Rose Cargo can be an eye opening experience. Liverance moves quickly from one product to another, extolling the natural virtues and explaining the deleterious effects of a similar product made from artificial material. Liverance has copper oil burners for use during a power outage or just for decoration. The burners work with olive oil instead of kerosene based lamp oil. Her line of laundry detergents, Ecover, is biodegradable. All purpose household cleaners are made with distilled water and citrus fruit peels. Liverance claims they clean well and smell terrific.

Liverance even carries a jewelry line, Transistor Sister, made entirely of old computer and radio parts. "A lot of electronic parts are made of gold, silver, and platinum, so they make great jewelry," Liverance said.

Liverance plans to keep her business open seven days a week during the summer, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Her Sunday hours will be from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Liverance is already planning activities for the fall and winter. She hopes to do workshops with a focus on back to the simple basics. Crafting and quilting workshops will tie in with organic and non-allergenic quilting products she'll offer. She's already booking field trips for preschools and children's groups, so kids can get a hands-on education about recycling and the environment.

Rose Cargo is located on Mason Street, just off Bridge Street, in an attractively recycled retail space.

During the transition period, people could compare the look of the old and new street lights. Most of the old lights have now been taken down. They will be kept and used in other areas of town if they are needed.

Rain's down, but the lake's up

During the month of May precipitation on each Great Lakes basin was below average, with the exception of Lake Ontario which was above average. For the year to date, precipitation is about 7 percent below average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron and Erie was below average in May, while Lake Ontario was above average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918 to 1993) averages, the May monthly mean water level of Lake Superior was at its long-term average, Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario were 7, 10, 10 and 4 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents on Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair and Erie are cautioned to continue to be alert to possible adverse weather conditions, as these could compound an already high lake level situation. Further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers should conditions worsen.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of May were at elevation 579.79 feet (176.72 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 27 inches (72 cm.) above Chart Datum. The May monthly mean level of 579.72 feet (176.70 meters) was about 7 inches (17 cm.) above the long-term average for May. The lakes were about 23 inches (58 cm.) below the all-time high May monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that the June monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches (4 cm.) above what it was at Mid-May. The Lakes are expected to continue their seasonal rise into August. The water level in Mid-November 1994 is expected to be about 7 inches (17 cm.) above the long-term average for that month, or about 4 inches (10 cm.) below what it was at the same time in 1993.

Financial Women to hear about stalking

The Great Lakes Chapter of Financial Women International will present Diane Smith, Emmet County Prosecuting Attorney on June 23, 1994. Smith will speak on the subject of Stalking. The meeting will be held at 5:30 p.m. at the Perry Hotel in Petoskey. Anyone interested in attending should call either Joanna Rautio - OKB 348-0222 or Billie Jung - OKB 348-0281.

NOW COME Plaintiff, First Star Bank Milwaukee, f/k/a First Wisconsin

in National Bank of Milwaukee (hereinafter "Firststar") and Receiver,
Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"),
by and through their counsel,
Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C.,
who hereby move that this Honorable Court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker
Communications, Inc., Charlevoix,
which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit
A. In support of this motion, Firststar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed
Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker
Communications, Inc., Charlevoix,
which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM in Charlevoix by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.9 million was entered by this Court on August 20, 1993, and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver, and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J. Walker
Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

2. At the time, the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J. Walker
Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that
A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991
line of credit agreement and note payable to Firststar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments thereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operation and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast licenses.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession; control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of
A.J. Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast license, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions
as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker
Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers as Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him
by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase

Agreement with The McDonald
Broadcasting Company on April 15,
1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

7. The Receiver, Jay Meyers, believes that the proposed sale, pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A,
is in the best interests of the Defendants and their respective creditors.

8. The sale contemplated by the Asset Purchase Agreement shall be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances. To the extent that such liens and encumbrances exist, same shall attach to the proceeds of the sale in their order, rank and priority. Closing of the sale will not take place until FCC approval of the transfer of the broadcast license, claims have been received as set forth below and this Court has made a final determination after hearing as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim.

9. A copy of this Petition and Order Re: Notice of Hearing On Petition To Approve Sale will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and will be sent by certified mail to all creditors
of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, to which the Receiver has received written knowledge of existence. Objections to the sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the Court or the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J.
Corcoran, Attorney for Plaintiff and
Receiver, at 201 State Street,
Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, by 5:00 p.m., July 8, 1994. If no objection is timely filed and served, the Court may enter the Order approving the proposed sale without a hearing.

10. Any creditor may file an appearance with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix and a Proof Of Claim or make a claim by contacting the Receiver, in writing, at 3349 Monroe
Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618. A final determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further order of this Court before the closing of the sale is permitted to proceed.

School board hires new high school principal

Richard Bologna comes to Charlevoix from Brighton

By Laurie Lounsbury

A new principal and a new band director will join the Charlevoix School staff this fall. Monday evening, the Charlevoix Board of Education approved the hiring of Richard Bologna as the new high school principal and Raphael John Rittenhouse as the new band director.

Bologna began his educational career in the Peace Corps, where he taught in West Africa. He was a science teacher before holding two principal positions and a position as assistant superintendent in Howell. Bologna is currently the principal at Brighton High School.

Selection committee members Mary Lieberman, Mary Lee Campbell, and Connie Ford explained the selection process to the board, stressing the number of interviews conducted and the teamwork involved. "Everyone should feel good about the process. It was open, we worked as a team. It was never an individual or small group process," said Ford.

Bologna will start with a salary of approximately $69,000.

Raphael John Rittenhouse will replace retiring Terry Isenbarger as band director. Rittenhouse received a degree in music education from the University of Michigan in 1991. He's been teaching instrumental music at Hesperia, Michigan since his graduation. Middle school principal Dennis Van Guider said the band director search committee was "completely unanimous" in their selection of Rittenhouse. Campbell said after the meeting, "He's young and enthusiastic. He'll be great."

In other business, the school board approved funding for the Quality Learning Project, a motivational program in the outcomes driven decision making process. Dr. John Champlin will work with Charlevoix, Boyne Falls, and Gaylord school districts for two years. Charlevoix's cost will be $17,000 per year. Champlin will spend an additional six days working exclusively with Charlevoix at a cost of $1,500 a day. Jackson said the Charlevoix school district will apply for grants to help defray the cost of the program. The cost is currently included in the 1994-1995 budget.

East Jordan Rotary awards scholarships

Six college-bound 1994 graduates of East Jordan High School have been chosen to receive this year's East Jordan Rotary Club scholarships. Students who receive Rotary scholarships are selected on the basis of their academic performance, leadership, and extracurricular involvement. This year's scholarship recipients are:

Kari Snyder, awarded the William E. Malpass Memorial Scholarship for $2,000. Kari will be attending Hope College and majoring in mathematics.

Julie Mickey, awarded the Howard P. Porter Rotary Memorial Scholarship for $1,500. Julie will attend Hope College and major in psychology or music.

Richard Lundy received the East Jordan Rotary-Scholarship for $1,250. Richard will study music at Western Michigan University.

Amy Mickey was chosen to receive a $1,000 East Jordan Rotary Scholarship. Amy will study music and theater at Hope College.

Ryan Hoeksema was awarded a $750 East Jordan Rotary Scholarship to study geology at Lake Superior State University.

Shannon Skrocki received the $500 Bryce Vance Memorial Scholarship. Shannon plans to attend Boyd School and major in travel or business.

The East Jordan Rotary Club established a scholarship endowment as a special "field-of-interest" fund within the Charlevoix County Community Foundation last year. Each year, investment income from the endowment is set aside to fund scholarships for students from the East Jordan school district.

The deal is done Papers signed for Castle Farms purchase

By L. Scott Swanson

The deal has been closed and the Castle Farm Community Center is now a reality. Clean-up efforts have been taking place all week and a wide variety of activities begin tomorrow, June 30 with the opening of a coffee house and ice cream parlor.

Papers were signed to make the downpayment and take possession of the property Friday, June 24. People from the Friends of Charlevoix County 4-H worked through the weekend cleaning up the buildings and grounds to get things ready for activities.

Last week the Frey Foundation contributed $100,000 to help the Friends of 4-H reach their initial fundraising goal of $300,000 for a downpayment on the property. The Frey Foundation has also offered an additional $400,000 on a matching grant basis. To receive that money, $600,000 must be raised by Nov. 30, 1994 and an additional $300,000 by Nov. 30, 1995.

In addition to funding assistance, the Friends of 4-H are also looking for volunteers to help clean up and refurbish the grounds and old stone buildings. A press tour of the grounds this past weekend showed that some of the buildings are in good shape and virtually ready for occupancy while other areas are going to require substantial work.

Friends of 4-H President Chuck McDermott is anxious to get the facility up and running right away. A coffee house and ice cream parlor in a building off of the fountain courtyard will open Thursday, June 30. Within a matter of weeks, or possibly even days, a wing of buildings which will house a consignment shop for artists and a nursery school will be open.

A series of Wednesday kids' days will begin July 6 and continue every Wednesday through August. Each day will have a theme. The July 6 day will be America Day. Rick and Tracy Meisterheim will present songs of the history of the United States. Children will also learn sign language and lyrics to the songs.

A big grand opening weekend is scheduled July 15 through 17. Friday evening there will be a gymnastics show, chicken dinner, art displays, a flag raising and an orchestral concert. Saturday there will be a Top candidate turns down principal job

By L. Scott Swanson

The search for a new high school principal took a step backward when the candidate recommended by a screening committee and approved by the school board decided he doesn't want the job.

At the school board's June 20 meeting, the board hired Richard Bologna, who is currently the high school principal at Brighton High School, to become the Charlevoix High School principal. Bologna had accepted the job and he and family members were in Charlevoix this past weekend. However, Monday, June 27 he notified the Charlevoix school system that he would not be taking the Charlevoix job.

The screening committee for a new high school principal met Tuesday morning and will be inviting some of the other candidates back for interviews July 5 and 6. Dr. Roberta Jackson, Charlevoix School Superintendent, said that if a candidate cannot be selected from those interviews, the entire selection process will start over again.

The process which resulted in Bologna's selection included paper screening of approximately 30 applications, public interviews of eight finalists, second interviews, background checks and visits to the communities of two finalists, and a visit to Charlevoix by Bologna.

Jackson said that it was her understanding that Bologna ultimately decided to decline the Charlevoix offer for family related reasons.

Camp McSauba begins 1994 season

By Laurie Lounsbury

Mt. McSauba stands ever vigilant for the hundreds of children who will scramble up the face of the hill and play hide and seek in its deep, cool woods. For many children attending Camp McSauba, the experience is like coming home to an old friend who has shed the heavy cloak of winter snow and is now decked out in lush, green, summer finery.

The traditional day camp at Mt. McSauba is almost as old as the hill itself. The essence of the camp remains the same every year, offering children from ages five to 13 an opportunity to learn new skills, play games, and get close to nature in the beautiful wilderness setting.

Camp McSauba is once again under the direction of Meg Fowler, who is in her third year of running the camp. Counselors Dave Miller and Sean Ferguson also return. New to the staff this year is Amy Parrish, a Charlevoix native, and Caroline Buesching, an art teacher from East Jordan. Buesching plans to do more nature oriented, arts and crafts projects. "I like to teach different cultural things, like Chinese paper cutting and Native American Indian crafts. But not like school. We just want to have fun here," Buesching said.

Fun has always been the focus at Camp McSauba. Activities are deeply rooted in the concept of simple, outdoor fun. Campers learn to shoot BB guns and take archery. They go on counselor hunts, play Red Rover and softball, and make the hike up and over Mt. McSauba to Lake Michigan. Arts and crafts projects are made in the camp lodge.

Weekly camp sessions are available all summer, with campers arriving at nine in the morning and departing at 3:15. On Thursdays of each week the campers have an overnight, followed Friday morning with breakfast cooked over an open fire and an awards ceremony. Director Meg Fowler said the sessions are filling up fast, particularly the sessions held exclusively for the five through eight year olds. Scholarships to camp are available for Charlevoix children on the free or reduced lunch program. For more information, call 547-3267.

Joel Keehn wears a determined look as he prepares to dash over to the other side during a game of Red Rover.

Campers learn a sense of responsibility by helping with camp chores. These boys help roll away the archery targets.

Soccer's more fun the way it's played in Charlevoix

For years many have wondered why soccer fans, more than any other sports fans, tend to go off the deep end and riot and run amok. Those of us who have been watching World Cup soccer matches on TV now know the answer. Soccer, when played well, is a boring game to watch and people who go to the games need some way to vent pent-up energy.

Tell yourself as often as you like that millions upon millions of people around the globe can't be wrong, but it's still just impossible for many an American to persuade themselves that soccer is an exciting sport to watch. As televised athletic competition, soccer is like hockey in slow motion with a third of the scoring and no fights. Like golf and bowling, soccer's a great game to play, but why anyone would want to sit around and watch it on TV is impossible to say.

And although this may sound like a scathing indictment of the game of soccer, it's not. It's being written by someone who has played and enjoyed the game and continues to dabble in it a bit. Several years back there was a local men's summer soccer team. Mike Bonar was kind of the organizer of the deal. Dale Glass, Tim Hiller, Dave Knight, Scott Shepard, Rob Hilton and whoever else could be recruited played on the team. As far as proficiency at the game went, the team was pretty bad. Double digit losses were not unheard of and losses of less than three goals were considered something of a moral victory. Occasionally the team won a game, but the odds were generally against that occurring.

In World Cup games, players play their own positions and wait for the ball to be passed to them as it is methodically worked up and down the field. On the Charlevoix men's team, if you wanted the ball, you ran and got it. Passing the ball from one player to another was too tricky. In World Cup games, shots on goal occur so rarely that you could nod off to sleep in between them. On the Charlevoix men's team the goal was under fire so often that it really wasn't anything to get excited about.

But the bottom line is that soccer played at that level was not only challenging and physically demanding, it was a lot of fun.

The Charlevoix men's team is now defunct, but soccer is more popular than ever in Charlevoix. Hundreds of kids play out on Shanahan Field.

On a fall afternoon, the township recreation complex is often swarming with children and their parents.

One of the best things about soccer is that kids are able to start kicking the ball around pretty well even when they're as young as two years old. By the time they get to be seven or eight, they're thundering up and down the field like a herd of little buffalo on the prairie, stirring up dust and having a big time. Parents, serving as referees and coaches, run up and down the field after the players. Most of the parents in town still don't understand all that much about soccer, so they don't feel compelled to shout many instructions. Instead, they mainly serve as support personnel, helping lace shoes, hauling water and putting Band-Aids on ochieus.

Soccer, as it's been played up to this point by little kids and grown men in Charlevoix, is a great game. Hopefully, all of this exposure to World Cup play won't spoil it on a local level.

Helen Jean Emmons

Working late at night, feeling a little "stap-happy" and being pulled through a teller window, is something few of us at CB North will soon forget. Neither will Helen Emmons.

But she didn't get stuck then, nor is she stuck now in a job full of never-ending demands and tight hours. As Vice President of CB North, Helen Emmons, Charlevoix, has found a way to balance her career and her life.

"I'm not a workaholic," she says. "I'm a person who likes to work hard, but I also like to have a life outside of work."

CMU drama group begins summer series at McCune Center

A drama about murder and intrigue, modern versions of popular fairy tales and fables, and a wild and wacky comedy will be presented during the Central Michigan University Summer Theatre season in Petoskey.

"Murder by the Book" will be performed July 6, 9, 15 and 21. "Story Theatre" will be presented July 7, 13, 16 and 22. "The Real Inspector Hound" is set for July 8, 14, 20 and 23.

All shows begin at 8 p.m. in the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center. Tickets are $7 for the general public and $5 for students and senior citizens.

"Murder by the Book," written by Duncan Greenwood and Robert King, involves two people trying to kill each other.

"It's about a husband and wife not getting along very well," said Timothy Connors, director of the play and coordinator of the CMU summer theater program. "She decides to kill him, but he gets wind of her plot and attempts to turn the tables."

"Story Theatre," written by Paul Sills and directed by CMU faculty member Julie Pratt, is a compilation of 10 stories from the Grimm Brothers' Collection and Aesop's Fables. Characters include Henny Penny, the Bremen Town Musicians and the Golden Goose.

"Their stories are given a modern twist to update them," said Connors.

"The Real Inspector Hound," written by Tom Stoppard and directed by faculty member Steven Berglund, focuses on two theater critics who are watching a play.

"Eventually the critics step out of their seats and into the action itself, and the play incorporates actions from their lives," said Connors. "It's a satire on theater and criticism and on mystery-type plays. It's a wild and wacky comedy."

Twelve students are participating in CMU's eighth summer season.

Costume designer Doris Ramsey and scenic designer Bill Valle add their professional talents to the shows.

"The purpose of summer theater is to give a small group of students a very intensive experience in the theater production," said Connors.

"In addition to acting responsibilities, a student might work one night at the box office, the next night on stage or sound. It gives students a lot of experience in different areas," he said.

The CMU Summer Theatre Box Office opens July 4 in Petoskey. For ticket information or reservations, call 616-347-6647.

Stocking to sign books

Kathleen Stocking will autograph copies of her new book, "Lake Country: A Series of Journeys" from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, July 2, at Bridge Street Book Shop in downtown Charlevoix.

Stocking's first book, "Letters from the Leelanau," delighted readers with its endearing honest essays about the people and places on Michigan's beautiful Leelanau Peninsula. In this sequel, Stocking explores her home state - drawn particularly to the islands of the Great Lakes - in search of an island of "unchange" in a sea of change where life is simpler and people know and trust their neighbors. The result is 21 lucid essays about the lasting diversity of the daily rounds in these small towns and backroads of the country's rugged northern edge. Stocking's explorations uncover a world that for all its confusion and irony always holds some hope. "Lake Country" is an invitation to join Stocking in a search for identity to locate ourselves in the contemporary world.

Cabana 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Cabana, of Port Huron and formerly of Charlevoix, recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Their anniversary was April 25. On April 21 they were the guests of honor at a party hosted by their children. Approximately 250 guests attended. Entertainment was provided by a country band and several of the guests learned to line dance.

Following the party, Mr. and Mrs. Cabana flew to Robertsville, Alabama where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Krchak.

Approximately 100 Charlevoix area people participated in a march for Jesus. The local march was part of a worldwide demonstration of Christian unity. Approximately 80 million people across the world participated in the event.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

I decided to be comfortable and wear a T-shirt to the office. On a warm summer day, it's not a bad idea if your work place permits it. One thing is for sure, you cannot be a part of Charlevoix in the summer time and not know about T-shirts. They are a mainstay in a number of our souvenir shops and the uniform of probably ninety percent of our guests.

Have you ever looked at the different things that decorate T-shirts? My shirt of the day is emblazoned with a Northwest Airlines Boeing 747-400 and the motto, "First to Fly." Yes, I did work for an airline or two. But, no, Northwest was not one of them. I just thought it was a really neat looking shirt. My shirt, however, is kind of tame compared to some of the shirts out on the market.

Some sayings that are portrayed are just fine. Others, I will confess to raising a "preacherly" eyebrow over. For instance, I have a hard time with the thought of wearing coed naked anything. That's a challenge. I am intrigued by the shirts I saw emblazoned with "I'm in Love With a Married Man (Woman)" in big letters and "My Husband (Wife) in teeny weeny letters underneath. I got more than a smile out of one that had in lower case letters, "all men are created equal" and in upper case letters "ALL WOMEN ARE CREATED SUPERIOR!"

Maybe this is a stretch, but there are times I think folks choose their T-shirts without thinking about what the message on them says to others who read it. I wonder if the messages we wear don't say more about us than we want them to. Oh, I know about brand names and styles. You can't be raising a teenager and not hear that a whole bunch of times. But, I still find myself thinking, is that message we wear what we want to be identified with?

If a T-shirt is just comfortable packaging for a warm day, it makes it all the more important for us to be sure that what is inside that packaging is pleasing to the Lord. What are we doing each day that sends a more important message, a lasting, caring message to those who look at our lives?

There are times where I wonder if Sunday sermons don't send out the wrong message. If they give the impression that it takes some huge acts of sacrifice in order to make an impact on the world around us. There are times indeed where meaningful acts, above and beyond the call acts, are required. But the most important and longest remembered acts are the little unexpected ones that we can share.

Jesus said that whoever would offer even a cup of water in this name would not lose their reward. What kind of message is your life sending out? A little cup of kindness can go a long ways.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Local Christians join worldwide March for Jesus

Approximately 100 Christians representing seven area churches participated in a world wide demonstration of Christian Unity this past Saturday. Eighty million believers in thousands of cities across the globe marched through the streets declaring the Lordship of Jesus Christ. The march started in New Zealand at 2 p.m. and followed at 2 p.m. in each time zone creating an unbroken proclamation of the Lordship of Jesus Christ.

The march for Jesus in Charlevoix was led by several area pastors followed by the Christian flag and the United States flag. Christians following carried banners, posters, and pennants, expressing their allegiance to Jesus Christ.

The march started at Captain's Corner Shopping Center and proceeded to East Park in downtown Charlevoix for a concert of prayer and praise. Marchers were joined in the park by several others who joined in white prayer was offered for church leaders, local, state, and national governments. Prayers were also offered for school officials and all the children of the community.

The march for Jesus was a manifested expression of the Body of Christ coming together in commonality of purpose and that purpose was evident in the proclamation of the Lordship of Jesus Christ.

The march was sponsored by Intercessors for Charlevoix, a group of Christians from several area churches, that meet every Wednesday at 7 a.m. at city hall.

Names in business

A brief listing of some of the accomplishments and milestones in the careers of people in the Charlevoix business community.

Francis B. Flanders, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of CB North announced the promotion of Sandra Allard to Branch Officer, in addition to appointments of Marlene Drenth to Branch Officer for the Bridge Street Office and Kathy Meggison to Branch Officer for the East Jordan Office.

Allard began her banking career with Charlevoix County State Bank in September of 1977 as a part time teller. In 1986, she was promoted to Branch Manager of the M-66 Office, where she currently is assigned. Allard is a graduate of the Northern Michigan School of Banking and is presently attending North Central Michigan College, pursuing an associate's degree in business banking. Allard also serves on the St. Mary's Finance Council.

Prior to being named Branch Officer for the Bridge Street Office, Marlene Drenth held positions as Customer Service Representative, Assistant Cashier and Branch Manager of the Ellsworth Office. Drenth started as a teller in 1968 with Charlevoix County State Bank. She also is a graduate of Northern Michigan School of Banking and is active in the community, serving as Treasurer of the Village of Ellsworth and the Treasurer for I.M.P.A.C.T.

Sculptor to show works at local gallery

This summer the shows at Charlevoix's Koucky Gallery are virtually non-stop, beginning with the one-man show of new "futuristic works" by bronze and aluminum sculptor Scott Nelles opening this Saturday, July 2.

Punctuating the shows are new additions to the gallery's permanent displays featuring unusual one-of-a-kind works by several internationally famous artists, gallery co-owner Nancy Koucky announced.

"We've sought pieces that are vibrant, one-of-a-kind works by well known and rising artists," Nancy Koucky explained. "They are all provocative works."

Among the permanent displays are works by three well known sculptors, Jack Dowd, Leo Sewell, and Phillip Grace. The pieces by these three very different artists are in major collections and command serious attention in the art world.

"Our summer shows include full blown one-person shows like Scott Nelles, as well as less formal jewelry 'trunk' shows and studio demonstrations throughout the summer," Chuck Koucky explained.

Nelles, interviewed from his Elk Rapids studio reported last week that he was "completely focussed on finishing a robotic humanoid riding on a giant praying mantis, which I call 'Bronco Buster of the Future'."

The artist said that the bronco buster is part of an eclectic series of futuristic interpretations of familiar characters ranging from cowboys traditional hunter-gatherers and their predators and prey.

Nelles' work is distinguished by his use of the ancient method of sand casting solid sculptures.

(at Thurston Park)Tourists are heading north for weekend

Michigan's Fourth of July holiday weekend should be a "bang" for state tourism — at least 20 percent of Michigan residents plan a getaway and nearly half plan to extend their trip beyond the three-day weekend, AAA Michigan reports.

A mid-June survey of more than 500 residents by AAA Michigan supports earlier forecasts of a 5 percent or more increase in state tourism this summer over last year. The recent Memorial Day holiday weekend started the trend, with some regions reporting double-digit increases in visitors over 1993.

"With numerous travelers planning to extend their July Fourth holiday beyond the weekend, hotels, restaurants and tourism attractions should enjoy increased tourism counts," said AAA Michigan Director of Travel and Member Services Peter Erickson. "In fact, many lodging properties in popular lakeshore communities report being booked since January for the holiday."

"Sunny days and continuing record-high temperatures should spur even more travelers to take and campground areas."

Many indicators show the upcoming holiday will help the state to a $4 billion summer tourism season, including:

- Mackinac Bridge crossings and fare revenues for the first five months of 1994 are up more than 8 percent from 1993;

- AAA Michigan Triptik and routing requests for the first five months are up 2 percent over last year and theme park ticket sales for May are up 36 percent;

- Miles traveled on state roads during a summer holiday are expected to hit a record one billion this July Fourth weekend, according to Michigan Department of Transportation officials.

- Gas prices, while rising, are still nearly 2 cents lower per gallon than this time last summer. Statewide, a gallon of self-serve regular unleaded currently averages $1.109.

- Auto vacation costs have dropped for the first time in five years. An average family of four should expect to pay $215.30 per day, 30 cents less than last year, for lodging, meals and auto expenses.

The survey found that 63 percent of state travelers will visit a destination within Michigan this holiday, with the majority planning to stay in a hotel, motel or resort. Campgrounds are the second most popular lodging choice, followed by stays with relatives and rental cottages.

- Those surveyed most often cited "up north" — the northwest and northeast regions of the Lower Peninsula — as their July Fourth destination.

...the tourists are on their way, lots of them

"Adding to the festivities, Michigan communities will host more than 100 fireworks displays during the Independence Day weekend," Erickson added. "In addition to traditional parades and picnics, several festivals are also on tap during the weekend." They include Summerfest '94, July 1-4, Clare; National Cherry Festival, July 2-9, Traverse City; Michigan Taste-fest, July 1-4, Detroit and International Balloon Championship and Air Show, July 2-9, Battle Creek.

Nearly 90 percent of all trips this holiday will be by automobile, the survey also found.

The upcoming 78-hour Fourth of July holiday starts at 6 p.m. Friday (July 1) and ends at midnight Monday (July 4). During last year's Independence Day weekend, 14 persons were killed in 11 crashes.

Holiday travelers should avoid alcohol, buckle up and take 15 minute rest breaks after every three hours of driving. Michigan State Police Operation C.A.R.E. volunteers will again offer free refreshments to weary travelers throughout the weekend at Michigan rest areas.

Travelers expected to log a billion miles

For the first time in history, Michigan motorists are expected to log one billion miles on Michigan roads during a holiday weekend as fourth of July celebrants head to lakeshores, campgrounds and vacation destinations, AAA Michigan reports.

And, if motorists avoid alcohol before driving, buckle their safety belts and continue the safe driving displayed during the recent Memorial Day weekend, the state would be headed for one of the safest summer holiday weekends on record.

During the recent Memorial Day weekend, 10 persons died on Michigan roads — the lowest number in 10 years, while motorists logged an estimated record 995 million miles. Last year, Memorial Day weekend traffic accidents claimed 23 lives, nine involving alcohol.

AAA Michigan predicts heavy traffic volumes during the upcoming July Fourth Holiday weekend, as well as the following weekend with travelers extending their holiday into a week's vacation. The 78-hour holiday period begins at 6 p.m. Friday (July 1) and ends at midnight Monday (July 4).

Last Independence Day weekend, 14 persons were killed in 11 crashes, with seven of the 11 crashes occurring less than 25 miles from the driver's home. Six of the victims were killed in alcohol-related crashes and five were not wearing safety belts.

"In addition to safe driving techniques, motorists should check their vehicles before heading out, especially if hot temperatures continue," advises AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch.

Motorists should check:

- Tires, for wear and tear and proper inflation.
- Radiator, coolant level and strength.
- Oil level. Change at regular intervals.
- Hoses and belts. Replace if swollen, cracked or frayed.
- Air filter.
- Air conditioning.

"During summer travel, motorists should also carry drinking water for emergencies, keep an extra pair of sunglasses and use a windshield shade to keep the car from becoming too hot," Basch added. "Also, be sure headlights and wiper blades are in good condition. Travelers should take break for at least 15 minutes after every three hours of driving."

Michigan Department of Transportation will suspend most road work during the holiday weekend; however motorists should be aware of normal slowdowns at the intersection of I-75, US 23 and I-69 in Flint; I-75 and US 10 near Bay City; I-75 and US 27 near Grayling, and M 115, US 27 and US 10 near Clare.

Horton Bay has one of the strangest Fourth of July celebrations known to modern man. It takes place on the street in front of the general store, at the urban center of Horton Bay.

Good seats are hard to come by at the Horton Bay July Fourth Parade, but can be had for a price.

New rabbi joins B'Nai Israel congregation

Student Rabbi Theodore H. Riter conducted his first Shabbat (Sabbath) Service as the Rabbinic Intern for Congregation B'Nai Israel (also known as Temple B'Nai Israel) in Petoskey, Friday, June 24.

Riter, currently in his third year of Rabbinical studies at the Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion in Cincinnati, Ohio, brings to this pulpit a strong background in issues surrounding Israel. Originally from Texas, Riter has been very involved with Jewish youth groups and camping in the South and Southwestern United States. Before entering Rabbinical School, Riter worked in Washington, D.C. as a legislative assistant for the Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism. He also served as the assistant to the director of American for Peace Now, which works on establishing peace between Israel and her Arab citizens and neighbors.

"I am very excited about serving as the Rabbinic intern for Congregation B'Nai Israel this year," Riter stated. "I had a wonderful experience when I visited the community for a weekend in November."

Riter is a graduate of Tulane University in New Orleans with a degree in political economics. He and his wife, Corey Rubin, who is a glass sculptor, will reside in Petoskey until the middle of September, after which they will return to their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Congregation B'Nai Israel (Temple B'Nai Israel) is located at the corner of Michigan and Waukazoo. Sabbath services will be held each Friday evening throughout the summer. Greeting time is 7:45 p.m. and services start at 8 p.m. A social hour follows the services. The public is welcome and invited to all services. For more information about summer activities, please call 347-8740, 347-8033 or 547-2636.

Jon Stemkoski's "Celebrant Singers" will perform at the Charlevoix Assembly of God on M-66 with the performance beginning at 7 p.m., Wednesday, July 6. There is no admission fee, however there will be a free-will offering.

Lutheran Church plans several activities

Bethany Lutheran Church is taking on a neat and tidy look these days as the men of the congregation meet once a month for a work bee to groom the grounds. A lunch is provided by the ladies of the Fellowship board headed by Donnel Jones.

The Guild of Lutheran Women is again collecting used soap chips from the local motels of Charlevoix to be shipped to Lutheran World Relief in the fall. Last year nearly 300 pounds were collected and sent for this cause.

Again in July and August the Guild will be sponsoring their home-made pie sale at Glen's Market. The scheduled dates are July 9 and August 27.

Vacation Bible School will start Aug. 15 and run for one week. This year the theme will be "The Journey of Paul."

If you enjoy a small discussion group, there is one which meets on the first and third Tuesdays of each month at the home of Eric and Paula Dietel at 7 p.m. If you are interested, the number to call is 547-9588.

A new Inquirer's Class will begin Sunday, Sept. 11 at 7:15 p.m. at the church. This is a study of the principles of the Lutheran Church.

The farmboy from southern Michigan, only planned on staying in the "beautiful country" three years. Now thirteen years later, John Kurtz wouldn't think of leaving Charlevoix.

Just as his plans to make his stay here only a short time changed, his plans to become a veterinarian changed to a career in banking. It is his love for people that make his job, but John also shares his dislike for paperwork with friends and customers at CB North, where he is a Loan Officer.

But as John says, "It's the people that make my job. I guess we can put up with the paperwork if that's what it takes to do the job."

VERIFIED PETITION BY
PLAINTIFF FIRSTAR AND COURT
APPOINTED RECEIVER TO APPROVE SALE OF ASSETS

NOW COME Plaintiff, Firstar Bank Milwaukee, W/a First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee (hereinafter "Firstar") and Receiver, Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"), by and through their counsel, Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C., who hereby move that this Honorable Court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In support of this motion, Firstar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns and operates WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM in Charlevoix by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.9 million was entered by this Court on August 20, 1993, and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver; and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

2. At the time, the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, Walker & Walker, Inc., and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under their obligations under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991 line of credit agreement and note payable to Firstar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments thereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operations and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast license.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast license, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, including the transfer of

ates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In support of this motion, Firstar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

School budget projects $287,960 revenue shortfall

For the second year in a row, the Charlevoix school system will be spending more than a quarter million dollars more than it takes in. At their June 20 meeting, the Charlevoix School Board adopted a 1994-95 budget calling for expenditures of $9,109,580 and revenues of $8,821,620. The difference of $287,960 will be covered by dipping into the school's fund balance.

The school's fiscal year begins July 1 and ends June 30. According to projections, the school will end the 1993-94 fiscal year having spent $262,480 more than it took in. That deficit was also covered by dipping into the school's fund balance.

A fund balance is similar to a household savings account. It is money which has been set aside in previous years and is not necessarily self-perpetuating. The recently adopted budget predicts that by the end of the 1994-95 fiscal year the school district's fund balance will have shrunk to $81,819.

The adopted budget calls for school system expenditures to increase from $8,539,450 in the current fiscal year to $9,109,580 in the coming fiscal year. That would be an increase of approximately 6.7 percent.

Changes in the way Michigan schools are financed show up in the school's budget. For the 1993-94 fiscal year, Charlevoix school total revenues (excluding transfers and other transactions) were $8,143,770. Of that, $7,904,000 (97 percent) came from local funds, $83,130 (1 percent) from state funds and $156,640 (2 percent) from federal funds. For the 1994-95 fiscal year, the school will have total revenues (excluding transfers and transactions) of $8,772,180. Of that, $4,647,560 (53 percent) will come from local funds, $3,977,820 (45 percent) will come from state funds and $146,800 (2 percent) will come from federal funds.

That figure could be somewhat misleading in that prior to the March passage of Proposal A, the state ballot proposal for school finance reform, all property taxes were considered local revenue. Now, six mills (a mill being $1 for every $1,000 of assessed property value) is sent to the state and redistributed to schools as state revenue rather than local revenue.

Four East Jordan students were on the list. They are: Julie Brunett, Erik Drake, Barbara Lerel and Ted Sherman. Carl Knight of Boyne City was also listed. To be listed, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point grading scale.

uled for Aug. 24.

The Castle Farms Arts Festival will take place Aug. 13 and 14. The courtyard and coffee house are available for wedding receptions and one has already been scheduled for Aug. 27. Last week, the Friends of 4-H located a horse drawn carriage which will be available for weddings and receptions.

"It's here for the use of the community," McDermott said of the facility. The facility is expected to be very active during the summer months and continue to stay open during the winter. "Most of the summer activities generate the money to make the facility available in the winter," McDermott explained.

Currently, the facility's biggest needs are additional money and manpower. "We have basically exhausted our revenues and we need money," McDermott said. "The challenge grant is very ambitious, but I think the community can do it."

Library summer reading program for kids begins

The annual summer reading program at the Charlevoix Public Library begins at 1 p.m. Thursday, June 30.

This year the theme is going to be "Explore New Worlds with Books." The opening party will feature games and treats. A book log will be issued to keep track of the books read over the summer.

This is not a contest, but rather is meant to encourage reading during the summer vacation as reports show that if a kid keeps reading anything over the summer their reading skills do not regress as much as if they don't read.

The reading program is open to all elementary school age kids.

For pre-school children, the library has a story hour on Tuesday mornings at 10:30 for 3 to 5 year olds.

Senior citizen picnic will take place July 13

The Seventeenth Annual Charlevoix County Senior Citizens Picnic will take place Wednesday, July 13 at Whiting Park on Ferry Road outside of Boyne City. The picnic will begin at 11 a.m. The picnic is being hosted by the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. Tickets are $3 per person and are available at the door or at senior centers in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan. For additional information, phone 582-7301.

DDA considers amending property sale agreement

By L. Scott Swanson

A January purchase agreement between the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and Charlevoix Cinema Inc. called for a new theater to be built by early February of 1995 at the former Kusina Motors site on Antrim Street. Don't hold your breath waiting for that to happen.

The purchase agreement, signed Jan. 7, called for the sale of the property by the DDA to Charlevoix Cinema Inc. The sale was to be closed within 30 days with a new theater to be built on the property within one year of the closing date. But the closing still hasn't taken place. Consequently, the clock on the one year time period for construction, has yet to begin ticking.

Now, Charlevoix Cinema Inc. represented by Bill Supernaw, wants to assign its purchase rights to a third party so that the third party can build a new theater on the site. At the DDA's June 29 meeting, DDA board members considered that proposal, but took no action. The DDA will take up the matter again at a special meeting July 6.

Meanwhile, at the June 29 meeting, an attorney for Dr. and Mrs. Charles Koucky, the owners of an adjoining property, asked the DDA to declare the purchase agreement with Charlevoix Cinema in default and again put the property up for sale and solicit bids. On the first round Koucky offered to buy the property for $101,000 and convert it to retail space. Charlevoix Cinema offered $62,500 and proposed to build a new theater. DDA board members said they would rather see a theater built on the property and accepted the lower bid.

At the June 29 meeting, Harry Golski, an attorney representing the Kouckys said his clients feel they've been treated badly in this situation and that by extending the construction time period for Charlevoix Cinema, the DDA is just adding insult to injury. Golski said his clients would like the purchase agreement declared void and the property re-let for bids.

DDA members made no comment on that suggestion and instead continued consideration of allowing the assignment of rights and extension of the construction timeline.

Only five of eight DDA board members were present at the meeting. Those attending were: Hugh Mason, Mary Fendt, Bill Haggard, Dan Barron and Supernaw. Supernaw and Barron abstained from discussion as board members due to potential conflicts of interest. Supernaw represents Charlevoix Cinema Inc. and Barron and Golski are law partners.

In discussing the proposal, the DDA members had before them in writing a proposed addendum to the purchase agreement. The addendum contained five provisions: 1. The purchaser would deposit an additional $2,000 (on top of $500 previously deposited) as earnest money; 2. Closing of the sale would take place within 30 days of the signing of the addendum; 3. An arrangement would be made so that if the seller couldn't build a theater within the prescribed time and the property reverted back to the city, that would be done with a quit claim deed and the city would keep a portion of the purchase price; 4. Charlevoix Cinema would assign their rights as purchaser to Trillium Development Group Inc.; 5. the purchase agreement was defined as the original agreement and addendum.

Three sticking points arose in the discussion of the written proposal.

Gordon Boydston, an attorney representing Charlevoix Cinema Inc., pointed out that the draft they approved didn't include provision number four calling for rights to be assigned to Trillium Development Inc. The draft they approved would allow Charlevoix Cinema Inc. to assign purchase rights to whomever they see fit. (Although whoever received the rights would still be obligated to build a theater on the site.)

Barron pointed out that he was somewhat concerned about the reverter clause and the quit claim deed. He said taking the property back via a quit claim deed should be at the discretion of the city. That way, if for some reason the city didn't want the property back, they wouldn't be obligated to take it.

The issue which drew the most discussion was how much of the purchase price the city would keep if the theater isn't constructed in the given time frame and the reverter clause is invoked.

When asked by DDA members for his opinion, city attorney Jim Young said, "There should be a significant incentive. If I were sitting here, I would be looking at 20 to 30 percent (of the purchase price)."

Mason said, "I would agree. I think if they walk away, it should sting."

Other DDA members supported the 30 percent figure.

Twenty percent of the purchase price would be $12,500. Thirty percent would be $18,750.

DDA members also discussed requiring some type of performance bond which would provide money for the city to finish construction if for some reason it was initiated, but not completed.

Supernaw objected to that requirement saying the 30 percent withholding figure was one type of performance requirement and the performance bond would be another.

"How far are we going to go with this?" he asked. He later added, "An easy way is to have the DDA build the building and I'll buy it. You want what you want over there, but don't trust me to do it."

Earlier Young had said he wasn't sure what price figure to put in for the performance bond. Mason told him to put in a figure and the DDA board would "mull it over."

In other business, the DDA board reviewed proposed drawings for downtown kiosks. The kiosks have been designed so they can be picked up and moved with a forklift and also accommodate newspaper dispensers and telephones.

New bank receives approval from state

The paperwork for a new Charlevoix bank is falling into place and the new bank should be opening later this summer. Charlevoix State Bank has received preliminary approval of its charter from the State of Michigan's Financial Institutions Bureau and anticipates confirmation in the near future of insurance approval by the F.D.I.C. in Chicago.

Richard Hodgson and Lou Hollow of Hollow and Associates report that bank officers established a tight timetable for getting the bank up and running, but with the cooperation of several Charlevoix contractors who are working on the building, they are meeting that timetable. The bank, which will be called Charlevoix State Bank, will be located at 11 State Street.

Many of the bank's employees will be familiar faces, having worked in Charlevoix banks for many years. Phil A. Kluczyński will be the bank's Executive Vice President. Marilyn Joy and Tim LaBlanc are both Assistant Vice Presidents. LaBlanc brings his expertise in charge card development and will assist Charlevoix merchants and private individuals with expanded credit card services in tune with the local market. Laurie A. Hughes will be the bank's accounting and bookkeeping officer. Joyce Boss will be the bank's head teller and will be assisted by Cori Hart.

New parking lot looks nice, but theater has stalled

The new public parking lot between Mason Street and Antrim Street went into service this past week. It's a nice parking lot.

Its best feature is that it allowed the mailboxes in front of the Post Office to be moved. For the better part of two decades the mailboxes next to the curb in front of the Post Office created snarled traffic. For some reason, normal driving practices went out the window when dropping off mail at the Post Office. People coming off State Street onto Mason routinely adopted British rules of the road and veered over into the left lane. In fact, people became so used to driving in the left lane to drop off mail that they would become upset with people who were coming the other direction in the right-hand lane and holding them up. The new parking lot allowed the mailboxes to be moved to an island in the lot. There are two sets of boxes facing opposite directions. People can drive up to the boxes either from the Antrim Street or the Mason Street end of the lot without ever changing lanes.

Another nice feature of the lot is the lights. The lights are the black light poles initially installed just to the north of the bridge. The lights didn't work out there so they've been relocated to the parking lot where they look much better.

The parking lot is a project of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). While the parking lot has been completed expeditiously, the DDA is still struggling with the remainder of the property. The remainder of the property holds the old blue Kusina Motors Building. The property containing the building was not needed for parking so the DDA decided to sell it. Nothing wrong with that. They put the property up for bids and received two - one for $62,500, the other for $101,000. The $62,500 bid came from Charlevoix Cinema Inc. with a proposal to put a new theater on the site. The bid for $101,000 came from Dr. Charles Koucky with a proposal to develop side street retail space. The DDA board decided it would prefer a theater rather than retail space at the site and bypassed the high bid and accepted the low bid.

In making this decision, the DDA board extended its role beyond making public improvements, an area where its track record is pretty good, and appointed itself as a local economic and social orchestration committee. In addition to being bad public policy, there's kind of a humorous irony about the decision. The DDA board is made up of several local business people. A common complaint among business people is that government taxation, regulation and general interference hampers their business. Keep government meddling out of the private sector and let the free market work - is a standard cry from the business community. However, if you're a DDA board member, you would have to amend that cry to - Keep government meddling out of the private sector...unless you're part of the government body in question...in that case, a little meddling is OK.

The problems with that amended version of free market theory are becoming more and more apparent. Shortly after the DDA accepted the low bid in late December, a purchase agreement was signed calling for the property sale to be closed within 30 days and a new theater to be constructed within a year of the closing date. Problems arose and the sale was never closed. Now, Charlevoix Cinema Inc. wants the DDA to agree to an arrangement which would allow Charlevoix Cinema Inc. to assign its purchase rights to someone else, who would build a theater.

This proposal was discussed at the DDA's June 29 meeting (see related story on page 1) and will be discussed again at a special meeting July 6. At the June 29 meeting, it was obvious that both the DDA board and Charlevoix Cinema Inc.

These mailboxes in the new parking lot between Mason and Antrim Streets have corrected a Mason Street traffic problem which has existed for the better part of two decades.

representative Bill Supernaw are frustrated with the lack of progress in the past several months. Koucky, who made a major financial investment in developing a downtown retail complex, feels he's been mistreated by local government and is also frustrated and would like the bid process to begin anew. The people of Charlevoix, who likely will have an old blue building sitting vacant for another year, also share in the frustration.

All parties involved are now working to make the best of a bad situation. That's fine and it's all that can be done now. But hopefully in the future the DDA and other local government bodies will resist the temptation to tamper in the private sector and instead let the free market work.

John Dau recently shared some unusual Charlevoix reminiscences with me during our interview in his Bay View cottage.

The purpose of the interview was to learn more about the Dau's outstanding collection of original Audubon hand-colored engravings - twenty of which will be on exhibit at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center from July 8 through Aug. 2.

Happily, Dau, being the great story teller he is, digressed. Frequently!

He fondly recalls delivering furniture to almost every summer house in Charlevoix as a youth, including Loeb Farms. He worked for his father, who started the Petoskey House Furnishing Company in 1927. He was born, raised and educated in Petoskey, served in the Navy during WWII before he received an Engineering degree at the University of Michigan. He now resides in Pennsylvania where he has manufacturing and banking interests.

The Loeb's were friends and neighbors of Dau's grandfather, Fred Schmitt, in Chicago. At one time, in 1890, Mr. Loeb approached his grandfather and asked him to take stock in his company in lieu of a debt. Schmitt did not appreciate the power of the U.S. mail or the future success of Sears Roebuck Catalogue and unfortunately declined the offer.

Dau also recalls an interesting arrangement his father had with the renowned automobile magnate, R. E. Olds, who owned the large cottage on Olds' Point on Lake Charlevoix. (Both the Reo and the Oldsmobile were named after him). Mr. Olds had furnished his cottage through the Petoskey House Furnishing Company. Years later when he moved to his daughter's cottage #39 at the Belvedere Club, he sold the large property near Oyster Bay. What to do with the furniture? Mr. Olds asked Mr. Dau Sr. if he would take back the furniture. Dau was a bit put off by this unusual request. However, after some discussion, the two men came to a friendly agreement. Olds sold the furniture back to Dau for $1 a piece and off it went back to Petoskey!

Dau also likes to reminisce about his early days at the former boys' camp, Camp Charlevoix, as well as the time in 1982 when he was the first place winner of the Red Fox Regatta with his sloop the "Merengue".

There's no doubt that his roots go deep into the wooded setting of Northern Michigan. Why else would there have been such a strong appeal to purchase Audubon's engraving of the local Passenger Pigeon at a New York auction? This now extinct bird once

Thank you to a caring community

Editor,

Dear Charlevoix,

Thank you so much for all the love and support. It helps more than anything else to know that so many kind, generous people are thinking of us.

Thanks for the prayers, cards, calls, visits, meals, money and everything. Thanks not only to those of you who gave money to help with our bills, but also to the people who sent money with the instructions that it be used for family fun.

Thanks to everyone who helped or participated in the golf tournament and spaghetti dinner. (It was so hot to cook or eat spaghetti.)

Thanks to the special friends who planted flowers all around our house.

Thanks to all the folks that have taken our children into their homes to play.

Special thanks to Danya Drost and her family for all they've done and continue to do.

Special thanks to our families! (Sue - you do too much.)

I wish we could put down everyone's names, but we don't even know some of the names of people who have helped us.

Thanks for all you have done - you wonderful community. We appreciate so much living here and are so grateful for all everyone has done.

I wish we knew all that has been done for us, so that we could thank everyone personally, but since we don't, this is the best we could do. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts. We are overwhelmed and very touched by all the help and caring that we feel every day.

Love, Pam, Roger, Megan, Jake, Cody, Kali and Tyler (the Craft family).

P.S. - Thanks to the great people at Charlevoix Area Hospital in admitting, the labs and the nurses in E.R. for the prompt and wonderful care they have given me.

consisted of a billion bird flock in our area. It was this original acquisition of the engraving two years ago that started the entire Dau collection, which includes lifelike engravings of a duck, owl, heron, grouse, eagle and partridge, etc. Do treat yourself to this rare opportunity to enjoy the Audubon collection THE BIRDS OF AMERICA (1826-1838). Admission is free.

We're always astonished at the scope and depth of the Charlevoix network.

All of us who listened to the men's finals at Wimbledon on Sunday, had the surprise of our lives when we heard the NBC commentator, Dick Emberg, make the following announcement — after Sampras hit a put away shot that bounced into the stands — "That ball would reach all the way to Charlevoix, Michigan!"

Telephones have been ringing back and forth all over the United States, and people have been asking each other, "Did you hear the announcement?" and "How come Charlevoix, of all places, was mentioned during the tennis matches in England?"

According to Gunnar Lundteigen, this is the story. Charlevoixan Dean Davenport, former athletic director at Ferris University, went to school with Dick Emberg and was invited to attend the games at Wimbledon. Evidently Charlevoix was under discussion — this the unusual announcement.

When I told Jane Sooy the above story, she wasn't a bit surprised. She claims that in her world travels, she always finds someone who has visited or has heard of Charlevoix.

She must be right, because I spoke to Charles Eisendrath yesterday — (he has a summer place on the South Arm) — and he reported that when he was visiting in Capetown, South Africa this winter, he was asked if he knew that the Poverman house on Michigan Avenue had burned down. It's the truth, so help me!

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

BY REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Our Florida Grandma (my mother) has been visiting us for the last three weeks. The keyboard beckoned me on the last night of her visit. It is something how her presence has filled the house. She and my wife get along real well. It's kind of special and scary all at the same time to listen to them concocting things in the kitchen together. Every once in a while, they let out with that laugh that only two women can and I know I have been talked about. But you can handle that because you know they both love you.

Watching Grandma with the kids is a fascinating pastime. My teenager shares her room with her. To my daughter's surprise, Grandma has shown an interest in her tastes in literature. In fact, she spent part of the visit reading her favorite novel. Seeing how Dad had not been allowed to read it, it was interesting to hear the two of them discuss plots, characters, and handsome heroes. In a lot of ways, Grandma is "cool."

Some of my son's loyal customers on his newspaper route know that Dad has been known to spend some father-son time with him. Those afternoon strolls are good catch-up times and they also will make my doctor smile when he knows that I am getting semi-regular exercise. But a few folks may have been a little surprised when a petite, gray-headed gal brought them their paper last week. Grandson decided it might be neat for Grandma to join him. He made sure that Grandma knew the traditional "end-of-route-soda" at City Hall was a required part of the trip.

It was neat to have her sitting in the congregation for worship. You could count on her for cues on how the sermon was going. In typical motherly fashion, she got a joke that took some others a few minutes to catch up with (or maybe that's another example of love).

When she boards the plane, the hardest thing is suddenly missing her presence. The drive back is always different. The house doesn't seem the same. Were it not for my wife and children, it would be a hard thing to adjust to. If these idle ramblings of a loving son make any sense to you, consider what is coming next.

Have you ever thought about the difference the presence of Christ makes in your life? Have you ever sensed Him going ahead of you and smoothing the way in certain situations you have faced? You may not have understood initially what He had done, but there is no mistaking the divine love that has paved the way.

Have you ever realized just how much you and the Lord do have in common? He really does take an active interest in the things that interest you. What should not, but always does, surprise so many is how much He can add to, and even expand on, the things that we care about.

Have you ever considered the quality time He is prepared to spend with you? A long time ago He said, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." If Jesus has ever been a part of your life, you would see a huge difference without Him.

Charlevoix Personified

With eyes as blue as a Charlevoix summer sky, and a dazzling smile to match, Teresa Noirot looks like a poster girl for Charlevoix the Beautiful. Noirot's enthusiasm for Charlevoix also makes her a good choice as one who personifies Charlevoix.

Noirot is a Charlevoix native who currently works as a math and science teacher in East Jordan Middle School. She also owns and operates SunBurst tanning salon on M-66. Before her current occupations, Noirot worked 12 summers at Camp McSaubia, putting in six years as a counselor and then six years as camp director. She hadn't planned on becoming director, but the city prevailed upon her to fill the slot when no one else would do it. "I had invested so much time in the program, I didn't want to see it fall by the wayside," Noirot said.

That is typical of Noirot. She is the loyal type who is always there to help. She's been selling tickets at the movie theater in town since she was 13 years old. "I just stuck with it. I'm still doing it three nights a week," Noirot said.

Opening a tanning salon was something Noirot had thought about for years. When space opened up in the commercial building on M-66 and Loeb Rd., owned by her father and Bo Boss, she decided to go for it. "I guess I like challenges. I accepted it as a new challenge."

Noirot poses a challenge to women softball players as often as she accepts challenges for herself. She is a formidable ball player, having played both fastpitch and slow pitch for a total of 17 years. She played ball at Alma College for four years, and was voted most valuable player her senior year. Atter playing fast pitch in the Petoskey women's league for 12 years, she came home to Charlevoix to play slow pitch. "I want to play for fun now," Noirot said.

Best Part of Life: "Teaching middle school. There are always new challenges. It's fun, and exciting now because of the changes happening in the schools. I see the quality of education increasing."

Worst Part: "Absolutely nothing comes to mind..."

One Thing to Change: "I would like more time to myself. I tend to focus on what other people need. Actually, now I am making more time for myself than I did two years ago. I'm spending more time on what I like to do, going boating or out on wave runners. I should have done that a lot sooner."

Sewing machine repairman meets customers halfway

By Laurie Lounsbury

Dick Southwell had one good reason to open a sewing center in Charlevoix, and to his way of thinking, it was reason enough. He wanted to be closer to his already faithful customers. Southwell and his wife Connie own the Petoskey Sewing Center in Petoskey, which draws customers from as far as Acme, Elk Rapids, and Central Lake. Southwell wanted his customers to be able to reach him more easily. He also wanted to be able to reach them. Southwell said his many customers in the Elk Rapids area, along with East Jordan and Bellaire, have pleaded with him to open a store in a closer location.

Southwell sells new sewing machines, but the bulk of his business and reputation is built on his service

ing and repairing machines. He may be the only sewing machine service person in northern Michigan that still makes house calls. "There are seniors and disabled people that can't get out. I like calling on them. That's how the business was when I got started. You got out and talked to the people, got to know them. I like that," Southwell said.

Southwell started in the business nearly 40 years ago as a sales representative for Singer sewing machines. He moved up to managing several Singer stores in northern Michigan. In 1970 Southwell was struck by a snowplow, which broke his back and put him out of work for three years. He started repairing sewing machines out of his home when he was finally able to start working again. Six years ago, the Southwells opened their Petoskey store. The couple divides the work load according to their special skills. Dick sticks with the repairs and maintenance, while his wife gives sewing lessons and demonstrations. During the many years Dick worked for Singer, Connie availed herself of the free sewing instruction provided for employees and their spouses. "She got so good, she could look at a dress in a store window and go home and make it," Southwell said of his wife.

Southwell opened his Charlevoix store in a tiny retail space on the corner of Antrim and State St. His plan is to start with something small and try it for a year before he rents larger space. "I'm here on a year's trial basis. If the people want me I'll stay. That's what I tell everyone," Southwell said.

The Castle Farms Community Center courtyard dining area opened last Thursday evening. The dining area offers coffee, ice cream and pizza. It is open every day in the summer from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

VERIFIED PETITION BY PLAINTIFF FIRSTAR AND COURT
APPOINTED RECEIVER TO APPROVE SALE OF ASSETS

NOW COME Plaintiff, Firstar Bank Milwaukee, f/a First Wisconsin
National Bank of Milwaukee
(hereinafter "Firstar") and Receiver,
Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"),
by and through their counsel,
Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C.,
who hereby move that this Honorable Court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan; to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In support of this motion, Firstar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed Receiver of the assets of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, which owns and operates WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM in Charlevoix by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.9 million was entered
by this Court on August 20, 1993,
and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver;
and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix.

2. At the time the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that A.J. Walker
Communications, Inc., Charlevoix,
Walker & Walker, Inc., and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under their obligations under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991
line of credit agreement and note payable to Firstar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments hereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operations and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast license.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of
A.J. Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast license, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions
as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale
and transfer the assets of A.J.
Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers as Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him
by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase
Agreement with The McDonald
Broadcasting Company on April 15,
1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

7. The Receiver, Jay Meyers, believes that the proposed sale, pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, is in the best interests of the Defendants and their respective creditors.

8. The sale contemplated by the Asset Purchase Agreement shall be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances. To the extent that such liens and encumbrances exist, same shall attach to the proceeds of the sale in their order, rank and priority. Closing of the sale will not take place until FCC approval of the transfer of the broadcast license, claims have been received as set forth below and this Court has made a final determination after hearing
as to any claim, rank and priority of
said claim.

9. A copy of this Petition and Order Re: Notice of Hearing On Petition To Approve Sale will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and will be sent by certified mail to all creditors
of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc.,
Charlevoix, to which the Receiver
has received written knowledge of existence. Objections to the sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the Court or the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J.
Corcoran, Attorney for Plaintiff and
Receiver, at 201 State Street,
Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, by 5:00 p.m., July 8, 1994. If no objection is timely filed and served, the Court may enter the Order approving the proposed sale without a hearing.

10. Any creditor may file an appearance with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix and a Proof Of Claim or make a claim by contacting the Receiver, in writing, at 3349 Monroe
Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618. A final determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further
order of this Court before the closing of the sale is permitted to proceed.

Engler chats with Charlevoix people

By L. Scott Swanson

Michigan Governor John Engler visited Charlevoix Friday (July 8) afternoon and chatted with people at Alexander's Restaurant.

Engler offered some brief introductory comments and then fielded questions from the audience of approximately 20 people.

In his introductory comments, Engler spoke of several accomplishments during his first term. He said Michigan's unemployment rate of 5.4 percent is now below the national average. He said not only is the auto industry doing well, but there is also strength in many other sectors of Michigan's economy.

Engler said the state has reduced the single business tax, unemployment taxes, inheritance taxes and property taxes.

Engler said he felt the state legislature just completed the best session in memory in dealing with criminal justice issues. He said Michigan has passed a truth in sentencing law which will assure that prisoners at the very least serve all of their minimum sentence.

Charter school effort continues

By Laurie Lounsbury

A small group of Charlevoix parents hopes to open one of Michigan's first charter schools by January of 1995. As part of Governor John Engler's education reform package, Public Act 896 allows the chartering of public school academies. The Charlevoix group wants to open a school that will supplement, rather than compete with, the public school system.

Jerry Chase led discussion at a recent meeting of parents interested in chartering a school in Charlevoix. The school would focus on science and technology at the middle and high school levels. Chase recently attended a national conference on charter schools. "Charter schools are not unique to Michigan," he said. There are many institutions and organizations eager to get involved with charter schools.

Chase, along with his wife Kay, Patty Sitzema, and Dr. and Mrs.

Jim Stewart, discussed their hopes for a Charlevoix charter school.

"We'd like to establish the technology center that was turned down at the last election," Chase said, referring to the failed millage proposal for enhancement money. He envisions a school in close physical proximity to the middle or high school where students could study science, math, and technology subjects that aren't currently available at the public schools. The charter school would receive state funding in the amount of $5,500 per student. The charter school could potentially send its students to the public school for subjects such as band, performing arts, or sports and pay the public schools on a per subject basis for students to attend those classes. In return, the public schools could send students to the charter school for computer or technology classes not available in the public schools. "It can be done as a very positive concept, not a threat to the public schools," Chase said. "It can be done on a very collaborative basis."

The group of parents agreed that the charter school should not be perceived as a threat or competition to the public school system. "We want to work with the public school system. Our first task will be to set up a liaison committee to work with the public schools and other educational institutions. We want to address any fears right up front," Chase said.

Chase said there is strong support from the governor's office to start a charter school.

In organizing a charter school, the group must decide from whom they want to receive their charter. Charters may be issued by public school districts, intermediate school districts, community colleges, or state universities. State universities have the fewest restrictions put on them for issuing a charter, Chase said both Central

Car show grows in its second year

Many of the cars on display at the Second Annual Street Legends Car Show this past weekend had signs admonishing spectators not to touch them. Drooling was also discouraged, but then given the beauty of the cars a little bit had to be expected.

Approximately 200 cars participated in the show in the Charlevoix Commons parking lot Sunday. Saturday, 32 of the cars participated in a cruise around Lake Charlevoix.

"For the most part, I think everybody enjoyed it," said Debbie Niswander, one of the many people who helped organize and coordinate the event.

Last year 125 cars participated in the show. This year there were 144 registered participants plus 30 host cars from the Charlevoix club and several more cars that showed up too late to register, but were still on display. Niswander said there were a lot more street rods in this year's show. Cars came from all over Michigan to participate in the show.

Bad weather dampened Saturday's activities, but Sunday was a beautiful day.

During the cruise around Lake Charlevoix Saturday, the cars detoured into the Castle Farm Community Center and also passed through Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan and stopped in at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

As part of Sunday's activities, the show included a fund-raising event which raised $233 for Camp Quality, a one-week summer camp for children who have cancer.

Trophies were awarded to owners of cars in the 28 classes judged. In addition to the show, there were a variety of fun activities including a creeper race in which people were pushed along on those little creepers mechanics use to get under cars.

"We had a good time," Niswander said. She noted that many people worked to make the program a success and the show received excellent cooperation from the sheriff's department and city police.

Yes, there will be a queen competition

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is proud to again be the sponsor of the Miss Charlevoix Venetian Scholarship Competition in connection with the 64th Annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival.

This year's competition will award a scholarship up to $1,000 to the winning candidate and up to a $350 scholarship for the First Runner-up. Candidates must be between the ages of 16 and 22 years of age as of the date of the competition and must either reside in or have graduated from the Charlevoix School District.

The Festival Committee has selected a new format for this year's competition. The format will consist only of an interview with judges selected from outside the community of Charlevoix. This year's candidates will be judged on intelligence, personality, poise, appearance and the ability to express themselves. The competition will take place Thursday, July 21 at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant on the shore of the Pine River Channel.

The coronation of Miss Charlevoix will take place during the intermission of the Venetian Festival Pizza Hut Drum and Bugle Corps Championship, Friday, July 22 at Charlevoix High School's Kipke Athletic Field. The Festival Committee has set an application deadline of Friday, July 15 at 5 p.m.

Applications are available at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce office. For more information please contact the Chamber office at 547-2101.

Plane crashes in lake near Beaver Island

Divers continue to search for a passenger and wreckage from a plane which crashed in Lake Michigan near Beaver Island Friday, July 8. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department was notified shortly after 4 p.m. Friday that a boater heard a plane engine stop and then a splash about four miles off of Beaver Island toward High Island.

A search was initiated and a short time later some wreckage and the body of the pilot was found. The main portion of the plane and the body of a passenger still have not been found. Fog and later windy weather have hampered the search.

The plane was out of Aurora, Illinois. The pilot was Alex Seymour, 66, Oswego, IL. The missing passenger is his business partner, Gerald Leifheit.

The rescue effort has involved the Sheriff's Department, the U.S. Coast Guard helicopter out of Traverse City, divers from the East Jordan and Boyne Valley Fire Departments and the Michigan State Police, and several volunteers.

...new charter school

Michigan University and Michigan Technological University are interested in issuing charters. As a publically funded school, the charter school would still be obligated to meet all state requirements in curriculum and education as set forth in Public Act 25.

Chase is convinced that the Charlevoix charter school could open its doors for the second semester in the 1994-1995 school year. The group is in the early stages of developing the charter school. "We're here now because we have to make sure we have the interest and energy level to do this," Chase said.

City receives $135,487 check for winter water system damage

The City of Charlevoix received a $135,487 check from the federal government last week to help pay for water system damage caused by severely cold weather this past winter.

Charlevoix was one of 10 northern Michigan counties covered by a presidential disaster declaration

May 10. The declaration resulted from severe cold weather during the winter which froze and broke water lines throughout northern Michigan. Because of the declaration federal funds were made available to assist in repairing the municipal water systems. Checks were handed out Tuesday, July 5 at Charlevoix City Hall.

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

Charlevoix was a busy place this past week and among the most active organizations in town was the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. Thursday afternoon they responded to a car accident south of town. Friday afternoon a plane went down off of Beaver Island. And all weekend long they helped with the classic car show.

The car accident occurred at the intersection of US 31, Barnard and Norwood Roads and involved not only the sheriff's department, but also several other emergency response agencies. There were three people involved in the accident. Fortunately, all are now on their way to recovery.

One of the accident victims was trapped inside of a car and the Charlevoix Fire Department had to use the Jaws of Life equipment to extricate him. The power of that equipment and the way it can be used to disassemble a vehicle is quite a thing to behold. Firemen put a plastic tarp inside the car, over the victim to shield him from glass fragments. Then they used an apparatus which looks like an overgrown pair of mechanical tin snips to cut the top off of the car.

One of the things which quickly hit home in observing an actual rescue is how much easier it is for rescue workers to get to the victim once the top of the car is gone. Since the accident impact crumpled the car's doors, up until the car top was removed, the only way rescuers could get into the car was by climbing in through a window. And even then there was very little working room. Once the top was off it was easy for rescuers to get to and help the victim.

Charlevoix firemen used the Jaws of Life to extricate Ed Knight from the wreckage of a car following an accident on US 31 south of Charlevoix last Thursday afternoon. Knight and two people in another car were taken by ambulance to the hospital, but all are recovering. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

In this particular accident, even after removing the car's top and doors, firemen still had to pry forward a portion of the car's front end to disengage the victim's legs. It took a while, but the guy was brought out safely.

You just have to wonder what rescue workers did before advanced extrication equipment such as the Jaws of Life was developed.

Governor John Engler visited Charlevoix last Friday afternoon and spoke to a small gathering of people at Alexander's Restaurant. Engler's been to Charlevoix in the past and during his last campaign stopped in at the Courier office. He's an interesting guy to talk to. For a politician, he's pretty straight forward. Whether you like or dislike his positions, at least you know where he stands. If you're a fan of downsizing government, Engler has done well. He's probably a safe bet for reelection in November.

The Castle Farm Community Center will host its grand opening this weekend. Events begin Friday afternoon and continue through Sunday evening. If you haven't been out to the Castle yet, you should find some time and go. The courtyard and the fountain are beautiful.

The Charlevoix Street Legends Second Annual Car Show went well this past weekend despite a lack of cooperation by the weather Saturday. Sunday was a beautiful day and nearly 200 cars were on display in the Charlevoix Commons parking lot. That's up by about 75 cars from last year. It wouldn't be surprising to see the show continue to grow. It has a lot of potential. It's a fun event and has been a nice addition to Charlevoix's list of summer activities.

Beware of new education programs

Editor,

Much has been written about United States education. Let's look at this situation. Parents want their children to go to college. Our traditional education system is set up for that. We agree there is nothing wrong with being a carpenter, an electrician or a plumber, but where can those students get that education?

Now let us look at the new experiment in education: Engler signed the Public Act 25 bill after the legislature passed it in a late evening before a Christmas holiday. Mind you, no time for debate over the issue.

This bill puts Michigan schools in the control of the state, taking control from parents. The purpose is to force "Outcome Based Education" (OBE), which is socialization. It structures academics to teach students values, attitudes, and political correctness. Never mind values of the parents. This expensive and controversial educational experiment was recently dumped in Virginia, Nebraska and parts of Colorado.

The Charlevoix school board has recently hired an "expert educator" to inform the teachers how to use these ideas in their classes. Cost is $17,000 plus for 5 sessions. I have never voted against an educational millage. Now I have second thoughts. Now, if this was for better schools academically I would be all for it.

OBE has been installed in Kentucky and has been a disaster. Funded by the State Income Tax, it has increased the cost by $700 million while achievement scores fell. In Arkansas (Clinton county)

Three hospitalized following accident

Three Charlevoix people were fortunate enough to escape more serious injury in a two-car collision at the intersection of U.S. 31, Norwood Road and Barnard Road south of Charlevoix. The accident occurred shortly before 3:30 p.m. Thursday, July 7.

According to police, Sharmón Dulaney, 42, was driving westbound on Barnard Road, stopped at a stop sign and then pulled out in front of a southbound car driven by Ed Knight, 25.

Knight's vehicle struck the Dulaney vehicle in the passenger side. Dulaney suffered minor injuries and was taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital where she was treated and released. A passenger in the Dulaney vehicle, Kelsey DuLaney, 6, was also injured. Kelsey Dulaney was taken to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey. As of Monday afternoon, he was in fair condition.

The Charlevoix City Fire and Ambulance Department had to use the Jaws of Life to extricate Knight from his vehicle. Emergency personnel completely removed the roof of the vehicle as well as a door. They then pried forward the crumpled front of the vehicle to free Knight's legs. Knight was taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital. He was treated and discharged July 9.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department was assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix City Fire and Ambulance Department, Banks Township Rescue, Lifeline and numerous citizens.

...wary of school programs

achievement scores decreased 10 percent.

Parents won't need to be concerned; they won't be able to compare test scores with other countries, etc. for they are not using SAT tests anymore. The new tests will test changes of attitudes and values. Oregon has been using OBE. Now they are seeking a way to withhold a diploma if testing shows that a senior has not reached their attitudinal goal. Is that next for Michigan? Also, Oregon has proposed a law that an employer be fined for hiring one without a diploma.

Now let's look at the national law, "Goals 2000 Educate America Act." This has put education in top national hands. This pushed OBE for all states. It has opened the door to school-based health clinics and the wider distribution of condoms to adolescents.

The sad part of all this PA 25 and Goals 2000 is the fact it will allow computerized portfolios for all students by the state and national governments. Goal 2000 was also developed with the Dept. of Labor cooperation. There is a space for the Social Security number for the student. All of which smacks of a planned society. Hitler did just these things.

I urge parents to read all they can on these issues.

Grandvue retiree honored by staff and residents

Staff and residents of Grandvue Medical Care Facility recently honored Maryann Sutliff, Certified Nurse Aide, who has retired after 34 years of continuous service. Sutliff began working at Grandvue in 1952, but left at different times for brief periods to marry husband Robert and to have children, Vicki, Linda, and Jack. In 1960 she returned permanently to full-time employment, caring for Grandvue's residents.

She states, "It's been hard, easy, fun, and nice to come to work. I never thought about doing anything else."

Over the years, Grandvue's nursing staff has acknowledged Sutliff for her kindness, caring, dependability, patience, and sense of humor. In the past, her excellent capabilities and communication skills have led her residents to nominate her for employee of the month.

Residents surprised Sutliff with a special farewell tea that they themselves had planned and prepared. Staff members also gathered to extend their wishes for a happy retirement.

Now that she is retired, Sutliff is looking forward to spending time with her grandchildren and traveling out West and to the Upper Peninsula at will.

Congregational Church plans annual bazaar

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix will host their annual bazaar from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Items available at the bazaar will include many handmade gifts for Christmas. There will also be an Attic Treasure booth with all kinds of special finds, including antiques and jewelry. A bake sale will accompany the bazaar and among other things will include gourmet vinegars and salad dressings and homemade jams, jellies, and pickles.

A salad luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The price is $4 for adults and $2 for children between the ages of 4 and 12. Children younger than age four are admitted free.

The Congregational Church is located at the corner of State and Park.

Meal program continues

Began in May of 1992 by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, the Community Lunch Ministry seeks to provide a lunch meal for people who otherwise would not have a proper balanced meal. The ministry is run by volunteers from the participating churches and organizations.

"One of the most exciting things about this ministry is the way it pulls a diverse group of people together in cooperation. Not only are the churches working together, but also various groups and individuals," says Rev. Dale Ostema of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church whose kitchen the program is run from. It was a bit difficult this past spring for the group to keep a consistent schedule going. Consequently, the coordinators recently voted to run the program Tuesdays through Fridays, closing Mondays, in an effort to consolidate their volunteers. If more people show an interest in helping, the kitchen may open Mondays again.

Last year's daily average of people served was 12. To date this year, the daily average has been 13, with 1,371 meals served. "We want to get the word out to more people that we are here," Ostema comments. "We know there are others who could benefit from this ministry. If people know of others who would not otherwise get a decent lunch meal, let them know about us." Meals are served from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on those days. There is no charge for the lunch. If you or your organization would like to serve in the lunch program, contact the Program Coordinator, Marguerite Ikens by Rev. Dale Ostema at 547-2634.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Rumor has it that preachers love to play golf. I would love to meet the person who started that rumor and find out who they were talking about. I don't play golf. I play "at" golf. There is a big difference.

A par round for me is coming back with the same number of golf balls I went to the course with. A bogie round is coming back with less and, yes, a birdie round means I added a few to my practice collection.

Don't misunderstand. I do like to go. You just have to be prepared to be extremely patient when you play with me.

Though some of you have been playing all summer, Monday was my first outing of the season. Ye Nine Ole Hollies beckoned for my sacrificial slashing of its turf. My opening drive was not bad for me. Things went downhill fast however and I finished the hole with a nine.

After that, I decided I wasn't going to let it bother me. In fact, I started watching others around me play as I continued my quest. Can you guess what I discovered? Yes, there are folks out there who play golf and play it very well. But there are an awful lot of duffers out there just like me! What a relief that was!

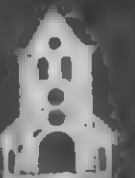

One dear lady was only hitting the ball fifteen yards at a lick. I thought I was the only one who could hit a ball from one fairway to another and have to dodge oncoming traffic. There were others in the same boat. I began to feel pretty good about my game.

Let's you think there were no real moments of golfing joy in it for me, the best came on the ninth hole. My shot to the green landed on the back fringe about twelve feet from the hole. Ordinarily, I'd be the first to say a three putt was on the way. I made it. By anchovies, I made the putt! What a way to end the day. There is hope.

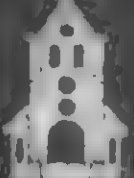

There are times where we judge ourselves far more harshly than we should and in the judging, we rob ourselves of the very power we need to break out of our often self-imposed limits. We forget about faith. Faith has the power to move mountains. Faith contains the chemistry to overhaul your entire outlook on life. Faith reminds us in simple and miraculous ways that God often has more confidence in us than we do ourselves.

And never forget something. It doesn't take a lot of faith to begin to change your attitude about yourself. Jesus said faith the size of a grain of mustard seed would do the job. If you have never seen a mustard seed, it's not too much different than the sesame seed you saw on your last hamburger bun. If something that tiny can do so much, you ought to try it. Start having faith in yourself. It will do wonders for you. God already knows that. Now you know it too.

DDA approves proposal to move theater project forward

By L. Scott Swanson

A proposal allowing Charlevoix Cinema Inc. to assign its rights on a piece of property being purchased from the city received approval from the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) at a special meeting July 6. Approval of the agreement will allow a new theater to be built on the site within the next 13 months.

The former Kusina Motors Building is currently on the property, located between Mason and Antrim Streets next to a new city parking lot. Earlier this year the DDA agreed to sell the property to Charlevoix Cinema, but stipulated that a new theater must be built on the property. The deal was to be closed in February, but the closing was delayed.

At a June 29 meeting, the DDA discussed an addendum to the purchase agreement which would allow Charlevoix Cinema to assign the purchase rights to a third party and then have the third party build the new theater. DDA members were generally receptive to the addendum, but raised a few questions which they wanted addressed prior to giving final approval.

A clause included in the purchase agreement requires a theater to be built upon the property within one year of the closing of the land transaction. If a theater is not built within that time period, the property will revert to the city. If the property reverts to the city, a portion of the $62,500 purchase price would be returned to Charlevoix Cinema and a portion would be kept by the city. One of the questions raised at the June 29 meeting was how much of the purchase price the city should retain. The DDA decided to retain one-third of the purchase price, $20,834, if the property reverts to the city. That was reflected in the written addendum before the DDA July 6.

Another question raised June 29 involved a provision calling for the DDA to be able to reacquire the property via a quit claim deed if for some reason the theater deal fell through. DDA member Dan Barron, who is also an attorney with expertise in real estate, noted that the reacquisition via a quit claim deed should be optional for the city. That was also reflected in the document before the board July 6. Another change from the initial purchase agreement was increasing the earnest money deposit from

The issue which arose June 29 and generated the most discussion was the possibility of the DDA requiring a performance bond to assure that construction would not begin and then stop before the project was concluded. At the July 6 meeting, DDA board members concluded that such a requirement is not necessary. They felt that any financial institution involved in the project would not allow a half-built building to exist and that the one-third retainer provision would also prompt completion of the project.

Bill Supernaw, who is representing Charlevoix Cinema Inc., invited CB North Bank President Francis Flanders to the July 6 DDA board meeting to assure the board that financing for the project is available. Flanders told DDA members that Supernaw discussed the project with the bank several months ago and the bank agreed to do the financing. He said the bank is still ready to provide the financial assistance necessary to see the project through to completion.

The motion to accept the addendum passed 6-0. Jeff Porter, Mary Fiendt, Jeannine Wallace, Bob Lieberman, Hugh Mason and Bill Haggard voted in favor. Supernaw and Dan Barron abstained.

Dr. Bortz uses his vast clinical experience and knowledge to show that much of what passes as age is really not age at all. It is simply disuse. He argues it is disuse and disuse, and not aging, that are disabling and killing most of us early. Dr. Bortz' belief is that genetically, we are designed to live 100 plus years. Dr. Bortz challenges us to leave the old fears and myths behind and join him!

Business seminar explains exporting

The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance will host Edward A. Christie, International Trade Specialist, U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service, for a seminar called, "Export and International Trade."

The program will be Thursday, July 21, from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the North Central Michigan College library conference center. The cost is $15.

There are many opportunities available for area companies in international markets. Expanding a business into the international arena will result in increased company sales and profits.

"This seminar is designed to provide participants with the basics of starting a successful export operation, including issues in managing export activities and assistance available from the U.S. government," said Tom Johnson, executive director of the Economic Alliance.

Seminar participants will have an opportunity for an on-site company visit by Christie to discuss specific export needs. Appointments will be scheduled on a first-come basis.

For registration information, call the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance at 582-6482.

Three Rayders named to Academic All-State track team

Three members of the Charlevoix boys' track team recently were named to the Class C Academic All-State Team. Named to the team by the Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association were Chris LeButt, Josh Dhaseler and Matt Dickinson. Charlevoix was the only program with three runners named among the top 20 athletes.

To be named to the team an athlete must excel academically as well as on the track. All three athletes ran on the Class C state champion 3,200 meter relay team. LeButt, a junior, has a 3.980 grade point average. Dhaseler graduated with a 3.7 grade point average and Dickinson, a junior, has a 3.5 grade point average.

Blooper ball returns to Charlevoix

The ball used for the softball game Sunday at Castle Farm will be much like the ball of the players - bigger and softer than what you find in more competitive games.

A blooper ball game featuring Charlevoix County players age 40 and over will be part of the Castle Farm Community Center grand opening this weekend. The game will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 17.

The game will be played with a 16-inch diameter blooper ball. No gloves will be used. Charlevoix City Recreation Director Ike Boss is coordinating the game. He dug up two old blooper balls which the city has had knocking around in a closet since back when the city had a blooper ball league more than a decade ago.

Dave Novotny and Mike Bos are serving as captains of the two teams. Novotny will captain the west team of players from Charlevoix, Beaver Island, Horton Bay and Ellsworth. Bos will lead the east team consisting of players from East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake.

Boss said the game will probably go seven innings, assuming the players are up to it. There will be no admission fee, but donations will be accepted.

People interested in playing are asked to contact Boss, Novotny or Bos.

One-armed golfer makes hole-in-one

By Laurie Lounsbury

It took one golf club, one shot, and one arm for golfer Dennis Huff to sink a hole in one. Huff sank a hole in one on the third hole at Dunmaglas, July 5. Huff used a five wood and his right arm for the 149 yard shot. Huff lost his left arm in an accident when he was 15 years old. He's been playing one-armed golf for the last ten years. Huff had another hole in one five years ago at Mt. Mitchell in North Carolina.

Huff and his wife Beverly are regular visitors to the Charlevoix area. "I like coming to Charlevoix because you're within 20 to 30 minutes of lots of good golf courses," Huff said. The Huffs are residents of Saginaw. Huff played Dunmaglas only once, last year, before hitting his hole in one last week.

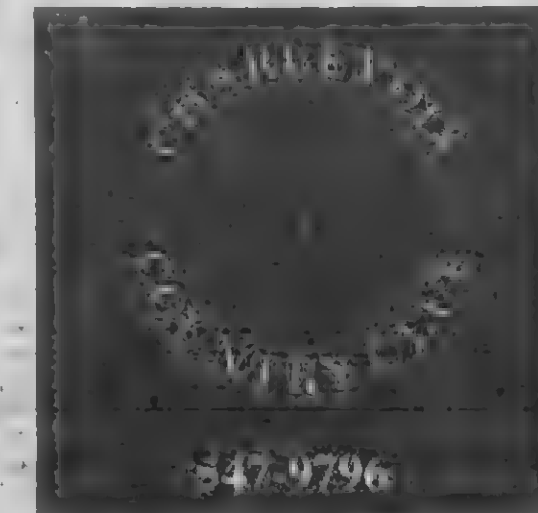

Girls' softball team wins twice

Charlevoix's girls' age 16 and under softball team took two games from Alanson Wednesday, July 6. April Pischner had a banner night for Charlevoix. She was the winning pitcher in one game and had three hits in each game.

Charlevoix took the opening game 17-7. Pischner was the winning pitcher. She had three hits, as did Jenny Eveleigh and Amanda Eaton. Katy Conlan and Mandi Barrett each had two hits.

Lyndsay Blechl threw a shut-out in game two as Charlevoix won 10-0. Pischner had three hits while Eaton and Ann Marie Terryberry each had two.

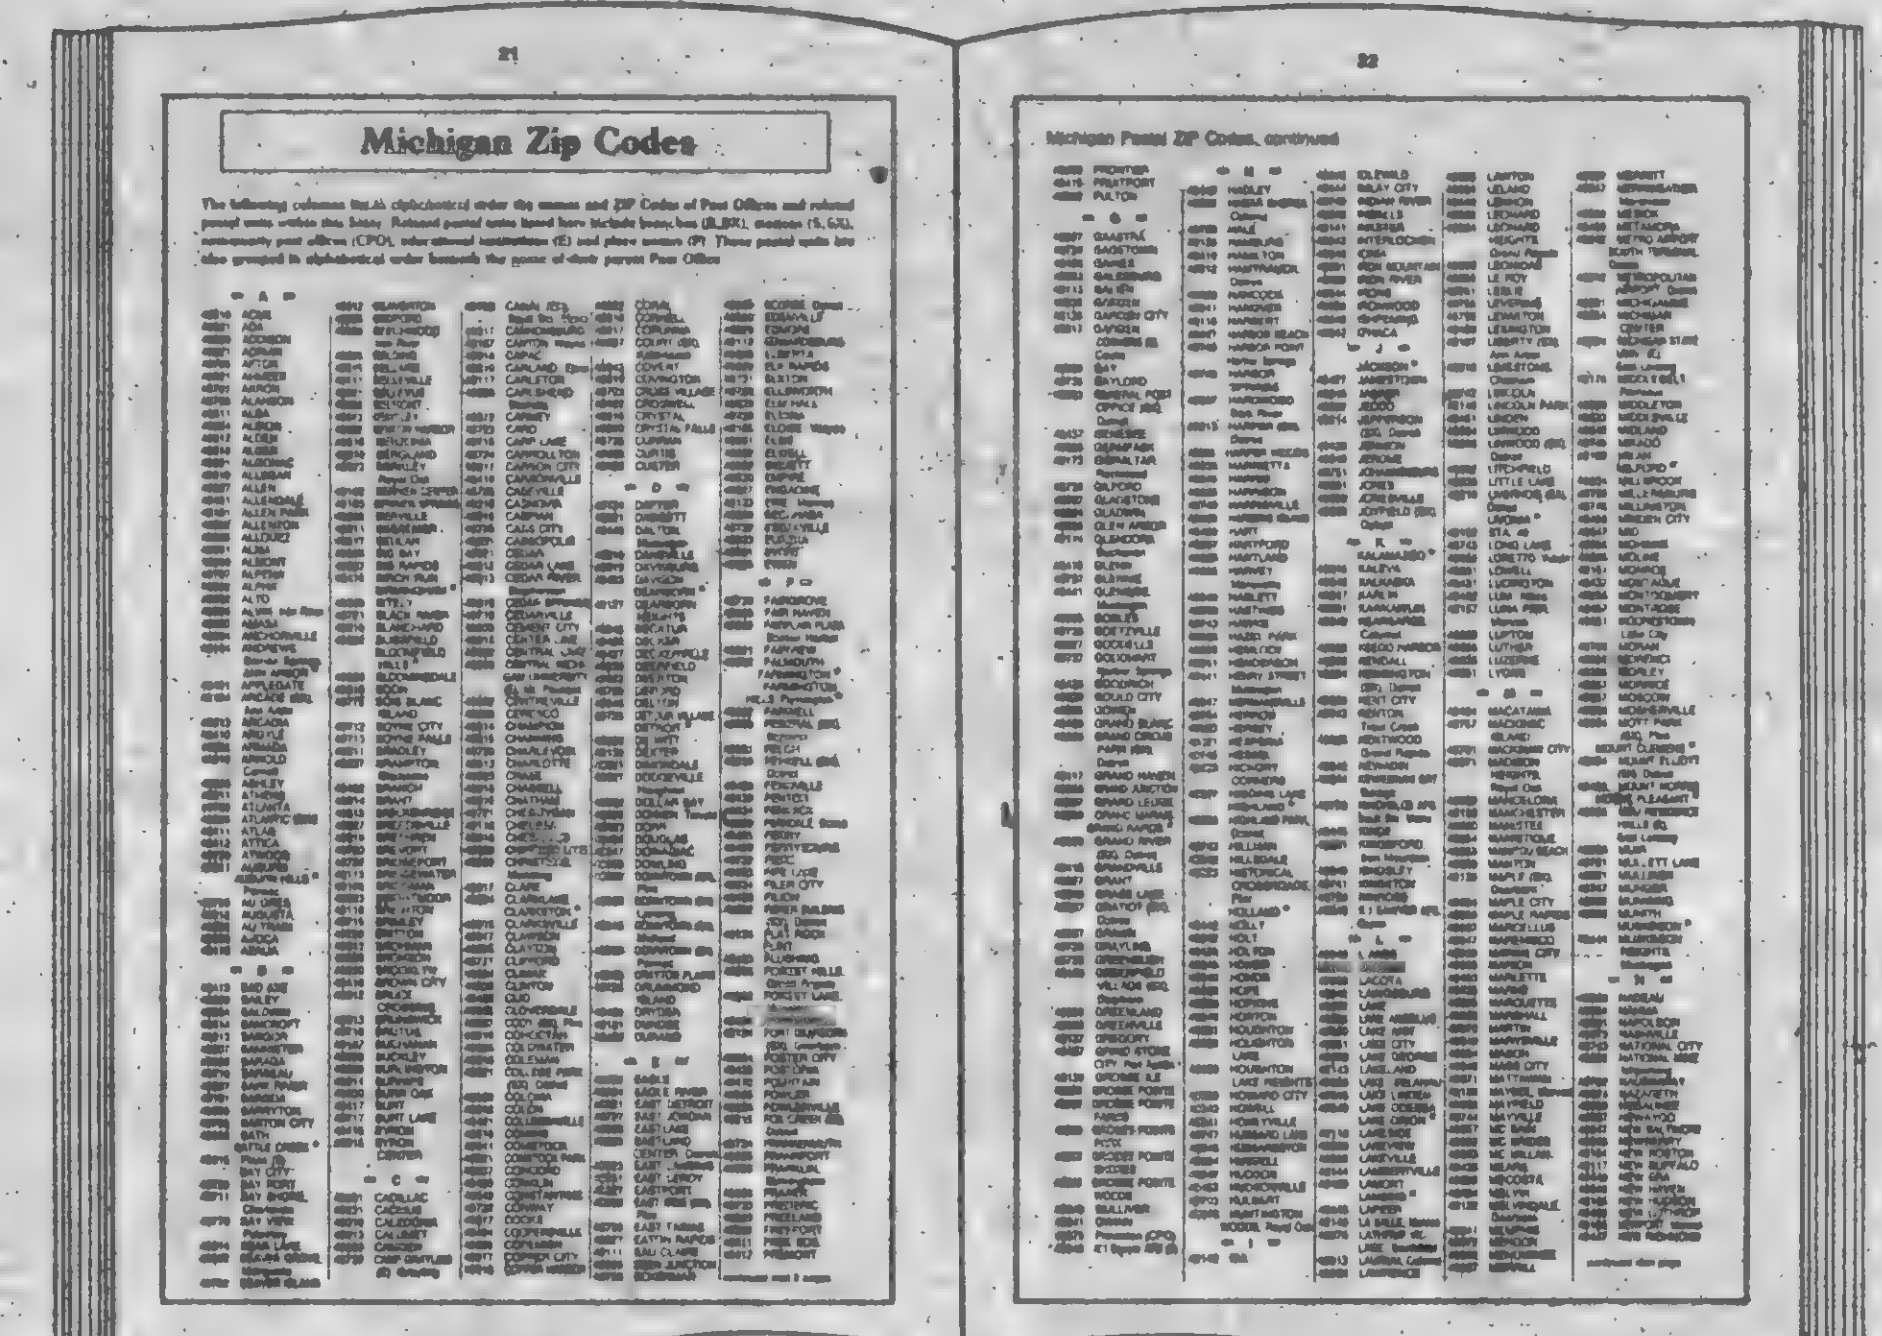

The two wins raised Charlevoix's season record to 7-3. Charlevoix's next game will be July 14 at Petoskey.

Hospital to host 75th annual meeting

Charlevoix Area Hospital will host its 75th annual meeting Tuesday, July 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital conference room.

It is expected that three members of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors will be re-elected at the meeting. Directors whose terms expire are Rebecca Hagey, Norman Perkins, and Arthur A. (Al) Ranger. All three have been nominated for new terms.

Board members of the 44-bed general hospital are volunteers who are responsible for overseeing the administration of the hospital, its budget, and approving appointments to the medical staff. Members serve on other board committees such as Personnel and Insurance; Planning and Development; Finance and By-laws; Joint Conference (with members of the medical staff); and Nominating Committee. Terms are for three years.

Other current board members are: John Buick, Sulane Hamilton, Mary Jason, Merle Plagge, M.D., Jeannine Wallace, Alan Weston, and Ray Wood. Richard L. Krueger, president, and Dennis Joy, M.D., chief of staff, are also members of the board by virtue of their position.

Also on the agenda are annual financial reports with an overview of the year by Richard L. Krueger.

Charlevoix Area Hospital members — those who made a monetary contribution to the hospital in the past year or who paid $3 membership dues by July 1, 1994, or who have paid a $15 life membership fee — are urged to attend the vote at the meeting.

The hospital is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year. Refreshments will be served.

Satellite therapy clinic to open in Boyne City

Charlevoix Area Hospital is opening a satellite physical therapy and sports medicine clinic July 18 at 500 N. Lake Street, in the Lake Street Plaza, in Boyne City. The Boyne Rehabilitation Center will mean all the services of the hospital's physical therapy department are now convenient to residents of Boyne City and neighboring communities.

The clinic is the brainchild of Cindy Banner, physical therapist at Charlevoix Area Hospital since 1991. As a resident of Boyne City, she says, "I saw the need to expand the hospital's services to meet the needs of the Boyne City area. We will be providing treatment for a diverse population including those with orthopedic problems or who have had orthopedic surgery; those with arthritis and other physical problems associated with aging, as well as children."

Banner says other important areas of treatment will be for sports injuries and job-related problems. "Our plans are to provide preventive programs and to work with local industry on 'return to work' therapy programs," she says, "and we will be cooperating with local schools, as well."

The center will house state-of-the-art equipment including a treadmill, Air-dyne bicycle, ultrasound, electrical muscle stimulation, whirlpool, parallel bars, biofeedback and iontophoresis.

Treatment will begin upon physician's referral. A complete assessment will be done and an individualized treatment plan developed to restore the person to a maximal level of function. All types of medical insurance will be accepted.

Banner will be supervisor of the clinic as well as physical therapist. She is a 1987 graduate of Grand Valley State University in Allendale, Michigan, with a bachelor of science in physical therapy. She also did undergraduate study in sports medicine at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

Since her graduation she has been director of physical therapy at Kelsey Memorial Hospital in Lakeview and coordinator of physical therapy at Butterworth Hospital Shared Services Division. She also worked as sports physical therapist at Mercy Rehabilitation Center in Muskegon and has attended many advanced seminars on all aspects of physical therapy and sports medicine. She is a member of the American Physical Therapy Association and the Michigan Physical Therapy Association. Her primary interest has been in orthopedics and sports medicine.

"I am excited about being in the community and serving the diverse needs of residents," she says. "I am available to assist business, schools, or any community event or organization in any way that I can."

"By opening the Boyne Rehabilitation Center, we are helping to fulfill our goal of improving availability and accessibility of our services for area residents," says Richard L. Krueger, president of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

For further information call 582-6365 or 547-4024 (ext. 231). Hours of operation for the center will be 8 to 5 Monday through Friday.

...Engler discusses accomplishments and goals

In his opening remarks, Engler mentioned educational finance reform and that issue quickly came up again when he began receiving questions from the audience. Josh Barnes cited problems in Proposal A which allows residents to vote higher taxes on nonresidents. He used Charlevoix's recent school election as an example saying that while people voted down a three mill (enhancement) levy on themselves, they voted for an 18 mill levy on others.

Engler said that one of the objectives in formulating the legislation was to give the maximum amount of tax break to homeowners. In the exchange, second homes were hit harder. Engler said that in many areas the new rate on second homes is still lower than the old rate, although that is not the case in Charlevoix.

In a related matter, Engler was also asked if charter schools, which were part of the educational reform package, are actually going to become a reality.

"I think this year there will be a number of them operating," Engler said. He added that within three years he expects there to be 200 charter schools in Michigan. He said many of them will probably be public schools with excess capacity opening to students outside their current geographic boundaries. Engler said he feels Michigan will start to see more competition for students among schools.

Barnes also voiced a complaint about the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Barnes claimed the DNR is not aggressive enough in enforcing emission standards. He said the cement plant is a problem.

Engler said that normally the complaints he hears about the DNR aren't for lack of enforcement, but for overzealous enforcement and nitpicking. He added that one of the things he and the legislature have been working on with the DNR is consistency of applicable laws and consistent application of those laws. According to Engler, a problem which has occurred over the years is that the legislature has passed laws which are contrary to each other and DNR enforcement of the laws has varied from area to area.

When Engler took office in 1991, the state had a $1.8-billion budget deficit. Engler said that was reduced by consolidating and cutting programs. He said that since he took office the state has 5,000 fewer employees, a reduction of eight percent.

By Sept. 30, 1993 the state had a $312 million surplus and by the end of this year is expected to have the largest cash reserve of any state in the nation. Engler said that the surplus has allowed the state to reduce the single business tax and fund some one-time expenses.

Assuming he is re-elected, Engler said his primary goals for 1994-95 will be job growth and continued economic opportunity along with continued education reform and improvement.

Engler is predicting that the November election will give the Republican party a majority in the house as well as the senate. Engler predicted that republicans will gain five seats in the house.

Although it is being debated at the federal, rather than the state, level, Engler was asked for the state's position on health care reform. He said states need something with lots of flexibility and without a lot of unfunded mandates. Engler said President Bill Clinton's original plan would have meant $500 million to $600 million in costs to the state of Michigan and for states such as New York would have been much worse.

Engler said Michigan's state legislature has been quite progressive in recent years. "We're very much in a leadership role in a lot of different areas," he said.

Council says to drive slower

By L. Scott Swanson

Problems with the way people drive drew the city council's attention Monday evening. A group of northside residents presented a petition claiming there is a problem with people driving too fast on Petoskey Avenue.

Don Meggison, a first ward council representative who lives on Petoskey Avenue, said 50 people signed the petition and want traffic slowed down on Petoskey Avenue and south Bridge Street. Meggison noted that the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has done studies indicating that at least 85 percent of drivers exceed the 25 mile per hour speed limit on Petoskey Avenue and has recommended raising the posted speed limit to 35 miles per hour. Meggison said he doesn't agree with MDOT.

Dave Macks, who lives at 405 Petoskey Avenue, said he drives a semi truck and claimed that area couldn't be safely negotiated by a semi at 35 miles per hour.

Third ward council representative Bruce Reid said, "I think it's time we say to MDOT, 'Thanks, but no thanks.'"

Macks said that people were also driving too fast on side streets in town. Polle Verwys, who lives near the intersection of State and Hurlbut, said drivers have been running the stop sign at the intersection. Gabe Campbell, who is a candidate for a second ward council seat, said he was recently driving 35 miles per hour on a city street and other drivers were mad because he was holding them up.

Second ward council representative Bulch Russell noted that Bridge Street (which becomes Petoskey Avenue) is a state highway and under state rather than city control. He asked city attorney Jim

Venetian Festival is ready to go

As the 1994 Venetian Festival approaches, festival chairman John Taylor reports that he hasn't slept for three days. In other words, preparations are going just fine.

Asked for a brilliant and witty quote to describe his feelings in regard to the 1994 Venetian preparation home stretch, Taylor replied, "It's going like a tightly wound clock. Faster than I'd hoped, but smoothly just the same."

Thursday night the joint starts jumpin' with a variety of events. The Miss Charlevoix Venetian Scholarship Competition will take place at 6:30 p.m. Thirteen queen candidates will be interviewed by three judges at Stafford's Weather-vane Restaurant. The judges are from the Traverse City Cherry Festival, Elk Rapids Harbor Days and Gaylord Alpenfest.

Competing for the Miss Charlevoix title are: Bethany Martinus, 17, daughter of Stephen and Jennie Martinus; Sunshine H. Maurer, 17, daughter of Randy and Robin Maurer; Heather Lynn Buckner, 19, daughter of Dale and Darlene Buckner; Kristen Lee Ricks, 19, daughter of Jeff and Pat Ricks; Sarah Warner, 17, daughter of Doug Warner and Marty Jo Caputo; Natalie Lynn Ward, 19, daughter of Don and Carol Ward; Ellen M. McKinney, 18, daughter of James and Ruth McKinney; Sadie Rene' Whaley, 17, daughter of Patrick and Cindy Martin; Shannon Rowell, 18, daughter of Greg and Cindy Rowell; Erin P. McNamara-Wright, 18, daughter of Michaelene M. Wright; Melinda Jane Noiroi, 19, daughter of Evelyn and Alva Noiroi; Lisa E. Thursday evening will also see the opening of the carnival midway in the parking lot near the east end of Clinton Street.

Miss Charlevoix will officially be crowned during the Drum and Bugle Corps Championship Friday evening at Kipke Field next to Charlevoix High School. The event, which is sponsored by Pizzeria Hut, begins at 7:15 p.m.

The 19th Annual Venetian Festival Fastpitch Softball Tournament also begins Friday evening at the Carpenter Street fields.

Saturday, there will be things happening constantly nearly from dawn 'til dusk.

The Drenth Memorial Foot Race begins at 8 a.m. at the elementary school. Approximately 400 runners of varying skill levels will compete in the 1 mile, 5K and 10K races. Registration begins at 7 a.m.

The Venetian Festival FMB Northwestern Bank/WKLT co-ed beach volleyball tournament will begin at 10 a.m. Organizers have several beautiful trophies looking for a good home, but as of early this week still had openings for more teams in the tournament. Anyone wishing to enter a team or be matched up with a team should phone 547-4994.

The volleyball tournament is just the tip of the iceberg in Saturday's Lake Michigan Beach activities. A variety of undignified behavior

Young if the city has any control over MDOT's decision to raise the speed limit. Young said that legally the city has no control over the MDOT decision, but politically MDOT is likely to consider the city's position in the matter.

Russell said that if drivers are going 35 now in an area posted at 25, then they will go 45 or 50 if the posted limit is increased to 35.

"I don't know what the answer is to slow them down," Russell said.

City manager Mike Wiesner pointed out that MDOT studies indicate that in many places the majority of drivers don't establish their speed according to posted speed limits, but instead drive at the speed they feel comfortable, be that more or less than the posted limit.

The five council members present at the meeting, Meggison, Russell, Reid, Ted Felter and Jackie Cross, unanimously passed a motion to ask MDOT to leave the speed limit at 25 miles per hour on Petoskey Avenue and south Bridge Street. The council also directed Wiesner to have the city police increase their presence in those two locations for the next two weeks and then give council a report.

Island celebrates its history

By Laurie Lounsbury

Island history is lovingly preserved in the minds and the hearts of Beaver Islanders. It is passed down from generation to generation in the form of rollicking stories told by old people with wrinkled cheeks and mirth in their eyes. It floats through the air in lyrical Irish ballads, sung by third and fourth generation islanders with clear tenor voices. The island's Native Americans weave their own threads of island history in with that of the Irish immigrants and exiled Mormons.

All of the island lore, lush and vivid, is shared by natives and visitors during Beaver Island's Museum Week, from July 18 to July 23.

The one-week festival is the only fund-raiser held to support the island's two museums, the Mormon Print Shop and the Marine Museum.

Over the last 15 years, Museum Week has grown to be a crowd pleaser for both island residents and tourists. It is packed with nature walks, historical presentations, and the perennial favorite, music on the porch. This year's organizers are island residents Shirley Gladish and Phyllis Moore, curators of the two museums. They are helped by the volunteer efforts of people from all walks of island life, each contributing to some facet of the island's history.

An inadvertent find at a garage sale in Chicago, Illinois will play a significant role in this year's festival. A garage sale shopper bought a packet of letters dating back to 1906. Her interest in the letters was solely the stamps. Once home with her purchase, she opened the envelopes and found a series of letters written by the Beaver Island light-house keeper and his wife to their son on the mainland. The correspondence dates back to the years 1906 to 1909. The letters found their way to Beaver Island, where they will be read in a dramatic presentation by Mary Gillingham and Phil Gregg. They are coached by Floss Frank, a long time Island summer resident. "It seemed like an interesting way to learn about life at the lighthouse and the island," Frank said.

Interesting is an understatement. The letters, read aloud by Gillingham and Gregg, complete with grammatical errors and speech idioms of the era, paint a graphic picture of the island during the early twentieth century. Medad Spencer and his wife tell their son about the train wrecks out by the lumber camps and the rigid rules they must abide by at the lighthouse. Light-house keeper Spencer speaks often about what is most important to him during the hard winters on the island: "The house is warm, the beds are good, and we have plenty of wood," he writes, apparently content with those simple pleasures. The letters are peppered with references to some of the current islanders' ancestors. One letter spoke of a dance at Johnny Green's house. Thirty people braved a blizzard in the winter of 1906, the worst storm of the year, to get to the dance. "I guess those people wanted to dance," writes the light-house keeper's wife. The letters also tell a tale of communication problems at the turn of the century, before telephones and fax machines kept people in touch. The couple's other son has been out of touch for 15 years, and the couple fears he may be dead. Through the tedious process of writing letters and waiting for replies from other relatives, the son is finally found. He comes home to Beaver Island after a nearly 20 year absence.

Keewaydinoquay Peschel (known to islanders as simply Kee) will explain the old Indian ways of using herbs and plants in medicinal and ritual customs. Kee resides every summer by herself on Garden Island. Author of books on botany in terms of cultures, Kee is well respected by islanders.

Native American Angeline Anthony will give a presentation on the first residents of Beaver Island.

Anthony descended from the island's Kenabikisee family.

The role of commercial fishing on the island will be presented by Jack Cull and Jim Willis. Cull picked the brains of Stanley Floyd, an old island historian, to learn about the booming fishing era that once supported 30 fishing boats from the island.

Reptile shows by Dr. Jim Gillingham, head of the C.M.U. Biological station, always thrill the young viewers.

Museum Week is always opened with music on the porch of the Mormon Print Shop. Hundreds of listeners crowd the downtown street by the museum to listen to the local island talent. It's hard to say how long the event might last. "We go until the talent runs out," Phyllis Moore said. "It might last three days or 20 minutes."

The week is capped off by a pub concert by the group, Song of the Lakes. Island singer Kevin White will open for the group on Saturday night.

With music, history, and island culture in abundance, Museum Week on Beaver Island provides visitors with an opportunity to immerse themselves in the ways of the islanders, both of yesterday and today.

Depot drive on its way to goal

Thursday, July 7, the Charlevoix Historical Society hosted a champagne reception to unveil the new Him Annis print of the Charlevoix Depot. The Gala gave the community of Charlevoix a chance to see the Depot building and the work that needs to be done before it can open as a museum. To date the Depot Fund-raising is approaching $42,000. This is from donations, the Equity Grant with the city, pledges and proceeds from the Depot print sales.

Gala guests were welcomed with violin music by Krista Knight, hors d'oeuvres were also made by Tad's. Sales of the prints were handled by Alvin Ranger and Don Haney. Many donations were also accepted.

The Depot grounds and building were made ready by Society members John Gaskin, Bill Price, Larry Nunemaker, George Lush, Douglas and Betsy Reynolds. The elegant decor was provided by Gala Chairman-Salle Stead with the help of Katie Kieren and Coburn Gogarn.

The Charlevoix Historical Society wished to thank all attending guests for making the Gala a success. Fundraising Chairmen Bud Kohler and Salle Stead are please with the $6,000 raised so far from the prints. This brings the Depot Fundraising closer to the $50,000 goal.

Traffic decision was made in haste

Faced with what appeared to be popular demand, the Charlevoix city council acted hastily Monday evening and has probably created a local speed trap.

The areas affected are Petoskey Avenue between Lewis' and Prospect Streets and on south Bridge Street between Lincoln and Carpenter Streets. There's no argument about there being some type of traffic problem. The argument is the exact nature of the problem and how best to resolve it.

Last summer the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) studied the flow of traffic on Bridge Street. They found that in the aforementioned areas the vast majority of drivers exceed the posted 25 mile per hour speed limit. That's not a good situation. What happens is the minority of people, i.e. those observing the posted speed limit, cause the majority of people, those who are exceeding the posted speed limit, to do a lot of weaving and lane switching to get around them. MDOT's solution to the problem is to raise the speed limit in these areas to 35 miles per hour so that the speed limit will be in harmony with the speed which 85 percent of drivers find comfortable. Police would then ticket the small minority of drivers, the true lead-foots, who exceed that speed limit. MDOT proposes to raise the speed limits this fall.

A group of local people, who presented a petition to the city council last week, see the problem in a different light. They feel people are driving too fast on Petoskey Avenue and portions of south Bridge Street and they want city police to start writing more tickets. These people brought their case before the council Monday evening and on Monday evening the council voted to ask MDOT to leave the speed limit at 25 miles per hour and instructed city manager Mike Wiesner to have city police spend more time on Petoskey Avenue and south Bridge Street during the next two weeks.

The roadway in question is a state highway, not a city street, so legally MDOT can take or leave the city's suggestion regarding the speed limit. Politically, they're likely to at the very least give it serious consideration.

How the city police respond is another question. Although there may be some people who wouldn't mind seeing them go on a traffic ticket writing binge, there are likely many others who would prefer they continue their present course of utilizing common sense and good judgment rather than nit-picking. If city police follow the council's implied wishes, during the next two weeks they will be ticketing nearly eight out of ten drivers on Petoskey Avenue and south Bridge Street. In the face of ticket-mania, the town slogan may have to be changed from "Charlevoix the Beautiful" to "Charlevoix the Speed Trap."

The city council placed city police in this difficult position by acting hastily Monday evening instead of taking time to objectively analyze all sides of the issue.

Council members based their decision on the following factors: A handful of people attended the meeting to complain about the speed of traffic on Petoskey Avenue; The council received a petition signed by between 25 and 50 people complaining about the speed of traffic on Petoskey Avenue; Conventional wisdom says that if drivers drive 35 miles per hour in an area where the posted speed limit is 25 miles per hour, then they'll drive 45 miles per hour in an area where the posted speed limit is 35 miles per hour.

All of these factors may well legitimately play a role in a public body's decision, but they shouldn't be the only factors.

You can have a handful of people show up to complain about anything. Sure, you listen to them and you try to solve their problem, but you don't have to act in haste.

As far as petitions go, sure you have to give them some weight, but on the other hand some people will sign anything to get someone else off their front porch.

The scariest part is the council's reliance upon conventional wisdom. It's unfortunate, but often, conventional wisdom is indeed conventional, but it's not necessarily wisdom. In fact, evidence indicates this is one of those cases. The same survey that found the majority of drivers tend to exceed the speed limit on some portions of Petoskey Avenue and Bridge Street also found that on other sections of the street the majority of drivers tend to drive slower than the posted speed limit.

City manager Mike Wiesner tried to introduce a bit of research based evidence into Monday evening's discussion but didn't get too far. A group of people wanted action and the city council was bound and determined to act. There would be no need to let additional facts cloud the issue.

While the city council based their decision Monday evening on incomplete data, this is not to say that the people who have voiced concern are all wet and that the MDOT traffic surveys are the last word. While the city council neglected to consider some factors in their decision, it's also possible that MDOT missed some things or didn't give enough weight to some things which should have been considered in their recommendation. A possibility that comes to mind is that MDOT may have underestimated the impact of pedestrians crossing in the areas of roadway in question.

Rather than having MDOT do surveys and make suggestions in one camp and have the city council listen to complaints and recommend something else from a different camp, it would be better if all parties sat down together. The sum of the first-hand observation of local citizens and the research data of MDOT is likely to be greater than the individual parts.

Bury the electric lines

Editor,

The corner of Park Avenue and Grant Street in Charlevoix has become an example of urban planning gone wrong. The city electrical system is converging on this scenic site with a multitude of wires and poles, higher and uglier than ever before. One of the great attractions to Charlevoix and indeed the reason my family moved to this area was the magnificent entrance to the harbor with the historic lighthouse perched on the end of the pier. Here the sunset is enjoyed by our community year round and the best viewing is from the height of the ancient bluff where Park Avenue and Grant Street meet. This public area which also includes a bathing beach and park of 14.15 acres was given to the city by Amos and Ella Fox on August 28, 1882.

It is clear that the city administration did not take into account the scenic importance of this site when they developed the current electrical plan. These wires can and should be buried. The poles must be removed. We can improve our electrical system and keep our natural area from looking like an industrial transfer station. Let's do the job right!

Safety stops have merit

Editor,

This is a somewhat belated reply to Scott Swanson's editorial in the June 15 Courier about Michigan State Police conducting random vehicle safety inspections and sobriety checkpoints.

Sobriety checkpoints must be working, together with much stiffer laws and intense education about drunk driving. Here in California, traffic deaths from drunk drivers were down 40 percent this past Fourth of July weekend, over previous years.

As to safety inspections — perhaps the terrible accident in Texas in which 14 people were killed in an overloaded van, moving slowly along the highway because its tires and shocks were not able to bear the weight of the passengers, might have been avoided if that woman had bumped, actually, into a safety inspection. It's been our observation that officers are quite adept at seeing the vehicles and drivers that may be in trouble, so that not every driver has to make a lengthy stop.

Which would you rather do: leave ten minutes early in case you get caught up in a roadblock, or not arrive at your destination at all? Think about it. Judging from the court records published in the Courier, this problem is not confined to cities, or to other states — it's right there at home.

Very truly yours,
Ann Higman Holmstead

Editor's note: The June 15 editorial concerned a Michigan State Police test program which took place recently downtown. In the program, State Police set up road blocks and required all drivers to pull over and stop for safety inspections. The position taken in the editorial was that unless there is reason to believe a person is doing something illegal, then police should leave that person alone and let them go about their business.

Browsing in dark, dusty, dingy antique shops was never my cup of tea, but things have changed dramatically, as I've discovered this summer. Now you'll find dust-free, well-lit, cheerful and attractive shops to tempt both the collector of antiques and collectible objects.

Thanks to a group of twelve enterprising local dealers, a well developed ANTIQUE CHARLEVOIX brochure is not only placed about town, but it has been distributed throughout the state, and it's bringing positive results.

People have been known to make the complete tour from shop one through twelve, and even staying overnight at the Edgewater Inn to do it. Most surprising is the cheerful spirit of co-operation among the dealers. "We've never been to a place where they call other dealers for you!" says the visitors.

Yes, co-operation is the name of the game. Looking for wicker furniture? Try the ROSE COTTAGE ANTIQUES near the Post Office owned by Jinx Pancoast. Looking for Art Deco? Stop by the NORTH SEAS GALLERY on Bridge Street. The McCarthys visit Europe annually to buy their desirables. If Mission furniture is on your wish list, you'll be referred to the SHOP OF ALL CRAFTERS also on Bridge Street. The owner, Greg Hughes, can show you a signed Tiffany oak trunk if that's what you need. And if you can't find what you are looking for here, he will refer you down the block to 604 BRIDGE ANTIQUES AND ART, where there's a marvelous rustic bed — perfect for a log cabin.

Downtown, there are three other stops to be made on your antique tour. MAISON & JARDIN is the newest galerie at 228 Bridge Street. It is filled with wonderful iron and antique furniture and topiary trees carefully selected by Brenda Teague. WILDFLOWER on 104 Park Avenue has a good selection of antique quilts as well as colorful throw pillows among many other things. Upstairs, Beverly Hill also has a bed and breakfast place for your convenience.

On Stover Road, KELLY RE-

FINISHING AND ANTIQUES not only can sell you an oak rocking chair, but Don Kelly can strip it for you, repair it or refinish it if you like.

North of town, across from the City Golf Course, is Jim Haggard's unique GARAGE SALE. His trained eye focuses on memorabilia of the '30s and '40s. Don't miss the Marilyn Monroe room with round-the-clock Monroe movies!

South of town on U.S. 31 you'll want to stop at the ANTIQUE MALL to browse with the help of Judy and Bill Carey. Then on to the SISTERS ANTIQUES — Evelyn and Shirley have been in business nineteen years and offer a huge variety of both antiques and collectibles.

The last two stops on M-66 are not to be missed. THE WOODEN DUCK is owned by Don Schmidt, woodcarver and is filled with, you guessed it, decoys and other ducky things. And finally STONEHEDGE GARDENS is truly a showplace, not only for the collector, but also for anyone who enjoys visiting a well tended garden with 60 varieties of flowers in full bloom. Dr. Trimmer, retired physician, divides his time between caring for the flowers and stocking the fish pond with goldfish in the summer, while in the winter he fashions bird houses out of barn lumber. His wife, Marcia, admits that after three years in the shop, "I am having the best time I ever remember!" The Trimmers have spent a lifetime collecting. Here you'll find fiesta ware, tin ware, cradles and whale-iv-er.

Marcia Trimmer, Jim Haggard, Jinx Pancoast and Don Kelly originally said, "Why don't we network together? If we don't have what people are looking for, let's refer them to each other. This way we can keep people in Charlevoix." And that's exactly the way it's turned out. Not only that, but the group has celebrated their joint venture with a competitive pot luck supper, where everyone brought something very delectable, and that's where the competition between these dealers begins and ends, at the buffet table with delectable collectables.

White roses and white orchids with greens decorated the church for the candlelight ceremony. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Wade Kramer.

The bride wore a gown of pearled, re-embroidered Alencon lace, tulle, and satin. The bodice was dropped-waist with long sleeves of pearled, re-embroidered Alencon lace over satin. The gathered skirt of tulle had a chapel length train and a large, candy box bow in back.

The bride's tiara headpiece was pearled lace with a cathedral length, ribbon-edged veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of long stemmed roses, white casablanca lilies, and white freesia.

The organist for the service was Robert Bryan, with Jeff Hilligan as vocalist.

Lisa Carlson was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Erika Beal, Beth Shermoen, Kerry McKeown, Rachel Janssen, and Carissa Paulson. Lynn Skeel was the bride's personal attendant. Church overseer from Ukraine to visit Charlevoix Church, July 27

Misha (Michael) Savich, from the Lugansk region of Ukraine and regional Overseer of a number of Pentecostal Union churches, will visit Charlevoix Wednesday, July 27. He will be guest speaker at Charlevoix Assembly of God in their service at 7 p.m.

Charlevoix Assembly Pastor Lowell Anderson participated with Savich in the establishment of a new congregation in Nikolivka, Ukraine in May. The new church in Nikolivka is a "sister-church" of Charlevoix Assembly of God and will be supported by them for at least a year until they become self-supporting.

As a result of the crusade in which Anderson participated in May there are currently 70-80 people meeting to worship on Sundays. In addition to the Sunday worship service, there are Tuesday Home Fellowship meetings and a Thursday Bible Study for instruction in Christian doctrine.

The Charlevoix congregation is able to communicate occasionally with their sister congregation by fax and keep track of their progress. It is expected that a "pen pal" relationship will develop between individuals from the two congregations. Local residents of Ukrainian descent, and anyone interested in current missions work in the Ukraine and former Soviet Union countries, are cordially invited to attend the July 27 service.

Conservancy to purchase portion of Beaver Island's Sand Bay

After a winter of legal questions and other uncertainties, the Little Traverse Conservancy's project to purchase a significant portion of Beaver Island's Little Sand Bay for a public nature preserve is off and running. The Conservancy has clinched its deal to purchase 60 acres with 1,300 feet of Lake Michigan frontage and one of only 13 sites in the world where the Michigan monkey flower can be found.

But the work is just beginning.

As Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey observed, "what we need to do now is pay for it." A fund raising campaign initiated last fall to raise money for the roughly $300,000 project has succeeded in producing nearly half the money for the purchase. But, Bailey points out, "the last $150,000 will be tougher to raise than the first."

However, because the fund raising has gotten off to such a successful start, Bailey believes that the prospects for overall success are good. The Conservancy credits early donors to the project with establishing a solid foundation upon which the fund raising can be completed. Among the lead donors are the Frey Foundation, which has approved a generous $30,000 grant; the Michigan Nature Conservancy with a pledge of $30,000 and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graham with a leadership donation of $5,000. Ralph McRae

McRae announces candidacy

The City of Charlevoix now has a candidate for mayor. Former mayor Ralph McRae has announced that he will run as a write-in candidate in the November general election.

The November mayoral election became interesting in May when incumbent mayor Dave Novotny resigned and said he was no longer interested in being mayor. Novotny was the only candidate who filed for the mayoral election and by the time he resigned the filing deadline was past. Consequently, Novotny is the only person whose name will appear on the ballot.

Since Novotny's resignation, mayor pro-term has filled in and handled the city's mayoral responsibilities. While various names have been bantered about as possible mayoral successors, McRae is the first person to officially announce his candidacy.

McRae was a city council member in the 1970s and served as mayor for two years in 1987 and 1988. He says he suspects his announcement may motivate other candidates to enter the race, which would be fine by him.

"I don't mind at all," he said. "I think we should have competition."

McRae, who is in his eighties, says of his qualifications that he's "over 18," that he's a registered voter and has some experience and knows a little about how the city functions. He said that in the past few weeks people have suggested that he run and that he feels running a sticker campaign will be an interesting experience.

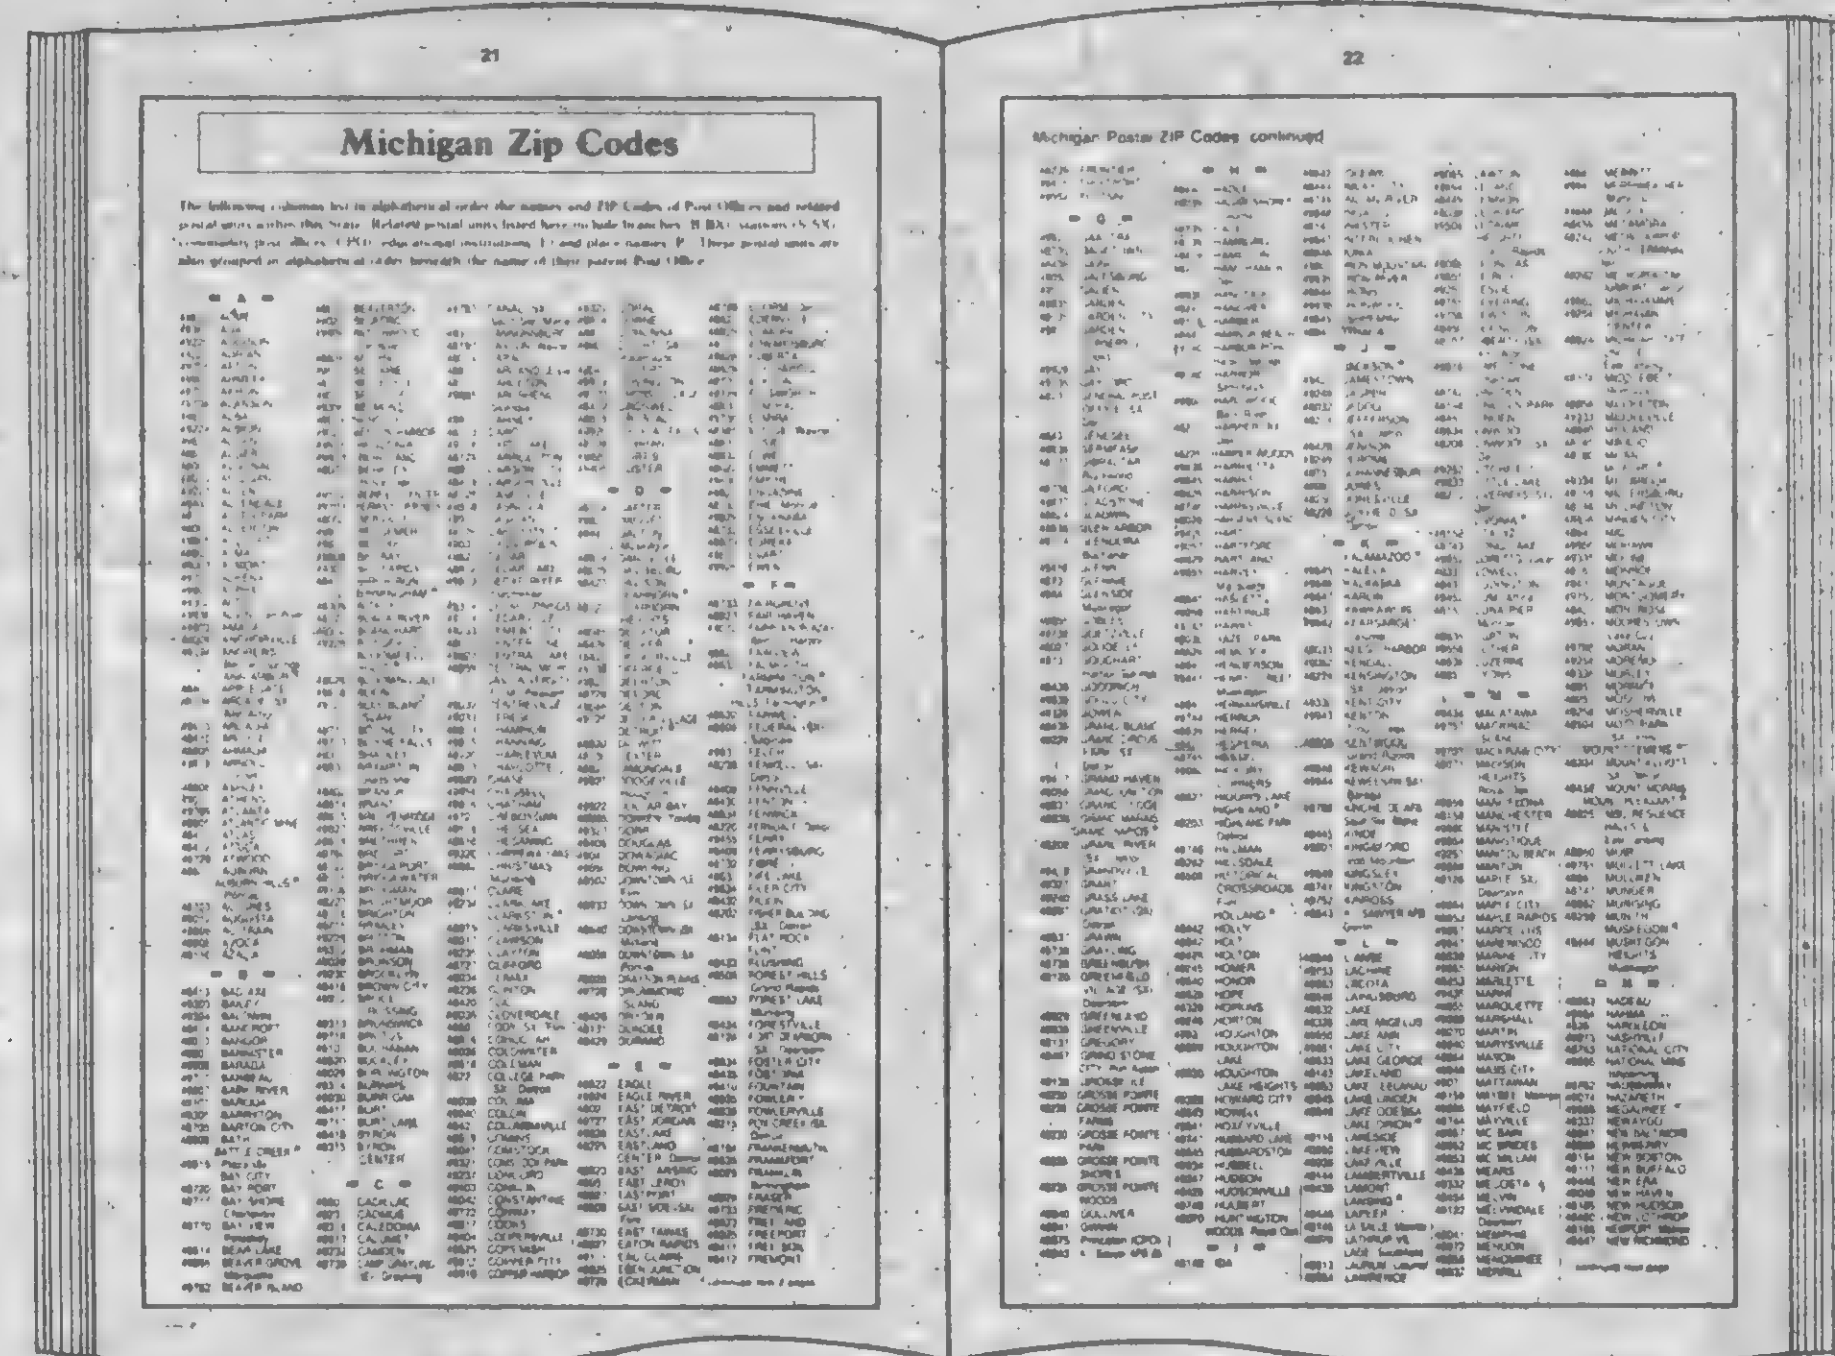

"I'm very Charlevoix community minded," McRae said. "I think a lot about Charlevoix."

In a letter announcing his candidacy, McRae wrote, "In traveling to many countries and visiting scores of foreign cities, I always want to come home. Come home to my Charlevoix, more beautiful than all those other places. No city so small has so much!"

McRae said that among the things he's most proud of from his previous stints in city government are his work on establishing the city charter and initiating the city housing commission.

Teen author to sign books in Charlevoix

Bridge Street Book Shop will host author Samantha Abeel of Traverse City as she begins her national tour to promote her book "Reach For The Moon." Abeel will discuss and sign her book at Bridge Street Book Shop in downtown Charlevoix from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Friday, July 29. Also in attendance will be Charles Murphy, an artist who did 16 watercolor paintings in the book. Providing music for the event will be Traverse City harpist Sylvia Norris.

Samantha Abeel

Reach For The Moon, a $17.95 hardcover book, is a collection of poetry and prose written by Abeel at age 13. Developed as an exercise to confront Abeel's learning disability, Reach For The Moon was originally self-published in 1993 under the title What Once Was White. Pfeiffer-Hamilton (publishers of the national award winning book Old Turtle) has redesigned, updated and published Abeel's book under the title Reach For The Moon. The republished version has won national acclaim for Abeel, who is now 16. In April, she received the 1994 Margo Marek Book Award as author of the best book written for parents and children on the subject of learning disabilities.

The public is invited to stop by Bridge Street Book Shop in advance of Abeel's appearance to pick up a free information packet explaining the extraordinary circumstances behind the creation of Reach For The Moon.

Becky Heise, a 1994 graduate of St. Mary's School, displays her winning work of art made possible through the Monica McHugh Miller Memorial Fund. Heise's picture will be the second traditional hall exhibit for future art students at the school.

Islanders and commissioners quarrel about road conditions

By Laurie Lounsbury

More than 40 frustrated Beaver Islanders packed the Peaine Township Hall for the annual Charlevoix County Commissioners meeting held on Beaver Island. Exasperated islanders came in hopes of finding a solution to their ongoing lawsuit with the Charlevoix County Road Commission. While islanders had an opportunity to vent their anger, they didn't get much closer to solving their road problem. Islanders and their commissioner Richie Gillespie had hoped that county commissioners would agree to loan money to the road commission and island townships to settle their lawsuit. The money would be used to finish work on King's Highway, including a triple sealed blacktop surface. The money would be paid back to the county in three to five years, with the road commission and townships sharing the cost.

Poor communication or no communication between the road commission, the island townships, and the county commissioners led to yet another impasse at the meeting. "There's never been any discussion with the board on this before. This is the first I've heard of it," Commissioner Chairman Don Smith said repeatedly. Smith was referring to a stipulation agreement between the road commission and the island townships that had been drawn up on May 18. The agreement would allow the two parties to settle their lawsuit out of court if the county commissioners would agree to the loan.

After two hours of heated discussion and comments, the board passed a motion that said, "The County Board of Commissioners is willing to provide assistance if a consensus agreement is reached among the parties to settle pending litigation, provided estimates and costs are made available and are acceptable."

That motion fell by the wayside after Smith attended a road commission meeting the following day. Smith said the road commissioners expected the county to loan 100 percent of the funds needed to repair King's Highway. Smith was under the impression that the townships and road commission wanted only 50 percent of the funds from the county. Smith said the board would not finance 100 percent of the project. "The only chance of saving this (from going to trial) is to get the road commission and the townships to figure out how they can come up with fifty percent of the money," Smith said. He then added, "They're willing to spend money left and right for attorneys, let them put some of that into the road project," Smith acknowledged that his concerns about funding the project were partially because of the amount of money and partially because he didn't want the board to set a legal precedent by helping townships financially for road projects. "The county has the money, but the county isn't in a position to finance road projects," he said. Greg Justis, attorney for the townships, and Gillespie insisted the money wasn't to be used for road work, it would be used to settle the lawsuit. "If the county board offered assistance, I have an agreement I could make the road commission accept. I can force them to get the work done," Justis said.

Setting a precedent seems to be a concern to several county commissioners. Howard Hosler, who represents East Jordan, was opposed to it, saying, "If we give the money for this then we're leaving the door wide open for other townships to do the same thing." Smith said Commissioner Phil Johnson, Boyne City, was totally opposed to it for the same reasons. Commissioner Jim Behling said at the meeting, "I represent four townships and I personally wouldn't approve loaning money to any of them for road projects."

At the heart of the lawsuit is the county commissioners' perceived moral responsibility to the islanders. Ed Wojan, a realtor on Beaver Island, said to the board, "You are indirectly responsible, since the appointments (to the road commission) were made by you. You have failed as commissioners in your appointments."

A visitor to the island said, "You could have been stock piling the money (from the state gas taxes) to help these people over here. You have the responsibility to follow through on the original road commission agreement to help these people."

Jim Willis, an island resident, referred to the original agreement between the townships and the road commission. The agreement was brought to the islanders by John Kujawski, a former road commissioner. "John was our only friend on that commission. He was the only one that cared about us," Willis said. Kujawski had promised the islanders that King's Highway would be torn apart, fixed, and then repaved. "John made promises when he didn't have the money to back it up," Smith replied.

A trial date is set for August 23.

Summer Slam 3-3 tournament planned

St. Mary's School of Charlevoix will host its second annual Summer Slam 3 on 3 basketball tournament, Sunday, Aug. 7. The double-elimination tournament will be played in the street next to St. Mary's School.

More than 40 teams played in last year's tournament and close to 100 teams are expected for this year's tournament.

The entry fee for the tournament is $40. Each team may have up to four players. Each player will receive a T-shirt and winning teams will receive individual trophies.

For more information or to request an entry form, phone 547-4541. The deadline for entries is July 31.

Recreation Department offers tennis lessons

The Charlevoix City Recreation Department will be sponsoring a second series of summer tennis lessons beginning July 30. The series of four one-hour lessons will take place on consecutive Saturdays, July 30, Aug. 6, 13 and 20. The cost is $16.

Beginners from ages seven to 12 will meet from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. Beginning adults will meet from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. Intermediate players will meet from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Advanced players will meet from 11 a.m. to noon.

Classes will be under the instruction of Fred Gokey and will take place at the city tennis courts near the Community Reformed Church. Players should bring a can of tennis balls and a racquet.

For additional information, contact the recreation department at 547-3253.

Watershed Council restoring wetlands

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council recently began working with interested landowners to help them restore previously degraded wetlands. The project began in 1993 when potential wetland restoration sites in Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Antrim Counties were identified by Watershed Council staff. The landowners were then notified of the possible restoration opportunities and were urged to contact the council to set-up a free site visit. So far the council has conducted eight site visits and have found a number of sites where the potential for a successful restoration project is high.

Choosing the sites is only the first step. More information needs to be gathered so that an appropriate design and plan can be developed. In May, groundwater measuring devices called piezometers were placed to determine fluctuations in groundwater levels. Each landowner is monitoring their own piezometers every week. Jim and June Habasco feel that this project will be very productive. "We enjoy having the wildlife around and we just want to help them out."

After all the data has been gathered, Watershed Council staff will work with the landowners to develop a site design and plan of action. Many of the landowners are interested in developing wetland habitat to benefit wildlife. Once the designs and plans are completed, Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) permits will be obtained where necessary. MDNR permits are needed if the restoration activity is going to take place in a wetland, lake, or stream.

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has just signed a Letter of Agreement with the MDNR Wildlife Division, which will provide cost-share dollars to help with the wetland restoration/enhancement projects. The money was given to the MDNR by Ducks Unlimited (DU). The MDNR/DU cost-share dollars will be directly distributed to the individual landowners to help with construction and maintenance costs.

If you are interested in restoring, creating, or enhancing wetlands on your property, please feel free to call the Watershed Council at (616) 347-1181.

...Sand Bay purchase

servancy and its Island steering committee will work hard to raise the remaining money.

The project came about because a group of Islanders designated the Little Sand Bay property as the number one priority on Beaver Island for acquisition and preservation. The proximity of the land to St. James and the general lack of public beach on the north end of the Island were key factors leading to the decision. When the property went on the market last year, exploratory fund raising letters were mailed to many Island property owners. The positive response convinced the steering committee and Conservancy that there is indeed enough support on the Island to raise the necessary funds.

The idea of a public nature preserve with an extensive sandy beach has the support of a broad cross section of Island residents, resorters and businesses. One year-rounder Islander commented that,
"we've always used that property like it belonged to everybody, but these days if you don't acquire it and keep it in public hands, you'll lose it. I'm glad we're going to make sure that the beach is always open to everybody."

Island realtor Ed Wojan sees other benefits to the project. "I think that having this property available to the public will enhance the value of inland property on the Island," he says. "If buyers of inland lots know that they'll always have access to a large beach and public nature preserve, they are bound to see those inland properties as a greater value."

From a conservation standpoint, the Little Sand Bay property has great value, as well. Endangered plants, fragile sand dunes, wetlands and steep slopes with diverse natural communities add up to a spectacular parcel of natural land. According to Dr. Jim Gillingham of the Central Michigan University Biological Station, the property offers one of the most diverse areas of natural habitat on the entire island.

Plans for the future of the property are now taking shape. The first consideration is to provide for the life lease, which the sellers have retained on a portion of the property.
"We want everyone to know that there is still a private residence on the property," Bailey said. "We'll be developing plans in the near future to provide parking spaces at the top of the bluff away from the home." Plans also include a trail to allow people to get down the bluff to the beach.

In time, the Conservancy plans a boardwalk trail across some of the fragile wetlands on the property.
But no more than that. The plan is to keep the property in its natural condition. "We want the people of Beaver Island to be able to use this property in the same manner as many of them have been using it all along: a quiet getaway and a beautiful natural area. The development of parking at the top of the bluff and a trail to the beach are about all we have planned," Bailey said.

Venetian goes on despite just enough rain to be interesting

By L. Scott Swanson

Can anybody remember the last time there was any kind of a problem with rain on Venetian weekend? You don't have to answer right away. Take some time. Scratch your head a bit.

This past Saturday evening, nature almost threw a wrench in plans for the Venetian boat parade and fireworks. For most of the day, the weather, as it has for years, cooperated. But late in the afternoon, dark gray clouds became visible over Lake Michigan. People at Lake Michigan Beach watched and hoped the storm would ride the winds and pass to the north of Charlevoix. But between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. rain began falling in Charlevoix.

For the next couple of hours, Venetian Festival Chairman John Taylor and Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Jacquie Merta debated whether to postpone the boat parade and fireworks or to continue as planned.

After the first portion of the storm passed, they walked down to the pier. Everything looked good at the moment, but then this is Michigan. The weather service had issued storm warnings through 11 p.m.

They talked to Richard Davis, who was in charge of shooting off the fireworks. Davis said he was equipped properly to deal with the precipitation.

They talked to Josh Barnes who was on the Venetian Committee boat out in Lake Charlevoix, getting the boats ready for the parade. He had been listening to the storm warnings and he had some reservations.

They talked to the skipper of the Beaver Islander. He figured the events could go forward safely enough.

In their minds, Taylor and Merta knew that if they cancelled and then the weather cleared, people would be upset and say, the weather was fine, they could have gone ahead. On the other hand, if they decided to go ahead and the weather got worse, people would be saying, well, they should have known the weather would be bad, it was bad earlier in the evening.

Ultimately, Merta and Taylor decided the show was a go. And what happened? As Merta describes it, "Right after we said, 'OK, we're gonna go for it, it started sprinkling. But then it cleared up.'"

Taylor still had his reservations. "I was worried about putting any boaters at risk," he said.

Merta recalled some past chamber meetings and parties that have been held despite snow or rain storms. "I'm just a real big believer in once you have it planned, go ahead and do it."

So the show went forward. There was a bit of a sprinkle around 9 p.m., but by an hour or so later when it was time for the boat parade and fireworks, everything had cleared up and weatherwise it had turned into a pretty nice evening.

Despite the threatening weather, thousands of people crowded into East Park and all around the harbor to witness the boat parade and fireworks.

Knights purchase building to use as hall

By L. Scott Swanson

Anyone who has planned a wedding reception or other large event in Charlevoix in recent years knows how difficult it can be to find a suitable hall. The Charlevoix Knights of Columbus have taken a step toward solving that problem by purchasing the former State Liquor Commission Warehouse on Bell's Bay Road, just off US 31, south of Charlevoix.

The Knights of Columbus plan to use the hall for their own functions, but also to make it available to the community for commercial and social activities. The building has more than 6,000 feet of floor space. Lou Orlovski, an architect and member of the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus, has already come up with preliminary plans for renovations. The building will have seating capacity for approximately 300 people. A portable wall will allow the facility to be used either as one large room or as two smaller rooms.

Monday morning, Orlovski and two other Knights of Columbus members, Larry Campbell and John Haggard were out looking the building over. Campbell is currently the Grand Knight in the local chapter and Haggard will be helping raise funds for the renovation. The two of them also happen to be an electrician and a plumber, respectively, and consequently know a little bit about renovations. Both of them began speculating about how soon the building would be ready and available to host functions.

Local sailor returns from a trip back in time

By L. Scott Swanson
Local attorney Bob Hoffman recently returned to Charlevoix and the year 1994 after spending a week back in the 1800s. Last month, Hoffman spent nine days sailing aboard the Madeline, a replica of a top-sail, two masted schooner from the mid 1800s. Hoffman was the third mate among an 11-person crew which sailed the schooner from Traverse City to Toronto, Canada.

In Canada, the Madeline was among 20 ships from all over the world which came to Toronto to celebrate Canada's bicentennial. Included among the ships were schooners, man-of-wars, brigs and brigantines and barques.

"You just felt like you were in another time," Hoffman said.

On the trip down the Madeline stopped at Put-In-Bay in Lake Erie, an island where Admiral Perry hid his ships during the war of 1812. While at Put-In-Bay the Madeline met up with the Niagara, a replica of Admiral Perry's flagship and sailed with her the rest of the way to Toronto.

Traveling with the Niagara provided Hoffman an opportunity to learn about the battle of Lake Erie, a decisive battle which gave Lake Erie to the United States and caused the British to withdraw from the Northwest Territories. The battle also provided Perry's oft-quoted report, "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

Hoffman said he also visited Long Point, an area of Lake Erie where 151 ships sank over the years, all but 11 of them schooners, the last one in 1972. History like that takes on a special meaning when you're sailing the area in a schooner.

Hoffman noted that in the mid 1800s the average lifetime of a working schooner was only five to seven years. The schooners didn't have any keels to speak of and consequently when they were under sail without a load they often would tip over and sink. The Madeline uses lead weights for stability.

Among the other ships the Madeline met was the British ship the HMS Rose. The Niagara and the HMS Rose staged a mock battle which Hoffman said was just a fantastic sight. The HMS Rose was built in the same harbor as the HMS Bounty of "Mutiny on the Bounty" fame.

Prior to entering the Toronto harbor on June 29, all of the ships met in Lake Ontario and formed a line and entered the harbor with sails up. Thousands of people lined the Toronto waterfront to welcome the ships. Hoffman said that while the Madeline was docked in Toronto for tours there were more than 100,000 people in the city with no problems at all. "It was just the nicest thing," he noted. "It's something we're really missing here in the U.S. in large cities."

Much of the trip was into a headwind and on most days there was at least some rain. In Lake Erie, the Madeline came upon a ship that was on fire and stayed with her until the Coast Guard arrived. Going through the Welland Canal involved passing through eight locks and dropping a total of 365 feet. Despite any hardships, Hoffman speaks of the trip fondly, as an adventure. "It was just a fabulous experience for me," he says.

Earlier in the day, many of the same people had packed the downtown area to watch the Venetian Street Parade. The street parade went without a hitch. Parade chairman Joe Trojanek noted that the permit the parade gets from the Michigan Department of Transportation calls for the parade to last no longer than an hour and a half. He said this year's parade started at 10:58 and the last entry was off of Bridge Street by 12:20.

Two other events which took place Saturday were the Breath Memorial Foot Race and WKLT/FMB Northwestern Bank beach volleyball tournament. The race drew just over 400 runners. (Results appear in the Courier sports section.) The volleyball tournament drew teams from Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Cadillac and Traverse City.

The Venetian queen competition took place Thursday evening with the queen crowned during intermission of the Drum and Bugle Corps Championship Friday evening. Natalie Ward was selected from among 13 candidates to serve as Venetian Queen for the coming year.

Taylor said the new competition format worked well. He said it seemed to be very well received, especially by the contestants.

tions. Initially, they were talking Christmas, but within a matter of seconds the timetable had moved ahead by several months. By the time the conversation was finished, it almost came as a surprise that events haven't been held at the hall already.

Orlowski, who was holding onto the plans for the building, offered a more conservative timetable. Although he too feels the building will be ready to host events in the fairly near future, over the long haul he is projecting a three-year phased construction schedule.

Renovating old home creates roots on Beaver Island

By Laurie Lounsbury

Claudia Schmidt and her husband Bill Palladino stood on the shore of the St. James Harbor, arms outstretched and waving at the Beaver Island ferry boat as it pulled away from Beaver Island. Schmidt, who is a nationally known folk singer, was not waving to musical groups or fellow entertainers. She and Palladino were waving to the departing patrons of their new bed and breakfast on Beaver Island. "There's something mythical about the boat," Schmidt explained. "With someone waving at you, keeping the connection for as long as you can, it's nice."

Nice, warm, and down to earth are what Schmidt and Palladino are all about. They didn't make the move to Beaver Island so that Schmidt could rest on her laurels. It might have been the peace and pristine beauty that drew Schmidt to the island in the first place, but peace and quiet didn't stay a part of her life style for long. After rounding up her husband in Minnesota, "She tricked me into coming here," Palladino joked. Schmidt and Palladino made the leap into the bed and breakfast business.

Schmidt had the full support of her parents, Jane and Gus Schmidt, when they jointly embarked on the rocky road of restoring an aging farmhouse to a bed and breakfast. The structure dates back to the 1870s, and is full of island lore and intrigue. When the going got tough, it was the islanders and their stories of the old home that kept them going. Islander Archie LaFreniere would stop by during the renovation process and tell them of the parties his great grandfather hosted in the house. The McDonoughs would fill in historical gaps with stories of their great grandmother, Mary Bert McDonough, who was born in the house. "She's like everyone's grandmother on the island," Schmidt said. "We named a bedroom after her."

Although the islanders supported Schmidt and Palladino in their project, they had their doubts at the beginning. "The islanders were askeance at first. They thought we should bulldoze the place," Schmidt said.

The six year process almost turned out to be more than they bargained for. Some of the 100 year old, chinked logs had to be replaced. Finding suitable logs required going to a log restoration specialist in Muskegon and having seven, 30-foot long logs shipped to the island. Watching the logs being off-loaded at the boat docks was a half day's entertainment for the islanders.

Since freight and shipping to the island is a major obstacle, Schmidt and Palladino decided to recycle materials already on the island for their business. They've scrounged around for abandoned clawfoot tubs, a kitchen table from the King Strang Hotel, and impressive doors that are getting a third or fourth shot at life. "It slows the process down, but it's become our mission to recycle old island things," Schmidt said. She laughed when she remembered a time during the process when her husband opened the barn door and gazed at the pile of battered old items they'd collected. "Everything we have is either broken down or weighs over a thousand pounds," Palladino groaned at the time.

Their efforts have not gone to waste. The Bluebird Bed and Breakfast is becoming a historical showplace, with newly chinked log walls of the rooms providing the background for the eclectic collection of antiques and quilts.

So how does Schmidt balance her musical career with her new role as B & B operator? "Life is even fuller now," Schmidt says with a self-effacing smile. She has arranged her performance schedule so that most of her performances are regional, with the exception of two major tours. "It's tiring, but doable," she said. Schmidt finds it a little more wrenching every time she has to leave the island. "One of these times she's gonna send me instead," Palladino said, giving her his usual warm glance. The two work together like the harmony and melody lines of a well-written song.

While the B & B project and Schmidt's musical career have swallowed up most of their waking hours, the two can't help but take an interest in island politics. "How did the commissioner meeting go?" Palladino asked, hungry for news. They are justifiably interested in the island's present and future state. They have put down their roots and are planning to live on the island for the long haul. "We've been here three winters in a row. That's a pretty good indication that we'll stay here," Palladino said.

Schmidt is excited by the prospect of immersing herself in island life. "If you care about a place, you can't help but get involved, ultimately. I'll be here the rest of my life. I have a stake in this," she said. As a traveling musician, Schmidt was never a part of any community long enough to be entrenched with community life. "I never felt compelled to do that anywhere else," she said.

Now Schmidt leaves the island for shorter periods of time to give concerts and record her music. Her music is weaving its way into the integral part of the island. She sings on the porch during museum week and joins local singers when they're playing at the Shamrock bar and

Teamwork makes Venetian a success

Despite the weather acting up a bit early Saturday evening, Charlevoix's 1994 Venetian Festival ran extremely well, much to the delight of thousands of people.

While a multitude of people enjoy the weekend of activity, far fewer realize just how much planning and work is involved to make the event happen. The festival has now reached a level where planning for next year's festival begins almost before this year's is over. Even as events are happening, organizers are asking themselves, what can we do to make this better next year? People are constantly tweaking things to improve the end product.

Although planning begins early, no matter how much is done it seems like there's always a rush in the week preceding the festival. The Chamber of Commerce is a hub of activity with programs and T-shirts stacked throughout the small office and the phone ringing constantly. Although none of the events begin until Thursday night, the general activity level downtown picks up discernably several days earlier.

City workers make preparations in advance and also pull extra duty during the festival. In recent years, the street department has seen to it that portable restrooms are placed at strategic locations for the festival. Even though the Saturday evening fireworks crowd inevitably leaves a substantial mess, by early Sunday morning the street department has downtown

Charlevoix back to its normal neat and clean state.

Local law enforcement departments also see extra duty during the Venetian Festival. During the summer, Charlevoix pedestrian and vehicle traffic is never any big thrill to keep in order, but during Venetian it's an even greater challenge.

The chairmen of all of the various activities volunteer their time and talents, each spending hours getting things together so that their part of the overall festival will be a success.

This past Monday afternoon, John Taylor, the Venetian Festival General Chairman and Jacqueline Merta, Chamber of Commerce Executive Director were at the Chamber office sorting out the results of this year's festival when the phone rang. It was a man from Brighton who had attended this past weekend's festival. He had called to say not only how much he had enjoyed the festival, but how impressed he was by the teamwork displayed by so many in the community who worked to make the festival happen.

While the Venetian Festival serves as an opportunity to showcase Charlevoix's natural beauty, it also serves as an opportunity to showcase something else. That something else is every bit as valuable to Charlevoix as the lakes and scenery the town is known for. That something else is the character of the people in our small northern Michigan community.

Drivers need to show more caution

Editor,

Re: Driver's Bill of Rights

My desperate leap to avoid a rusty Chevette tearing along the shoulder of US31 caused me to lift the foot I usually keep on my tongue to prevent its wagging. Thus, this letter.

The Chevette had swerved right across the fog line while maintaining speed to pass a Buick beginning to slow and show its left turn signal. About to lash out at the Chevette driver who had forced me to jump to the ditch for dear life, I stopped to snatch a paper which he'd flung from his open window as he swerved back onto the highway. About to chuck it in a nearby waste can, I paused. It bore an official seal and much legal looking script.

LOC - DRIVERS BILL OF RIGHTS

(A beer stain blotted the last part of the first word which could have made it either "local" or "loco" but to continue...)

Article One

A well-ordered fluidity of traffic being necessary to the security of a free State highway; the right of the people to keep driving forward in spite of left turning or otherwise slow traffic shall not be abridged.

(Well, There you have it, I thought. Now I know why so many local/loco drivers pass cars ahead of them by using the shoulder; that is, crossing the fog line. But the document continued.)

Article Two

A driver observing a vehicle ahead, signaling a left turn, shall, without braking or signaling himself, immediately swerve right across the fog line while maintaining at least the posted speed limit; and using the shoulder, pass the offending vehicle.

Article Three

Regarding the possibility of foot, baby carriage, animal or bike traffic occupying said shoulder the prudent driver will accelerate to lessen the time his vehicle occupies the aforesaid shoulder.

Sub-Section A

In the event the driver ahead merely slows for a left-turner in front of him instead of taking to the shoulder, then speeds up, (what nerve!) or if some fool coming toward you seeks to turn left, stupidly assuming no one would be coming toward him on the shoulder to his left, your car speeding by will dramatically alert him to his error.

Sub-Section B

Similarly, you are well advised to make robust use of your horn as well as stir up gravel and dust as you zip by so as to alarm the slowpoke, left turner, or opposing direction left turner of your right to "keep driving forward."

End of Document

In closing, I add that subsequent to my tongue becoming free of my foot, I placed the rascal in my cheek.

Yours for local/loco drivers' right to pass right,
John R. Alberts

Troupe shows Castle potential

Editor,

Watch our Young Americans! Here comes Charlevoix's Silly Sidewalk Troupe!! Under the capable and spirited direction of Mindy Noiro, 20 young people participated in a theater workshop at Castle Farm Community Center on Friday, July 22. The children presented Shel Silverstein poems and wowed the audience with capable and talented renditions of show tunes. And this impressive feat was accomplished in only five morning sessions!!

This summer Castle Farm Community Center has facilitated happy recreational and musical activities for children and families! There is so much great potential for growth! The location is fabulous! The charm and interest of the site invaluable. The Michigan State connections make possible unlimited educational on-site resources. The site is large enough to house a pool, a real bona fide auditorium (Someday!! In the mean time, Mindy has shown us that the beginning can happen on an open, outdoor stage!!). The site could house camps, old fashioned fairs, sports events etc.

Our young people work so hard and are so talented! As adults, it is our challenge to create and maintain for our children the physical facilities and opportunities needed to encourage them to expand their boundaries, to explore and share their talents and to reach for their dreams. We can make it happen at Castle Farm Community Center!! It will take a giant (church, business, youth groups, service clubs, government agencies and private citizens) co-operative effort. It challenges us to ask "How can we work together to make this happen? What can I give to make this better?"

It is the largest challenge that presents us with the greatest opportunity for growth and success. Our resources are bountiful. Our children and community need Castle Farm Community Center. We can do this! Lets get busy!

Schmidt will be leaving the island briefly this week. She's performing at the Community Reformed Church benefit for "Love

For Children" in Charlevoix on July 29. After that, she'll be back on the island, tending to her horses, pounding nails, and delighting her guests with a liberal dose of Schmidt and Palladino-style effusive hospitality at the Bluebird Bed and Breakfast.

Historical Society to re-enact court proceedings and hear from historian

Tuesday, Aug. 2 the Charlevoix Historical Society will host their annual trial re-enactment. The trial will be in the newly remodeled courtroom at the Charlevoix County Building on State Street, Charlevoix. The proceedings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

This year the re-enactment is a Preliminary Examination for The People of the State of Michigan vs. Freeland Ernest Merchant. It was held before Hon. John J. Connolly, Justice of the Peace. Prosecuting Attorney was Harvey C. Varnum, and Attorney for the Defendant was Norman D. Ance. The original hearing date was November 4, 1960.

The hearing involves the charge of breaking and entering in night time at the Charlevoix Oil Company, 101 Michigan Avenue, Charlevoix, Michigan.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will also host a special program, Friday, Aug. 12 with historian and writer Debra E. Bernhardt as the speaker. She will talk about the need to record our history for future generations.

Bernhardt is currently Head of Archival Collections at New York University. She earned her B.A. at the University of Michigan, History of Ideas; Creative Writing and American Literature. M.A. from Wayne State University, American History and Archival Administration. Doctor of Philosophy; History, New York University.

She has received many honors and awards such as the Avery Hopwood Award for Short Fiction; B.A. Summa Cum Laude, University of Michigan; History Society of Michigan Award of Merit for "innovative work as a researcher and writer of the rich history of Iron County."

Bernhardt is currently working on a pictorial history of New York labor for which she has collected 3,600 interviews with working

New Yorkers.

She says she got started on this interesting path as a volunteer guide at the Iron County Historical Society in Caspian, Michigan. "Retired miners would come to visit and I would end up listening, not guiding." Her reader's theater play entitled "Black Rock and Roses" based on more than 100 interviews from her home town, will be revived in September for the Michigan Division of History's conference commemorating the 150th anniversary of the discovery of iron in the Upper Peninsula. This performance will raise money to establish a miner's memorial at the Iron County Museum.

The program will be at the Harsha House Museum, 103 State Street, Charlevoix at 7:30 p.m.

Hospital board evaluates status at annual meeting

"This has been a momentous year in the history of Charlevoix Area Hospital. Not only is it our 75th anniversary, but we have also completed this beautiful and functional new facility," said Charlevoix Area Hospital Board Chairman Norman Perkins, at the hospital's annual meeting on July 19.

Approximately 30 people heard reports on the building program from Perkins and Richard L. Krueger, hospital president. In addition, Treasurer John Buick reported total operating income for the hospital in fiscal year March 31, 1993 to March 31, 1994 was $8,774,501. Wages, salaries and fees were $4,878,566, he said. "There was a small deficit with operating income less than operating expenses by $27,227," Buick said, "but after contributions, interest, and other non-operating income, there remains $536,768 available for plant and equipment needs."

Krueger voiced concern about the future of small hospitals in view of proposed health care reform legislation that includes year-to-year cost controls plus cuts from the Medicare budget. "Unless there is a way to recover our costs for care and treatment, it will be difficult to survive," he said.

Rebecca Haney, Guild president, said there were 89 volunteers who assisted with various services including information desk, and patient services. "There were 200 members from Boyne City, Keewadin, East Jordan, and Charlevoix who supported the hospital with time and dollars," she said.

Three board members were re-elected to new three-year terms on the board. Norman Perkins, Rebecca Haney and Arthur (Al) Ranger were elected by unanimous vote.

Perkins expressed gratitude to Dr. Rod Tinney for his service on the board during his tenure as chief of staff. "Rod's thoughtfulness, wise and gentle counsel was a great asset to the board and will certainly be missed," he said.

Perkins is retiring from chairmanship of the board this year. He said, "I know I leave the chairmanship with the hospital well positioned to successfully meet the challenges and opportunities of the next decade. I am proud to have had the privilege to serve in this capacity."

Hilda Mae Maitrott

Hilda Mae Maitrott, 82, of Clawson, died July 22, 1994, at Manor Care Center in Towson, Md.

Funeral was held July 25, at the Clawson United Methodist Church. Burial took place in White Chapel, Troy.

Mrs. Maitrott was born July 12, 1912, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Edwin and Clara (O'Brien) Cook.

She spent her adult years in the Detroit area.

Her husband, Stanley Alton Maitrott, preceded her in death in 1978.

Mrs. Maitrott worked as a secretary for the Clawson School System from 1955-77.

She was active in several women's groups in the Clawson area, including the Clawson Business Women's Association. She was also a member of the Clawson PTA, was active in various bridge groups, and was a volunteer at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Survivors include two daughters, Patricia Melican of California, and Beverly Stetmel of Hunt Valley, Md.; one son, Fred of Clarkston; seven grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and a sister, Bernice Needham of Alma.

The family suggests memorial contributions be directed to the Clawson Public Library.

Arrangements were handled by the Gramer Funeral Home in Clawson.

Agnes D. Olson

Agnes D. Olson, 71, of Charlevoix, died July 23, 1994, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be held 11 a.m. Friday, July 29, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. James Luginbuhl and the Rev. James Green of the Bible Baptist Church will officiate. Interment will be in Barnard Cemetery, Charlevoix.

She was born on Feb. 1, 1923, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Joseph and Mary (Prehal) Dvoracek. She was a lifelong resident of the area. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1940.

On April 24, 1948, she married Robert L. Olson in Detroit, and he survives.

She was a member of the Bible Baptist Church.

She is survived by her husband, Robert L.; three daughters, Karen Dickinson, and her husband, David, of Charlevoix; Sharon Repper, and her husband, William, of Flushing; and Candace Armstrong, and her husband, Daniel, of Eufless, Texas; two sons, Robert E. Olson and Edwin Olson, both of Charlevoix; 10 grandchildren, three brothers, Tony Dvoracek, and his wife, Elaine, and Charles Dvoracek; and his wife, Shirley, all of Charlevoix, and William Dvoracek of Florida and Lansing; three sisters, Emma Childers of Vallejo, Calif., Augusta Bauman of Boyne City, and Bessie Rajskub of East Jordan.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Bible Baptist Church of Charlevoix. Envelopes will be available at the Winchester Funeral Home where friends may call 7-9 p.m. Thursday, July 28.

Just because it is gone from our sight, does that mean it is gone? No, of course not. Just about the time we lose sight of it, people in St. James who are on the lookout begin to catch a glimpse of it. Folks gather at the dock to welcome it. The tourists and families begin their vacations. The business folks make their rounds. It may be out of sight of Charlevoix but life does go on.

The ferry's journey is not too different from the voyage all of us make through life. When we are born and beginning our journey, there are a number of loved ones in attendance teaching and equipping us for what lies ahead. Finishing school, we clear the last breakwater of our childhood and venture out into the open at full cruise. Sometimes the journey is smooth. Sometimes the waters have been known to be a little rough. But you discover that you do make it through.

Anyone who sets out on this sailing venture we know as life needs to remember that there is a port of call, an end destination, awaiting us all. The thought of it bothers some folks. But if they realized who awaits them, it should cheer them on. Loved ones who made it possible for you to get underway are there. Friends that made a difference in your life by trailblazing are there. And someone else is ready to welcome you as well. The Lord. Life is more like a sailing voyage than we sometimes realize. So is death. The sting is not nearly as great when you remember what awaits you on the other shore.

New high school principal hired

By Laurie Lounsbury

With the unanimous support of the selection committee, Gary Grundman has been chosen to be the Charlevoix High School principal. Grundman was one of the finalists in the first round of principal selection, losing out to Richard Balogna, who turned down the job.

Grundman has a B.S. and Master's degree from Central Michigan University. He most recently was the high school principal at Allen Park High School.

Teacher Connie Ford, a member of the principal selection committee, said the group went through all of the original applications after Balogna turned down the job, citing family reasons for declining. The committee revisited the top three finalists before selecting Grundman. "He just floated to the top after we talked to teachers, parents, and kids at his school. They all emphasized his involvement in many improvement committees. He has held a variety of positions to draw experience from," Ford said.

Grundman has experience in changing a school over to outcomes based accreditation, a process that the Charlevoix High School is undergoing. Grundman has also implemented MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) objectives and school improvement teams at his various positions.

Grundman was principal of Harbor Beach High School before his current position. Prior to that, he held three assistant principal positions and three athletic director positions.

"We had four very qualified men to choose from," Ford said of the selection process. "It came down to which one would fulfill our needs the best."

Ford is comfortable with the committee's choice. She said the committee worked together and if anyone was uncomfortable with any aspect of a candidate, they looked into it until they got the answers they needed.

The school board approved the hiring at its July 18 meeting.

Police chief reports on two weeks of traffic scrutiny

By L. Scott Swanson

At Monday evening's city council meeting, City Police Chief Dennis Halverson reported on the past two weeks' efforts of intensified traffic patrols on Bridge Street. Two weeks ago a group of residents presented a petition and complained that vehicles are going too fast on Bridge Street. At that time, the council directed police to step up patrols and report back.

Monday evening, Halverson reported that in the past two weeks a total of 55 hours had been devoted specifically to patrolling Bridge Street within the city limits. During that time, city police stopped 80 vehicles and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department stopped 60 vehicles. About half were issued tickets and half received warnings. During the corresponding period in 1993, a total of 43 vehicles were stopped in the entire city.

During the past two weeks, city police also did three speed studies. July 19, near the intersection of Petoskey Ave. (a.k.a. Bridge Street) and Central (an area where the posted speed limit is 35 miles per hour), city police monitored 207 cars in 20 minutes and found the average speed to be 33.9 miles per hour. On July 25 at the same location, police monitored 110 vehicles in a 14 minute period and found the average speed to be 35.27 miles per hour. July 30, near the intersection of Petoskey and Burns (an area where the posted speed limit is 25 miles per hour) city police monitored 310 vehicles in an hour and

Picking up the place

By Laurie Lounsbury

Clara L. Martin has discovered the key to fitness and beauty. She stays fit by taking a brisk walk down M-66 every morning. Along the way she picks up litter, maintaining Charlevoix's beauty. Martin has been taking daily walks down M-66 to Charlevoix's McDonalds for the last five years, cleaning up the roadside as she goes. "I'm the one who has to look at it, so I figured I might as well pick it up," Martin said.

Martin's efforts haven't gone unnoticed. Regular commuters along M-66 see Martin cleaning the roadside when they drive to work. After a few trips down M-66, the drivers and Martin become drive-by friends, waving to one another each day. Several make a point to stop and thank Martin for her efforts. "They really appreciate it," Martin said. With all the waving she does, it's hard to imagine how she squeezes in a moment to bend over and pick up trash.

found their average speed to be 31.57 miles per hour.

Halverson said the sheriff's department will continue spending additional time on Petoskey Avenue for the next couple of weeks and the city police also will be spending increased time there.

Third ward council member Jackie Cross asked Halverson if raising some of the posted speed limits from 25 to 35, as proposed by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), would lead to a corresponding increase in the average speed of cars. Halverson said that according to traffic experts, the answer is no.

First ward council member Don McGinnis said he would like to see the speed limit on the north side drop from 55 to 35 at Mercer rather than near Phillip's gas station where it now drops to 35. He said caution lights are another thing he would like to see considered.

Halverson said caution lights have been discussed in the past, but MDOT has been reluctant. He said he suspects that is because of concern that lights would give pedestrians a false sense of security and that different drivers would respond to the caution lights in different ways.

Commuters aren't the only ones to notice Martin picking up debris along the roadside. Don Pizzuro of Waste Management noticed her years ago. He now supplies her with Waste Management garbage bags so the cost of the garbage disposal doesn't fall to Martin. Other businesses along Martin's route have offered the use of their dumpsters. In the fall, when the days get shorter, county road workers worried about Martin being seen in the pre-dawn hours. They allayed their fears by giving her a bright orange, glow in the dark vest trimmed with reflector tape.

Martin has come to regard the stretch of M-66 from her house to Charlevoix as her own maintenance responsibility. "I was riding my bike to the store to get a loaf of bread after my morning walk and I saw something on the ground. Uh-Oh, I said to myself, I'll have to get that tomorrow," Martin cleans one side of the highway on her way to McDonald's, filling a shopping bag with trash. After sharing a cup of hot chocolate with her friends at the restaurant, she walks back home on the other side of the road, cleaning what she didn't get on her way into town. Twice a week, she takes a different route, going down Ferry Avenue and past the street department. "That doesn't get too bad," Martin explained. "It only needs cleaning twice a week."

Martin has lived on M-66 since 1952. She and her husband Jim are both retired and spend seven months a year in Florida. Clara was a nurse at Little Traverse Hospital and Jim was an employee for the city street department. "I guess I've always had an interest in the streets because of that," Clara said.

If you're driving on M-66 between 6:30 and 8:00 in the morning, keep an eye out for a spunky lady with a shopping bag in her hand. She's keeping one section of Charlevoix Beautiful.

Four firemen resign from city fire department

By TAMARA BURLEY
News-Review staff writer

Firefighting services for the city will not be diminished by the resignations of four volunteer firefighters, said city and fire department officials.

"The city can handle any emergency," said fire chief Doug Carver.

Following a smoldering silo fire on Sunday, July 24, Larry Swanson, John Fratrack, Douglas Bergmann and Robert Geer resigned their volunteer positions on the city fire department.

Swanson, who has been a volunteer firefighter for 15 years, said what happened at Sunday's fire was something that had been getting worse over the past year.

"Enough of us had it," Swanson said. "The city doesn't want to put out fires, they are so safety-conscious they just stand around."

Fire chief Carver said the fire department's number one responsibility is preserving life and property, but the liability of firefighters' safety falls with the city council and himself.

"We're concerned about putting out fires, but our obligation is to the safety of the firemen," Carver said. If a firefighter becomes injured at the scene of a fire, Carver said, the department would then have to redirect its resources to helping or saving the firemen.

"That would be counterproductive to putting out the fire, so safety is a number one concern," Carver said.

At Sunday's smoldering silo fire, Swanson was one of the first to arrive because he lives nearby. He said he turned off the silo's electricity, grabbed a hose and began to climb up the inside of the silo when other firefighters turned off the water to his hose.

Chief Carver said the fire was not an emergency situation nor were lives in danger, so they decided to call in Petoskey's aerial truck to put out the fire.

"He (Swanson) was not in the burning silo when they shut the water off," Carver said. The firefighters were pulling the hose line back away from the building and then they shut the water off, Carver said.

"Swanson was not using the hose to extinguish the fire," Carver said. "We would never do that if a man was in a burning building."

"They moved back when it was decided we were going to move the fire truck and relocate it," Carver said. "We had just completed a silo fire training session on July 5," Carver said. "At that training we discussed how if no lives were involved we would stay back and call for an aerial truck."

Carver said the four volunteers who resigned did not attend that training session.

Carver said Swanson was wearing only part of his required turnout gear (protective clothing including boots, pants, jacket, hat, gloves and oxygen mask and tanks) at Sunday's fire.

"I'm from the old school where you get in there and get the fire out," Swanson said. "There are a lot of men who want to look like firemen but not be firemen."

Swanson said the fire department has lost 50 years' experience with the four men who have resigned.

"You should have some old guys on the department, because you don't have a fire every week," Swanson said. "It takes years to get experience."

Bob Lindstrom, shift commander for the city fire department, said the city's services will not change. "We have adequate personnel now," said city manager Mike Wiesner.

The city has a mutual aid agreement with surrounding townships, Wiesner said, and those townships will be able to assist in an emergency.

Swanson volunteers for the Charlevoix Township fire department and he said he will continue to provide services for the township.

"I'll be able to get in there and put out fires," Swanson said.

"There are good people there (at the city department) but they won't let them do anything," Swanson said.

Carver said replacing the volunteers will not be a problem.

"We have applications on file, and we will continue to accept applications for the fall fire fighting class," Carver said.

Demand more from candidates than a claim of being "one of us"

By the time this editorial hits the streets, the primary election will be over as will the volley of last minute campaigning that has been hitting from all directions in the past week.

In the primary election, candidates attempted to cast themselves as "one of us." Voters were advised to get rid of those politicians and send "one of us" to Lansing or Washington "for a change." The "I'm one of us and not a politician" campaign theme has always been popular among politicians, but this year it seemed so more than ever.

Although the theme is popular among politicians, here's one voice saying, "I don't like it. Please get rid of it."

To begin with it's rather disingenuous for people running for political office to claim they are not politicians. By definition, a person seeking political office is a politician. They may not be a career politician, but they are a politician. Rather than denying it, they would be better off admitting and then defining for voters their feelings on the appropriate role of politicians in public service. Rather than claiming not to be politicians, a candidate would be better off to say - Yes, I'm a politician to the point that I am hoping to be elected to office. However, my background is in private enterprise. I view holding a political office as an act of public service. After a limited period in politics, I hope to return to the private sector which, with any luck, will be better off due to my public service.

One of the biggest questions raised by the "one-of-us" campaign theme, is just who does this person think "us" is? How does this candidate define "us?" Even in a campaign on a local level, the voting populace is remarkably diverse. Anyone who is used to offering opinions on public topics will tell you that on any topic of controversy there is a wide range of opinions among the populace. Many intelligent and honorable people see things differently and disagree on various issues of the day. That's a healthy part of a free society. However, it makes life a bit difficult for a political candidate who is trying to convince everyone that their opinion is one the candidate shares. That's why candidates resort to the "one of us" theme and it's also why we as voters and constituents should demand better.

Voters should be offended by candidates who feel that all voters need to know is that the candidate is "one of us." Voters should demand to know what the candidate feels is encompassed by being "one of us." Is the candidate one of us who feels that the appropriate role of government is to provide services for the population and help people whenever possible? Or is the candidate one of us who believes that the appropriate role of government should be limited, staying out of people's lives as much as possible and leaving room for individual initiative? On an issue by issue basis, there's a lot of room for diversity even among those two camps.

As we move past the primary election and toward the November general election, it would be good for voters to demand, and for candidates to provide, more than the "one of us" campaign theme

Waiting for the bridge is part of Charlevoix

by EDITH GILBERT

Waiting for the bridge to go up or down is one of the fringe benefits for living in Charlevoix. It's what makes us different from the rest of the world. Those of us who live here during the summer have learned how to cope with the wait without becoming anxious or exercised. Our blood pressure remains normal. We stay cool. We deal with the situation philosophically.

Never mind that traffic is backed up on both sides for nearly a mile. People on their way north may sit with furrowed brow, drumming fingers on the steering wheel, swearing under their breaths and hyperventilating.

Not our locals.

Some of us wisely keep newspapers, magazines, catalogues and mail handy to rifle through. Some of us do crossword puzzles, write memos or talk on our car phones. Sometimes we get out of the car and stretch or visit with a friend in the car behind us. We might even make a friendly bet with a passenger in our car on how many minutes and seconds will pass until the bridge opens up.

Some of us have the bridge timing so finely tuned, if we're downtown, we can run into Murdock's and buy a pound of chocolate fudge with walnuts without losing a beat.

Or we may scan the pleasure boats at the city dock and guess where they're from — Chicago, Cincinnati, Toronto? We may choose to reminisce on the changes we've noticed on Round Lake — no more railroad bridge spanning the entrance to Lake Charlevoix. (What year was that taken down?) No more fish nets on the south shore. No more Hamilton's Marina. We may contemplate on how Round Lake will look in the future without Bellinger's Marina.

If we're closer to the bridge, we'll notice vacationers taking pictures of the Beaver Island Ferry; we'll see parents and grandparents with wide-eyed children watching the sailboats slide gracefully through the channel. We'll see boys standing with their bicycles dreaming of tomorrow when they too can sit in their cars waiting for the bridge. We may notice people with dripping ice cream cones, and we may even have time to run into Cravings for an ice cream cone ourselves.

We may check the weather over Lake Michigan. Is the sky a cornflower blue or are there pewter, rain-filled clouds rolling across the channel? Will we be able to grill outside tomorrow or do we skip watering the lawn?

Finally, there's the clanging bell! The bridge is going down slowly. Our reverie is over. Cars are starting to move. We're back in the real world and our bridge break is done for this trip.

Northern Michigan people were great through Bryan's illness

Editor,

To the people of northern Michigan:

I wish to take this opportunity to say "Thank you" so much for all the love, concern and generosity shown this past year for our son, Bryan Keith Roloff. We could have never made it during those horrible days without all your support. Neither could we have Bryan.

Today (Aug. 3) would have been his 31st birthday. At this special time we would like to remember not only him (Bryan) but all of you wonderful people throughout northern Michigan.

Thank you and God bless each and every one of you.

Love,

Shirley "Mom" Roloff

Editor,

The picture in the Courier of two boys swimming in Round Lake brought back memories of a swimming race Harold Geiken and I had in the early twenties. We raced from my Dad's boatyard (where the LaHarve condominiums now stand) to the Chicago Club boathouses, followed by a rowboat. Harold, I and the rowboat ended up in the channel on Old Island close to the piers. The current was flowing from Lake Michigan into Pine Lake at such a rate we could not combat it. We never raced again.

City discusses merits of overhead versus underground wires

By L. Scott Swanson

Pat Ranger appeared before the city council Monday evening to complain about recently installed overhead electrical wires between her home and Lake Michigan beach. Ranger's discontent struck a chord with third ward council member Bruce Reid who advised Ranger that if she wanted to see a real mass of overhead wires she should take a look at the wires between his house (near the corner of Stover and May) and Ferry Beach.

Prior to the council meeting, Ranger had written a letter to the editor which appeared in both the Courier and News-Review. Monday evening, she reiterated her concern about the recently installed electrical wires in the area bordered by Park Avenue, Grant and Palmer Streets. She encouraged the city to consider placing wires underground in areas near the Lake Michigan shoreline. Ranger cited Traverse City and Petoskey as examples of area communities which have placed wires underground in shoreline areas.

While noting that wires in the Lake Michigan park are underground, she said that other wires near the lakeshore should also be underground. Ranger maintained that although underground wires are more costly to install, overhead wires are more costly to maintain and unsafe if they fall. She said the area near the beach is subject to high winds. Ranger said those issues, while important, were secondary. She said beautification was the main issue.

"If you upgrade the (electrical) system, let's do it right," she said.

City electrical superintendent Ed Whitley noted that while overhead wires offer certain dangers, so do underground wires to people digging or driving stakes. He said that while underground wires look better, they are also more difficult to maintain and repair and result in longer power outages.

Whitley said the biggest issue in putting the wires overhead, rather than underground, is cost. He said the electrical improvement project does not have money budgeted to bury the wires in the area in question. Prior to the meeting, Whitley had prepared a cost sheet which indicated the cost of putting the wires in the Grant, Palmer and Park Avenue underground would be $50,545. That estimate does not include the cost of taking down the new wires which were recently installed.

Acting mayor Ted Felter said that since the area is already under construction, it would be best for the project to "let it ride." He said the time to consider placing wires underground in future projects would be in the spring when the city is working on the budget for the coming year.

Al Ranger, Pat's husband, said the Rangers' purpose in addressing the council was to start a conversation about future priorities for city wiring projects.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Say what you will, but a couple of years ago, I began to notice that the print in paperback books seemed to be getting smaller and smaller. At that time, I was working on my Masters degree and the reading was coming fast and furious. I finally surrendered to the inevitable and called the eye doctor. He was very kind and gentle about it. "After all, Reverend," he said, "you're over forty now and eventually it catches up with you."

I came away with a pair of reading glasses from that visit. At first, they were delightful luxuries. Now, there are days where they have become necessities. Their only drawback has been that every time someone comes into my office I have to take them off. Anything beyond their three or four foot focus area would be blurry.

Your dentist likes to see you every six months. An annual check-up is a pretty good idea from your doctor's perspective. The eye doctor says every two years is his time-line. It was my turn to see the lens man this week. I have to confess that the visit surprised me.

As we went through the different charts and lines, I discovered I was missing out on a lot. The tiny letter sizes were all but disappearing. In fact, the exam revealed that my left eye was getting farsighted and my right eye was becoming nearsighted. It seems I've been using them one at a time depending on the need. The lenses I'm getting have them working together. It's kind of like hearing a song in stereo for the first time after only hearing it in monaural. There were dimensions to my vision that I had forgotten about.

Here's where it preaches my friends. If the passage of time can cause changes in our vision to slip away from us unnoticed, think how much we might be missing out on if we let the God whom we knew so well in our childhood slip quietly into the back of our hearts? Indeed, when we were young we could sing the songs of faith and listen to bible stories with fascination for hours on end. As we "matured" (no one likes to think of themselves as getting old), the world and its pressures crowded in and pushed our childlike trust to the back burner.

No wonder life seems harder and it takes more effort to face each day when the One who has always promised to keep our hearts and lives on track has been forced into the background. Have you ever considered getting a spiritual lens check up? How long has it been since the eyes of your heart have focused on God's Word? If it has been too long, you will be amazed to see what your life has been missing. That childlike trust is not as far away as you might think. Jesus says that He stands at the door of every heart knocking. All we have to do is invite Him in.

BUSINESS

New store emphasizes the fun in shopping

By Laurie Lounsbury

Mad hatters they're not. Enthusiastic and helpful hatters would be a more apt description of Susan LeButt and her daughter Michelle. The two women have opened a gift shop and haberdashery on Bridge Street. The business is named Michelle's, after daughter Michelle LeButt.

Two thirds of the store's space is devoted to hats of all sizes, types, and prices. Designer hats by Eric Javits let female shoppers try on a Lady Di or Lauren Bacall look. Men gravitate to the Indiana Jones-styled Stetsons. "We've ended up being a fun store. We encourage people to look and touch, try hats on and enjoy themselves," Michelle said. "This is a playroom, not just a store," her mother added.

Michelle and Susan focus their business on shopping enjoyment for the customers. Located in the former Traverse Bay Woolen Company storefront near the drawbridge, the LeButt duo offers a variety of gifts and hats. They were careful to select gift items that won't be found in other downtown Charlevoix stores. They like to see their customers trying on handcrafted jewelry and fun hats. The customers may be a bit shy when they first put on a Viking hat or a hamburger, but in no time they get into the spirit of the store and find themselves donning multi-colored, Interstellar Beanie's with a propeller on top. "I sold a lot of those,"

...a store where shoppers have fun

and mostly all of them to adults," Susan said of the beanie. "People get a sense of humor when they wear one of these, even if they didn't have one before," she added.

Hat fun is Michelle's area of expertise. She managed a haberdashery in Ventura, California for five years before coming back home to Charlevoix. Michelle reported that beyond the stylish designer hats and the locally hand-painted hats by Linda Boss, Michelle's can do bridesmaids hats, flower girl hats, and wedding hats.

Maybe it was genetics that carried the mother and daughter into this business. Susan said that her great grandmother was a milliner with her own hat store in Jonesville, MI., from 1898 to 1902. Susan's grandmother was a business woman too, running a uniform store until she finally retired at the age of 76. "The women in my family have always been in business," Susan said. Susan formerly owned the Basket Fair store on Park Avenue.

For those who prefer to stay bareheaded, the store offers lots of other quality, competitively-priced items. Victorian birdhouses, wind chimes, embossed note cards and stationery, afghans, rugs, and placemats are some of the other popular gift items. "We're learning as we go," Michelle said. "We're trying to find our niche. I think we'll end up with more homey things, with quality."

Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, Saturday Aug. 13.

A northern Michigan tradition celebrates its 36th year

Organizers of Charlevoix's 36th Annual Waterfront Art Fair have announced an exciting array of new artists among the outstanding painters, sculptors, jewelers, fabric designers, ceramicists, and photographers, accepted for the Saturday, Aug. 13 show.

"We think the followers of this art fair are going to be delighted by some of the new artists," observed Alicia Mosher, co-director of the day-long event, which officially opens at 10 a.m. Aug. 13 and continues until sunset.

Long considered among the premiere outdoor fine arts fairs in the state, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair is a juried fine arts event. Some 143 artists display their work in the mid-town park fronting on Round Lake, Charlevoix's famous yacht harbor.

"Along with seeking new works of up and coming artists, we have nurtured a strong core of well known artists whom we invite each year," Mosher noted.

"The combination of new artists' work and those of well knowns like water colorist Dee Knott, painters and ceramicists Sue and Russ Bolt, enamel sculptor Norman Brumm, potter Barbara Godwin, photographer Terry Salmonson, and water colorist Rick Burger give the fair consistency and balance.

"We know that many people come to this show to buy from specific artists," Mosher explained. "Others come to see what's happening, to discover new artists. Serious collectors and buyers for galleries tell us they appreciate the mix."

One of the photographers new to the show is John Galbo, who has developed a method for photographing scenes in the manner of impressionistic painters, using reflections cast on an antique metallic mirror. His studies of Claude Monet's famous gardens at Giverny (France) will be among the works at the Charlevoix art fair.

A similar sense of light, shadow, and attention to detail distinguishes the European and northern Michigan based color photography of Ellen Loeffler, while the stunning black and white nature photograph of Woody Walters is more reminiscent of the great nature studies of Ansel Adams. Loeffler's training in watercolors is reflected in her photography. Walters' most recent studies have been set in his native Florida, where his high contrast black and white tones focus on an eerie interplay of light and water.

The works of the new pastel artists, like Bruce Migdal are equally stunning and ground breaking. For the past ten years Migdal has interpreted Guatemalan scenes and colors in pastels. Evoking the "magical-realism" for which Latin writers have become famous, Migdal uses contrasts of color and detail for effect. For example, in one series, brilliantly colored highly stylized flowers are painted against near-barren rock mountains.

In direct contrast, Don Coons' works reflect influences "by the French and American Impressionists as well as the American Luminist School of the mid-19th century." Coons moves close in, for example, on the reflections of light playing through leaves, illuminating edges of pathways through flowering forests.

The landscapes and rural studies of Sheila Rieffman also explore new territory for pastels. Her landscapes, however are broad and her subjects are rural Americana.

Fair organizers are also excited about the return of young acrylic artist David Chapple.

"David came last year with his incredible paintings of classic 1950's style American and British cars, like Cadillacs and Rolls Royces. His paintings are dazzling," Mosher said. "They literally shine like a just waxed car, and he works in all sorts of symbols using reflected light."

The artists who show at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair come from all over the United States. Many consider it their single most important show of the year, knowing that buyers for collectors and galleries make their new acquisition decisions that day.

"Most important to us," Mosher said, "this fair underwrites the Charlevoix Council for the Arts. The profits from this single day allows us to bring outstanding visiting artists into the Charlevoix Schools."

A lively art exhibition awaits you in this turn of the century schoolhouse. An artist owned gallery since 1982. Enjoy a wide variety of fine collectible art in a beautiful setting.

A bigger "Slam" returns

The Second Annual Summer Slam 3-on-3 Charity Basketball Tournament returns Sunday, Aug. 7. The one-day, double-elimination basketball tournament is hosted by St. Mary's School of Charlevoix. Competition begins at 11 a.m., and will be held at the school's playground on Robinson Street.

"The Summer Slam is undoubtedly the best pickup basketball event around," states Doug Buday, tournament organizer. "This competition is fun and exciting for the entire family - and promotes commendable sportsmanship."

"Last year, over 40 teams enjoyed a spectacular day in the sun, with the community attending in full force to witness basketball at its finest. This year, we expect close to one hundred teams to compete," Buday added.

To enter the tournament, each participating team must contribute a $40 donation to St. Mary's School. Teams may consist of up to four players. All players, male and female, ages 9 and up, are encouraged to join the action. Each registered player will receive a Super Slam T-Shirt. Individual trophies will be awarded to winning teams.

Additionally, for an extra $5 donation, registered players can vie for the SUPER Summer Slam Jam Master 8' - Basket Slam-Dunk Contest.

For more information or to request an entry form, telephone the Summer Slam hotline at (616) 547-4541. Entry forms may also be picked up at Buday's Sound Advice in Charlevoix and Petoskey. The Dairy Queen in Charlevoix or Tastee Freeze in Petoskey. To compete, entry forms must be submitted to tournament headquarters by August 5.

Island road problem stays unresolved

By Laurie Lounsbury

A proposed deal to use county funds to refinish Beaver Island roads and resolve a lawsuit between two Beaver Island townships and the road commission has fallen through. At the July 13 county commissioner meeting held on Beaver Island, commissioners passed a resolution saying they would provide financial assistance to the two island townships and the Charlevoix County Road Commission to help resolve a lawsuit between them. Later, after additional review, commissioners determined they will not be able to provide as much money as requested.

The lawsuit was brought by Peaine and St. James Townships in an effort to get the road commission to pave King's Highway. The road commission had previously torn up the paved, five mile road with the understanding that it would be resurfaced. The road was left as a gravel road. Islanders claim that the gravel road is not only a violation of the original agreement between the island townships and the road commission, but that it is unsafe. The road's washboard surface sends cars and Jeeps into a sideways skid at even very low speeds.

The lawsuit is scheduled to go to trial Aug. 23. Islanders and road commissioners hoped to reach a settlement before the trial date, with the help of the county commissioners. An agreement between the two parties would have involved the county commissioners as a third, lending party. Commissioners agreed to lend up to $125,000 to the two parties to settle the lawsuit. The money would then be used to finish King's Highway.

At the July 27 commissioner meeting, Chairman Don Smith read a clarification statement that covered the following main points:

*The parties involved had not requested funds for completion of the project.

*Cost estimates from a qualified engineer were not completed.

*Neither attorney provided a copy of the May 17 stipulation agreement despite the fact that the county board was the third party and they were to provide the funding.

*Both attorneys interpreted the advance of sufficient funds to be 100 percent of the funds.

*The board was not aware of this funding interpretation until the board chairman spoke with the road commission attorney on July 14.

*The county board by resolution supported a consensus resolution to this matter, if an acceptable funding formula could be reached by all parties involved.

*A 100 percent advance for an unknown amount to complete the project is unacceptable to the county board.

Smith's statement was entered into the minutes of the meeting. He went on to say: "Now that we found out what the attorneys were up to on May 17 and what they wanted the county board committed to, I feel it's totally unacceptable. Looks like we'll be back in court on August 23."

Richie Gillespie, the commissioner representing Beaver Island said, "It's unfortunate, but I think it's probably the reality of the situation."

Concert serves as a memorial

The Detroit-based BlueSurvivors will perform courtesy of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at the Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion in East Park on Saturday, Aug. 6, at 8 p.m. The concert is sponsored by Charlevoix resident Betty Ran, in memory of her son Dana James Nemer.

Nemer was a rising blues performer on Detroit's music scene until his death in 1989 at the age of 29. For the past five years, family and friends have held a music-filled annual reunion in his honor in Charlevoix on or near the anniversary of his birthday (August 7). This year will mark the first in which the music will be presented to the public.

The BlueSurvivors feature Nemer's brother Darien James (harmonica/vocals), and Billy Landless (bass/vocals) along with a lead guitarist and drummer. Songs that will be performed include "Caledonia," "Dust My Broom," and the harmonica tour de force "Whammer Jammer."

Bob Gill enters mayoral race

By L. Scott Swanson

Former city council member Bob Gill has announced his candidacy for mayor. Gill served on the city council from 1963 to 1972. In recent years, he has attended various city meetings on a regular basis.

Mayor pro-tem Ted Felter from the second ward is currently filling the Charlevoix mayoral seat. Felter took over the seat in May when former mayor Dave Novotny resigned and said he was no longer interested in being mayor. Novotny was the only candidate who had filed for the mayoral election and by the time he resigned the filing deadline was past. Consequently, Novotny is the only person whose name will appear on the ballot.

Gill is the second candidate to publicly announce that he will be running a write-in candidacy. Last month, former mayor Ralph McRae announced his candidacy.

Gill is a Charlevoix native and is a retired plant manager from the Penn Dixie Cement Plant. He says he's interested in Charlevoix and several people have encouraged him to run for mayor. He said that at this time, three months prior to the election, he hasn't targeted any specific issues, but is looking at the general overall issue of good government. The city's present position in which the next mayor will have to be chosen based on a write-in vote is something Gill described as a "silly situation."

School board approves money for math teacher training

By Laurie Lounsbury

Monday evening, the Charlevoix Board of Education approved an additional maximum expenditure of $2,920 for three additional teachers to attend a math curriculum workshop this summer. Originally, 10 teachers planned to attend the five day workshop, at a cost of $7,150. The school planned to send four elementary teachers, three middle school teachers, and three high school teachers. Now there will be eight elementary school teachers attending, two middle school teachers, and three high school teachers. Two of those teachers are yet to be hired, one more high school math teacher and one middle school math teacher. Steve Stargard, former sixth grade math teacher, will be moving to a counseling position at the middle school.

The board did hire Curtis Harwood as a high school math teacher. Harwood is a beginning teacher. He received his teaching degree from Eastern Michigan University this last April.

In other business, the board set prices for the hot breakfast and lunch programs. Breakfast at the elementary school will be 75 cents, and 95 cents at the middle and high school. The breakfast program is a new program, mandated by the state. Lunches will go up to $1.25 at the elementary school and $1.50 at the middle and high schools. Reduced lunch prices will remain at 40 cents in all buildings, with reduced breakfast prices at 30 cents in all buildings.

The board granted Darleen Hall a one year leave of absence from her secretarial position. The board will post the position for a one year temporary secretary within the schools and in the newspaper.

High School teacher Jill Erskine was granted a six week maternity leave, starting in December.

At the end of the board meeting, Jerry Chase addressed the board on the concept of a charter school in Charlevoix. He stressed the reason for starting a charter school is to let parents and students have control over their education. "People don't feel empowered regarding their children's education. A charter school could engender empowerment within this community," Chase said. The charter school is still in the early planning stage.

Chase said the charter school proponents came to the school board at an early stage in the planning process because it's important to work collaboratively with the public school system.

The charter school will focus on science and technology. "The future of our children could depend on what they get in these particular areas," Chase said. The citizens of Charlevoix voted down an enhancement millage that would have provided the public schools with money to improve the schools' science and technology programs. Board member Sulane Hamilton asked Chase if the charter school would still be a viable idea if the enhancement millage was passed at an upcoming election. Chase responded by saying, "The deeper question is still empowerment and control."

City may borrow up to $6 million for DDA projects

By L. Scott Swanson

The city is considering borrowing, via bonding, up to $6 million to fund proposed Downtown Development Authority (DDA) projects.

A special meeting of the city council will take place at 7 p.m., Aug. 10 to consider a resolution which would be the first step toward bonding.

The first step toward borrowing the money would be council passage of a resolution to publish a notice of intent to issue bonds. The three major issues in the notice of intent are: 1. That the city intends to issue and sell limited tax general obligation bonds with the total principal not to exceed $6 million to fund public improvements proposed by the DDA; 2. The principal and interest will be paid back "primarily from anticipated tax increment revenue derived within the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and the bonds shall also pledge the limited tax full faith and credit of the City of Charlevoix; 3. The bonds will be issued without a vote at an election unless a petition requesting an election and bearing the signatures of 10 percent of the city's registered voters is filed with the city clerk within 45 days of publication of the notice.

Even if the 45 day period passes without objection, the city is not obligated to issue the bonds, but could then pursue the next step in the process.

Earlier this year, the DDA added several projects to its project list prior to the passage of Proposal A, which reformed Michigan's property system. According to law firms consulted by the city, projects added to the list prior to the Proposal A deadline will qualify for partial reimbursement from state funding. According to city estimates included in the council information packet for the Aug. 10 special meeting, the state will pay a minimum of $250,000 a year toward the bond pay-back with the remainder coming from DDA money captured from the City, County and Intermediate School District. The $250,000 is a state reimbursement to Charlevoix Public Schools of money which is captured by the DDA.

Projects listed for bond funding (see accompanying table) carry a total estimated price tag of $5,630,000. The city is also working on state and federal grants which could reduce that amount by $1.78 million and considering appropriating $250,000 toward the project from the city's sewer fund.

Airport work progresses despite property questions

By L. Scott Swanson
A new airport runway will be finished within the next two months, but property and navigation easements for the runway still have not been procured.

Work on a new airport runway which will be 240 feet to the north of the existing runway began last week and will be completed within 38 days. Upon completion of that project, the old runway will be narrowed and refurbished for use as a taxiway. Airport lighting and fencing work will bring the total cost of this summer's work to about $1.8 million. Ninety percent of that cost is being paid by federal aviation funds and the remaining 10 percent is being split by city and state funding.

Although the project is continuing to go forward, property and navigation easements necessary for the runway have yet to be acquired from four property owners. The property owners, who own land near the south end of State Street, are Mr. and Mrs. Don Seelye, Russ and Lois Lewis, Jim Johnson and Paul Osterberg.

In order for the airport project to meet Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) regulations, the city must acquire portions of the Seelye and Lewis properties as well as aviation easements over all four pieces of property. Thusfar, the city has not been directly involved in the acquisition. Whitworth & Borda, an engineering firm, is overseeing the project. They hired Terpstra and Associates out of Grand Rapids to handle the land acquisition. Richard Terpstra is who the property owners have been dealing with.

The property acquisition effort has been going on for quite some time. Johnson says he doesn't remember the exact date that he was first contacted, but that it was some time during the Persian Gulf War.

Don Seelye said, "This thing's been going on for four years now and it's been up and down, up and down." He said the last letter he and his wife wrote to Terpstra and Associates was sent early this past spring. The only response they received was that Terpstra was turning the matter over to the city. Recently the city council voted to accept an FAA grant for the project. A condition of the grant requires the city to acquire the necessary property and aviation easements even if that requires condemnation of the property.

As of late last week, city manager Mike Wiesner said the acquisition effort was still in Terpstra's hands. Monday morning, Terpstra and Associates said that the paperwork for condemnation proceedings has been drafted, but nothing has been filed in court.

Seelye said that while the city can take the property through condemnation, that has some drawbacks. He said that it is his understanding that if the property is taken through condemnation, the city must pay fair market value and if the property owners don't agree with the amount offered, they can take the matter to court at city expense.

Seelye and Lois Lewis both said that the sticking point on selling the property sought by the city is the price. The city does not want all of the property owned by Seelye and Lewis, but only a back portion near the airport.

"We may be willing to sell, if we can keep as much as we want, at the right price," Lewis said.

"What they offered and we expected were a long ways apart," Seelye said.

"We may be willing to sell, if we can keep as much as we want, at the right price," Lewis said.

Lois Lewis, one of four property owners the city is negotiating with for land and aviation rights for the new airport runway.

Aviation easements over the property are another issue of contention. Seelye said he has no problem with some of the proposed easement conditions, such as not having trees or anything else more than 50 feet high on the property, but he does have a problem with other proposed conditions, such as allowing access to his property at any time for work necessary to maintain the flight path.

Lewis said she and her husband Russ are not willing to agree to the aviation easement proposed. She said what was proposed would have allowed airport personnel ingress and egress rights at any time, would have allowed airport personnel to cut trees to the ground and that the Lewis' wouldn't have been able to complain about airport noise or file suit in court if something fell from a plane and landed on their house.

"There were so many stipulations involved that we decided we weren't even going to mess with that," Lewis said. She said they were offered $2,000 for the aviation easement over their property.

Seelye said that before the airport renovation issue came up, he had plans for the entire five acres of land that he owns. He said that although he doesn't necessarily want to sell, he understands that there's not really a choice. "They're going to take it," he says. "So we figure we might as well negotiate for the best price."

Johnson and Seelye both said they would like to have the matter resolved in the near future. Johnson noted that property taxes are due Sept. 1 and if he's going to sell property or an easement which affects the property value, he would like to have things resolved before Sept. 1.

Seelye said, "We're just kind of waiting to see. I'd like to get it done with."

Remaining Castle Farm concerts cancelled

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Castle Farms Community Center is canceling concerts for the rest of the summer. Chuck McDermott, chairman of the board, reported that the group wanted to minimize their losses. "We didn't expect the complete lack of attendance at the concerts," McDermott said.

The Castle Farms group had hoped to book bigger name entertainment that would have drawn crowds, but a late closing date on the property made that impossible. They couldn't book any concerts until they had possession of the property, which didn't happen until June 24. The Friends of 4H ended up booking concerts by unknown entertainers. "The pressure of trying to raise money made us think wrong," said board member Gina Lepman. "We shouldn't have been doing that (booking concerts) to begin with," she added. Lepman said the board plans to focus on community and children's activities more suited to the goals of Castle Farms.

McDermott said he hasn't ruled out concerts for next summer. He would limit it to two concerts, one being a large symphony festival like the one held last week-end. The other concert would be a big name entertainer, such as Reba McEntyre. "The reason I mention Reba is that she's one performer who has concerns about 4H," McDermott said.

While the concerts at the Castle Farms Community Center this summer were unsuccessful, the youth activities have done quite well. "We've had 16,000 hours of youth utilization since we opened," McDermott said. The facility has been open for gymnastic camps, drama camps, scout groups and 4H groups. The Charlevoix Co-op nursery will open on the property in September. A Boy Scout jamboree is also scheduled for September. McDermott estimated that the youth activities will generate about $42,000 in revenue annually.

The Friends of 4H still have to raise $600,000 by Nov. 30 in order to qualify for matching funds from the Frye Foundation. "We're in the reorganizing period of the fundraising," McDermott said. The board has hired fundraiser Tom Monihan out of Grand Rapids to help them. McDermott explained that most non-profit organizations seek 80 percent of their funding from 20 percent of the people first; then go to the community and get the remaining 20 percent of the funding from 80 percent of the people. "We did it in reverse," McDermott said. "We went to the community first. Now we have to go to the foundations and the major donors."

In the meantime, the Castle is available to any community group needing a large facility. McDermott is hoping the place will be used for wedding receptions, scout activities, adult education classes, and 4H groups. "I will be disappointed if the community doesn't use this. There's so much potential for use here," McDermott said.

"The pressure of trying to raise money made us think wrong. We shouldn't have been doing that (booking concerts) to begin with."

Friends of 4H board member Gina Lepman, commenting on the board's decision to cancel this summer's remaining concerts.

Pool should be at Castle

Editor,

As a good many of us are interested in the promotion and success of the Community Center at Castle Farm, it was a shock to me to learn yesterday at the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Auction party that the new Charlevoix Country Club on U.S. 31 that the proposed swimming pool for our Charlevoix area was going to be located at the Country Club.

This obviously will tend to increase the value of the nearby real estate for the development firm selling the property around the area - not necessarily a gain for the rest of us.

The Community Center (not for profit) at Castle Farm on Route 66 is organized for the benefit of us all, and is where as many as possible community activities should be located. Land is available there for the community pool; as well as water, sewer and electrical facilities, and some construction is already in place. This is where the community pool should be located.

Ike receives praise

Editor,

Every year the Recreation Department sends letters to our volunteer coaches, to the supporters of Camp McSaub, to our umpires, etc., extending thanks for their efforts. We stress that without their help the City could never offer such a variety of recreational programs. This is indeed true, but after working in the department for two summers now, I have determined there is one individual without whom the programs of the Recreation Department truly could not exist - an individual who goes largely without thanks.

This person is the Recreation Director, Ike Boss.

Ok, now I know what people think: the Director of Recreation just has to watch a lot of softball, cruise the beaches (overseeing the lifeguards, of course), drive back and forth from golf course to tennis courts, and, well, that's about it, right?

Try again. Indeed, Ike does spend much time at the ball fields, beaches, and so forth. In fact, he is at the ballpark every night. (Dinner at home? What's that?) Occasionally he is playing in a game himself, but more often than not he is preparing the fields for games, filling in for a scorekeeper, announcer, or umpire, or bringing supplies for the concession stand. He spends hours organizing the youth league and special tournaments - accommodating late sign-ups, revising teams and schedules due to last minute drop-outs, and settling disputes.

During the day, which for him starts early with basketball practice at 6:30 a.m. in Ellsworth, he keeps one eye on the beaches, one ear to the phone, and one nose sniffing out the weather, waiting for it to "either rain or clear up." Additionally, he fills in at the office, generously giving his secretary time to take her dog to the vet or hurry across the bridge to her other job.

In short, Ike spends countless hours providing the programs which we enjoy and take for granted. So the next time you see Ike - though he may mumble something about having to work at the late game that night or needing to collect money from some truant participant - let him know you appreciate the job he conducts. For, despite the way he may occasionally sound, he does enjoy providing the opportunity for Charlevoix-area people to play softball, go to Camp, swim safely, and generally just have healthy, organized, recreational fun.

From all those who work with you, then - Meg and the counselors, the lifeguards, the coaches, your secretaries - and all those whose summer is brightened because of your work, thank you, Ike, we really do appreciate your efforts!

Editor's notes

In terms of things to do, August is one of the busiest months in northern Michigan. This past weekend East Jordan hosted the Portside Art Fair and Boyne Falls hosted its annual Polish Festival. During this week there are county fairs in both Kalkaska and Traverse City. This weekend, Charlevoix will host both the Waterfront Art Fair and the Castle Farms Art Festival. The Charlevoix and Emmet County Fair will take place the week after next. There's no shortage of things to do in the area. If you're bored, it's nobody's fault but your own.

Speaking of busy people, the local police have been busy lately. During the past few weeks, city police have handled cases of cars being taken and damaged, someone shooting out windows with a BB gun and a laundromat being broken into. That's the downside of August. For some reason, it seems that during the past couple of years August has been a bad month for juvenile crime.

This past Sunday, St. Mary's Church was bustling with activity for the annual Parish Festival. The Summer Slam street basketball tournament drew well more than 100 players of all different age brackets and skill levels. Street basketball is not the same game as indoor basketball. To begin with, players call, or don't call, their own fouls. This makes for a much more physical game. Some other elements which come into play outdoors are low-hanging tree branches blocking shots, the wind moving shots to the left or right, and the slope of the street requiring shots from the corner to be made facing uphill. Street basketball isn't for the meek, but it's a pretty good time.

Whether you care to admit it or not, summer is nearly at an end. High school football practice begins tonight (Aug. 10) and soccer practice begins Monday evening at 7 p.m. The air has already begun to take on a chill in the evening. Summer comes slowly to northern Michigan, but it moves quickly once it gets here.

Wonderful orchestra concerts should have been better attended

Editor,

This past weekend the air of Charlevoix was filled with the Sound of Music in all its splendor!

Three concerts by the Castle Farms Festival Orchestra were presented at the Castle Thursday and Friday evening and Sunday afternoon. The group also bestowed joy upon the community with a wind ensemble performance at the Castle and a chamber music concert at the Ironton Congregational Church Saturday afternoon.

The orchestra made up of young musicians from throughout the world, playing together, unbelievably, for the unmistakable professionalism resulted in sparkling renditions of something for every ear - from Richard Rodgers and Andrew Lloyd Webber to Mozart, Rossini and Mendelssohn; for those who just enjoyed nice music to the most passionate lovers of classical music. That's the good news! Now here's the bad news: so much of such a good thing was missed by so many! Attendance at these concerts was disappointingly low. In fairness to the Castle Farms staff, they are just getting started with an ambitious and promising enterprise, but, publicity and advance notice of programming was inadequate. Their unfortunate circumstance deprived much of the community of a wonderful and joyous experience, and much deserved recognition for these fine young musicians.

Finally, more good news! The orchestra will most likely be returning to Charlevoix again next year and hopefully will establish a priceless tradition here.

We and the management of Castle Farms owe it to ourselves, our children and the community to support, promote and enjoy this great cultural experience.

There can be no doubt that these gifted young musicians are destined to become players in the great symphony orchestras of the future.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

It was too beautiful of a day to sit in my office and prepare a sermon. I packed up my Bible, the commentary I was using and a note pad and headed over to Ferry Beach. I had sort of hoped to find a pavilion that wasn't being used where I could spread out and work in the great outdoors. It seems like a lot of other people had the same idea that particular day.

The least crowded pavilion was at the north end of the beach. There was just one man sitting there in his work clothes with a large cooler. We nodded at each other as I went in and chose a table as far from him as I could. It didn't take me long to get lost in my books.

When I looked up, my neighbor had a visitor. He had been joined by his wife. She had obviously come from work as well. Suddenly, I felt like an intruder as I listened to them laugh, talk about their kids, and even venture a kiss. It was obvious that they were very much in love! What a miracle to see such a blessing show up in the middle of a work week.

But there was more. I learned a secret about why my favorite dentist's office is such a happy place to go to for such interesting procedures. As I sat in my corner observation post, suddenly very aware of the world around me, he and his entire staff arrived at the beach to share lunch together. The gang carried a picnic table to a spot where half of it was in the sun (for the younger members of the crew) and half was in the shade (for the more mature!). They too shared laughter and care for one another. What a miracle and blessing for those who will benefit from such a team.

But there was more. Two boats pulled up on the beach and two families (obviously related) invaded my pavilion observation post to set up for lunch. "Pass the peanut butter and jelly!" "Mom, I want bologna!" What a sight as twelve adults and kids merged for a feeding frenzy of laughter and delight. In a day and age where you wonder if anybody has time for that anymore, it was a miracle that I relished in. Out of all that comes the paragraphed poem that follows.

Look round your world, think carefully; about all the things you see. There are miracles surrounding you, if you would learn to be; a trusting child that God can love, through each and every thing. There are miracles awaiting you, your faith can give them wings.

A tiny hand reaching out for yours, to be sure that you're okay; a caring glance from one you love, as you face a long hard day, a word of thanks from a good friend for some help along the way, a sense of peace from deep within when there's nothing else to say.

These are miracles God sends to you, for He knows how much you need, the strength and hope they give your life as you follow where He leads. These are miracles God sends to you though you may not see right then, it's the little things He shares with you that makes you whole again.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Tours of Big Rock Point plant offered to public Aug. 15-19

Big Rock Point, a Nuclear Historic Landmark, will host its annual public tour program the week of August 15. Tours will take place hourly from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. August 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 and are free of charge. Visitors must be at least 10 years old and present some form of identification. Tickets for the tours are available at the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce on Mitchell Street in Petoskey and at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce on Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

"Because of our small size, touring Big Rock Point is possibly the most comprehensive tour an individual will have of a commercial nuclear generating plant," said Big Rock Point plant manager Pat Don-nnelly. "These tours, and the others we conduct throughout the year, help take some of the mystery out of nuclear power by allowing our visitors to view the inside of an operating nuclear power plant."

Tours will begin in the plant auditorium with a briefing and video presentation. Visitors will then be provided hard hats and safety glasses. After passing through the security building, guests will tour the plant grounds and visit the control room area and turbine deck. Big Rock Point employees will serve as tour guides and answer any questions. Each tour will take approximately one and a half to two hours to complete. Visitors should wear comfortable walking shoes. Sandals or open-toe shoes are not allowed. Photographs of the plant from the parking lot are allowed. Cameras will not be permitted inside the plant.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density water boiling reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Point is capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 38,000 people.

Feindt to be honored at business open house

Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering will be hosting an open house Friday, Aug. 12 to celebrate Mary Feindt's 50 years of leadership in the business. Feindt, the first woman surveyor in the state of Michigan, is the third owner of the company which was founded by D.D. Nettleton in the late 1800s. Nettleton established the business as an Abstract and Survey Company. R.F. Sloan purchased the company from Nettleton in 1916 when it became known as Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering. Feindt, the current president, purchased the company in 1944 and incorporated the business in 1965.

County land records kept by the company date back to 1840 when the county was first organized and named Kishkonko. Records also include Manitou County Records which include the Beaver Island Archipelago. A fire at the County Court House which occurred Oct. 8, 1887 destroyed some of the county records. Following that fire, the records kept at Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering were decreed by court order as the official records for the county at that time.

During the past 50 years the company has expanded its operations to include a field office in Detroit and recently an escrow office has been opened in Boyne City.

In conjunction with the open house, the company will be recognizing the longevity of service of some of its employees, including: Arthur E. Emmons, 48 years; Lawrence J. Feindt, 29 years; Nancy A. Dixon, 25 years; Faye A. Feindt, 25 years; and Gordon T. Russell, 16 years.

The Charlevoix City Fire Department responded to a gas leak near the intersection of U.S. 31 and M-66 Friday afternoon. The leak occurred when a backhoe struck an unmarked gas line. The gas company was called and repaired the line.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Navy Lt. jg. Russell J. Coolman, son of John P. and Dianne A. Coolman of Charlevoix, recently returned from a six-month Mediterranean and Adriatic Sea deployment aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Vicksburg, homeported in Mayport, Fla. as part of the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga Joint Task Group.

In this, its maiden deployment, Coolman's ship served in support of UN Operations Denny Flight off the coast of Montenegro; Sharp Guard in Bosnia and Provide Promise in former Yugoslavia. Additionally, USS Vicksburg hosted numerous international exchanges of officers and enlisted personnel with French, British, Dutch, Canadian, Turkish, Italian and Tunisian navies. These "crossdeck" visits provided U.S. sailors a first-hand insight into the different operational practices our allies employ.

The crew of the USS Vicksburg learned during the deployment that they earned the Battle Efficiency award and the Chief of Naval Operations surface Ship Safety Award.

During the deployment, Coolman visited Izmir, Turkey; Corfu, Greece; Trieste, Italy; Palma, Spain; and Villefranche, France.

The 1987 graduate of Charlevoix High School joined the Navy in May 1991. Coolman is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, MD., with a Bachelor of Science degree.

Papineau was cited for superior performance of duty while assigned with 3rd Battalion, 6th Marines, 2nd Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, NC.

He consistently performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner.

He joined the Marine Corps in September 1991.

Castle Farms Art Festival, Aug. 13 & 14

Art Festival celebrating its fifth year at Castle

by L. Scott Swanson

Although the Castle Farm facility has changed hands during the past year, one of the facility's most popular events will continue. The fifth annual Castle Farm Art Festival will take place Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 13 and 14 and feature the work of more than 80 artists.

Art Festival director Kim Reible said that when Castle Farm was sold to the Friends of the 4H, she and the new owners both wanted to continue having the festival at Castle Farm.

"They were real excited about the Art Festival and wanted to continue with that," Reible said. "So I've signed a five-year lease with them and the Art Festival will continue for at least that long." In the spirit of the Castle Farm Community Center atmosphere, over the years the Art Festival will begin to incorporate children's activities to encourage an appreciation of art among young people.

As in past years, in addition to the featured artists, the festival will include live entertainment and a variety of gourmet food and refreshments. Live entertainment will include Calvin and Jonah Powell, a father and son duo from the Traverse City area, who will be playing spirited folk and bluegrass melodies all day Saturday. Ron Getz, Chuck Hall and David Collini form a jazz trio and will perform a variety of original and contemporary tunes. Tom Bauer and Gary Worden are a dulcimer/guitar duo and will be performing in the Castle courtyard Saturday. Mary Raymer, a mime from the Traverse City area, will also be entertaining at the festival.

Reible said there will be all kinds of things to eat. In addition to a range of ethnic foods, there will even be a fudge booth and an ice cream shop.

Artists from all over the United States will join several northern Michigan artists at the show. Among the familiar area artists will be: water color painter Jan Glass from Charlevoix; soft sculpture fiber artist Linda Haderer from Petoskey; functional ceramic artist Sam Machulis from Alpena; potter Steve Kostyshyn, formerly of Charlevoix and currently from Bellaire; potter Lynn Fisher of Bellaire.

Kostyshyn and Fisher are husband and wife and maintain separate studios in Bellaire. Recently, Fisher has produced a line of floral work while Kostyshyn has released a cleverly designed line of fruit and vegetable pottery. Both lines (see accompanying photos) are a high-fire stoneware with Majolica inspired decoration. All of the work is functional and safe for everyday use. The two lines were displayed at the New York International Gift Fair and the Philadelphia Buyers Market which resulted in orders from galleries and shops throughout the United States.

Among the artists from outside the area are wildlife and nature photographers Carl R. Sams II and Jean F. Stoick. Sams has appeared at the Art Festival several times and his booth is always one of the more active. Like many of the artists in the relaxed atmosphere of the Art Festival, Sams is a fascinating person to chat with and seems to enjoy answering questions about his work. Pictures by Sams and Stoick have appeared in publications around the world. They have also received People's Choice Awards for the best display of the show in both the Northern Wildlife Art Expo in Lansing and the Michigan Wildlife Art Festival in Grand Rapids.

Castle Farm is located on M-66, just outside of Charlevoix. Saturday, there will be a free shuttle bus running between the Castle and downtown Charlevoix (near Central Drug Store). Admission to the Art Festival is $1 for adults with children younger than age 12 admitted free. Last year approximately 11,000 people attended the Castle Farm Art Festival.

The Castle courtyard is a popular place for Art Festival patrons to relax.

Photos by wildlife and nature photographer Carl Sams have appeared in publications throughout the world. They are also one of the most popular attractions at the Castle Farms Art Festival.

Live entertainment at the Castle Farms Art Festival this weekend will include the father and son musical team of Calvin and Jonah Powell.

Network formed to help diabetics

Charlevoix Area Hospital and District Health Department No. 3 have formed a community network to provide education to diabetics and their families. Area nursing personnel are invited to a special training session Wednesday, Aug. 17, at noon, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Charlotte Lundy, R.N., of the District Health Department No. 3, says, "We have developed a care plan that follows the patient from the doctor, to the hospital, and home, health care, or nursing home." Now, she says, each aspect of the patient's care, whether it is in the hospital, by a visiting nurse, or in the doctor's office, is coordinated so that there are no information gaps in learning to live with their diabetes.

"Doctor's office nurses, home health nurses, and nursing homes will be an important link in the information chain," Lundy says, "and we hope they will attend to learn about the program." Patients will be learning dietary restrictions, administration of insulin, proper exercise, foot care, complications, and testing. Each person in the network must be able to answer any questions the patient may have.

Kathy Boss, vice president of patient services at the hospital, says, "We have been working for the past year to pull this program together and now we are confident the patient's needs will be met through this community-wide network. Our goal is to help keep diabetics healthy and living a quality life."

Lunch will be served. Please call Kathy Boss at 547-4024 to make reservations for the meeting.

Corporate Brass to entertain in East Park

The Northwood Corporate Brass will be featured in an Aug. 10 concert in the East Park bandshell. Sponsored by the Charlevoix Convention & Visitor's Bureau, the concert will begin at 8 p.m.

Each of the five members of the Corporate Brass is an accomplished and versatile musician, having performed with professional orchestras and brass ensembles and for shows and recordings. Their collective ability and experience affords them an expansive repertoire that covers classical to pop, ceremonial music to jazz, renaissance to ragtime.

Peter Brockman, tuba, is a graduate of the Indiana University School of Music where he majored in trombone. He has toured nationally with the late Henry Mancini and others, and has served on the faculty of Interlochen Arts Academy.

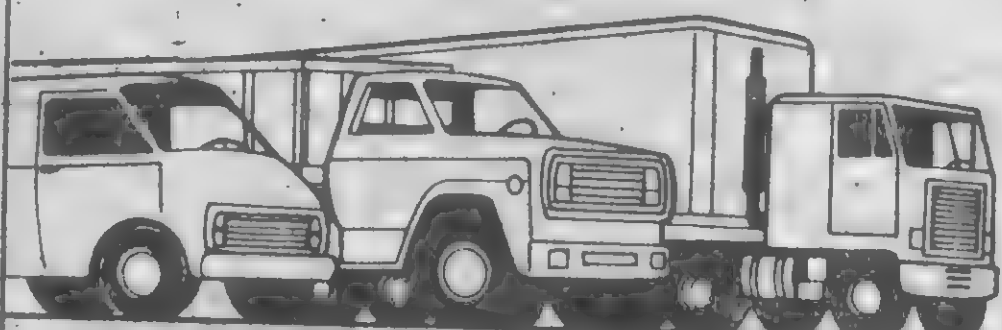

Larry Herman, trumpet, has also taught at Interlochen, as well as Indiana University, and has performed with the Disneyland Band and the Indianapolis Symphonic Winds. He is currently on staff at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music.

Martin Porter, trumpet, is a member of the Toledo Symphony, the Toledo Jazz Orchestra and is founder of the 10-piece Black Swamp Brass. He is director of the concert office and creative arts program at Bowling Green State University.

Bernice Schwartz, horn, is a graduate of Ithaca College and is currently a member of the Ann Arbor Symphony. In 1993 she was honored as Educator of the Year for Springfield (Ohio) schools, where she has taught for the past nine years.

Dave Sporny, trombone, has performed with the Northwood Orchestra since its inception in 1978. A former Interlochen Arts Academy faculty member, he is well-known around Michigan as founder of the Dave Sporny Big Band. He has recorded for RCA and is an accomplished composer and arranger of music for jazz and brass ensembles.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast licenses, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers and Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase Agreement with The McDonald Broadcasting Company on April 15, 1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

Council acted correctly on traffic problem

Editor,

In your editorial dated July 20, 1994, you felt the council acted hastily and should do little or nothing to slow down those eight or ten drivers who are not following the speed limits. You obviously haven't stood near or watched the traffic which flies through our area, lately. Become aware of our concerns before you condemn our council for standing behind us instead of MDOT, who seems only to care about traffic flow, not pedestrian safety.

I, as a signer and backer of the petition, am not asking for a "ticket writing binge", a "Charlevoix the speed trap", or a "ticket mania" as you so eloquently stated the solution. We were hoping that the police department would take notice of our problem and slow traffic down before a tragedy befalls our city in the form of a dead child or adult from a speeding car or truck. We recently received a letter from Sheriff Lasater pledging this help to the City if the police want it. Both departments have been patrolling regularly in our area and we are very grateful that they are there to help. I think this shows genuine concern for our problem.

I for one applaud the council - our City Council - for seeing an unfortunate situation develop and doing something about it rather than just talking as you would prefer. Next time, before you become so critical or someone or some group perhaps you could analyze both sides better and understand why they came to this conclusion. I discussed this problem with some council members at a ball game prior to this meeting. They reacted to our problem in a positive manner and used good common sense in seeking a solution which will help protect our children, as discussions continue.

If even one child or adult is saved from a speeding car or truck, I feel the cost will be well worth the effort.

Several crimes being investigated by city police

Juvenile charged with damaging cars

A 16-year-old has been arrested by city police and charged with damaging two cars, one of which was pushed over a cliff into a quarry.

Two cars were stolen the night of July 25 and later found by and in the Medusa Cement Plant quarry.

According to city police chief Dennis Halverson, a 1990 Cadillac was taken from Park Avenue July 25 and driven out to the quarry. There, the car was vandalized and an attempt was made to set the car on fire. Later, that evening a 1992 Honda Accord was taken from Grant Street, driven to the quarry and pushed over the edge. Total damage for the two cars is estimated at $20,000.

The cars were discovered by Medusa employees July 27. Police arrested a suspect Monday, Aug. 8. The investigation remains open. Halverson said a third car is missing, but police aren't sure if that situation is related to the other two cars.

Sometime during the late evening hours Friday, Aug. 5 and the early morning hours Saturday, Aug. 6 someone drove through town with a BB gun shooting out house and car windows. As of Monday afternoon, city police had received reports of at least 11 incidents with a total estimated damage cost pushing $4,000. Similar damage occurred in Ellsworth on the same evening. Police have questioned a suspect and the investigation continues.

The Mariner laundromat was broken into late Aug. 3 or early Aug. 4. Police say that thieves pried a vent open, crawled inside and stole change from a machine. A Petoskey laundromat was robbed the same evening. Quarters taken in the robbery have a red edge and people are asked to keep an eye out for them. The police investigation remains open.

City considers $3.5 million bond

By L. Scott Swanson

The Charlevoix City Council has initiated a process which could lead to the city borrowing up to $3.5 million to fund Downtown Development Authority (DDA) projects. The money would be borrowed through the sale of municipal bonds which would be paid back over a 20 year period. Foremost among the projects to be funded with the money would be the DDA's proposed renovation of Bridge Park.

At a special Aug. 10 meeting the city council approved publication of a notice of intent to bond. The notice is published elsewhere in today's Courier. Publication of the notice initiates a 45-day period during which members of the public can petition for a special election to place the decision in the hands of the city electorate. The petition would have to be signed by at least 10 percent (approximately 210 signatures) of the city's registered voters.

Publishing the notice of intent doesn't obligate the city to borrow the money. It initiates the 45 day process which could result in one of the following: a petition and special election in which voters turn down the bonding proposal; a petition and special election in which voters approve the bonding proposal; no petition and a council decision to go forward with the bonding proposal; no petition and a council decision not to go forward with the bonding proposal.

Money to pay back the bonds would be derived from local property tax dollars captured by the DDA and from state tax dollars. Current estimates are that the state contribute up to $159,386 per year toward the bond payback, while the city's portion of the payback would be $135,265 per year. Extending that out over a 20 year time period, the state would pay a total of Local plant expanding

By Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix Manufacturing is embarking on a major expansion, and General Manager Jim Hater credits the expansion to the company's biggest resource - the employees. "We have a fabulous group of people here," Hater said. "Because of our people, we've gained a lot of efficiencies here. That's why we decided to phase out our Cincinnati plant and move all of the manufacturing up here."

Charlevoix Manufacturing first opened for business in Charlevoix in 1978. The parent company, Hater Industries, is in Cincinnati, Ohio. Hater Industries had been looking for a place to expand, and picked Michigan for its abundance of natural gas and proximity to its automotive clients. After the com-

$3,187,720 while the city would pay a total of $2,705,300 and the total bond payback would be $5,893,020. All estimates are preliminary and subject to change since the interest rate on the bonds and other variables are not yet known.

The DDA list of projects eligible for bonding carries a total estimated price tag of $5,630,000. However, the DDA's anticipated revenues are not sufficient to cover payments on a bond of that amount.

During the meeting, city manager

Mike Wiesner noted that the DDA's top priority project seems to be Bridge Park renovation. The estimated cost of the proposed renovation project is $3.4 million. Purchasing a piece of property from the Michigan Department of Transportation and building a storage building to be leased to the U.S. Coast Guard could add as much as $900,000 to that figure, bringing the total Bridge Park costs to $4.3 million.

Prior to deciding upon the $3.5 million and 20 year figures for the notice of publication, the council discussed the status of a 1991 DDA agreement with Charlevoix County, Charlevoix Public Schools and the Charlevoix Intermediate School District. The 1991 agreement called for the DDA to expire in 1998. However a provision in the agreement said that if a change in Michigan's educational finance system resulted in a financial loss to the DDA, then the 1991 agreement would immediately become void.

There have been questions raised by county officials about whether school finance reform has decreased DDA revenue. At the Aug. 10 meeting, city attorney Jim Young and attorney Joel Piell advised council members that the 1991 agreement is void.

An amendment approved by the DDA and City Council earlier this year added projects to the DDA's project list and extended the term of the DDA to the year 2013. Selling bonds for 20 years would require an additional amendment and extension to the life of the DDA.

During the council meeting, acting mayor Ted Felter and other members of the council asked if it would be possible for the city to commit to bonding and then have the state either reduce or eliminate state funding before the bonds are paid off. Young and Piell have both issued written opinions to the city saying that possibility is negligible due to federal and state constitutional safeguards.

Bodem to visit Aug. 19

State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-106th District, will conduct local office hours for Charlevoix County constituents Aug. 19.

Each month, Bodem is available at two locations to discuss issues or solve problems. Her schedule for next Friday is as follows:

9 a.m. - 10:30 a.m. in the law library at the Charlevoix County Building, Charlevoix.

11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m. at City Hall, 319 N. Lake St., Boyne City.

A drop box will be provided for individuals unable to attend the Boyne City office hours so they may leave materials for Rep. Bodem.

Young sailors learn the ropes on Lake Charlevoix

By Laurie Lounsbury

For kids in the 4H sailing program, sailing is more than halyards, wind directions, and jibs. It's boat-to-boat frisbee contests, sponge wars, and the aquatic version of spinning doughnuts on the water. Kelly Copeland and Justin Acker invent games for the students in the sailing program that incorporate fun with the fundamentals of sailing. Copeland is in her second year as the director of the 4H sailing program, with Acker as her assistant.

Learning to sail involves more than a good wind and a sailboat. There are the technical names for sails and lines - jargon for the variety of ways to catch the wind - and much of it may seem a bit too much like school work for kids learning to sail. That's why Copeland makes sure the kids have fun while they're digesting sailing knowledge. Students throw frisbees from one boat to another while under sail. Frisbees invariably land in the water and must be retrieved, giving the students a subtle lesson in steering towards a mark. The same principles are learned on the hot, sunny days when they have sponge wars between the boats. Copeland and Acker monitor the students in the six, 15-foot JY boats from a motorized Whaler. Daily lessons depend on the weather. On days with light wind or no wind, the students participate in fun races, where they are required to do circles or pick up a man overboard on their way to the finish line. On hot, airless days, the classes will work on capsizing procedures. Students quickly find they enjoy tipping the lightweight boats over and righting them themselves.

The sailing program is more than fun and games. Sponsored by the Charlevoix Mariners and operated by the Charlevoix County 4H Club, students learn the basics of sailboat racing. 4H sailors have races every other Friday against area sailing clubs. Last Friday the Charlevoix group hosted a race against Harbor Springs, the Chicago Club, the Belvedere Club, and Camp Walden of Cheboygan.

The biggest challenge for Copeland and Acker to overcome is many students' fear of heeling. Heeling occurs when the wind pushing against the sail tilts the boat over on one edge. "Most of the kids progress really fast and overcome it," Copeland reported. She said the greatest pleasure for her is to see kids who are initially afraid of sailing, progress to the point where they take a boat out alone and are comfortable with it.

Bonding proposal likely to lead to an interesting election

Charlevoix city voters are probably going to be asked to vote on a proposal to borrow up to $3.5 million to fund Downtown Development Authority (DDA) projects. The money would be borrowed through the sale of municipal bonds which would be paid back over the next 20 years.

Last week the city council approved publishing a notice of intent to bond. Publishing the notice (which appears elsewhere in this paper) initiates a 45-day period during which city residents may petition for a referendum election on the issue. Calling for an election would require collecting the names of approximately 210 city voters on a petition. Collecting 210 signatures isn't particularly difficult and chances are someone will initiate a petition drive within the next two weeks. In fact, two of the council members who voted to publish the notice of intent to bond have said they would like to see the public have an opportunity to vote on the matter.

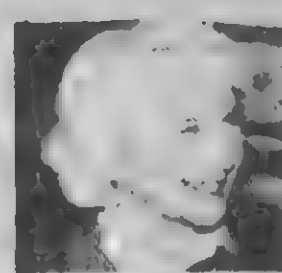

Assuming that such an election does occur, between now and election day the city council and the DDA have some work to do. In order for the proposed bonding to merit support from city voters, the city council and the DDA should decide upon and explain exactly what projects the $3.5 million will be spent on; decide upon and explain any remaining projects the DDA will undertake; and set a termination date for the DDA program. If these things occur and the results of these efforts are palatable to city voters then the bonding proposal may well merit support. If these things do not occur, the proposal should be voted down.

The foundation is already in place for accomplishing the first two items. The DDA currently has a project list with a total estimated price tag approaching $7 million. DDA discussions indicate the highest priority project on that list is the renovation of Bridge Park. That project alone carries an estimated price in the $4 million neighborhood.

The difficult decision for DDA board members will be setting a termination date for the program. But a termination date should be set. There are a multitude of arguments which can be made as to whether or not there should even be a DDA. The reality is that the city of Charlevoix has one. Given that reality, the bottom line remains the same as it always has: the DDA should have a list of projects, fund and complete those projects and once it's mission is accomplished be terminated. It should not be a perpetual pet project fund which, like so many federal government programs, outlives its usefulness, but continues to find ways to spend tax dollars ad infinitum.

EDITH GILBERT

Building a castle takes time

by EDITH GILBERT

"This is wonderful!" So said the Russian musician when he arrived at picturesque Castle Farms, before the concert.

"These are the worst conditions I have ever played under in my life!" said one of the performers, after the concert.

Both statements are true.

Forty-six professional musicians from nine different countries, from twenty-two U.S. States and Canadian provinces performed three concerts at Castle Farm the first weekend in August. This outdoor facility seats 6,000 people.

Under the fine direction of Kenneth Andrews of New York, a classical program was offered on Thursday, a pop concert was given on Friday, and a "Mostly Mozart" concert was performed on Sunday afternoon to appreciative, tho' small audiences.

There were no complaints on the quality of the music, performed under the most trying conditions. The temperature on Thursday dropped to near 40 degrees. On stage, the wind was a major factor in making the musicians uncomfortable. One clarinet, two oboes and a prize winning cello worth $15,000 unfortunately cracked that evening due to the weather.

The audience, (those who didn't bring their own folding chairs), sat huddled under blankets on narrow wooden benches. Many left during intermission.

On the other hand, the warmth and friendliness of the community helped compensate for the cold weather. Local host couples opened their homes to the musicians for a week and treated them, not like guests, but like members of their own family. Some were even taken on a three-hour boat ride on Lake Charlevoix. Thanks in part to the generosity of Glen's Market, the musicians were well fed. Adam Nalbock, the Food and Beverage manager of the Castle Farm Coffee House supervised the food preparation in the large home kitchen of Gina and Dick Lepman.

Last minute preparation went into high gear with the help of people like Abbey Adler, who handled publicity and public relations with professional skill. Fran Tollas came to the rescue and found extra sheets and blankets for the visitors among many other jobs. Bob Farmer provided forty music stands at $25 each. The sound equipment was borrowed from the Charlevoix Band Shell and some uncomfortable chairs were also borrowed from somewhere for the musicians, who practiced six to eight hours a day. Everyone pitched in to help including the conductor, Ken Andrews, who admitted to sweeping the stage at 2 a.m. in preparation for the next day's performance. It's true that most people are relieved not to have the rock concerts at Castle Farm anymore, but what is the future for classical or family type concerts in Charlevoix?

It has been our experience that the performing arts are lucky to break even financially in Northern Michigan. Many engagements scheduled by the Crooked Tree Arts Council or Northwood Symphony at Dunmaglas have had to be heavily subsidized. Because ticket sales account for only 20 percent of the cost of an orchestra, many professional orchestras in the United States are folding due to lack of finances. There are a few exceptions, such as the Chicago Symphony, which is heavily endowed.

It is also true that there are many talented musicians who are anxious to perform in our area, and there is a hard core group of enthusiasts who say they truly miss the Don Jaeger and the Northwood Symphony concerts at Dunmaglas. Families with children have greatly enjoyed the youth concerts there in the past. It's going to be very tricky for patrons of the arts, as well as businesses and corporations, to decide where to lend their support. Today, Charlevoix is straddled by Bay View musical temptations to the north and major Interlochen attractions to the south. We have concerts in the park that are free to the public. The question that needs to be answered now is do we have the population here in the summer to support more fine music? Would such concerts be well attended? Is it financially possible to nurture a small music camp for youngsters at Castle Farms as part of the proposed new Community Center? And if not now — when?

Word around the coffee houses is that this year the Castle Farm program started too late, offered too many concerts too close together, and that more staff is needed to organize a successful event in the future. Serious considerations should also be given to hold intimate concerts in the present indoor facility, the Great Hall. To draw big crowds for big bucks, in a big open air facility one needs to feature big names, which is a big risk in our climate.

Finally, a successful concert season takes a year of good hard planning. It takes more than dreaming. It takes teamwork. It takes money. It takes energy, and it takes time.

Letters to the editor

Pool project moves forward

Editor,
Friends of the Pool is pleased to say that our auction, held August 7 in conjunction with the Petunia Party, raised approximately $40,000. This is double the amount raised at our last auction two years ago. The organizational skills of auction chairperson, Joanne Curtis, and the help of many other volunteers on the auction committee, contributed greatly to our success.

We're pleased to tell you also that at the auction we were able to announce the site of the community indoor swimming pool. After 12 years of seeking a suitable site based on 14 criteria, we chose a two acre parcel on US 31 North between Waller Road and the entrance to the new Charlevoix Country Club.

The generosity of the founders of the club in donating this land is greatly appreciated. We're already focusing on the steps necessary to enable construction to begin in spring of 1995. We're also indebted to architect Jack Begrow who provided plans for a number of sites to help us in our research.

Our thanks to the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful board for once again offering to share their fund-raising event with ours. Such cooperation by many volunteers and Charlevoix business people has enabled both organizations to reach their goals.

We look forward to further cooperation and involvement of Charlevoix area residents in the coming months to expedite pool completion so we can begin to provide water safety and therapy programs and fun for all.

Sincerely,
David Strawbridge
Chairman, Friends of the Pool

Petunias funded for 1995

Editor,
Funds for 50,000 petunias for the 1995 planting along Charlevoix's main street were assured last week by yet another successful Petunia Party. Nearly $10,000 was raised which also will be used to pay for maintenance of the watering truck, weeding, community picnic, etc.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful is grateful for the continued public support for this all volunteer project originated by Dale Boss. We've been told that our project has sparked a number of similar projects elsewhere in Michigan and, locally, more and more homeowners and merchants have created many beautiful plantings.

We're also grateful to the new Charlevoix Country Club board for the use of their clubhouse.

The vast but unfinished interior provided an intriguing setting for the KCB party and the Friends of the Pool auction. The decorating challenge was cleverly met by Laurie Lesser Hodgson and her committee.

We wish to thank many other volunteers, in particular KCB board members Gina Whitney and Jean Seymour, who supervised the buffet and bar, and also members of the KCB board who all pitched in to make the party, "Tee Off 'Fore' Charlevoix," a memorable event.

Sincerely,
Bruce M. MacArthur

Hospital celebrates project completion

"With the completion of this new addition and remodeling, we are better equipped and better prepared to provide for your medical needs now and into the next century," Richard Krueger, Charlevoix Area Hospital president, told a gathering of nearly 140 Lighthouse Club contributors Wednesday evening (Aug. 3).

"This reception today honors your commitment to help us provide the ever increasing services needed by the growing population of this area," he said. The Lighthouse Club is made up of those who gave $100 or more in the past year to support the hospital's equipment and facility needs. Each year a reception is held to inform them of the hospital's growth and needs, and to thank them for their support.

A "memorial wall" was dedicated at this year's reception. Plaques bearing the names of past building fund contributors which have hung in the hospital from as long ago as 1954, have been relocated to a wall in the new addition. In addition, a new plaque bearing the names of top givers to the recent building campaign has been placed near the new elevator.

Habitat for Humanity gearing up for their next home

An informational meeting will take place at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 23 at the East Jordan High School auditorium for anyone interested in working on a Habitat for Humanity home building project to be initiated in East Jordan in September.

Volunteers will be needed for the construction process, fundraising and other related tasks. Men and women of all ages are invited to participate. Information will be available at the Aug. 23 meeting on how the Habitat program works and on the specific plans for the East Jordan project.

Northwest Michigan Habitat for Humanity, which covers Charlevoix and Emmet County, has purchased a lot on Bridge St. for its third home building project. An East Jordan family, Mrs. Carol Klabby and her two sons Jeffrey, 8, and Nathan, 15, have been selected as the partner family for the project.

The Klabbys will be required to put in 250 hours of sweat equity in helping build the home and Habitat will then sell it to them on a no-interest mortgage, with payments going toward Habitat's next building project.

For more information, call Dave Knight at 582-2814 or 536-7875.

Current state of Russia strikes visitor as very depressing

By L. Scott Swanson
Russia currently is not a pleasant place. Lawlessness prevails, children are a luxury few can afford and many of the people have little hope for a brighter tomorrow.

Gail Kile, who recently returned from a trip to Russia, says she found the Russian people's current outlook on life extremely depressing. "They talk about how there is no hope. There is no spirit. I still don't understand it."

Kile lives between East Jordan and Boyne City. She speaks Russian and has spoken to children at the Charlevoix Middle School about Russia. A couple of years ago she helped a group of Charlevoix County high school students learn some of the Russian language prior to a youth trip to the country.

Kile recently traveled to Russia with Dr. Richard Mansfield, of Boyne City and two massage therapists, Christine Rhea and Mable Mandadien. Kile served as a translator for the other three who worked with the athletes at the Goodwill Games. Among the athletes Mansfield and the therapists worked with were American volleyball players Sinjin Smith and Carolyn Kirby.

Mansfield has been involved for sometime with a group called ARMEK, which is the acronym for American Russian Medical Exchange. Mansfield arranged the trip and recruited Kile as a translator. The First Baptist Church of Boyne City was also instrumental in making the trip possible.

The group left the United States July 21 and returned Aug. 1. Kile said the main purpose of the trip was to exchange medical information between Russia and the U.S. In this case, the Goodwill Games provided a forum to exchange knowledge of sports medicine.

Kile noted that while American medicine is much more advanced scientifically, Russian doctors have done and are doing much more with alternative forms of medicine. In fact, while at the games, Mansfield underwent acupuncture therapy.

The mission got off to a shaky start when the four Americans discovered that due to poor communications between Ted Turner's group who was sponsoring the game and ARMEK, their hotel arrangements had gone awry and they had no defined medical assignments. Fortunately, from previous work with ARMEK, Mansfield knew Dr. Valerie Bolshigan who is the director of sports medicine in St. Petersburg, and Bolshigan made arrangements to get the Americans to the place where their services were needed.

One of the first places Mansfield, Rhea and Mandadien began working was at the volleyball courts. One of the women players had injured her shoulder and required attention. Kile said several of the track athletes were also glad to see the American medical staff arrive.

They had been receiving massage work from the Russians, but felt they lacked the skills of Rhea and Mandadien.

Kile said her abilities as a translator weren't called into play so much when Mansfield and the others were dealing with the athletes, but they were when the medical people wanted to eat and do other common things.

While Kile is not a medical person, she said it was obvious even to her that the Russian medical facilities can't even be compared to ours. While arthroscopic surgery is common in the United States, there's only one arthroscope available in the entire city of St. Petersburg. Kile said the Russians seem to have little or no concern for AIDS and re-use needles. Abortion is the most prevalent method of birth control.

One of the things which made a big impression on Kile, who has five children, is the lack of children in Russia. She said most Russian couples are lucky if they have one child. Russians say of children, "You can't feed them. You can't clothe them. You have no place to put them."

While in Russia, Kile visited two homes and went out and shopped often. With her long blond hair and knowledge of the Russian language, Kile was mistaken for an eastern European on more than one occasion. "The highest compliment I received is when I was shopping, people asked me if I was from Czechoslovakia or Poland."

Kile said that while many of the people she got to know were very friendly, generally speaking Russians are rude to strangers.

While street crime is normally not uncommon, there wasn't much during the Goodwill Games be-

School won't seek added millage

By Laurie Lounsbury

At Monday evening's Charlevoix school board meeting, School Business manager Rich Kelly reported that the school won't be coming back with another enhancement millage proposal this year. "We felt the timing just wasn't right," Kelly said. He reported that the finance committee may consider a millage proposal for the June ballot in 1995.

The board hired a new math teacher, Andrea Dionise, for the middle school. Dionise is a graduate of Grand Ledge High School and Olivet College. She has had two years of substitute teaching experience. She comes to Charlevoix with a degree in elementary education and a triple minor in math, social studies, and science. Dionise will be putting all of these to use at the middle school, where she will be teaching one section of science and one section of social studies in addition to math. "The first thing we noticed about her was her smile and enthusiasm," said middle school principal Dennis Van Guider, when discussing the interview process for a math teacher.

The board adopted a new, half hour forum called Community Roundtable. The purpose of the Roundtable is to give community members, teachers, and board members a chance to explore ideas and issues pertaining to the school district. The Roundtable will meet from 7:00 to 7:30 before regularly scheduled board meetings, starting

New auto store has more than 300,000 parts readily available

By L. Scott Swanson

Sure, parts is parts. But these days there's getting to be such a variety of parts that sometimes the right parts is hard to come by. The Auto Parts Center store on the corner of southeast corner of Bridge and Upright solves that problem. They can get you parts, parts and more parts. All the parts your little hearts desire.

"We are serviced every day, overnight, by five warehouses. We draw from over 300,000 part numbers and 650 different product lines," says Rick Arnold, the Auto Parts Center zone manager who is overseeing the set-up of the store.

While the Auto Parts Center is new, having an auto-parts store in the big white building at Bridge and Upright is not. There's been an auto parts store in that location for more than 25 years. Most recently it was a Car Quest store, but the owner sold the business to Auto Parts Center. The Charlevoix Auto Parts Center is one of 25 stores in a chain which is part of a buying group which includes about 170 Auto Value stores.

Arnold is setting up the store which will then be managed by Steve Paterka. Paterka has been in the auto parts business in Charlevoix since 1972.

Arnold and Paterka emphasize that the real strength of the new store is the ability to get the parts people need and get them fast.

"If it's a car that's been made in the last 20 years, we can usually get it (the necessary part) overnight,"

Arnold said.

In addition to all of the normal parts store fare, Auto Parts Center carries a complete line of body shop supplies, different lines of batteries, high performance equipment and accessories, welding gases and supplies, marine supplies, and janitorial and industrial supplies. The store also can assemble hydraulic hoses, turn brakes and has a complete paint mixing system.

As Paterka says, if you don't see it, ask for it.

Auto Parts Center took over the building July 16. Arnold and Paterka say the first week was somewhat frantic, but since then things have gone well. Within the next few weeks, the store will begin to take on a new look with a large scale remodeling project.

Dick Joseph

Charlevoix Personified

Businessman believes in giving something back to the community

By Laurie Lounsbury

Dick Joseph has been in Charlevoix for six years, but the time he's devoted to the community is immeasurable. Joseph is a partner in the law firm Pointner, Joseph and Corcoran. Joseph knew when he first interviewed with Pointner that he wanted a law partner who would give him the flexibility to work in the community. "I've always believed you can't be in a town and just make money. You have to give something back to the community. Giving money is nice, but I couldn't afford that, so I give my time," Joseph said.

Joseph had barely unpacked his briefcase before he contacted Jacques Merta, Chairman of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, to volunteer his time. Joseph restarted the flagging Ambassador's Club program for the chamber. After successfully breathing new life into the Ambassador's program, he was appointed to the chamber of commerce board. He now serves as the board president. Joseph also devotes time to the Rotary club and is president of the Charlevoix County American Cancer Society. That group had been disbanded and was reformed under Joseph's direction.

Joseph's most recent undertaking was to become chairman of the newly created East Jordan Downtown Development Authority. He is already involved with East Jordan since their firm has a branch office in the town. "I really like being involved with the chamber and the DDA. It's really important for cities to have good, strong downtown areas," Joseph said, adding, "I never go into businesses that don't stay open all year. I try to support the businesses that give something back to the community."

Even with a full time law practice and all his volunteer work, Joseph manages to carve out time for his wife of five years, Alison, and their recently adopted daughter, Alyssia. The family lives in the Ironton area across from the Landing. Joseph routinely walks across the frozen lake in the winter to his car, parked on the Charlevoix side of the Ironton Ferry. "In the winter, I like to say I'm the only lawyer who can walk on water," he joked.

VERIFIED PETITION BY PLAINTIFF FIRSTAR AND COURT APPOINTED RECEIVER TO APPROVE SALE OF ASSETS

NOW COME Plaintiff, Firstar Bank Milwaukee, N/A First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee (hereinafter "Firstar") and Receiver, Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"), by and through their counsel, Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C., who hereby move that this Honorable Court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan, to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In support of this motion, Firstar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed Receiver of the Assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, which owns and operates WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM in Charlevoix by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.9 million was entered by this Court on August 20, 1993, and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver, and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix.

2. At the time, the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, Walker & Walker, Inc., and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under their obligations under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991 line of credit agreement and note payable to Firstar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments thereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operations and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast license.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast license, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix. At present, Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, is the licensee of the applicable FCC broadcast licenses.

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers as Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase Agreement with The McDonald Broadcasting Company on April 15, 1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

7. The Receiver, Jay Meyers, believes that the proposed sale, pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, is in the best interests of the Defendants and their respective creditors.

8. The sale contemplated by the Asset Purchase Agreement shall be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances. To the extent that such liens and encumbrances exist, same shall attach to the proceeds of the sale in their order, rank and priority. Closing of the sale will not take place until FCC approval of the transfer of the broadcast license, claims have been received as set forth below and this Court has made a final determination after hearing as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim.

9. A copy of this Petition and Order Re: Notice of Hearing On Petition To Approve Sale will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and will be sent by certified mail to all creditors of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, to which the Receiver has received written knowledge of existence. Objections to the sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the Court or the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J. Corcoran, Attorney for Plaintiff and Receiver, at 201 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, by 5:00 p.m., July 8, 1994. If no objection is timely filed and served, the Court may enter the Order approving the proposed sale without a hearing.

10. Any creditor may file an appearance with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix and a Proof Of Claim or make a claim by contacting the Receiver, in writing, at 3349 Monroe Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618. A final determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further order of this Court before the closing of the sale is permitted to proceed.

...Russia is depressing during transition

cause there were about 13,000 military and law enforcement officers omnipresent. Kile said it made her nervous. In Charlevoix County, if you see more than two cops together, chances are there's a problem. In Russia, there were cops everywhere.

Kile said that following the revolution, the Russian government has been disorganized. Russian organized crime has filled the gap. She estimated that 90 percent of the business people pay criminals protection money. She said that no formal law has created upheaval and chaos.

An interesting irony Kile observed is that while according to the law, you're supposed to pay with rubles for anything you buy in Russia, all of the prices are marked in U.S. dollars. She said business people try to take tourists for all they can. When she was alone and appeared to be Russian, she got things cheaper.

Although Kile found the trip to Russia to be very interesting, she says "I would not live in Russia."

Local hospitality inspires CMU alumni group

As noted in a recent Courier column, by Edith Gilbert, Charlevoix received mention by sportscaster Dick Enberg at this year's Wimbledon tennis tournament. This past weekend, Enberg and 38 other members of the Central Michigan University Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity from the 1950s gathered for a reunion in Charlevoix. The reunion was organized by Bob Beaumont and Deano Davenport.

Davenport said the group spent Thursday, Friday, Saturday and part of Sunday in Charlevoix and couldn't say enough about the community. "They want to come back in a few years and have a second fraternity conclave here," Davenport said.

Enberg is a friend of Davenport's and has visited Charlevoix several times in the past. During this year's Wimbledon tournament, Davenport was visiting with Enberg when Enberg's broadcast colleague, Bud Collins, made a comment about some town that he felt was the most beautiful place in the world. The town Collins mentioned was someplace other than Charlevoix and Davenport, a Charlevoix native, pointed out the mistake and since that time has been working on persuading Collins to see the error of his ways.

Davenport said the fraternity members came to Charlevoix from all over the country. He said local golf courses and the Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant went out of their way to be accommodating. During a banquet at the end of the weekend the group initiated a $15,000 endowment fund which will be used to bring guest speakers to the CMU campus each year.

...Charlevoix Manufacturing to expand

pany settled on the state of Michigan for its new plant. Charlevoix was the next logical step. The Hater family has summered in Charlevoix since 1940.

Charlevoix Manufacturing has experienced slow, steady growth since 1978. The plant manufactures master cylinder brake pistons, with General Motors being one of its biggest customers. It was the quality work of the Charlevoix employees that enticed company president Harry Hater and son Jim to move all plant operations from Ohio to Charlevoix. "The people really care here - care about their jobs, and care about the product. They're team players, open minded, and willing to try new things," Jim said. Trying new things, finding ways to improve plant efficiency is what made Charlevoix manufacturing win out over the plant in Ohio.

The plant will expand to 33,000 square feet, about triple its current size. The expansion will also provide 70 new jobs locally. Charlevoix Manufacturing has received support and encouragement on both the state and local levels. "For Charlevoix and northern Michigan, this is a big deal," Hater said.

While Hater touts the quality employees in Charlevoix, some credit must also go to good management. Plant Manager Lawrence Bradley and Quality Manager Phil Hoffman work with Hater to inspire employees. "We encourage them to try new things, and don't fault them when they fail," Hater said adding, "Slight changes in the process can make big changes in efficiency. Our employees are always finding better ways to do things."

Outdoing themselves

Charlevoix merchants do it at sidewalk sales

By TAMARA BURLEY
News-Review staff writer

Michael Holmes, owner of The Appletree at 224 Bridge Street, summarizes how most of the stores in downtown Charlevoix approach the annual sidewalk sale.

"We're going to outdo ourselves," Holmes said, of his store, which has participated in sidewalk sales for 21 years.

"We're putting everything out," he said. "There will be lots and lots of goodies."

Shoppers can hope to find teddy bears, bird houses and lots of Christmas items at The Appletree during Charlevoix's sidewalk sales Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 18, 19 and 20.

Merchants will be marking down merchandise and moving it outside the stores for the biggest sale of the year.

"We're real serious about sales," Holmes said. "When we put it out there we don't want it to come back."

Holmes said shoppers will find many items as low as $5 and $1 apiece.

Bargains are the order of the day, or days, during the outdoor sale. Rose Cargo at 100 1/2 Mason St.

will have lots of great bargains, said owner Diane Liverance.

In addition to many items that have been good buys since the store's grand opening June 24, customers will find summer children's clothes marked down and several recycled paper products.

"We'll have a special percentage off to school teachers for packages of Earth Balloons," Liverance said.

T-shirts that feel like cotton but are actually made from recycled PET plastic bottles will also be on sale.

Rugs and pillows from Morocco and many other items can be purchased at lower than usual prices.

Around the corner at Cotton Jacqu's Trading Co. at 325 Bridge St., manager Pam Beer said customers should expect "a little bit of everything" on the sale racks.

A lot of accessories, belts, jewelry, hats, purses and scarves will be marked down by as much as 50 percent, Beer said.

Cotton and chiffon dresses, summer short sets, fun hair-accessories and a few sweaters will also be on sale.

Beer, who has been in retail since she was 16 years old, said she looks forward to having lots of people around and clearing out summer merchandise at sidewalk sales.

"And lots of bargains," she said. Fred DiMartino, owner of Trademark Clothiers at 215 Bridge St., said he looks forward to good weather during sidewalk sales.

"My biggest concern is we have to have really nice weather," DiMartino said. "That makes it a real fun thing, because you are shopping and getting a tan at the same time."

"People are in a good buying mood when the weather is correct," DiMartino said. And at Trademark Clothiers shoppers will find "some really great buys," he said.

All of the store's summer wear will be on sale, including shorts, tops and slacks. Special racks with up to 75 percent off clothes will offer bargain hunters plenty to choose from.

And a student table will have jeans and corduroys up to 75 percent off as well.

Whether its clothing, back-to-school bargains, Christmas presents or gift items you are looking for, you'll find it at the annual sidewalk sale in Charlevoix.

The sale is on!

Shoppers will have a chance to rake in the savings this weekend during the annual Sidewalk Sales. The sale begins Thursday, Aug. 18, and runs through Saturday, Aug. 20. Sidewalk Sales offer something for everyone as the city's downtown merchants move sale merchandise outdoors for the three-day run. Racks of bargains await shoppers. (Charlevoix Courier file photo)

Acacia ordered to be ready to go to Florida

Although the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia has not yet been ordered to leave for Florida to help with Cuban interdiction efforts, the ship has been told to pack and be ready to leave by Friday.

The Acacia, a 180-foot buoy tender stationed in Charlevoix, recently has been in Duluth, Minnesota for a Coast Guard ceremony and buoy-tending conference. The stay in Duluth was cut short after the ship received orders to scoot home and prepare for a long-voyage to Florida. The Coast Guard's New York based Atlantic Area Commander Vice Adm. James M. Loy issued the order.

The Acacia left Duluth at 8:00 a.m. Sunday and arrived in Charlevoix Tuesday. Upon arriving in Charlevoix the crew promptly began unloading buoy tending equipment and loading equipment for Cuban interdiction efforts.

Roundtable focuses on Michigan jobs

By L. Scott Swanson

Officials from three state employment agencies spoke to about a dozen local business people Monday afternoon at a jobs roundtable hosted by State Representative Bev Bodem, R-Alpena.

Art Ellis, director of the Department of Commerce, Dr. Kalmin Smith, deputy director of the Michigan Department of Labor, and Lydia Murray of the Michigan Job Commission, fielded questions and complaints and explained the roles of their agencies.

Ellis said that in the past two years the Department of Commerce has been delegating the task of job creation to Michigan Job Commission. Murray said that task breaks down into three categories: retaining and expanding the number of jobs in the state; preparing workers for those jobs; and improving the state's job climate. Recent state efforts toward job creation include: pushing for charter schools to improve education; making cuts in the single business tax and property taxes; streamlining permitting processes; and spending $40 million on worker re-training programs. Murray said Michigan is now first nationally among states in jobs creation and business start-ups. Josh Barnes of LexaLite International noted that in Charlevoix, property taxes for businesses have not gone down as a result of property tax reform. Ellis conceded that there are certain pockets of the state where that is the case and

LexaLite announces expansion plans

LexaLite International Corporation of Charlevoix has announced plans for an immediate expansion. Monday, LexaLite International President Tom Phillips confirmed that the company has two major developmental programs, both involving very high technology processing that are now nearly production ready.

LexaLite will be building a new facility that will include 24,000 square feet of manufacturing space and will, in two years, create at least 40 jobs, most of which will require special qualifications and training. The project is a $4 million investment for the company. Equipment will include specialized injection molding machines and custom apparatus for a series of deep vacuum secondary operations. The project is moving forward quickly with May of 1995 as a target date for initial production.

Josh Barnes, LexaLite International Chief Executive Officer, said that the location for the new facility is a site directly across U.S. 31 from the present main plant and of-

School off the hook on contamination charge

It cost $88,890.93 to chase away a $444,311.56 cloud which had been hanging over the Charlevoix public school system. The cloud was a demand for payment from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Michigan Attorney General's office.

In June of 1993 DNR officials demanded the school pay $444,311.56 to help pay for state costs which were part of the construction of a new municipal water treatment plant in the mid 1980s. Contamination of Charlevoix's city water system was discovered in September of 1981. Based upon tests conducted by the state and Environmental Protection Agency between 1983 and 1985, the state alleged that the source of the contamination was the Charlevoix Middle School.

After receiving the demand for payment from the DNR, the school hired hydrogeologist Tim Braithwaite from Ann Arbor and John Voepel, a downstate attorney who specializes in environmental matters. Braithwaite and Voepel met with the DNR, analyzed the data and filed a report indicating that the Charlevoix Middle School could not have been the source of contamination in the city wells since the flow of groundwater in that area is not from the school toward the wells.

Several months ago, the school district submitted the Braithwaite report to the DNR and waited for a response. Dr. Roberta Jackson, school superintendent, said that as of last Friday the school still hasn't heard anything from the DNR. However, last month Voepel sent the school a letter stating that the Attorney General's office had not filed a suit by July 1, 1994 and the statute of limitation on the recovery of costs has now expired.

"We're past the statute of limitations. Our attorney has closed the files," Jackson said Friday.

In a phone interview with the Courier Monday, Chris DeWitt, a spokesman for the Attorney General's office, confirmed that the attorney general's office has decided not to pursue the case. He said that after reviewing the matter it was decided that there was not sufficient evidence to prove a claim against the school system. Asked if that means the school is now off the hook, DeWitt said that's a reasonable conclusion.

Four scholarships awarded

Four 1994 graduates of East Jordan High School have been selected to receive special scholarships awarded through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Kari Snyder was given a $500 Alice Garlock Memorial Scholarship for her outstanding achievement in mathematics. The Garlock Scholarship fund was established to honor the East Jordan High School graduate maintaining the highest grade point average in math. Snyder plans to attend Hope College in the fall.

The Alice Garlock Scholarship was established by her husband Ken Garlock, who desired to create a lasting and fitting memorial to her life.

Leatha Larsen Memorial Scholarships in the amount of $500 each were awarded to Belinda Moore, Celeste Townsend and Tina Richards. Larsen scholarships are based on academic performance and are given each year to college-bound East Jordan graduates.

Leatha Larsen was a teacher and counselor with the East Jordan Public Schools for 30 years.

The Wally Byam Caravan Club International, Inc. hosted an Airstream Trailer Rally in Charlevoix this past week. The trailers parked on the airport off of Carpenter Street and participants took part in activities at the high school and throughout the area. Local hosts were Herman and Marilyn Izor. Parkside Restaurant - a local landmark is sold

By Laurie Lounsbury

There are lots of hellos and goodbyes being exchanged at the Parkside Restaurant these days. Parkside owners Leo and Gladys Markel are selling the business after 18 years of operating the family style restaurant. Patrons seek out Leo and Gladys to say "so long" for the last time. "Goodbye. Take care of yourselves. I don't know if I'll ever see you again," one summer patron said wistfully.

The Markels have many loyal customers bidding them farewell and wishing them the best as they embark on their retirement. Customers will miss the Markels as much as they will miss the legendary whitefish dinners and Gladys' delicious banana bread. The restaurant will be closed after Labor Day weekend. The Markels are selling the business to restaurateurs Steve Ager and Terry Left. (See accompanying story.)

Although summer visitors are stopping by to say goodbye, locals continue to stop in to say hello. Over the years, the Markels have hired hundreds of Charlevoix youths as bus people, then watched as they worked their way through waiter, waitress, and cook positions. Most employees return eight years in a row, working their way through high school and college. The once awkward teenagers now visit Leo and Gladys to present their new spouses and babies. The Markels treat their former employees like extended family, cooing over the babies and dispensing occasional advice to new-laws. Gladys is looking forward to retirement, but worries about the teens who will no longer have summer jobs. "I think it's kind of sad. This place employs 45 people every summer, and they'll be out of work now," she said.

When the Markels bought the Parkside, they had no experience in the restaurant business. Leo owned a golf course on Walloon Lake. When they moved to Charlevoix, Leo bought the golf driving range along with the Parkside. It was his intention to let Gladys run the restaurant while he gave golf lessons at the driving range. Within two weeks of opening the restaurant, the head chef was lured away to a different restaurant, leaving the Markels to fend for themselves. Before the chef left, he gave Gladys and her son Mark a ten day crash course in cooking. They've been managing ever since. "We did food we liked, spaghetti, stir fried chicken. Gladys and Mark came up with the formula for whitefish. It became a big seller," Leo said. That might be an understatement. People line the streets on summer evenings, waiting to get seated at one of the worn, formica tables and eat Parkside whitefish. The Markels serve about 2,000 pounds of whitefish each week. On a good day, they serve 800 meals from 7:30 in the morning to 9 at night.

The Parkside will probably be having good days from now until its scheduled closing date. Leo reported that business increased after the word got out about the Parkside's sale. "It's going to change things here. It will be a different town without the Parkside," Leo said.

New owners are local restaurateurs

By Laurie Lounsbury

Restaurateurs Steve Ager and Terry Left want people to understand that they aren't nasty-ogres trying to shut down a landmark restaurant. The two of them decided to buy the Parkside Restaurant and turn it into retail space simply because it seemed like a good business decision. Left owns Terry's Place, The Villager Pub, and Great Lakes Fish and Chips. Ager owns the Argonne Supper Club, Harbor Vista Cafe, and The Argonne Take-out Restaurant. When the two of

OPINIONS

Editorial

Oops to the tune of $90,000

When some state government employee goofs up and costs Charlevoix taxpayers $90,000, what does he or she say? Oops!

Last summer, DNR officials contacted the Charlevoix school administrators and asked them to come to a meeting to discuss groundwater contamination problems. So Dr. Roberta Jackson, the school superintendent, and Rich Kelly, the school business manager went to meet with them.

At the meeting, DNR and State Attorney General people handed Jackson and Kelly a letter demanding payment of $444,311.56 for a groundwater contamination problem which was discovered in 1981 and led to the construction of a new city water plant in 1987. Neither Jackson nor Kelly happened to have $444,311.56 on them at the time and beyond that neither of them were with the Charlevoix school system in the early 1980s. Jackson and Kelly brought the letter back to Charlevoix for the school board to ponder.

The school board talked over the situation and hired a hydrogeologic consultant and an environmental attorney. As Scott Beatty, who at the time was school board president put it, "Is it important to retain legal counsel? ... Anytime you're slapped with a demand for half a million dollars, I think it is."

So the hydrogeologist and the attorney met with the DNR and reexamined all of the evidence and put together a report which arrived at a much different conclusion than that reached by the DNR. Where the DNR had concluded that the middle school was the source of contamination at the city well, this new report concluded that could not have been the case. The new report argued that the direction of groundwater flow in the area in question is not from the middle school toward the old city wells.

The school sent this report to the DNR and waited for a response. They waited. And they waited. And they waited. They still haven't received a response, but in this case no news is good news. According to the school's environmental attorney, as of July 1 the statute of limitations on the matter expired and the school is now in the clear.

According to a spokesman at the Attorney General's office, after the school submitted their report, the DNR and Attorney General people decided the case wasn't worth pursuing. Even if the middle school was the cause of the contamination, it would be difficult if not impossible to prove in court.

Taxpayers in the Charlevoix school district can look at this story either as bad news or good news. It cost $90,000 to persuade the state to leave the local school system alone. On the other hand, $90,000 is a lot less than $444,000. But the bottom line is still that $90,000 local taxpayers coughed up for the education of local children had to be spent on something else.

The whole situation has to leave you with a bad taste in your mouth. Somewhere, somebody messed up. Either someone from the DNR misinterpreted data or someone in the Attorney General's office jumped the gun in deciding to lean on the school district. It's difficult to say exactly who made the mistake. Beyond that, you have to wonder if the Charlevoix school system is the only public body in the state to have had this problem. If this is something which happens on a recurring basis, is anybody in Lansing looking into this and attempting to resolve the problem? A few of these $90,000 oops would tend to add up.

Letters to the editor

It takes work to make dreams a reality

Editor,

I would like to thank Edith Gilbert for having raised a great many questions about Castle Farm's summer program. They are questions which have been puzzling many people in Charlevoix County, including the board of Castle Farm, all summer.

It is true that by holding concerts Castle Farm hoped to raise money to fund the operating costs of the property. It is also true that there were a lot of concerts over a short space of time and that they were not sufficiently publicized.

But this was a genuine attempt to offer a range of entertainment which could appeal to all aspects of the community. If you want to solicit public opinion you have to provide the public with something to have an opinion about.

Castle Farm did not raise money from the summer program, in fact it lost money. But what it gained was the interest and support of the people who did come to the castle and who enjoyed what they came to see.

There is a risk factor in any undertaking of this kind. It rarely pays off in the first year. In fact Castle Farm lost an amount equivalent to the previous owner's publicity budget for one concert.

If you look at it in that perspective they did pretty well.

The greatest success of the concert program was the classical concert series. The weather on the evening of the Gala Opening hit 40 degrees. People sat bravely, wrapped in blankets and listened to the orchestra with mounting respect and enthusiasm. One lady, aged 83, remarked that she was very cold indeed, but couldn't bear to leave because the orchestra was so wonderful. She is normally a harsh critic.

The weather was perfect for the second and third concerts and the orchestra received standing ovations at all three.

Conductor, Ken Andrews had spent one week rehearsing with 47 international musicians from all over Canada and America, many of whom had never met or played together before, and produced something quite magical. That doesn't happen very often - anywhere. These musicians loved being at Castle Farm and would be happy to come back next year.

Ken Andrews is a sensitive and inspired conductor who knows how to put an orchestra together and help it achieve a quality of music far beyond the mundane and competent rendering of popular and much exposed pieces that we have all, sadly, become accustomed to hearing. Bearing this in mind, my personal feeling is that this orchestra was created in and for Charlevoix. The positive response from both the orchestra and the audience does not mean that loyalties must be divided between several venues.

As Mrs. Gilbert rightly points out, the arts and especially symphony orchestras do not make a profit. But they CAN BE and ARE sponsored so that the expenditure does not depend on one source only.

Open air music festivals like Tanglewood and Ravinia are great assets to the areas in which they operate. If Charlevoix were to decide to create its own open air festival it has, already at hand, all the attributes needed to provide it.

The venues involved need not work in opposition to each other, competing for the same audience. They could work together to create an event which would be of benefit to everyone. Finally, while we are on the subject of mutual benefits: Castle Farm has been owned by the community for three months now. It needs a great deal of renovation, money and as Mrs. Gilbert says, time. But what it needs most is people who say, "How can we make this dream a reality?" NOT "It's only a dream. Let's just sit here and see if it comes true."

Together, or separately, projects should go forward

Editor,

(Copy of a letter sent to Bob Tambellini, Charlevoix Community Foundation)

Dear Bob:

I want to thank you very much for getting together our group of people the other evening at the Pointes North Inn in Charlevoix to try to resolve the community swimming pool location.

For the good of our whole community, I and others are sorry that the pool and the Castle Farm project could not have been consolidated.

In any case, I trust both will move forward with great success.

With best regards,
Sincerely,
Stewart Boal

them heard that a Detroit restaurant chain was interested in purchasing the Parkside and acquiring a liquor license to go with it, they decided it might be more competition than the market could bear.

"The Parkside as we know it would have been gone, one way or the other," Left said. "Why should someone else come in and skim the gravy, then leave?" he added. Ager agreed with Left, saying, "The pie, ten months out of the year, is small enough as it is. We're doing this to protect ourselves and our employees."

With six restaurants between them, Ager and Left are sure they'll be hiring many of the displaced summer employees. "I guarantee you they'll be absorbed in the marketplace," Ager said. "I'll hire half

The two men are tentatively scheduled to take possession of the building Oct. 1. They plan to take their time finding an appropriate tenant for the retail space. "We have a long term interest in this community. We'd like to see something that would benefit Charlevoix as a whole. It would be nice to find something that would fit into the community that we don't have," Left said.

Ager explained that the purchase agreement and financing is structured in a manner that will give them some time to be choosy about their tenants.

The main floor of the building will be one large retail space. The lower level will also become one retail space, and the second floor apartment will become a rental unit or be sold as a condominium.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

My mother taught first graders for 29 years. Every teacher worth their salt will tell you that after awhile there are certain things that become an annual part of your lesson plans. One of my mother's favorites was a little song that went something like this:

"I want to wake up in the morning, where the orange blossoms grow; where the sun comes peeping into where I'm sleeping and the songbirds say hello. I want the fresh air and the sunshine. It's good for us you know. So I'll make my home in Florida where the orange blossoms grow!"

If you liked that, ask me sometime about my Michigan version of that song! Anyway, what I want you to roll around in your mind is where you consider your home. If you go by your birthplace, that would make Pennsylvania my home. I was born in Philadelphia. But in all honesty, the only reason why the Keystone State plays any part in my life at all is because Philadelphia happened to be the closest hospital to where my Mom and Dad were at the time the good Lord decided the world was ready for my entrance.

If home is where you went through your school years, well that would indeed have me staking my claim in Florida. I want to elementary school in DeLand, junior high and high school in Orlando, and college in Lake Wales.

If you call home where your married life began, then my wife's side gets the nod because we were married in Tullahoma, Tennessee.

The most traditionally thought of definition of where home is anchors itself in where you happen to be living at the time. Parishes in Johnson City, Memphis, Huntington and Gadsden all have figured in that side of our lives. And of course, there is that precious gem we all know and love as Charlevoix the Beautiful. But, think carefully about this, is even this lovely peninsula clad, caring community home?

Someone far more adept than I with words once said, "Home is where the heart is." If that has even the remotest grain of truth about it, then you already know where I'm headed. For those who believe in God, another old song hits the nail on the head. "This world is not my home. I'm only passing through."

Heaven is our real home. The One who forgave us of our sins continues to devote His all to guiding us safely there. His Spirit takes great joy in helping us unfold and understand the map of life that is His Word that makes the journey so worthwhile. The Father Himself is closer than we often realize bringing comfort and hope for the most difficult moments and peace and contentment for the happier ones.

What images come to your mind when you think of home? If they are positive feelings, then multiply them a hundred fold and you might begin to get a picture of what God has in store for those who remember where their real home is!

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Raven Hill to dedicate new classroom building

If you want excitement, mystery and intrigue, plan to attend the open house at Raven Hill Discovery Center Thursday, Aug. 25 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. The schedule of events includes the dedication of the new classroom building at 5:30 p.m.; opening of the "Cargo for Conservation" box at 6 p.m.; and the unveiling of Raven Hill's expansion plans at 6:30 p.m.

The new classroom is part of ongoing expansion of Raven Hill Discovery Center. In January 1993 Raven Hill received a challenge grant from Frey Foundation for adding museum and classroom space. The Center has raised two thirds of the funding needed to match the 1 to 3 grant. Donations have come from individuals, business and industry, service organizations and other foundations. Some funds have already been spent on enclosing a pavilion to create a classroom. This new classroom will be used by school groups as they rotate through various hands-on activities during field trips and by scout groups doing badgerwork. Further expansion is planned for the Center over the next couple of years and those plans will be on display Thursday night as well as the site development plans.

Another highlight of the evening will be the opening of a box that Raven Hill has received from the National Forensics Lab in Ashland, Oregon. The box contains protected materials that will be in permanent display in the new classroom. They include products made from endangered species. Raven Hill requested a "Cargo for Conservation" box even before they officially broke ground for the Discovery Center in 1991.

Raven Hill Discovery Center is a regional science and technology center located on 160 acres, four miles southeast of East Jordan. It is also a cultural, historical, and art center and has nonprofit 501 (c)(3) status.

The overall goal of the Center is to foster an interest in and to convey information in science, history, and the arts by inviting visitors to have quality, hands-on experiences in these areas. The Center is open year-round to the public, individuals, groups and organizations.

Since opening in May 1992, more than 13,000 visitors have toured the Center enjoying the exhibits and displays, and holding a variety of exotic animals. In addition to the museum and animals, Raven Hill Discovery Center offers overnights for scouts and other groups, school field trips, a full summer class program, adult seminars, Family Activity Days, and hosts teacher workshops in cooperation with Charlevoix Emmet Intermediate School District.

The public is invited to attend Thursday's open house at Raven Hill. Donations will gladly be accepted toward the building fund. A call in advance to Raven Hill with numbers would be appreciated if you plan to attend. The number is 616-536-3369. Raven Hill is located on Fuller Road, three quarters of a mile from Pearsall Road and C-48 between East Jordan and Boyne City.

York Smith, a Charlevoix 8-year-old, has a role in "The Magic Flute," a new musical play based on Mozart's comic opera which will have its world premiere in East Jordan. Smith is a slave who serves the villain Monostatos, but finally rebels against his evil demands.

Soon starting third grade, Smith already has two previous acting experiences under his belt. He portrayed Peter Rabbit in "Tales of Peter Rabbit," a Charlevoix Elementary School production. He was also a bad man in "The Promises and the Wicked Prince," a Jordan River Players production in East Jordan.

This performance by Jordan River Players, the theatrical arm of Jordan River Arts Council, features a cast of 24 actors — 15 children, seven teenagers, and two adults. Director is Paula Vollbach, musical director is Margaret Thomson and Lorie Fox will play the flute music.

Set in ancient Egypt, the play for young audiences was written by East Jordan playwright Lenore Bechtel, and the twelve songs are new lyrics written to shortened versions of Mozart's original music. The production is supported by Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs and Cheboygan Area Arts Council.

Performances will be at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 26 and 27; and at 2 p.m. Sunday, August 28, at East Jordan High School.

Tickets will be available at the door 30 minutes prior to curtain. Prices are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

VERIFIED PETITION BY PLAINTIFF FIRSTSTAR AND COURT APPOINTED RECEIVER TO APPROVE SALE OF ASSETS

NOW COME Plaintiff, Firststar Bank Milwaukee, U/A First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee (hereinafter "Firststar") and Receiver, Jay Meyers, (hereinafter "Receiver"), by and through their counsel, Pointner, Joseph & Corcoran, P.C., who hereby move that this Honorable court issue an Order approving the proposed sale by Jay Meyers, as Receiver of the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix; which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM located in Charlevoix, Michigan; to The McDonald Broadcasting Company pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A. In Support of this motion, Firststar and Receiver represent to the Court as follows:

1. That Jay Meyers was appointed Receiver of the Assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, which owns and operates radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM in Charlevoix by Order of this Court on August 5, 1993, and thereafter, an Order Approving Surety Bond in the amount of $1.9 million was entered by this Court on August 20, 1993, and since that time Mr. Meyers has acted, and is now acting, as Receiver, and has operated, and is now operating, the business of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix.

2. At the time, the appointment of a Receiver was necessary to prevent material and irreparable loss and injury to the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, which owns the radio stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM and that it was in the best interests of all the creditors and the public of the radio stations that a receiver be appointed, and that A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, Walker & Walker, Inc., and Charles Walker were in default at the time of the application under their obligations under a 1990 term loan agreement as amended and by a 1991 line of credit agreement and note payable to Firststar as more fully described in the Verified Complaint and attachments thereto, and that it was necessary that a receiver be appointed to obtain credit, as appropriate, and to take such action with respect to the assignment, operations and use of the stations' assets, including the FCC broadcast licenses.

3. Pursuant to the Order Appointing the Receiver, Jay Meyers was authorized by the Court to take and have complete and exclusive possession, control and custody of all the property, real and personal, of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, including but not limited to the FCC broadcast licenses, for the stations WKHQ-FM and WMKT-AM, Charlevoix, and that the Receiver was directed and authorized to sign the applications for assignment of the FCC broadcast license on behalf of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc. - Charlevoix, as Receiver of the assets of

4. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to administer, manage and maintain all actions as are deemed necessary to conduct the business and affairs of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix and to operate the stations in the public interest and, subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC, to enter into and execute letters of intent and purchase agreements and sell, transfer, control and otherwise protect the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix.

5. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, was authorized by this Court to take the necessary steps to complete the sale and transfer the assets of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, including the transfer of the FCC broadcast licenses issued to A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix and thereafter transferred to Jay Meyers as Receiver.

6. Jay Meyers, as Receiver, pursuant to the authority vested in him by this Court, had the authority and did enter into an Asset Purchase Agreement with The McDonald Broadcasting Company on April 15, 1994, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, all subject to the approval of this Court and the FCC.

7. The Receiver, Jay Meyers, believes that the proposed sale, pursuant to the Asset Purchase Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, is in the best interests of the Defendants and their respective creditors.

8. The sale contemplated by the Asset Purchase Agreement shall be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances. To the extent that such liens and encumbrances exist, same shall attach to the proceeds of the sale in their order, rank and priority. Closing of the sale will not take place until FCC approval of the transfer of the broadcast license, claims have been received as set forth below and this Court has made a final determination after hearing as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim.

9. A copy of this Petition and Order Re: Notice of Hearing On Petition To Approve Sale will be published for five consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier and will be sent by certified mail to all creditors of A.J. Walker Communications, Inc., Charlevoix, to which the Receiver has received written knowledge of existence. Objections to the sale by any creditor or any other party in interest must be filed with the Clerk of the court or the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix with copies of same being served upon Michael J. Corcoran, Attorney for Plaintiff and Receiver, at 201 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, by 5:00 p.m., July 8, 1994. If no objection is timely filed and served, the Court may enter the Order approving the proposed sale without a hearing.

10. Any creditor may file an appearance with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix and a Proof Of Claim or make a claim by contacting the Receiver, in writing, at 3349 Monroe Avenue, #343, Rochester, New York 14618. A final determination as to any claim, rank and priority of said claim will be made by further order of this Court before the closing of the sale is permitted to proceed.

Riders' program preparing for fall

The Exceptional Riders Program is preparing for its fall session. Classes are scheduled to begin the first week of September and will run through the middle of October. If you are interested in volunteering to help with the classes or would like to register a student, please call Barb Lane at 347-3300.

Students are wanted. The one-hour-long classes are open to physically, mentally and emotionally challenged people of all ages. Students are taught to ride the horse, not just taken for a "pony ride." Each student is assisted by a volunteer horse leader and, depending on the student's ability, one or two side helpers. Safety is emphasized. The group meets once a week on Tuesday nights at the indoor riding arena at Lake Charlevoix Farms on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

One difficulty for handicapped people has always been a lack of confidence in their own abilities. Put that person on horseback and they gain a new perspective. For some it is a new-found mobility, for others it is the challenge of controlling such a large and powerful animal, and the physical and emotional rewards appeal to all.

Several factors are important to making this program a success. The first is people; every session requires approximately 30 volunteer helpers — to lead the horses, assist the students and help with many other jobs in the barn and class area. Secondly, we need financial support from our community, the Exceptional Riders Program is a non-profit, tax-exempt charitable organization. There is no fee for these classes, but students should arrange their own transportation to and from the farm.

...business people discuss job creation and retention

Charlevoix is in one of those pockets.

John Hess, who owns a metal fabricating business, said he finds a lack of employees with strong technical skills. Murray agreed, noting that throughout the state there is a shortage of skilled technical workers and machinists.

Barnes told Murray that he is concerned that state job training efforts often focus on specialized skills while neglecting fundamental skills. He said that if an employee comes to a business with a fundamentally sound education, the business can teach the employee the necessary specialized skills.

Joe Trojanek of Sears of Charlevoix asked if there has been any discussion of legislative action to keep schools from opening prior to Labor Day.

Bodem said that issue was discussed last year and a proposed amendment received 47 votes in the House of Representatives. However, that was short of what is required to pass an amendment.

Ellis, a former president of Central Michigan University, said that for the past several years the school calendar has been something which has been negotiated as part of teacher contracts. The teachers have wanted longer Christmas breaks which has forced schools to open earlier to get in the required number of classroom days. Since teachers take summer classes at college, colleges have followed suit in scheduling so that their summer classes would be available for teachers to take.

Barnes said that LexaLite is planning an expansion (see accompanying story) and has considered sites in Michigan, Tennessee and Nevada. Murray said that in Michigan possibilities exist for industrial tax abatements, tax exempt industrial development bonds, job training programs and state agencies that work with businesses to expedite the permit process.

Smith said he feels Michigan has made slow, but steady progress in recent years toward becoming friendly toward business. "Turning the economy around is like turning a battleship around," he said. It takes time.

ATTENTION BUSINESSES:

Make sure the "Yellow Page" bills you receive in the mail are for the real thing.

Beware Invoices that really aren't bills

By JENNIFER A. SINGLEY
News-Review staff writer

Businesses beware: Scams and national yellow page companies are looking for businesses to fill their directories.

Several local businesses have received solicitations to advertise in national yellow page directories and paid the fees thinking the solicitations were a bill.

Glenn Farris, manager of the Water Street Inn in Charlevoix, said about $100 last year to mistakenly advertising in the Nationwide Edition Yellow Pages.

When I first stepped into management I paid for one," Farris said. "After receiving a couple of letters I just assumed it was an overdue bill. It took me a while to find out."

The directory companies make the "beware" bills look official by placing the familiar yellow pages "warning" logo prominently on the letter. They are legally allowed to use the logo because it was never trademarked by AT&T.

Although federal law requires a business soliciting services through the mail to clearly state the service is not a bill, many consumers remain confused.

"If you really read it you know it's not a bill," Farris said. "But it's right there."

Other businesses who advertise in the local yellow pages assume the letters are bills from those directories.

Catherine Gaudin, manager of 11001st Street and Wisconsin in Charlevoix, said that when she got a letter from a company that said "We are now a part of the Yellow Pages" and asked "Do you want to be a part of it?"

"That's how I found out I was being scammed," she said.

Kathy Moore, a vice-president for the area Phone Guide directory, said "We are now a part of the Yellow Pages" and asked "Do you want to be a part of it?"

She said that if you are not a part of the Yellow Pages, you are not a part of the Yellow Pages.

The familiar "warning" logo is used by some yellow pages directories. The companies also send out what look like bills to get local advertisements.

But we call every business based on our directory," Moore said.

Some yellow pages advertising companies are outright scammers. Their solicitations letters won't say "This is not a bill" in the companies only send out a limited number of solicitations.

However, most national yellow pages companies are providing legitimate advertising services within the law. They sell yellow pages listings and send out their directories to libraries, chambers of commerce and businesses throughout the country.

Ruth Renshaw, a representative of The Yellow Pages Co. in the Woodlands, Texas, which publishes the Yellow Pages Nationwide Edition, said their directory lists 150,000 businesses and is sent to over 150,000 homes nationwide.

They request business addresses to send solicitations letters to by purchasing mailing lists.

However, some of the businesses on their mailing lists are small local merchants who receive little or no benefit from the directory.

Phyllis Henge, owner of Village Inn Pizza in Charlevoix, advised in a national directory about four years ago. She and other businesses who advertised don't think that having brought them any added business.

One positive aspect is that the restaurant is well listed in the 1992 edition of the Nationwide Yellow Pages, even though Henge only paid for it once, four years ago.

Many businesses have learned the hard way that the national directory solicitations are not bills, and no one has business owners are more cautious this year.

"They're making sure when they're talking to me, we're more than ever before," Moore said.

The Yellow Pages Publishers Association recommends consumers who receive these "beware" bills contact the Regional Chief Postal Inspector, Write to: MSC: Central Region, Main Post Office Building, Room 712, 433 W. VanBuren St., Chicago, Ill. 60607-5401.

Acacia departs for Cuba

Fresh fruit, a key to the city, a beautiful cake, farewell hugs and kisses, brief speeches and somber faces. Lots of somber faces saw off the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia Friday morning.

A group of approximately 50 people, made up of family, friends, city officials and business people, gathered in a light rain at the Acacia's dock between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. Friday morning to wish the ship and crew well on their mission to assist with the interdiction of Cuban refugees.

Early last week, while in Duluth, Minnesota, the Acacia received orders to get back to Charlevoix and prepare to leave for Cuba on Friday. Upon arriving in Charlevoix the crew spent three busy days unloading aids to navigation equipment and replacing it with blankets, food and other items which will be used to comfort refugees when they're picked up.

Bellinger Marine to be converted to homes

By L. Scott Swanson

A familiar sight on the shore of Round Lake will soon be gone as the Bellinger Marine building will be torn down and replaced by two houses. At the Aug. 24 city planning commission meeting, a lot split request by John Winn was approved so that two homes may be built on the property.

Winn is buying the property from Bill Bellinger. Bellinger has owned and operated Bellinger Marine Service since 1987 when he took over the property from his father, Jim Bellinger. Jim Bellinger opened Bellinger Marine Service in January of 1950.

Between 1950 and 1994 Bellinger Marine Service provided service and gas to countless

The Bellinger Marine building was built in the 1920s and for approximately three decades housed Booth Fisheries. The building will likely be torn down this fall.

Charlevoix boats and also stored the boats in the winter. During the 1950s and 1960s, Bellinger Marine also sold a few boats, but the primary emphasis has always been storage, maintenance and service.

With the sale of Bellinger Marine Service, Doug Bergmann, who had been with Bellinger's service department for more than 30 years, has opened his own storage and service business at a different location.

Prior to 1950, the large white building on the south shore of Round Lake was the old Booth Fisheries Building. According to Bill Bellinger, the building was built sometime in the 1920s. Many a large lake trout found its way into the building during the '20s, '30s and '40s. Parts of the building where the fish were iced down are insulated with sawdust in the walls.

Winn said bids are now being taken for the demolition of the building. He said the building will likely come down yet this coming fall.

Winn became interested in the property last summer when he was at Bellinger Marine getting gas for his boat. Winn has a magnificent home on the north shore of Lake

Charlevoix, but he says that home is not conducive to the needs of his three-year-old son, who is in a wheelchair. Winn said the Bellinger Marine property is on Round Lake which is a wonderfully scenic and active place for his son to watch. It is also close enough to town so that he will be able to conveniently take his son to downtown activities such as concerts in East Park.

With that in mind, Winn approached Bellinger and the two of them were able to reach an agreement. Winn said construction on the two homes should begin next spring.

With Bellinger Marine not operating this summer, the only gas dock remaining on the harbor was the Ward Brothers' dock. Bernie Ward said gas sales at the dock were up about 50 percent from last year.

He said the situation worked out all right and that they were able to handle the added volume.

Some local people adjusted by coming in at hours which aren't peak demand times. Other people even called ahead.

Ward Brothers put in hose reels to keep the dock less cluttered and are considering other ways to make the gas dock operation more streamlined and efficient next summer.

This transformer in the parking lot between Mason and Clinton Streets briefly caught fire at about 1 p.m. last Thursday. Although it created some smoke, damage was minimal. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Sports fans enjoy a season of plenty

Here's an update on the major league baseball strike. They're still on strike and there's still very few people who actually care.

Why should we care? The fall sports season is about to begin and there's all kinds of fun to be had there.

In Charlevoix, the girls' varsity basketball team begins its season Thursday night at home with one of potentially the most interesting games of the year. The Rayders host one of our suburbs, Class D power Ellsworth. Strategically, this game should be very interesting. Ellsworth is a very tall team while Charlevoix is smaller and likes to create a frantic game. The game features two of northern Michigan's best players: Liz Grunch from Charlevoix and Angie Peterson from Ellsworth. Beyond being excellent players, they're also two of the most pleasant young ladies you could hope to meet.

If you're a high school basketball fan, you should also make it a point to take in some of the girls' junior varsity and freshman games this year. The junior varsity team has an interesting combination of players and the freshman team is one of the most athletically talented groups of players to come through Charlevoix in several years.

The Charlevoix varsity football team begins its season Friday night at Rogers City. The Rayders are hoping to improve on last year's 3-6 record. Local sports gossip has it that the team has been rounding into shape in recent practice sessions. Supposedly Boyne City lost a lot of players to graduation, but East Jordan is loaded. We'll see how things go as the season progresses.

The Charlevoix Courier football contest will start next week. We're always trying to improve the contest and we'll be doing a couple of things differently. This year we will have a cash prize of $20. The other change is that we're going to keep track of the cumulative successful selection percentage of our regular entrants from week to week. After three weeks, we'll start running the names of the more successful entrants. Tom Meggison, one of our football contest regulars, kept track of his record last year in the vain hope that he might actually end up with a better selection record than the Courier football prophet. The prophet is normally reclusive until the season actually begins, but he recently faxed the Courier his first prediction of the season. The prediction said, "Guys like Tom Meggison, Mike Webb, Bill Dreyer and Hugh Mayne may think they know a thing or two about football, but time will show they pale compared to the Courier prophet."

Another thing to look forward to in next week's Courier is the special fall sports section. We've been working with Bill Gengle from the Sports Boosters, with the sports staff at the News-Review and with all of the coaches to coordinate team

The Cross Country team doesn't start its season right away, but as usual the boys' team is looking as though it will be one of the best Class C teams in the state. Another thing to take note of is that this year the girls' team has more depth than usual. In past years, the girls' team has always had one or two good runners, but never enough depth to fare especially well as a team. This year, that's not the case. Word has it that some of the team's underclassmen are running well.

The golf team under the direction of first year coach Jim Glynn has nearly 20 people out for the team. Whether or not they have the quality to match the quantity remains to be seen.

The soccer team is in its second season as a school affiliated team. That program is likely to improve due to a year of experience. This year the teams have been split into a boys' and a girls' team. The girls' program will take place in the spring.

If major league baseball thought it was going to be missed at this time of year, those players and owners were sadly mistaken. There's plenty of entertainment for sports fans at this time of the year. And that's just at the high school level. Throw in college and pro sports and you could get a sports overload.

Letters to the editor

Making a mountain out of a bag of garbage

Editor,

Late in the afternoon one recent hectic day, with house guests-in residence and others due for dinner, I sent my daughter to a northside food emporium for some last minute items. It was at least our third or fourth trip to that store that day. There was a single bag of trash getting in the way of the bustling kitchen and in a frenzied moment, I asked her to drop it at their dumpster. I was a steady, year round customer and figured they wouldn't mind just this once. WRONG! The owner discovered the bag, slit it open, sifted through the contents and traced them back to me. This heinous crime was then reported and in the middle of dinner, a police officer arrived at our house to investigate the matter. We pled guilty, the officer departed and dinner progressed, where very lively conversation ensued. My house guests are from the Detroit area where police activity usually involves somewhat more serious charges.

The bad news is the way the owner reacted. Instead of waiting to give me a stern talking to on my next trip to the store which would undoubtedly have been the next morning, he chose to act immediately, wasting a police officer's time and ultimately the taxpayers' dollars. The good news is that I have vowed to change my ways. I will always dispose of my trash properly ... and shop at Oleson's!

Sincerely,
Mary Pair

The worst thing that happened to me this summer — I ran out of gas on Bridge Street in front of Carey's Boot Shop on sidewalk sales day!

But that does not compare to the jolting news 50 Charlevoix families of the crew of the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia got last week.

Acacia crewmen received orders to head for Florida to intercept boats of Cuban migrants and help transport them to Guantanamo Bay.

They would be gone for an indefinite period.

Lt. Charles Dahill, a lawyer from the 9th District based in Cleveland, arrived here on Wednesday and took part in a late afternoon meeting of the guardsmen and their families. The purpose of the four hour meeting was to help prepare the group for the ordeal of separation. Dahill advised families on the concept of power of attorney — who needs one and why and to select the right person carefully for the job.

Michigan Department of Transportation NOTICE

OPEN HOUSE MEETINGS US-131 Freeway Corridor Study From Kalkaska to I-75

The Michigan Department of Transportation intends to identify a corridor for the location of the final segment of the US-131 freeway from north of Kalkaska to a connection with I-75. To that end, MDOT will have representatives present at two Open House meetings from 3:30 to 5:00 and 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. on the following days at the respective places:

Wednesday, September 21, 1994 in Kalkaska at the new hall of the Kalkaska County Fairground (801 W Mile Road) on the south side of M-72 west of US-131.

Thursday, September 22, 1994 in Gaylord at the Community Education Building's Alpine Inn on 615 S. Elm Street.

The corridors under preliminary consideration extend from north of Kalkaska to points along I-75 somewhere between Grayling and Indian River. These corridors are partially located in the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Kalkaska, and Otsego.

The purpose of these Open Houses is to provide the opportunity for the public to give its input on the possible future corridor location wherein alternatives for a US-131 freeway could be built. Please feel free to drop in at either meeting at any time during the advertised hours.

It is the intent of the Department not only to invite, but also to encourage citizen involvement and participation in the study. It must be stressed that this is not a public hearing of recommended highway improvements, as there have been none selected. The objective of these meetings is to gain input, at the earliest possible stage of the study, from local residents and to stimulate communication and cooperation.

FAMILY

A familiar hospital voice retires

The "voice" of Charlevoix Area Hospital is retiring. After Aug. 31, the familiar voice of Rose Mary Warner McGee will no longer be the first voice you hear when you call Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Rose Mary has been an employee of the hospital since 1970. She liked her work so much that she thought she would never retire. That was until Ed McGee came along. Ed became a volunteer at the hospital and almost immediately "had eyes for Rose Mary." They were married on May 1 in the hospital's new solarium before a standing-room-only crowd.

Now the couple plans to travel and enjoy time together. But, Rose Mary enjoys reminiscing about her years at the hospital. "I started in the Admitting office when the Emergency Room was where the Pharmacy is now (a back corridor of the present hospital)," she says. The long counter in the hallway which was their desk, where patients were registered manually, is in direct contrast to the new Admitting area where there are three computer stations and a large waiting room.

One day is imprinted on her memory. "My schedule in the early days required working in the Admitting office in the morning at 8 a.m., and then relieving the Emergency Room clerk for morning break and lunch. After my lunch hour I went to the Business Office to post bills until time to relieve for afternoon break in the E.R. Then I went back to the Business Office until closing," she remembers. "One day I was posting to accounts. The room rate was $35 a day. I touched a wrong key and the room rate zoomed to $35,000 a day. The administrator at the time said 'I like your thinking!'"

Since Rose Mary has had her primary job as switchboard operator there have been some humorous experiences, too. "A doctor called to the front office from the nurse's station, asking the switchboard operator on duty to go outside and get the license plate number of a car, which was rolling down the hill. The operator chose to page with the announcement, 'Your attention please, there is a car in the front parking lot rolling down the hill into the lake.' Needless to say, it did get everyone's attention," she says.

A recent incident gives a clue as to where Rose Mary's mind is nowadays. When doing the "on call" list for the afternoon Admitting office girls, instead of writing Dr. Edward Newcomb as being on call, she entered her new husband's name Edmond McGee. "Two fairly new girls came on duty and typed the list as I had written it. Of course there was quite a stir when the 'on call' list went out to all the nurse's stations," she says.

It hasn't been an easy job handling all the calls that come to the hospital in a day and things can get confusing at times. "I kept a record of the switchboard activity for one day," Rose Mary says, "and there were 262 incoming calls, 82 internal calls, and 63 pages." The switchboard has a priority line for the doctors; a patient line, plus two trunk lines, and the Business Office has four. There are also numerous direct lines for the business offices and over 75 extensions.

When calls are not answered, they come back to the switchboard where Rose Mary either pages the party or takes a message. It will be strange not having Rose Mary's voice over the paging system, but she has promised to join Ed as a volunteer at the hospital and she may even fill in on the switchboard at times. For awhile, though, she and Ed will be busy spending time with Rose Mary's four daughters and seven grandchildren, and Ed's four daughters and one son, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

This service reaches out to families without acting like "Big Brother." The program has been formalized and intensified particularly since the Persian Gulf war ended. Lt. Delcon, head of the Work/Life program from the 9th District, headed a team of counselors including a representative from the American Red Cross and a mental health professional at last Wednesday's meeting. In addition to answering questions, his office provides open communication with the serviceman's family at all times to alleviate stress and keep news flowing smoothly from ship to shore.

Families of the Acacia will be watching the news on TV closely as the Coast Guard vessel heads south on its rescue mission. Instead of tending buoys in the Great Lakes this season. It's good to know that those left behind will be getting the emotional, legal and compassionate support from military personnel such as Lt. Dahill, and the entire Work/Life program.

Sherrie Lyni
Loucks

Growing up on a small farm outside of town, Sherrie couldn't imagine working for a bank or ever leaving Charlevoix. In fact she told her employer just that when she began her banking career, 21 years ago!

Since then, she has made many friends and works closely with them as the Human Resources Officer for CB North. When Sherrie isn't working she spends time camping, walking, and being with her family, right here in Charlevoix.

While she has become comfortable working in a bank, Sherrie admits she still can't imagine leaving Charlevoix.

AUG 1994

Instead of the throbbing beat of a bass drum, the gentle sound of a keyboard could be heard as parishioners sang hymns in the fountain courtyard of Castle Farm Community Center. At 10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 21, Pastor Harold Kruse of the Ironton Congregational Church led the first church service inside the castle walls.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Some of my special friends in town are policemen. The stories they can share would make you smile. One of my favorites revolves around one officer's midnight vigil along U.S. 31.

A car went by him very slowly and then pulled off onto the shoulder. The officer observed a bright flash from inside the car. The vehicle got back onto the highway and drove about a mile further. It pulled off on the shoulder again and once again an officer observed a second bright flash.

Well, when you realize "to protect and to serve" are the watchwords of most members of the law enforcement community, what do you think my friend did next? He turned on his flashing lights and pulled up behind this strange car to investigate.

He found a young couple inside who were very surprised by the unexpected company. The explanation for the flashes they gave made my day. You see their car was getting up there mileage wise and they wanted to document the biggest occasion in most vehicles' lives. So when the odometer hit 999,999.9, they pulled off the road and took a picture of it. If you're going to go that far, why stop there? They drove one more mile and when the odometer hit all zeros, they stopped again to take another picture. "After all," the young fellow explained, "it may be the closest thing we ever see to what a new car looks like for a long time to come!"

That story came to mind when my faithful chariot rolled over 116,000 miles not too many days ago. In fact, I have to confess, I had a camera in the car a year ago when all zeros rolled around on mine and photographed it because of the officer's tale. But that's not what I'd like you to consider.

Have you ever stopped to think about all the miles you travel? In the case of my little car, with the exception of one brief foray into Toledo, every one of its 116,000 miles have been within the state of Michigan and probably 75 percent of them have been right around here. Think about what all that mileage represents. Three thousand miles gets you to Florida and back. Six thousand should just about cover a round trip to California. We so take our travels for granted.

Jesus never had a car. The territory he covered on foot wasn't too much bigger than a trek from here to Grand Rapids. Yet in those travels, he changed thousands of lives. Everywhere he went, he went about doing good. He was never too busy and though he doubtless got tired, he never turned anyone away. The Son of God's journeys are still the subject of study, amazement and encouragement even today.

What are you doing with your daily travels? Don't take the blessing of being able to get so far so quickly for granted. Jesus always had time to make a difference in the lives of the people He encountered on His travels. If you're honest, you do too.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Home cooking appeals to north side workers

By Laurie Lounsbury

"Every day at lunch time, Don's IGA becomes Don's IGF - It's Good Food," said Rebecca Haney, wife of Don Haney and co-owner of the grocery store. One look at the throngs of hungry people headed for the deli counter confirms Rebecca's comment. It is good food that draws more than 100 people every day for a taste of Mary Marsh's home cooking.

For the last seven years, the Haney's, with the help of employee Mary Marsh, have been serving up home-cooked meals to folks from every walk of life. Employees from the north side industrial park arrive around 11:30 in the morning to grab a quick, reasonably priced lunch. "It's the best deal in town," said Ray Browe, as he headed out the door with a container of meat loaf and mashed potatoes. "The food's good and we don't have to drive through town," added Vince Left, usually the first customer to arrive each day. "Yeah, and you don't have to leave a tip or pull over to the left and wait for your food," Rebecca shot back at Vince.

From a little kitchen in the back of the grocery store, Mary Marsh whips up homemade clam chowder, chicken casseroles, stir fry dishes, and of course, Thursday's home made meat loaf. Marsh started cooking at the IGA seven years ago, just to fill in for an employee who quit unexpectedly. "Now she won't let anyone else near the kitchen," Don teased her.

North side workers appreciate the fact that they can get a good meal for $2 to $4 without having to drive across the bridge to the downtown restaurants. The meals are good enough that they entice people from the south side of the bridge to brave the traffic jams for a hot lunch. "People will come clear across town for Mary's meat loaf," Rebecca said. DCL employees are so happy with the arrangement that they send flowers of appreciation to the ladies at the IGA.

...IGA draws lunch crowds

Marsh makes the food good and hot, while Rebecca adds the spice at the check-out counter. She jokes with each customer as they come through the line. "I know about their kids; their trucks that broke down, when they're saving for a house," Rebecca said. She helps them stick to their lunch budget, and often lets them sign for lunch until payday. The Haney's are rewarded for their lunch service by gaining loyal customers. Haney said the lunch crowd sees what else is offered at the IGA and will come back to do their grocery shopping on the weekends.

The Haney's cater lunches to area businesses, such as LexaLite and Big Rock. Marsh cooks the food and Don delivers it to the businesses for their lunch meetings.

The home cooked meals appeal to more than just the workers on lunch break. Senior citizens who no longer cook for themselves will come in at noon to buy the hot meal, which they will save until dinner. Busy working mothers buy the home cooked meals and save them for their family's dinner. Rebecca reported that one man, a widower, comes in every day and buys soup, the lunch special of the day, and a bowl of chili. The soup and the special are his lunch and dinner. The chili is for his black labrador dog.

"It's the best lunch spot in town," said Big Rock employee Bruce Wagner. "All they need is a picnic table outside."

Easily overlooked park being refurbished

By L. Scott Swanson

Although the park on the bluff between Lake Michigan and Park Avenue is one of Charlevoix's most beautiful and tranquil parks, many people don't even know it's there. However, this summer the city and a Camp Pellston prison crew have been cleaning up the park and consequently more people are using it.

June Cross is among the people who are the happiest to see the park get more use. Cross lives across the street from the park and was involved with the Charlevoix Women's Club in the early 1970s when the club made the development and upkeep of the park one of their primary projects. The women's club worked with the U.S. Resource Conservation and Development department and the city to make major improvements to the park. After the improvements were made, the city was supposed to take care of the park. Cross has been after the city for years to keep the park up, but with limited manpower the park hasn't always been something the city could devote a lot of time to maintaining.

The park is bordered by Park Avenue on the east and Lake Michigan on the west and extends from Lake Street to Grant Street. Most of the park is shaded by pine trees. There are also several stairways down to the lake shore, a wooden fence along the edge of the bluff and a fence along the park's southern border. During the past 20 years, the woods had become cluttered with scrub brush and the fences had deteriorated and been vandalized.

Sam Creswell of the city sewer and water department has coordinated the project with the Camp Pellston prison camp work crew. He said the first step in the project was cleaning out all of the scrub brush. That in itself made the park more inviting. Currently, the work crew is putting up a cedar rail fence along the southern border of the park. The cedar rails are made by another Camp Pellston crew.

The new fence is attractive and that's not by accident. The crew had the fence nearly halfway to completion and decided that it didn't look quite right, so they tore it out and started over until they got it how they wanted it. In addition to defining the border of the park, the fence also runs along the southern edge of the city limits.

After finishing the fence on the southern border, the crew will begin replacing the fence along the bluff. That fence keeps people from going over the edge of the bluff, either on foot or on small motorized vehicles, and creating erosion problems.

June Cross stands on one of the beach access areas which are part of the Lake Michigan park that is being refurbished this summer. Cross and the Charlevoix Womens Club made the park one of their main projects in the 1970s. This summer the city and a work crew from Camp Pellston have been cleaning up the park and renovating some of the deteriorating fences. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson) to be sold

A weekend of educational seminars, fashion shows and, above all, opportunities to view one of the world's most sought-after animals, will launch International Alpaca Awareness Month this September. A highlight of the opening weekend will be a rare sale featuring 475 alpacas worth a total of $10 million.

The Peruvian Elite Alpaca Sale will take place Sept. 2-5 at Maplewood Farm near Charlevoix. The event offers a rare opportunity for investors and breeders to purchase alpacas that are recognized as being among the finest breeding stock in the world. The sale is attracting alpaca-lovers from around the world with participants already registered from 12 countries, including Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Kenya and a number of European countries, in addition to the U.S. and Canada.

Alpacas are related to llamas, but are smaller and are highly prized for their rich, lustrous fiber.

City sets deadline to begin condemnation of property

By L. Scott Swanson
If negotiation efforts fail, the city will begin condemnation proceedings Sept. 9 to secure property and navigation easements for a new airport runway which is being built.

After approximately an hour in closed session Aug. 23, the city council came back into open session and voted to continue negotiations, but set a deadline of Sept. 9 to begin condemnation. Condemnation is a legal procedure which allows public bodies to require the sale of a piece of property for public use.

The motion to begin condemnation Sept. 9 passed by a 3-2 vote. Council members Cheri Hoffman, Bruce Reid and Ted Felter voted in favor of the motion while council members Birch Russell and Dor Meggison opposed it.

Felter said that in the closed meeting, council members were given some options. One of them was to set a deadline of Sept. 9 which will allow the new runway to be opened, but will also allow negotiations to continue.

Hoffman said, "We have a two-plus million dollar investment in that facility and unless we acquire that property, we can't open it."

The property the city needs for the airport is off the east end of the airport. Four property owners are involved. The city needs to purchase the back end of parcels of property owned by Don Seelye and Russ Lewis and also needs to purchase navigation rights over those two pieces of property and two others.

Seelye addressed the council at the Aug. 23 meeting. He said this issue has been in the works for approximately four years and has been active for the past two years. Seelye said he has compiled an information packet to determine the fair value of the property.

"I feel fairly confident with these numbers. And if it goes to court, I think we would do quite well with it," Seelye said. He added, "I'm not bitter about this at all. I understand why it's got to be done. I just wanted to be treated fair."

Council members said they also wanted to be fair to the people who were going to lose title to their property.

Terpstra and Associates, a Grand Rapids land acquisition firm which is handling negotiations for the city, met with some of the property owners Monday, Aug. 29.

To apply for an antlerless deer hunting license, hunters must first purchase an application card (at a non-refundable $3 fee), a 1994 hunting license and a 1994 pass-book.

The DNR holds a random drawing each fall to determine which applicants will be issued antlerless deer hunting licenses. By Nov. 1, successful hunters will be mailed a back tag, allowing them to take an antlerless deer in a specific deer management unit.

equipment, the crew gave the ship a good going over to make sure it was ready for the voyage.

Coast Guard support officials spent a day in Charlevoix helping families make preparations. Among other things, the support personnel worked with crew members in giving power of attorney to wives and filling out wills and other paperwork. Family members were also told who they could contact for information while the ship is away.

One of the most effective networks of information for families is the Coast Guard Wives group. As of Monday morning, some of the wives had already received phone calls. By this weekend, the ship had made it to Toledo, Ohio and was preparing to leave quickly to avoid a storm.

Prior to departing Friday morning, the Acacia received revised orders. The ship will go to Boston, where it will await further orders. Depending upon how things develop in Cuba and on the eastern seaboard, the Acacia could go quickly to Cuba, or it could spend some time helping with navigational work on the eastern seaboard.

One of the ship's crewmen, Ed Bowen, is hoping the ship is in Boston on Sept. 10. He's scheduled to get married in Boston that day.

There is still no definitive word on when the ship will return to Charlevoix. If the Cuban exodus suddenly stops, it's possible the ship could turn around and come home in the near future. However, if the exodus continues and the Acacia ends up in Cuba and doesn't get back before early December when winter stops boat traffic on the lakes, it could be several months before the Acacia passes through the Pine River Channel.

Alpaca sale draws buyers from all over

By Laurie Lounsbury

People from around the world were at Maplewood Farms between Boyne City and Charlevoix last weekend, buying Alpacas by the six pack. These six packs cost a little more than the ones usually purchased at the grocery store. The Alpaca six packs, which included one male and five females, cost upwards of $100,000.

Islanders await judge's decision on road

By Laurie Lounsbury

Beaver Islanders will have to wait six weeks to find out if their Cinderella story has a fairy tale ending. Islanders have often claimed to be an unwanted stepchild to the rest of Charlevoix County. Their unhappy feelings came to a head when the two island townships sued the Charlevoix County Road Commission over the condition of King's Highway. The trial took place recently in Charlevoix County Circuit Court, with Judge Richard Pajtas hearing the case.

After listening to four and a half days of testimony, Pajtas asked both plaintiff and defense attorneys to submit written facts and findings about the law regarding case. The plaintiff attorney is Greg Justis, representing the island townships. The defense attorney is Katherine Jasinsky, representing the Charlevoix County Road Commission. The two attorneys have a total of six weeks to file their facts and findings. The judge also came to an agreement with both attorneys that he is free to make an inspection of King's Highway on his own, without accompaniment of either lawyer.

During four days of testimony, the plaintiff's island witnesses and expert witnesses took the stand, testifying that King's Highway is not reasonably safe or convenient for public travel. Three years ago the highway, formerly a blacktop road,

Alpacas are highly valued for the wool, which is considered by many to be of much better quality than sheep's wool. Currently breeders throughout the world are attempting to increase alpaca numbers enough to create a large alpaca wool market. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

...alpacas are some valuable items

Maplewood Farms, owned by Jim and Nel Vickers, is the setting for a world wide Elite Peruvian Alpaca sale. Buyers came from as far as Australia and New Zealand to buy the prized, Peruvian animals. "This wool is like gold," said Nel Vickers. "It's one of the best wools in the world."

The buyers of the Alpacas won't be fleecing the animals they're buying. At this stage of the game, Alpacas are being bought for their breeding capabilities. Since there are only 4,000 Alpacas in the country, it will take a while to build up the stock of animals before people start shearing them for wool. "The business right now is selling the babies. It's up to these people (the buyers) to develop the wool market," Vickers said.

The docile Alpacas reluctantly put up with the prodding and prodding they receive from the buyers. All buyers inspected the Alpacas and made their lists of choices. The buyers were then assigned numbers, and when their number was called, they had one minute to make their selections.

Some of the buyers will be leaving their Alpacas behind at the Vickers' farm. Australia has a law stating that Alpacas must be quarantined for a year before entering their country. Maplewood Farms has a USDA approved quarantine area for the animals.

"It borders on despair."

County Commissioner Richie Gillespie summarizing how Islanders feel about the island's roads.

Other testimony touched on the financial ability of the county road commission to pay for paving King's Highway, which would involve a triple seal coat of blacktop; the lack of cooperation between the road commission and the island townships, and the ability of the road commission to maintain King's Highway as it is. Fred Welch, former county road manager, testified that it was his intention to have King's Highway triple seal coated all along. He also testified that the only other road in Charlevoix County that was designed as a permanent gravel road was finished with 23-A aggregate.

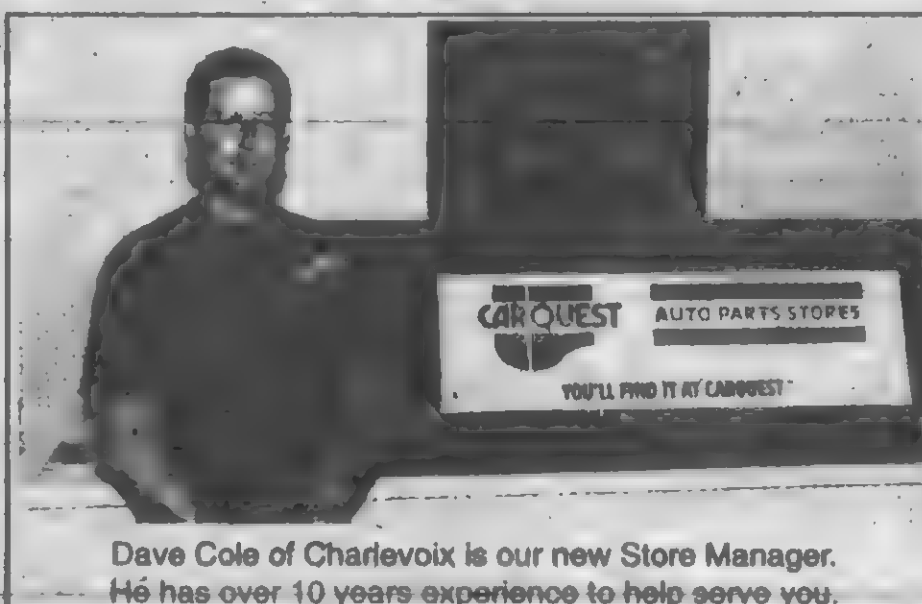

"We used 23-A...it's more available and has more stability to it," Welch said.

Charlevoix County Commissioner Richie Gillespie testified that the efforts of the road commission to resolve the situation have been, "Poor. No matter how much effort was made by the townships, nothing ever happened. In my opinion, the road commission was the negative element." Gillespie later summed up the islanders' sentiments about the road situation saying, "It borders on despair."

Since the suit was a bench trial, the final decision will be made by Judge Pajtas.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

East Jordan High School track/cross country standout Tina Richards has arrived on the campus of Siena Heights College and begun training for the upcoming cross country season.

Richards earned All-State honors in track last season in two events — placing third in the 1600 meters and fourth in the 800 meters. She will run cross country and both indoor and outdoor track for the Saints.

"Tina will probably emerge as our top women's recruit this year," said SHC track coach Tim Bauer. "She comes in with excellent times and a lot of potential, and she's comparable to former Siena Heights College All-American Theresa Padilla."

The Grand Haven Post of the Michigan State Police will be receiving two new troopers beginning this week. Trooper Carl H. Rothenberger, III and Trooper Lawrence L. Dyksterhouse, recent graduates of the 109th Michigan State Police Recruit School class are expected to begin patrol duties this week.

Trooper Rothenberger and Trooper Dyksterhouse are two of the 69 new state troopers who graduated during a special ceremony on August 12, 1994, in Lansing.

Trooper Carl H. Rothenberger, III, is a native of Charlevoix, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, and attended Northern Michigan University. Trooper Rothenberger majored in Criminal Justice while at the university. He worked for the Chocolay Township Police Department in Marquette County for one year. His parents, Carl and Deeani Rothenberger, still reside in Charlevoix.

As a graduate of the 109th Recruit School Class, Trooper Rothenberger received 16 weeks of intense training in criminal law, criminal investigation, crime scene processing, patrol techniques, physical fitness, first aid, firearms instruction, defensive tactics, and precision driving techniques.

Now's the time for some fun day trips

While it's probably overstating matters to say that Charlevoix is the center of the universe, it is true that Charlevoix is blessed to be close to a number of nice things. There are a number of great things to see within a day's drive of Charlevoix.

Hartwick Pines, located near Grayling offers a chance to look back at the area's lumbering days.

Sleeping Bear Dunes, south of Traverse City, is one of the nicest sections of shoreline on Lake Michigan.

The Upper Peninsula is a great place to visit in the fall. The bugs are past their peak and it's still fairly warm. And although it seems easy to think of the U.P. as being a million miles away, when you get out the map and look things over, there are plenty of things in the U.P. which are less than a three-hour drive from Charlevoix. The Sault Ste. Marie area and Tahquamenon Falls is a do-able day trip.

If you're not up for that much fun and adventure, you can always stop in Mackinaw City and visit the fort.

If you're into camping, September is a great month to visit area parks. The weather is still nice more often than not and the crowds are gone so the parks are more tranquil. Fisherman's Island State Park, Whiting Park near Boyne City, Barnes Park (also known as Antrim County Park) near Eastport, Wooden Shoe Park in Ellsworth and the Jordan River Valley camping area are all within a stone's throw of Charlevoix.

Speaking of the Jordan River, there are also plenty of northern Michigan opportunities for a fall canoe trip. The Jordan River's always fun. The Pigeon River over by Vanderbilt is another fun river. And Joanne Beemon's personal favorite is the river by the new natural area near Ellsworth.

For Charlevoix's year-around residents, summer is often such a busy time for working that it's difficult to find enough time to goof off and relax. In September and October things slow down a bit and while the weather's still reasonably good there are a lot of opportunities for fun. Pack the family in the car and take advantage of those opportunities.

Parkside was one-of-a-kind

Editor,

I stood in front of the Subway shop today - taking pictures of a soon to be - lost to history - "Parkside Restaurant." Another Charlevoix icon - gone. The window that I stood in front of had a sign stating that there are now 9,000 Subways around the world. You can eat at a Subway in So. Korea or Saudi Arabia.

But the "Jeff" one could have at Dockside Pharmacy (where Subway now does business) or Topside's hamburgers up the street (gone but not forgotten) or Mrs.

Cross' carrot slaw or Red Fox Inn were wonderful things that are now gone - and were - more importantly - no where else - only one - only here in Charlevoix.

Joan Chodak

Enclosed is a copy of an advertisement in the Charlevoix - July 1941 - phone directory for "Charlevoix's newest restaurant" Parkside Dining room - open 24 hours during summer season.

CROP Walk sets $9,400 goal

Challenging the 1994 CROP Walk participants to raise $9,400 in 1994, local coordinators in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan have scheduled the Walk date for Saturday, Oct. 1.

Charlevoix CROP Walkers begin at the high school at 9 a.m. and follow the route of May Street to Stover Road to M-66, then approximately 6 miles out to the church at Ironton where they meet walkers from the other cities. There, a light lunch is provided before walkers are transported back to the starting points.

Funds raised by the Church World Service/ Christian Rural Overseas Project are used to fight hunger in the United States and abroad. One quarter of the money is returned to local food pantries. An exceptional 1993 walk resulted in a record-breaking $937 going to each of the pantries in the three county cities.

This will be the eleventh year for the CROP Walk in Charlevoix County. The walk is sponsored by the County Ministerial Association. Charlevoix coordinators are Mary Helen Riggle (547-9515) and Kay Smith (547-2920).

Tracy L. Boyer, 18, of Charlevoix was wearing her seat belt and escaped serious injury in a rollover accident on Marion Center Road. The accident occurred at 4:35 p.m., Monday, near the intersection of Ferry Road. Boyer was northbound in a 1984 Buick when she lost control and rolled over. The Charlevoix City Fire and Ambulance Departments were called to remove Boyer from the vehicle. No alcohol was involved and no citation has been issued at this time.

Karen Bowman, a long-time volunteer at Charlevoix Area Hospital, is now serving in a new capacity as Emergency Room volunteer. Here, she finishes putting clean sheets on a stretcher. The hospital Guild is having a membership tea Sept. 8 to recruit volunteers for more than 15 hospital services including clerical, floor duty, information desk and many others.

Hospital recruiting volunteers

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild will host a Membership Tea Thursday, Sept. 8, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., at the hospital in order to recruit volunteers needed for several new services, as well as the customary services at the hospital.

Rebecca Haney, Guild president, says, "We hope anyone interested in becoming a volunteer at the hospital will attend our membership tea."

"We now have volunteers assisting staff and patients in Outpatient Services, the Emergency Room, and Dietary," she says. "And, of course, we always need volunteers for our Patient Floor Duty, Information Desk, Gift Shop, and clerical help."

The service organization has approximately 200 members and provides volunteers to help patients and staff by delivering mail and lunch trays, helping write letters for patients, visiting patients to see if they wish to see a minister, working at the gift shop, decorating the hospital on holidays, paper shredding, microfilming, maintaining a book cart, and much more. Some volunteers work at home making toys for pediatric patients, holiday tray favors for patients, or providing daily telephone reassurance to those who are homebound.

"Anyone wishing to learn more about volunteering at the hospital should attend the tea, or call Kathy B. Johnson at the hospital, weekdays. No reservations are required to attend the tea."

The national miss photogenic winner and top 12 semi-finalist, German also won the national championship for talent in which she performs a '50s routine to Rock Around the Clock. Her prizes include three crowns, three trophies, two banners, $200, two interviews with Hollywood's top leading agents and an audition for Star Search.

Breanna German

Temple B'Nai welcomes new Rabbinic Intern Howard Needleman

Temple B'Nai Israel is welcoming Rabbinic Intern Howard Needleman who will be conducting services this fall and winter. Howard graduated from the State University of New York, at Stony Brook, NY with a B.A. in Psychology and a Minor in Judaic Studies. During his university work, he was awarded a scholarship as an overseas exchange student to study at the Tel Aviv University, and also worked on two Kibbutz working as Youth Group advisor and Hebrew Teacher. Upon his graduation, he then entered Rabbinic studies and spent a year studying at the Hebrew Union College in Jerusalem. He will now continue his studies at the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio. His first duties in Petoskey, will be conducting services for Rosh Hashonah, the New Year.

Jews the world over gathered in Temples and Synagogues Monday evening, Sept. 5, to pray together, and to hear the call to worship of the Shofar, or ram's horn. Rosh Hashonah represents the day on which God completed the creation of the world, and each Rosh Hashonah, Jews re-affirm their commitment to serve Him. It is believed that each person has it in his or her power, regardless of wealth or position, to help turn the world into a better place, a force for good rather than evil. Each year when celebrating Rosh Hashonah, they are reminded of this, and strive to improve themselves for the coming year. The following "Ten Days of Awe" are to allow each person to repent and to return to God: The Holy Day of Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, concludes the services.

Temple B'Nai Israel will host services at the following times: Kol Nidre Services, Wednesday, Sept. 14, 8 p.m.; Yom Kippur services Thursday, Sept. 15, starting at 10 a.m. Sabbath services will also be held Friday, Sept. 9, 8 p.m. followed by a special social hour to welcome the new Rabbinic Intern. Temple B'Nai Israel is located at the corner of Michigan and Waukegan, and guests are always welcome. For more information call 347-8740, 347-8033, or 347-2636.

Literary turtle brings message of peace to Charlevoix, Sept. 9

Don't be surprised if you see a giant turtle at Charlevoix Bookshop this Friday, Sept. 9. The bookstore is holding a gathering for peace, and Old Turtle - a converted Volkswagen Beetle - will play host to an afternoon of fun for children and their parents. Old Turtle - the heroine of Old Turtle, an award-winning fable of peace and environmental awareness - is traveling across the nation on a 7-month, 50-state tour to visit one hundred communities across the country.

At each stop Old Turtle takes part in activities that encourage children and adults to write their visions of peace for the leaders of the world. As the tour reaches its destination, Old Turtle hopes to have collected 1 million messages of peace to deliver to members of the United Nations.

The book's publisher - Pfeiffer-Hamilton Publishers of Duluth, Minnesota - was so overwhelmed by how Old Turtle's message of peace has touched its readers that they created the tour to bring that message to as many people as possible.

Old Turtle visits Charlevoix

Bookshop starting at 4 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 9. During her stop, the story of the Old Turtle will be read at 4:30 p.m. Autographed copies of the book will be available. Stickers, pencils and postcards will be given to all who write messages of peace. For more information about how you and your family can take part in this peace event, call Mary Jane Barnwell at 547-4335.

Welcome Wagon has a changing of the guard

By Laurie Lounsbury

After 16 years of welcoming new folks to town and new babies to the world, Marilyn Izor is retiring as the Charlevoix Welcome Wagon lady. She is being replaced by Virginia Schairbaum.

Marilyn Izor

"She's just wonderful," Izor said of Schairbaum. "She's the only reason I'm willing to retire."

Virginia Schairbaum

When Izor and her husband, Herman, moved to Charlevoix from the Chicago area, Izor was called on by a Welcome Wagon lady. Shortly after that call, Izor learned no one was making calls to expectant mothers. Izor quickly filled the bill, handling Charlevoix's first Welcome Wagon baby unit.

Izor has been working with Schairbaum since last December. "There is a good feeling in the community about Welcome Wagon because Marilyn's done a good job," Schairbaum said. Schairbaum started making her own calls in March.

Welcome Wagon pays their employees on a commission basis, based on the number of calls the representatives make and the number of sponsors they sign up. In the Charlevoix area, Schairbaum estimates they make about 15 to 20 calls a month. "You get to help a lot of people as they make changes in their life - Moving, getting engaged, starting a family," Schairbaum said. Welcome Wagon representatives present people with a gift basket including free samples from area merchants or certificates for a free gift when they come in the store. They also provide area maps, information about schools, the health department, civic organizations, and history of the area.

"My reason for taking the job was to get out in the community and meet new people," Schairbaum said. Izor and Schairbaum agree that the job is not done for large financial gain. "If you have other income and a civic desire to get out in the community, then it's a great job," Izor said.

Anyone wanting to be called on by Welcome Wagon may call Virginia Schairbaum at 547-5803.

Snowmobiles will need permit

Beginning Oct. 1, anyone operating a snowmobile on public property in Michigan will be required to purchase a snowmobile trail permit in addition to having a valid snowmobile registration.

The new requirement is the result of an amendment to Michigan's Snowmobile Law, which provides a means to generate additional funding on a user-pay basis for the upkeep of the state's snowmobile trail system.

The permit, which costs $10 and is valid for one year, will help raise approximately $2.5 million for the preservation of Michigan's premier public trail system. Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harnes said.

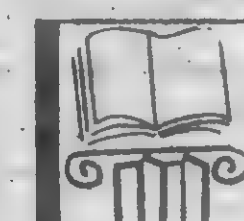

The Michigan snowmobile registration fee will continue at its three-year, $15 rate. This fee has remained the same since 1978.

Varsity football team loses 31-13 in season opener at Rogers City

Many a Rayder football season has had a better beginning. Charlevoix's varsity football team traveled to Rogers City Friday evening and got waxed 31-13. Mistakes, big plays and a good Rogers City team conspired to leave the Rayders trailing 30-7 at halftime.

In the second half, the Rayders regrouped and played the Hurons pretty much even, but it was too late to recover.

Charlevoix led early in the game when fullback Bryan Jarema scored on a one-yard run and Robbie Stradtner kicked the conversion point.

Then things took a turn for the worse in an ugly way. Rogers City scored five straight touchdowns, two on plays of more than 50 yards.

In addition to giving up big plays, turnovers from the offensive team also hurt the Rayders. Charlevoix turned the ball over three times.

Charlevoix's second touchdown of the game came in the fourth quarter on a four-yard pass from Jason Terryberry to Jarema. The extra point attempt failed.

Rogers City entered the game rated eighth in Class C by the Detroit Free Press.

When they were able to avoid turnovers, Charlevoix had a nicely balanced offensive attack. Terryberry completed eight of 11 passes for 93 yards. Trevor Williams had four receptions for a total of 53 yards. Jerry Duhart rushed for 49 yards on 12 carries while Rory McKeown had 47 yards on five carries.

Defensively, Mike Buckner led the Rayders with seven solo tackles and one assist. Dan Harris had 10 solo tackles and two assists. Chuck Pop had five solo tackles and three assists.

Zach Kehrer and Pop each recovered fumbles.

Charlevoix has its first home game of the season this Friday evening with Boyne City. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

J.V. team wins 16-6

Charlevoix's junior varsity football team opened its season with a 16-6 win at home against Rogers City last Thursday evening.

Charlevoix opened the scoring in the second quarter on a three-yard run by Scott Smith. The touchdown was set up by a 35-yard pass from Steve Felter to David Manker. In the third quarter, a T.J. Carey pass to Marc Jacobs turned into a 60-yard touchdown. Mike Rautia ran in the two-point conversion after the first touchdown while Carey passed to Manker for the second conversion.

Manker, Jacobs and Jason Cesaro led the Rayder defense. Cesaro was also the Rayders leading rusher, picking up 90 yards on six carries. Jacobs caught three passes for a total of 85 yards.

Charlevoix's next junior varsity game will be Sept. 8 at Boyne City.

Golfers beat Boyne by ten strokes

Charlevoix's golf team opened its dual meet season Aug. 31 with a 170-180 win over Boyne City. The meet took place at Ye Nine Olde Holmes.

Scott Curtis was the meet medalist, shooting a 39. Other Rayder scores were: Brad Eaton, 43; Scott Burns, 43; Robert Sineway, 45; Fritz Sommerfeld, 47; and Scott Blechel, 51.

Coach Jim Glynn was pleased with his team's performance. "They shot well for the conditions.

They played through the rain and the cold. Some of them were shivering coming off the course."

Glynn said he expects depth to be one of the team's strengths this season and that showed at the Boyne City meet. While Sineway and Blechel had somewhat of an off round, Curtis, Eaton and Burns picked up the slack.

The Rayders continue their season with two meets this week. They will be at Kalkaska Sept. 7 and at the Gaylord Invitational Sept. 9.

Rayders open season with 57-49 win over Ellsworth

Never a dull moment. Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team applied constant pressure against visiting Ellsworth Thursday evening and in the game's final two minutes of the game overtook the Lancers and went on to a 57-49 win.

Liz Grunch led the Rayders with 26 points. Angie Peterson led Ellsworth with 20.

Up until the final minute of play, neither team led by more than six points. With 1:35 left to play, Ellsworth's Lisa Essenberg made two free throws to give the Lancers a 48-47 lead, but it was to be Ellsworth's last lead of the game.

Fifteen seconds later, Charlevoix's

Liz Kelly scored to give Charlevoix a one-point lead, then Charlevoix stole the ball and Grunch buried a three-point basket to put the Rayders up by four.

The contrast in the two teams' styles was evident right from the opening tip off when Kelly at 5'5" stepped into the circle across from an Ellsworth girl who was at least six inches taller. Ellsworth attempted to use its height advantage while Charlevoix attempted to negate that by applying full court pressure.

working for good rebounding position and being quicker to the ball. Charlevoix's full court defensive pressure gave Ellsworth fits throughout the night. Kelly, a junior who played on the varsity last year, initiated the full court pressure. Kelly normally trapped the inbound pass with help from either Jill Dreyer or Angela Buday. The trap forced several errant passes which either were picked off by Liz Grunch or sailed out of bounds. When Ellsworth broke the press, the Lancers had trouble making shots at the end of the break or were fouled and had difficulty at the free throw line. On the night, Ellsworth made just 13 of 28 free throw attempts.

In addition to defensive pressure, the second key to Charlevoix's success was to keep Ellsworth from dominating the boards. Beth Norton went scoreless, but, particularly in the first half, did some excellent work in establishing inside rebounding position to keep Ellsworth's taller players away from the glass. Keeping Ellsworth's taller players off the glass allowed Charlevoix's other players a shot at the rebound. An example occurred with 6:24 left in the third quarter. Following a missed shot, an Ellsworth player got her hands on the ball, but before she could gather in the rebound Buday got just enough of her hand on the ball to tip it loose. The tip was collected by Kris Blanchard who put the ball in to give Charlevoix a 29-26 lead.

Grunch and Peterson provided the most interesting match-up of the evening. When Charlevoix was on offense, Peterson drew the assignment of covering her. The match-up put Peterson's agility and height against Grunch's ability to drive right or left or pull back and hit the outside shot. Adding to Peterson's burden was Grunch's court awareness and her Rayder teammates setting picks. Dreyer, one of the smallest players on the court, set several nice picks.

The score of the game went back and forth throughout the first three quarters. With four minutes left in 1994 Courier football contest begins season

In the world of sports, what could be bigger, yeah way bigger than the return of baseball? It's the return of the Charlevoix Courier football contest. It's your chance to match wits with some of the greatest football minds (which according to many a wife is a contradiction in terms) in all of Charlevoix County.

There are a couple of changes in this year's contest. This year, the prize will be cash. And if adding money to the formula isn't enough, this year there's also fame and glory at stake. From week to week, we're going to keep track of the cumulative record of our regular entrants. Beginning with week four, we will be publishing the picking percentages of some of the top people who have made at least 30 picks.

Good luck. Get your entries either in to the Courier office or postmarked by Friday.

Following are this week's calls by the Courier Prophet:

1. Boyne City at Charlevoix - Can you actually pick a team that got waxed as bad as Charlevoix did last week? Especially, when they're facing the program that Rayder alumni Pat Klooster (CHS Class of the quarter and the game tied at 7-7. Ellsworth went on a 7-2 run to take a 14-9 lead after one quarter.

...basketball team wins

Buday scored the first basket of the second quarter, but Peterson promptly hit a three-point shot to give Ellsworth its biggest lead of the game, 17-11. Charlevoix then got back to back baskets by Sheri Gels and Traci Allison to close to within a basket. Gels's second basket with 4:36 left in the half gave Charlevoix a 19-18 lead and Charlevoix stayed in the lead for the remainder of the quarter, finishing the half up 23-24.

Charlevoix led for the entire third quarter, but never by more than three points. The quarter ended tied 34-34.

The Rayders went on a six-point run early in the fourth quarter on a basket by Grunch, a steal and a basket by Blanchard. With 3:27 left to play Essenberg hit two free throws to tie the game at 46-46. Following a made free throw by Buday, Essenberg made two more free throws to give Ellsworth a 48-47 lead with 1:35 left to play. Seconds later, the tables turned with the two-point basket by Kelly and the three-point basket by Grunch.

Like the varsity game, the junior varsity game was also close. Ellsworth held off the J.V. Rayders to take a 44-42 win. Lisa Parrish led the Rayder junior varsity with 21 points while Trina VanderArk had a dozen and Amanda Warner, 11 points for the Ellsworth team.

Charlevoix's schedule doesn't get any easier in the coming week as the Rayders travel to Petoskey Sept. 8 and host Boyne City Sept. 13.

'78) is putting together at Boyne City? It's character check time for the Rayders. Let's say they come up with the win. Pick - Charlevoix.

2. Cadillac at Petoskey - Petoskey lost last week, but played a pretty good game. It seems like this game is always close. Pick - Petoskey.

3. Benzie Central at Traverse City St. Francis - Back in the '70s Benzie Central had some good basketball teams. In the '80s they had some great cross country teams. In the '90s could they have some great football teams? Nah! Pick - Traverse City St. Francis.

4. Michigan at Notre Dame. Although I can't spell Amani whatever or Biakaba whoever, I was not surprised to see either of them have a big game. Michigan is a team with depth. I'm also not prepared to jump on the Notre Dame publicity bandwagon for their new phenom quarterback. Pick - Michigan.

5. Michigan State at Kansas - Michigan State has its weaknesses, but they're strong in the most important area for a team to be strong, the offensive line. The last time Kansas saw the kind of beef contained in the MSU line was when cowboys were ridin' herd on cattle drives. Pick - Michigan State.

6. Ohio State at Washington. Give Washington the edge in a close game because they're at home. Pick - Washington.

7. University of Southern California at Penn State - Happy Valley isn't such a happy place for a visiting football team. Pick - Penn State.

8. Detroit at Minnesota. Remember Tim McKeyer and Junior Robinson? Where are they now? Although Gregg Jefferies looked reasonably good by streaks last week. Apparently Minnesota cut Andre Ware, fearing that he might get into this game and finally start getting the ball to open Lions. Pick - Detroit.

9. San Francisco at Kansas City. Prepare yourself for a media overkill of "Montana returns to San Francisco" stories. Montana's old. San Francisco has better players. Pick - San Francisco.

10. Green Bay at Miami. Green Bay's getting a lot of preseason hype. And they're not a bad team. But Miami's better. Marino's ankle will be fine and he's got some great people to throw to in Fryer, Ingram and Byars. Pick - Miami.

Revolving fund established to help area victims of crime

VORP, a non profit organization, has recently established a victim restitution fund with the assistance of local community foundations.

VORP is short for Victim Offender Restitution Program. Through the sponsorship of the 7th Probate Court VORP has been operating in Emmet and Charlevoix Counties since 1985. The program is two-fold:

1) To bring victim and offender together and resolve hurt, anger and mistrust caused by offenses, damage to person or property, and

2) To negotiate a contract for payment of damages, incurred by the victim.

A priority for VORP has been the immediate reimbursement for victims who are often hard-pressed financially. Often times, however, although the offender is willing to pay for the damage they simply do not have available funds and require time to earn the money. This is particularly true with juvenile offenders.

In an effort to resolve this dilemma VORP asked the Harbor Springs Petoskey Community Foundation and the Charlevoix Community Foundation to help. This summer VORP received grants from the two Foundations totaling $4,000. This money will be used as a revolving fund to compensate victims when offenders can not make immediate restitution. As an example, the perpetrator is apprehended, convicted and referred to the VORP Program. The perpetrator agrees to pay $500 but does not have the entire amount immediately. A contract is made wherein it will be paid over a two-year period, but the victim needs the money now.

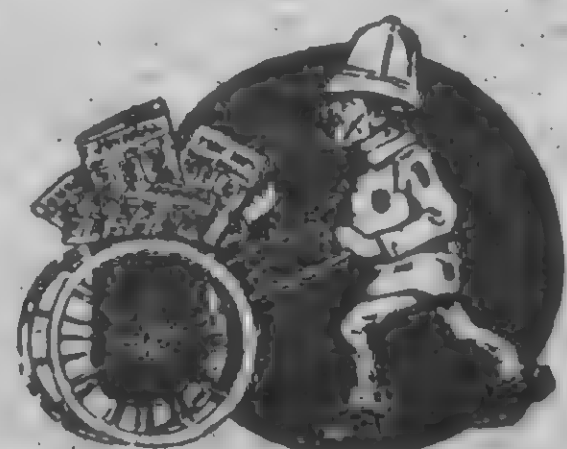

At this point the Victims Restitution Fund (VRF) would pay the victim immediately. Then as the perpetrator pays for the damage over the next two years, the VRF fund will be reimbursed.

The $4,000 is a great start for the VRF, but VORP will necessarily be limited to using it for hardship cases. VORP hopes to increase the fund over time to allow more liberal compensation to victims. If you or your agency would like to contribute to the VORP-VRF or if you have questions concerning the fund call Bill Shumaker at the Probate Court, in Petoskey at 348-1766, and in Charlevoix at 547-7215. Shumaker may also be reached at 348-3406, or send contributions to Victim Restitution Fund, c/o Gilbert Fox, Route 3, Box 15, East Jordan, MI 49727.

BASKETBALL

Basketball team will feature constant pressure

There will be running going on, lots and lots of running, when the Charlevoix varsity girls' basketball team plays this year. This year's Rayders are not the tallest team in the world, so they compensate with relentless end-to-end defensive pressure.

"However goes our press, so doth our team," Rayder coach Joe Powers noted.

Charlevoix is led by Liz Grunch, finally a senior, in her fourth year with the varsity team. As if Grunch weren't enough of a problem for opponents last year, this year she's in better condition and is running the floor better and quicker defensively. Offensively, she still shoots well from long range, can drive right or left and has great court awareness.

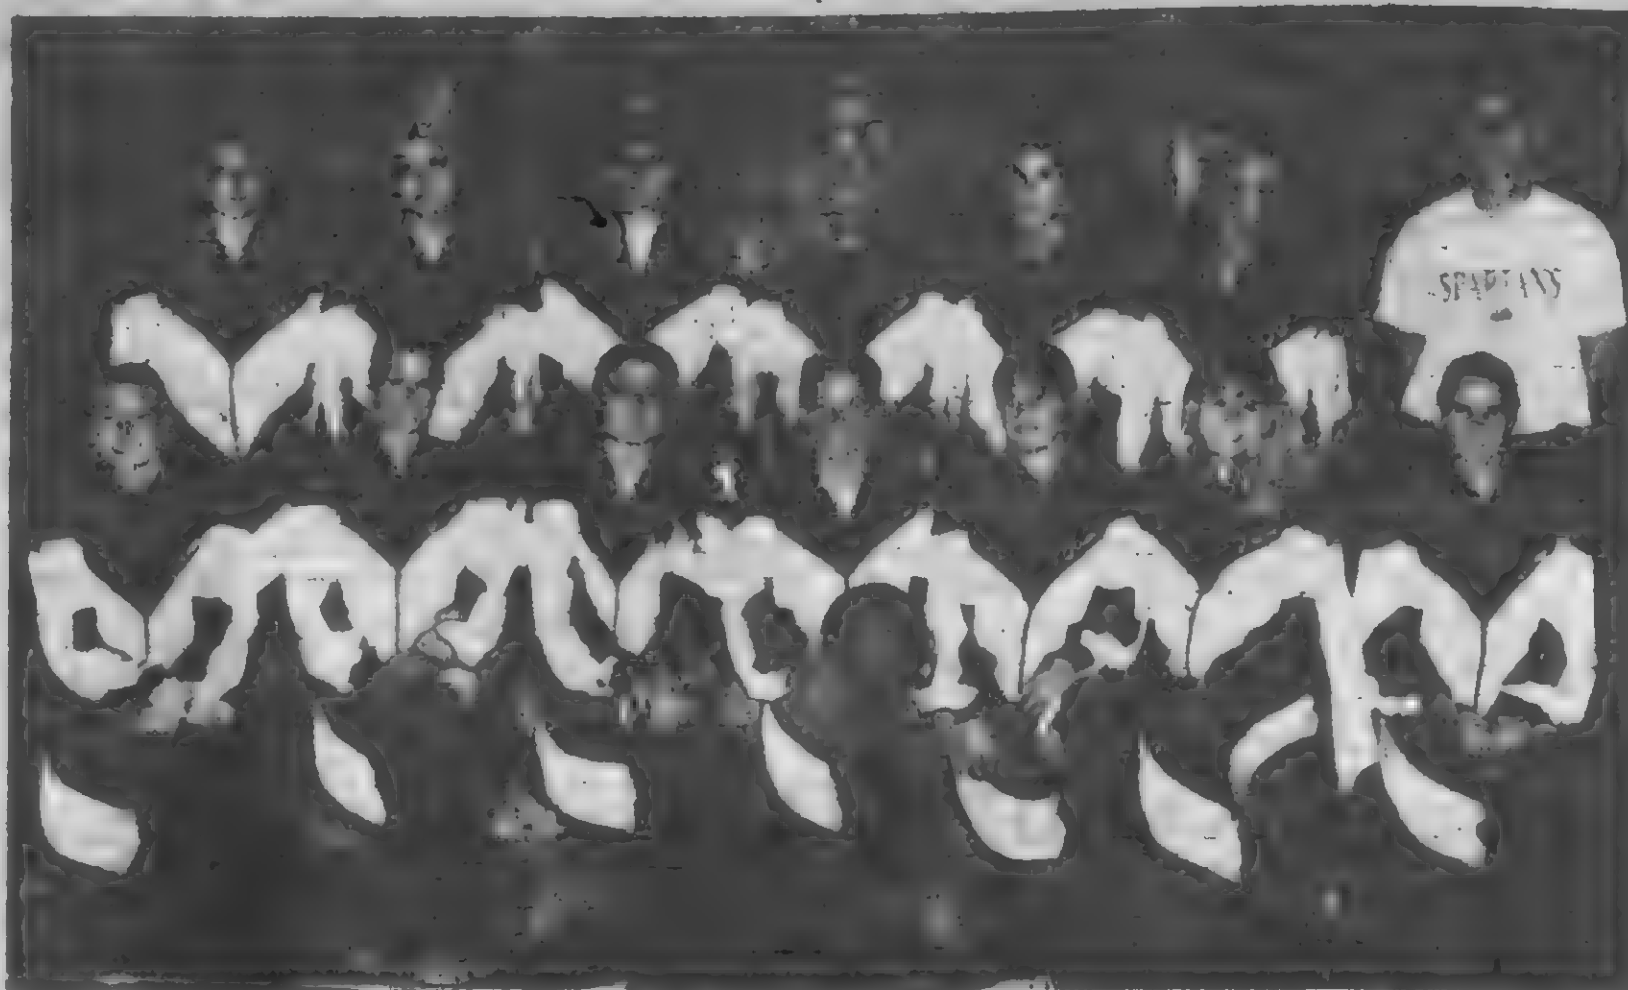

While acknowledging that Grunch is the team's scoring leader, Powers says the team can also get points from any of several other players by streaks. Senior guards Angela Buday and Liz Dreyer finish well off the break and Buday also shoots well by streaks in a set offense. Liz Kelly, a junior, who played with the varsity last year, scores in the paint despite not being particularly tall. Kris Blanchard and Jenny Swenor, two juniors up from the junior varsity, also have shown they can score by streaks.

"Our key is if we can get it (scoring) off the defense," Powers says. Powers and the Rayders love to play a fullcourt, frantic game. The Rayders press constantly and wear down opponents mentally and physically. In addition to doing a lot of running in practice, the Rayders also have a deep bench. Powers played 10 players in the season opening win against Ellsworth.

While the Rayders' strength is at guard, Powers feels the team's lack of height, while a question mark, is something which can be overcome. "I don't think it's a big problem if we can just be aggressive."

Three of the taller players Powers hopes to get a contribution from are Melissa Anderson, Beth Norton and Christy Kaczynski. Anderson, the only senior of the three, got significant time off the bench last year and is the most aggressive of the three. Powers said Norton had a good week of practice prior to the opening game and is getting more aggressive. Sheri Gels, Jessica Ferber, Heidi Miller and Traci Allison will also see time.

Powers feels the Rayders should be among the best teams in the conference. He said Harbor Springs should also be among the conference leaders. Traverse City St. Francis had a great freshman player last year and is something of an unknown factor that could come into play in the conference race.

Football team is young in key positions

It could take some time, but Charlevoix football coach Roger Gowell expects this year's Rayders to develop into a good team. Gowell says the team has quite a few young players in key spots and like always it's a challenge to get all of the pieces of the puzzle to fall into place.

For example, one of the positions where the Rayders are starting a junior is at quarterback. Following the graduation of three-year starter Don Jess, the Rayders are starting junior Jason Terryberry at quarterback. They are also starting Rory McKeown, another junior, at one halfback position.

Among the returning seniors are Trevor Williams at tight end, Bryan Jarema at fullback, Jerry Duhart at halfback, Travis Wood in the defensive line and Kurt Degrow in the offensive line.

"I think our overall team ability is pretty good," Gowell said.

During the preseason the team stressed defense, Gowell said that last season the team moved the ball well offensively, but needed to improve on defense. One of the things he hopes to see more of this year is more people getting to the ball and getting involved in the tackle.

Gowell said he isn't much for predictions, but in the conference Traverse City St. Francis is always tough and East Jordan appears to have a good team this season.

GOLF

Sometimes the smartest thing you can do is recognize that someone else knows more about something than you do.

In his first season as Charlevoix High School golf coach, Jim Glynn has been using that philosophy to help Charlevoix's high school golf team. The Charlevoix team practices at the Belvedere Golf Club and Belvedere club pro Dave Poquette has kind of taken the team under his wing and offered them technical advice. Meanwhile, the junior varsity has been practicing at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. Joan Waha, the professional at that course, recently took the team out and gave them a complete lesson on chipping and putting.

Glynn says that with the high school team receiving that caliber of technical advice, he doesn't say much to the players about technical things. Rather than confuse the players by overcoaching, Glynn simply attempts to offer encouragement and reinforce what the professionals are telling the players.

Glynn inherited a veteran team from Glen Taylor, who retired after several seasons as Rayder golf coach, and he expects the team to have a good season. "We should do real well in the conference. I see no reason not to," Glynn says.

One of the things Glynn likes about his team is its depth and balance. "The strength of our team is our balance. They press each other."

Currently the top six players are Robert Sineway, Scott Blechel, Scott Curtis, Brad Eaton, Fritz Sommerfeld and Scott Burns. Eaton and Blechel are juniors while the other four are seniors. Sineway generally golfs at the top of the group, but it's not a big surprise when one of the others emerges as medalist at a meet. The Rayder scores are usually closely grouped from the second through sixth players.

Glynn said the team has received a great deal of support from many people associated with both the Belvedere and Charlevoix Municipal golf club and he feels that's making the high school golf program a better program. In addition to the Charlevoix team, other conference teams Glynn expects to be good are Harbor Springs and Boyne City.

Of his first season coaching the team, Glynn said, "I'm looking forward to it. I'm having fun. I'm enjoying it."

Charlevoix's high school soccer team is in its second season as a varsity school-sanctioned sport and coach Mike Dennis says things are coming along well.

"I'm really quite pleased with the way that we're looking right now," Dennis said last week. He noted that a lot of the players have summer jobs and consequently juggling jobs and preseason practices has been challenging, but added, "As we progress and get into a routine, I think we'll be quite strong."

The team has several returning players and Dennis said he has 13 or 14 players who are fairly strong.

Offensively, the team has good speed and is solid defensively. One of the things which has Dennis concerned early in the season is the halfback's ability to make the transition from offense to defense.

Among those anchoring the defense in front of goalie Cam Carr will be Jason Firman, Steve Carland, Chris Mikulski and Seth Kilander. Midfielders will include Noel Kammermann, Joshua Dennis and occasionally Carland. Seeing significant time in the front row will be Mike Rostar, Eric Hess, Tim Terry and Riji Kato, an exchange student from Japan.

"Our schedule is a tough schedule," Dennis said, noting that the Rayders play Leland, Elk Rapids, Roscommon, Cheboygan and Cadillac among other teams. Despite that, he said, "I think we have the ability to be in every game."

Dennis said the Charlevoix youth soccer program is now feeding players into the high school program who are fundamentally sound. Consequently, at the high school level, the coaches can spend more time on team tactics.

This year the soccer team will play its home games at the high school athletic field, rather than at Shanahan Field. Dennis said the team has 22 players out and is still open to additional players. This year the boys' and girls' programs have been split, with the boys playing in the fall and the girls playing in the spring.

Acacia reassigned to Haitian operation

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia is leaving Boston today to take part in Operation Able Manner, the interdiction of Haitian refugees. When the Acacia left Charlevoix last month her mission was to assist with Operation Able Vigil, the interdiction of Cuban refugees.

In a phone conversation with the Courier Tuesday morning, Acacia Commander Steve Corporan said the ship was scheduled to leave Boston Wednesday morning and join Operation Able Manner within the next five to six days. He said Operation Able Manner is essentially the same as Operation Able Vigil, but in recent weeks has been less active. Corporan said he could not comment on talk of a possible American military invasion of Haiti or any ramifications that might have on the Acacia's mission.

City manager's contract stays as is

By L. Scott Swanson

By virtue of a 3-3 tie on two separate council motions the city's contract with City Manager Mike Wiesner will stay as it is for the time being.

Wiesner presently has a five-year contract which took effect in 1991 and expires in 1996. His current base salary is approximately $58,000 per year and the contract has provisions for annual increases. Under terms of the current contract, Wiesner would receive the equivalent of four months' pay (approximately $19,300) if the council were to decide to terminate Wiesner's employment prior to the contract expiration.

Last month Wiesner proposed to have the contract amended with the following stipulations: a new five-year contract effective April 1, 1994; assurances that the City Charter in all cases governs the dismissal of a manager; an increase in severance pay from four months to six months with severance pay to be increased by half a month for each additional year of service; severance pay to extend beyond the five-year term of the contract.

Council members Cheri Hoffman, Bruce Reid and Ted Felter supported amending the contract to increase the severance pay to five months ($24,166) with an additional half month's severance pay for every year after 10 years up to a maximum of eight months ($38,666). Council members Butch Russell, Don Meggison and Jackie Cross opposed the increase and favored leaving the contract as it is.

Several minutes of discussion preceded council action at the Sept. 6 council meeting.

Wiesner said, "I'm willing to make a long-term commitment. In doing that, I would like the city to do that also." He said the increased severance pay would give him a "comfort level." He noted that he is the eighth man-

Sale of industrial park land approved for LexaLite expansion

By L. Scott Swanson

LexaLite International Corporation has purchased 11.5 acres of property in the Charlevoix Industrial Park and will be constructing a new facility there. Known as the LexaLite Scientific Center (LSC), the facility will house 24,000 square feet of manufacturing area and 3,500 square feet of office space. The LSC manufacturing area will have a production area which will have less air-borne contaminants than a typical hospital operating room.

A confidential customer high technology project and a separate deep vacuum coating process will be housed in the facility. Site work is scheduled to begin in early October and production is anticipated in early May 1995.

The city council approved the sale of the property at the Sept. 6 city council meeting.

At the council meeting, Josh Barnes, C.E.O. of LexaLite International Corporation, explained that the company has been working on several prospective projects and new some of that work is bearing fruit in a big way. "In the last three months, we've had three projects that went ballistic," Barnes said. He noted that the company's customers for the projects are anxious to get production started as soon as possible.

Earlier, LexaLite looked at a site across U.S. 31 from their present plant as a possible location for the LSC. That site turned out to be a wetland and therefore unsuitable. LexaLite then looked to the city industrial park. Barnes worked with city manager Mike Wiesner and arrangements were made for the purchase of the industrial park site.

Barnes said operations at the new plant will be non-emissive and that there will be no volatile emissions whatsoever from the plant.

Provisions of the sales agreement called for the city to issue a standard 12-year partial tax exemption for the facility and to improve Gibbons Road which will provide access to the site.

LexaLite will purchase the 11,561 acres of land for $124,000, plus $25,000 for necessary utilities. The estimated cost to the city to repair Gibbons Road is $100,000. However, the city may be eligible for a state grant to pay the majority of the road improvement costs.

The resolution to accept the purchase agreement received unanimous council support.

ager the city has had in 15 years and Charlevoix has "the tendency to throw the rascals out."

Asked by Hoffman where he came up with the six-month figure, Wiesner said he had talked to other managers and found that their severance pay ranged from three months to a year.

Hoffman suggested raising the severance pay from four months' pay to five months' pay and then going incrementally higher, based on years of service, from there. Hoffman contended that Wiesner serves at the discretion of a political body that is subject to change and that he doesn't have the same ability to file suit that people in private enterprise have when they're fired.

Russell and Meggison favored leaving the present contract alone. "I find it strange (that) you're asking for a new contract when the present one hasn't run out," Russell said to Wiesner.

Wiesner replied that he didn't want to get into a situation where his contract is not renewed and he gets no severance pay.

Meggison said, "When you make a contract, you stay with it until the terms expire."

Reid said he had researched what other city managers in the area are paid and found that given Wiesner's expertise his salary is consistent with what is paid in other communities. Reid noted that given the criticism Wiesner takes at some of the meetings he wouldn't feel comfortable being Wiesner sometimes.

Later, during public comments Wiesner said that at one time or another all of the other city managers in the area have told him, "I don't know how you take it." From the audience, Billie Smith, a frequent critic of Wiesner's, called out, "Get out then."

Wiesner told the council, "Folks, it's rough working here. I'm willing to commit, but I want a comfort level." He added that he was not saying the community shouldn't have the ability to fire him if they're not satisfied.

Earlier during public comments, Smith had said to the council members, "I think Mike's got a pretty good job and pretty good benefits. Do you people get that? (Four or more months' of severance pay) I don't think he deserves another contract when he's already signed one."

Former council member Bob Timms spoke against amending the contract. He said the $58,000 salary figure discussed doesn't include fringe benefits which add to the compensation package. Timms said he is also not happy with Wiesner's service as city manager on a number of different issues.

"He's sweetening the pie," Timms said. "I think he's making enough, that if he's let go, he's quite well paid. Evidently, he's concerned with his tenure."

Downtown Development Authority member Dan Barron spoke in support of the contract amendment. "By many, many objective reports and results of what has occurred in Charlevoix over the past 10 years there's been enormous progress," Barron said. He said that although there are many reasons for that progress, one reason is the city has had high quality, professional management. Barron said he feels much of the criticism of Wiesner stems from some people having philosophical differences about the city manager form of government.

Following public comment, a motion by Meggison, supported by Russell to leave the city manager's contract as it is failed by a 3-3 vote. Meggison, Russell and Cross voted in favor. Hoffman, Reid and Felter voted opposed.

Following that vote, a motion by Hoffman, supported by Reid to amend the city manager's contract also failed by a 3-3 vote. Hoffman, Reid and Felter voted in favor. Meggison, Russell and Cross voted opposed.

With no action passed, the contract will remain as it is.

Sea kayakers to converge on Beaver Island for weekend

By Laurie Lounsbury

Kayakers agree that Beaver Island is a great place to leave. That's why kayakers from all over the Midwest will converge on Beaver Island this weekend for a three-day kayaking excursion. From Beaver Island, the group can leave on day trips to the surrounding islands and be back on Beaver Island in time for dinner and libations at the Shamrock Bar. Charlevoix resident Ann Willis put the Beaver Island kayak trip together. This is her third kayak trip to the island. Kayakers can paddle the two and a half mile distance to Garden Island and explore the Indian burial grounds or paddle five miles over to High Island for a longer day trip. Willis is expecting 25 to 50 kayakers from all over the Midwest. Most of the kayakers are 30 to 60 years old, and are balanced in the number of men and women. The kayakers will send their sea touring kayaks over to Beaver Island on the Beaver Island Ferry Boat.

Willis said the kayakers will paddle up to 20 miles a day, exploring the shore line of Beaver Island and the outlying islands. "It's very relaxing, as long as the water is calm," Willis said of the all-day paddling.

Willis' parents Jim and Dorothy Willis are former Charlevoix residents who have lived on Beaver Island for the last eight years. Jim and Dorothy usually offer tours of the island to visiting kayakers.

Ann Willis of Charlevoix paddles her sea kayak off the shore of Beaver Island. Willis and several other sea kayakers from throughout Michigan will be visiting the island for a three-day kayak fest.

Sleep Inn motel site plan approved

A 59-unit motel will be built at the corner of U.S. 31 and Mercer Boulevard near the south end of Charlevoix. The motel will be called the Sleep Inn and is part of the Choice hotel chain.

"We'd like to be able to get started this fall so we'd be open in the spring," Jon Runquist, one of the owners, said in a recent phone conversation with the Courier. The Charlevoix City Council approved the site plan for the project Sept. 6.

Runquist said a market study indicated that Charlevoix could use a motel from a national chain.

"I think we're going to draw business that's been going elsewhere," Runquist said, noting that other northwestern Michigan communities have motels from national chains.

The Sleep Inn will have a small conference area, but that will not be the focus of the business. Runquist estimates that nightly rates will be around $50.

The Sleep Inn will be three stories high with some stonework on the front. Runquist said he and the other people involved with the project tried to pick a design that would be in harmony with other Charlevoix architecture.

Prior to city council action, the city planning commission reviewed the project and recommended its approval.

...Acacia leaves for Haiti

The Acacia arrived in Boston Friday and since that time has been loading supplies and equipment. Corporan said the trip out went well with the exception of a storm off of Nova Scotia. Corporan and the Acacia crew were enjoying the scenery of some beautiful country in the northeast until they rounded Nova Scotia and got blasted by a storm which had winds in excess of 55 knots and 20-foot seas. After getting hammered for a while, they decided they'd had enough of that kind of fun and pulled into a sheltered area by Nova Scotia and waited until the storm passed.

The Acacia did arrive in Boston on time to deliver the crew member who was scheduled to be married. The Acacia arrived in Boston Friday and the crewman was married Saturday.

Corporan said current plans called for the Acacia to be relieved of Operation Able Manner duty in early November and to be back in Charlevoix right around Thanksgiving.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Council acted correctly in not amending manager's contract

City council members Jackie Cross, Butch Russell and Don Meggison deserve praise for standing firm at the Sept. 6 city council meeting and refusing to amend the contract between the city and the city manager.

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner had asked the council to amend his current five-year contract which expires in April of 1996. Council members Cheri Hoffman, Bruce Reid and Ted Feltter voted in favor of amending the contract. Fortunately for city taxpayers, Cross, Russell and Meggison blocked the move.

The matter shouldn't be viewed as a personal matter, or any kind of comment one way or another on Wiesner. The issue should be viewed simply in terms of dollars and cents and in terms of what is good local government policy and good for local taxpayers. Viewed in those terms, amending the contract made no sense.

In seeking the contract amendment, Wiesner asked for four things: a new five-year contract, effective April 1, 1994; assurances that the City Charter in all cases governs the dismissal of a manager; an increase in severance pay from the equivalent of four months' wages to six months' wages; a provision that severance pay increase by half a month from the six-month base for each additional year Wiesner serves as city manager; severance pay to extend beyond the five-year term of the contract.

Wiesner and the council members who supported his request made several arguments in support of the request. Those arguments and the other side of those arguments are as follows:

Argument - Wiesner is willing to make a long-term commitment to the city and he wants that commitment reciprocated. Wiesner said he needs to have a "comfort level" in serving as city manager.

Other side - The city manager is currently being paid a base salary of approximately $58,000 with additional fringe benefits that make the total compensation package in excess of $65,000. He is operating under a five-year contract. Four months' severance pay equates to approximately $19,300. Compare those figures to what the average city taxpayer makes. The average city taxpayer has an annual salary close to $19,300, works at the will of his or her employer and has little or no provision for severance pay. Compared to the average taxpayer, the city manager already has an enviable comfort level.

Argument - The city manager works for a political body which is subject to change and changing opinions.

Other side - Most people work for a single individual, or in some cases a board of directors. Boards of directors, like political bodies are subject to change. Management purges by corporate boards are by no means unheard of. While it takes four council votes to dismiss a city manager, those people who work for an individual can be dismissed by merely one vote - that of their employer.

Argument - While private sector employees have the right to sue an employer for being unfairly dismissed, the city manager does not.

Other side - Although the legal ins and outs of this argument weren't explained at the council meeting, even if you accept it as true, it still is not a particularly weighty argument. Even though private employees have the right to sue when they're fired, how many actually do? Name three. The reality is that private employers either seldom fire employees without just cause or they make sure to cover their tracks when they do. What this boils down to is that although private sector employees may have the right to sue for being unfairly fired, it's a right which isn't used much and is hard to make use of.

Argument - The city manager has given the city several years of good service.

Other side - And he's been well-paid for each and every one of them.

Argument - The city manager takes a lot of undeserved criticism at city council meetings.

Other side - Granted, the city manager takes a lot of criticism at council meetings, a fair amount of it undeserved. But name a job where you don't take a certain amount of undeserved criticism.

Argument - The city manager's severance pay needs to be extended beyond the five years of the contract, otherwise the contract can expire and the city manager will not receive severance pay.

Other side - The fundamental purpose of severance pay is to protect an employee and offer him a financial buffer to make a transition to a new job following an abrupt or surprising dismissal. The conclusion of a five-year contract is not something which should be seen as abrupt or surprising. This is particularly true in the case in question.

The city manager's contract doesn't expire until April of 1996. New council members take their seats in November. Between November, when the make-up of the council is set, and April, when the contract expires, there is a five-month period. If the council elected in November of 1995 didn't quickly express an interest in renewing the contract, the writing on the wall would be quite clear well in advance of the contract expiration.

While people should not resent the city manager's attempt to negotiate a more lucrative contract for himself, they should also appreciate the fiscal responsibility shown by the three council members who were willing to say no to that request.

EDITH GILBERT

by EDITH GILBERT

The kindergarten teacher asked the class, "What did you have for dinner last night?" and my grand-daughter Jennifer replied, "We had bear."

Shortly thereafter, during parent-teacher conference Jennifer's mother was told that her daughter had a vivid imagination and tended to stretch the truth by telling the class that the family had bear for dinner.

"But we did have bear," Jennifer's mother replied. Jennifer's dad is an avid hunter and an excellent cook. Everything he shoots, which includes venison, moose, bear, ducks, wild turkeys, pheasants, geese, and quail is seasoned with spices, marinated and baked or grilled and served in style with garden grown vegetables and usually wild rice.

Some children might prefer Happy Meals from McDonald's, but Jennifer's mother never had a problem with her children's appetite at dinner-time.

"I just announce that dinner is ready, and we sit down and eat together. I never have prepared anything different for the children."

"Bravo!" for her. There are no questions, "What would you like to eat?" "What would you like to drink?" "What can I fix for you?" Small children, I find, don't need to make too many decisions. It's O.K. to give them a choice. "Would you like a glass of milk or juice?" Even tho' I'm a stockholder in Coca Cola, I never offer a soft drink with meals because there is no nourishment in pop. The dozen or more small fry who visit me know how I feel and this drink policy has never been a problem.

This summer I was surprised that some of my little house guests have unusual ideas about food. Christopher didn't eat anything green. He didn't eat peanut butter or honey. Another group was weaned on skimmed milk, no butter on the peanut butter sandwich and low-fat yogurt.

Now I have strong feelings about no fat, no cholesterol foods. They have NO TASTE! I have a friend out west whose refrigerator is full of lite mayonnaise, butter, cottage cheese, bread, yogurt, and turkey bacon that tastes like salty shoe leather, and she is twice as fat as I am. My theory is that she craves good food and is never truly satisfied with the flavorless substitutes with which she stuffs herself. When I spend time preparing a meal in the kitchen, it has to be tasty, or why bother? I much prefer eating something delicious and less of it, than yearning for huge and tasteless quantities.

Now I must admit that in spite of all I've said, I'm also a finicky eater. As a child after World War I, we were admonished to finish everything on our plate, "because there are starving children in Europe." Nobody ever explained to me how the starving children in Europe would benefit if I ate everything on my plate. I remember when I was five years old, sitting alone at the table after everyone was finished eating. I had to clean everything on my plate or else. Today I don't remember the "or else" part, but I do get a secret thrill now when I am free to stop eating when I'm full, and there's still food left on my plate. It's like saying to those friendly ghosts from the past, "Ha, ha, you can't make me!"

So I do have a tolerant view of Christopher, who won't eat anything green. But it's much easier on today's parents if they follow Jennifer's mother's role in announcing, "Let's eat. Dinner is ready." Bear meat and all!

Letters to the editor

Using seatbelt saved her daughter's life

Fortunately, Tracey Boyer was wearing her seat belt and escaped any serious injury when the car she was in rolled over on Labor Day.

Editor,

On Labor Day, my daughter Tracey Boyer, had a rollover with her car, on Marion Center Road in Charlevoix.

Due to the quick help of the property owner, in whose yard she landed, the Charlevoix Fire & Ambulance crews and Deputy Don Schneider, we had a happy ending.

I received the phone call that all parents dread. My daughter was in an accident and was being transported by ambulance to the hospital. What thoughts go through your mind at a time like this. First a quick prayer for her safety, and then you wonder, did she have her seat belt on? Like most parents, I was not sure if she had listened to every word that I had ever said. I was scared.

Upon arriving at the hospital, I was told by the ER nurse that she had been wearing her seat belt and that we were among the very fortunate few to receive good news after a rollover. She has a few bruises, from where the belt held her in place. We can live with a small inconvenience like that; she is still with us.

I would like to thank everyone who helped, but most of all, I want to thank Tracey, for listening to the seat belt part of the speeches. Without hearing that part, I would not have her today.

To everyone else, keep talking about how seat belts save lives. Just a small click when getting in your car, can make a difference.

Sincerely,
A very thankful mom,
Catherine Phelps

Local girl entertains in Las Vegas

Little Miss Northern Michigan, Kayla Marie Potter, the 5-year-old daughter of Jay and Debbie Potter of Charlevoix, recently returned from Las Vegas where she was a guest performer at a dinner show for Las Vegas entertainer Wayne Newton. "Puttin on the Glitz" Las Vegas style was the theme of the dinner show. Potter performed two numbers for the entertainer, "Achey Breaky" and "Great Balls of Fire." The day before the dinner show, Potter was invited out to Wayne Newton's home where she spent about two hours. She had a chance to tour Newton's 52-acre ranch and see his award winning Arabian horses. She also had a chance to see all the wildlife that lives at his ranch including penguins, black swans, wallabies and peacocks.

The highlight of Potter's trip to Las Vegas was not only performing for Wayne Newton, but later that evening he had her come up on his stage at the Sands Hotel and Casino while he was performing and perform her version of "Achey Breaky" for his audience of more than 1000.

Summer resident and relative of many families in Charlevoix, Dolly (Ouderirk) Luft Abby who has been a friend of Newton's for more than 27 years produced and directed the dinner show for Newton. This is the fourth event that she has put together for him. Each time she has taken talent from the Northern Michigan area to entertain.

Hand of friendship extended to Russian orphans by local man

College student serves as Russian summer camp counselor

Kyle Bremmeyr of Charlevoix recently spent two weeks in Russia working as a counselor at a summer camp for orphans. Bremmeyr is a student at the University of Detroit Mercy where he is majoring in social work.

Bremmeyr worked with an organization called the Council for International Educational Exchange. International Workcamps is a branch of that organization which coordinates various volunteer work projects throughout the world.

Just getting to the summer camp was no small endeavor. Bremmeyr first took a 13-hour flight from Chicago to Moscow. From Moscow, he took a 26 hour train ride to a city called Syktyvkar which is the capital of a section of Russia called the Komi Republic. From there, he and several other volunteers from New York, Germany, France, England, Holland and elsewhere in Russia took a bus to the camp. The camp is close to the Arctic Circle and near the Ural Mountains.

The children in the camp range in age from 3 to 19. Most of them are considered orphans not because they're parents have died, but because their parents have alcohol or drug problems or are in prison. The children spend the summer at the camp and the winter at an orphanage. None of the children are adopted out of the orphanage. They stay there until they reach age 19 and then they are sent out on their own.

At the orphanage the children begin working as soon as they're able to walk. They work in the garden and do chores around the orphanage. The orphanage provides clothes, food and housing and the children receive some money for their own use.

At the camp, a normal day for Bremmeyr began at 8 a.m. with breakfast followed by work in the fields or on the camp buildings from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. In the afternoon, following lunch, he and the other counselors participated in activities with the children. Among the activities were hiking, picking berries, playing games or rowing down the river. Bremmeyr said a lot of time was spent just hanging out with the children and spending time with them on the playground. At the end of the two weeks, when it came time for the volunteers to leave, the students came out to see them off. Leaving was accompanied by tears from both the children and the volunteers.

Touring turtle visits Charlevoix to promote peace

By Laurie Lounsbury

A children's book with a simple message has inspired a nationwide tour in a converted Volkswagen Beetle for Jennifer Garrison and Andrew Tubesing. Garrison and Tubesing are employed by Pfeiffer-Hamilton Publishers, the company that published the award-winning book, "Old Turtle." Old Turtle is a wise creature who delivers a message of peace to young readers with moving words and beautiful illustrations. The book received the American Booksellers Book of the Year award. The success of the book prompted the publishers to transform an old Volkswagen Beetle into an "Old Turtle" look-alike. Garrison and Tubesing are driving the Beetle to 100 different cities across the United States to visit schools and collect messages of peace written by school children.

Second grade teacher Sue Tillotson learned about Old Turtle's impending visit to Charlevoix from Mary Jane Barnwell, owner of the Charlevoix Book Shop. Tillotson quickly made discussions of peace her first subject for the new school year. Tillotson asked all of her second graders to write a peace message to send to the United Nations with Old Turtle. "The messages were not always about world peace," Tillotson reported of the kid's messages. "Some of them wrote about peace in their family."

The publishers behind Old Turtle hope to collect a million peace messages to deliver to the United Nations in February of 1995.

A turtle-car inspired by the award-winning book "Old Turtle" visited the Charlevoix Elementary School last week. The book promotes peace. Second grade students in Sue Tillotson's class wrote messages of peace and sent them with the "Old Turtle" car to the United Nations.

City changes residency requirement

With the exception of the city manager, what few city employees who still were required to live within the City of Charlevoix no longer will have the requirement.

In the past there has been a city requirement that city employees live within the city limits. However, some city employees have been allowed to live outside the city because they lived outside the city prior to the adoption of the requirement. Other city employee unions have negotiated the requirement out of their contract. Consequently, the only ones still affected by the requirement were a handful of city department heads.

At the Sept. 6 meeting the city council voted to eliminate the requirement. The decision was made on a 5-1 vote. Council members Cheri Hoffman, Bruce Reid, Ted Felter, Don Meggison and Jackie Cross voted in favor. Council member Butch Russell voted opposed.

The issue drew both opposition and support from members of the public.

Former council member Bob Timms opposed the proposal. "Aren't we paying our supervisors a reasonable wage?" he asked. "Can't they afford to live in the city?"

"When they're drawing pay from the City of Charlevoix, they should pay Charlevoix City taxes," Timms said.

Audience member Dale Boss supported the proposal. The area within the city limits is small and practically full, therefore, city employees should be allowed to live at least four or five miles out of town, he maintained. "You've got to be reasonable here," Boss said.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

"Libertad e Esperanza," Liberty and hope were words we heard frequently in the news during our trip to Florida. The pictures on television and daily stories of families being reunited or seeking reports on their loved ones who had floated rafts into the Florida Straits did not just touch, they ripped at your heart.

From time to time, I quietly wonder if we realize just how blessed we are. We can go to the grocery store and find a vast variety of fresh fruits, vegetables, and meats. A trip to the department store of your choice unfolds a wardrobe of clothes to suit most any taste. But aside from the physical things, how aware are we of the privilege we enjoy in terms of shaping our own destiny?

We were not told what careers we must choose. We were not restricted in the amount of education we could obtain. If we were so inclined, we could even venture into politics and be a part of government ourselves. None of those things even begins to take into account the mystery and wonder that the freedom to believe in God can stir up in any heart.

Things you and I take for granted seem like fairy tales in so many parts of the world. Those very things that make our lives so "daily" are what have driven countless people around the world to set their highest goal in life as coming to America. That's why "libertad e esperanza," liberty and hope, has been the cry for the rafters and their families in southern Florida.

It had to be hard for the fifty-five families of ACACIA to see their loved ones sail out through the channel and voyage south to join the rescue efforts. It has to be at least in the back of their minds too that the tensions in nearby Haiti may involve their loved ones as well. But aside from those things, they have to cope because it is the crew's duty to sometimes go in harm's way.

I'm grateful to whoever hung the yellow ribbon on the mooring sign. Those who are left behind can so easily forget those who serve for us, those who have made our own liberty and hope things that we can so easily take for granted. We need to remember Acacia in our prayers whether she ends up in Florida or fills in for a sister ship on the east coast. We need to remember all our service personnel who may be on the verge of going into harm's way. Those daily acts of buying food or choosing new clothes or even getting into our automobiles and heading out wherever we choose are blessings we should not take for granted. People are risking their lives for what we hold so dear.

And lest I forget, always remember someone else gave His life for you a long time ago to set you free, deep within your heart. Thank you Jesus for watching over our loved ones. Thank you Lord for helping us understand the real value of our freedom.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
NOTICE
OPEN HOUSE MEETINGS
US-131 FREEWAY CORRIDOR
STUDY FROM KALKASKA TO I-75

The Michigan Department of Transportation intends to identify a corridor for the location of the final segment of the US-131 freeway from north of Kalkaska to a connection with I-75. To that end, MDOT will have representatives present at two Open House meetings from 3:30 to 5:00 and 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. on the following days at the respective places:

Wednesday, September 21, 1994 In Kalkaska at the new hall of the Kalkaska County Fairground (801 W. Mile Road) on the south side of M-72 west of US-131.

Thursday, September 22, 1994 In Gaylord at the Community Education Bldg.'s Alpine Inn on 615 S. Elm Street.

The corridors under preliminary consideration extend from north of Kalkaska to points along I-75 somewhere between Grayling and Indian River. These corridors are partially located in the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Kalkaska and Oostego.

The purpose of these Open Houses is to provide the opportunity for the public to give its input on the possible future corridor location wherein alternatives for a US-131 freeway could be built. Please feel free to drop in at either meeting at any time during the advertised hours.

It is the intent of the Department not only to invite, but also to encourage citizen involvement and participation in the study. It must be stressed that this is not a public hearing of recommended highway improvements, as there have been none selected. The objective of these meetings is to gain input at the earliest possible stage of the study, from local residents and to stimulate communication and cooperation.

After-school art school opens

By Laurie Lounsbury

Local artist Cara Hochhalter is bringing her love of art and love of children together in a new after-school art program. The six-week series of art classes for elementary school students is called "Art Is You," and will be held in Hochhalter's studio.

Hochhalter has a good reason for naming the classes "Art Is You." She plans to give students individual guidance through different art mediums, then let them create their own art. "The kids will come up with their own ideas and plans. That's what's really fun, seeing the kids' own ideas expressed artistically," Hochhalter said.

Hochhalter's background is ideally suited for her new endeavor. Her life has been filled with art since childhood. Her father was an art professor at Albion College. Hochhalter received her degree in art history from the University of Michigan. She also became a certified elementary school teacher and taught fifth grade in Charlevoix for four years.

Hochhalter resigned from her teaching position when her daughter Anna was born ten years ago. It was after the birth of her daughter that Hochhalter decided to broaden her artistic horizons and study watercolor painting. "I always liked to create things, but learning to watercolor added a whole new dimension to my life," Hochhalter said. Hochhalter was apparently a very good student because shortly after her studies in watercolor painting she was accepted as an exhibitor to many of the area art fairs, including the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair.

Hochhalter will offer a smorgasbord of art mediums to the children. She'll guide the students through clay sculpture, watercoloring, block printing, paper making, and draw-

CARQUEST serves both pro and amateur mechanics

By L. Scott Swanson

While the new Charlevoix CARQUEST auto parts store does a lot of business with industrial manufacturers and car dealerships, they're also willing to offer one-on-one advice to the shade-tree mechanic puttering with his, or her, car in the backyard.

"We help people out every way we can," said Dave Peterson, who with his brother, Mark Peterson, owns the CARQUEST stores in Charlevoix, Petoskey and Boyne City. If people come in and know exactly what they want, that's fine. They're handed the part and away they go. But if people come in and have questions, that's all right too. As Peterson describes it the CARQUEST staff fields questions and helps carry people through. The store's main emphasis is service, he says.

The new CARQUEST store opened Aug. 4 in the former State Liquor Control building off of US 31, and the airport entrance. The building had been vacant for a number of years, but after purchasing it, the Petersons moved quickly and within a matter of weeks had renovated it and had the store up and running. And it didn't take customers long to find the store. Peterson said the store's sales for the first month were very good.

While the store is new, Charlevoix residents will find the faces in the store to be familiar. Store manager Dave Cole has 10 years of experience in auto parts stores in Charlevoix. He and his wife Bernadette live in

Charlevoix with their two daughters, Mark and Dave Peterson, the owners of the store, grew up in Charlevoix. Their father, Ron Peterson, ran the Fochman Motor Company Store in Charlevoix from 1963 to 1977.

CARQUEST of Charlevoix is one of a three-store northern Michigan group which is part of a nationwide chain of 3,000 stores. The three northern Michigan stores employ 29 people and have a fleet of nine trucks delivering parts and supplies between stores and to wholesale customers. The local stores are serviced every night by two Michigan warehouses which each stock a minimum of 276 product lines and 131,000 different part numbers.

Peterson said the local stores do a tremendous amount of special order business, hunting down parts for people. In addition to the vast CARQUEST resources the people working at the local stores have other sources and suppliers that they've dealt with through the years.

The local CARQUEST stores are heavily into industrial supplies such as hoists, pressure washers, air compressors and brake lathes. They are a distributor for Milwaukee electric tools and the only distributor north of Grand Rapids that custom tint Rustoleum paints.

In addition to providing parts, the three-store northern Michigan CARQUEST chain also can turn brake drums, make hydraulic hoses, test starters and alternators and has a full automotive machine shop with two fulltime machinists in Petoskey.

Offense stalls: Rayders lose to Boyne City 14-6

If you watched Charlevoix play Friday night and the Detroit Lions play Sunday, you might think the Lions took a page out of the Rayder playbook. Neither team did much blocking and consequently neither team had much of an offense.

Charlevoix's offense was particularly dismal in the first half. Boyne City blitzed linebackers who wreaked havoc in the Rayder backfield.

On the defensive side of the ball the Rayders fared much better. Boyne City scored the lone touchdown of the first half on a 60-yard pass play and a missed tackle. The two-point conversion put Boyne City up 8-0 at the half.

Boyne City scored again late in the third quarter. The extra point attempt failed and Boyne City led 14-0.

In the second half the offense showed some improvement by streaks, but never with enough consistency for a sustained drive. Charlevoix's lone touchdown of the game came on a 34-yard run by Jerry Duhart early in the fourth quarter.

On the next drive the Rayder defense not only stopped the Ramblers, but following a blown punt snap tackled the Rambler punter on the nine-yard line. A touchdown and two-point conversion would have tied the game. But instead of going forward nine yards the Rayders ended up advancing to the rear. Four downs later, courtesy of a penalty, blown running play and a quarterback sack, the Rayders gave up the ball near the 25 yard line.

Robbie Stradtner led the Rayder defense with seven tackles. Luther Kurtz had four tackles. Dan Harris had three tackles. Trevor Williams recovered a fumble while Mark Boss had an interception.

Charlevoix travels to Reed City Friday evening.

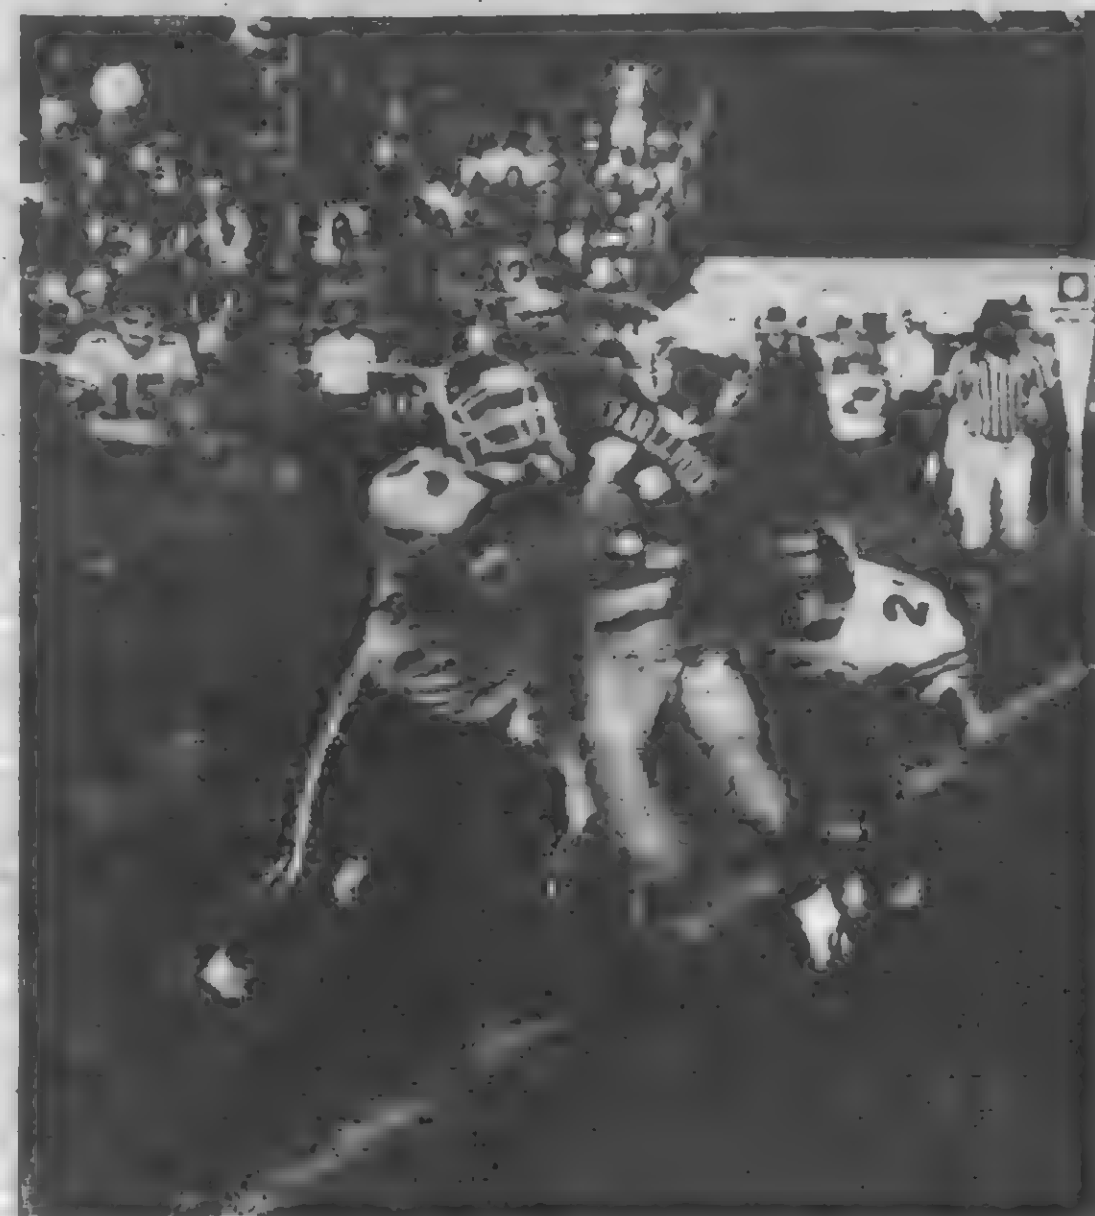

Golfers place second at Gaylord

Charlevoix's high school varsity golf team placed second in the Class C and D division of the Northern Energy Gaylord High Invitational last Friday at Hidden Valley Resort.

Charlevoix, with a score of 355, finished five strokes behind Fairview. The other three teams in the tournament were Harbor Springs, 361; Indian River, 378; and Boyne City, 393.

Brad Eaton led the Rayders with a score of 84. Coach Jim Glynn said Eaton has been doing nothing but working hard and continually improving since the beginning of the season. Eaton shot a 40 on the front nine.

Other Rayders and their scores were: Robert Sineway, 87; Scott Blechel, 92; Scott Curtis, 92; and Fritz Sommerfeld, 93.

Cross Country team continues to win

Charlevoix's boys' cross country team won the Re-Pete Invitational Saturday morning, outgunning several other teams on a wet course near Charlevoix. The European style course includes obstacles such as mud, logs and bales of hay. It's different from what the runners are used to, but the kind of people who will go out and run three miles as fast as they can tend to be the kind of people who appreciate a challenge.

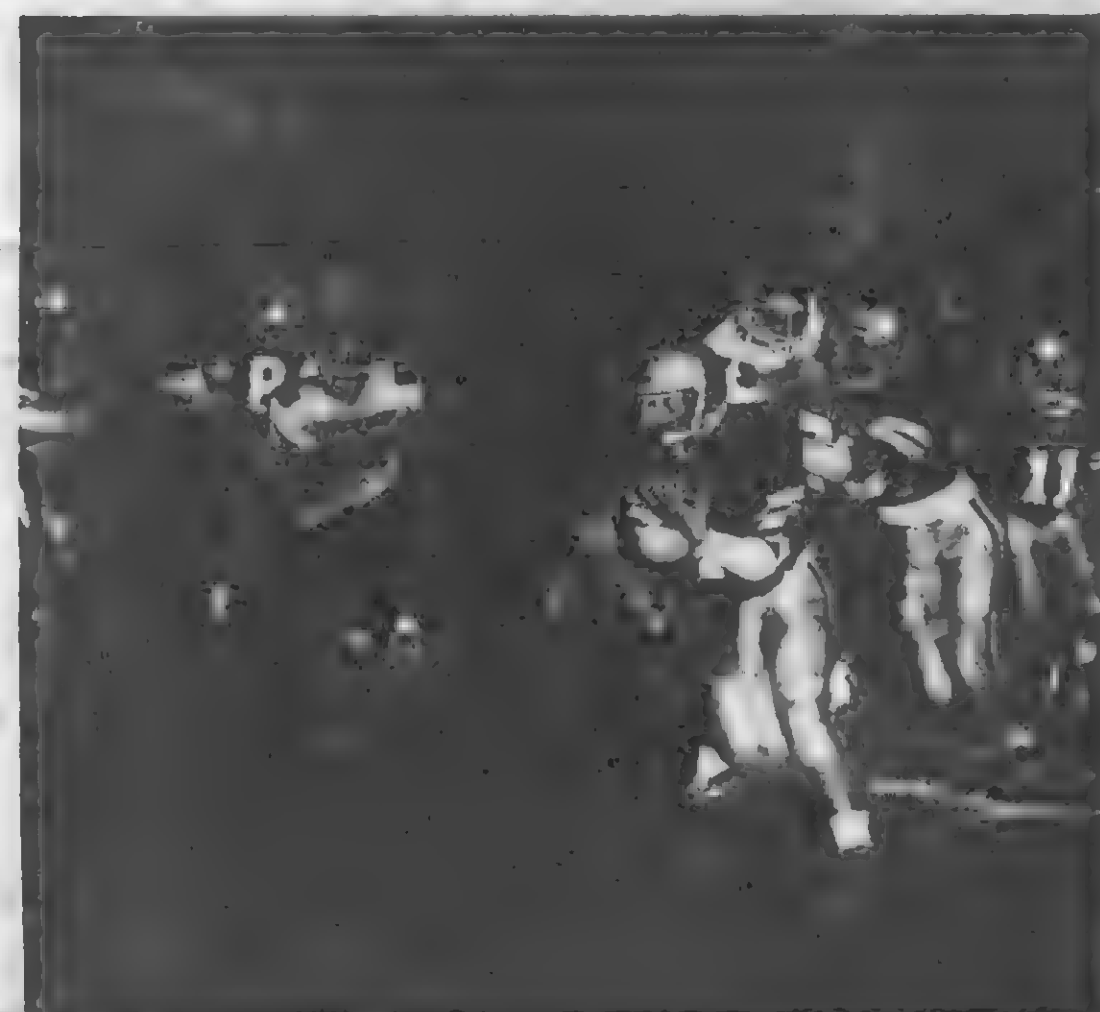

Charlevoix won the boys' race with a team time of 93 minutes, 39 seconds. East Jordan placed second with a team time of 95:10, followed by Gaylord at 96:01 and Petoskey at 100:53. Runners from 16 schools participated in the race.

Mike Bush was the Rayders' top finisher, placing second in the junior-senior boys race with a time of 17:52. Other finishing times for the Rayder boys were as follows:

Junior/Senior race: 5 - Matt Dickinson, 18:23; 7 - Chris LeBull, 18:48; 8 - Justin Davis, 18:57; 13 - Paul Henne, 19:39; 14 - James Conlan, 19:49; 18 - Drew Laucher, 20:12; 23 - Eric Anderson, 20:37; 34 - Steve Crook, 21:28; 39 - Mark Schairbaum, 22:02; 45 - Josh Love, 22:48; 54 - Jason Hughes, 24:19.

Bryan Jarema ran well for the most part Friday evening, but on this play never quite got a grip on the ball and ended up fumbling. The Rayders' defensive stand following this fumble was one of the highlights for Charlevoix in the loss to Boyne City Friday evening. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Basketball team loses to Petoskey

Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team evened its season record at 1-1 with a 45-31 loss at Petoskey last Thursday night. The game was ugly offensively with poor shooting and lots of turnovers. But with both teams among the most physically talented and defensively aggressive in northern Michigan that'll happen.

Petoskey made only 22 of 72 shots from the floor while Charlevoix was even worse at 11 of 39. Charlevoix had nearly as many turnovers, 32, as they had shots in the game.

The game was close throughout the first quarter, with Petoskey leading 14-11 at the end of the quarter. In the second and third quarters, Charlevoix's offense went into hibernation. Petoskey outscored Charlevoix 12-4 in the second quarter and 12-6 in the third quarter.

On the evening, Liz Grunch led the Rayders with 15 points. No other Rayder had more than four. Rachael Brown led Petoskey with 15 points. The win raised Petoskey's season record to 4-0.

Petoskey also won the junior varsity game 57-50 to raise their record to 4-0. Charlevoix fell to 0-2 for the season. Lisa Parrish led the Rayders with 32 points while Amanda Eaton had 14.

Charlevoix won the freshman game 53-51. Petoskey lead 18-14 after the first quarter and 30-26 at the half, but a big 18-6 advantage in the third quarter gave the Rayders the lead and allowed them to hold off a Petoskey rally in the fourth quarter. Ann Terryberry led the Rayders with 18 points while Lyndsay Blechel added 11.

Charlevoix will travel to Traverse City-St. Francis Thursday, Sept. 15.

Sandison wins first football contest of 1994

Meanwhile, the rest of us didn't do too well

The first week of this year's Courier football contest was fraught with surprises. For those picking the games, the most common record was 6-4. The only ones to do better than that were Tom Sandison, who won the contest with a record of 8-2 and Bob Borths, who finished second at 7-3. Here are the games for this week. From here, they look to be a bit

J.V. football team wins in final quarter

Charlevoix's junior varsity football team beat Boyne City 46-30 last Thursday night to improve the Rayders' season record to 2-0.

The game was tied 30-30 entering the final quarter, but Charlevoix's Scott Smith scored on a 35-yard run and a 5-yard run and Steve Felter ran in two conversions to give the Rayders the win.

Boyne City opened the scoring with a touchdown in the first quarter which was immediately answered by the Rayders on a 70-yard pass from T.J. Carey to David Manker. Boyne City scored to retake the lead, but Charlevoix answered again, this time on a 20-yard pass from Carey to Marc Jacobs.

Boyne City got the final touchdown of the half and at the break led 22-12.

In the third quarter, the Rayder defense got tired of waiting for the offense to score and took matters into their own hands. Rayder defensive tackle Mike Rautio blocked a pass, caught the ball in the air and lugged it 40 yards for a touchdown. Having discovered that it was OK for defensive people to score touchdowns, a few minutes after Rautio scored Jacobs intercepted a pass and took that back 40 yards for a touchdown. Later in the quarter, Charlevoix went up 30-22 on a 20-yard pass from Felter to Manker.

easier to call:

Charlevoix at Reed City: It'll be a long trip down and more than likely a long trip back. The defense is starting to come around, but Charlevoix's blocking is going to have to improve for the Rayders to improve. Pick - Reed City.

St. Ignace at Gaylord: St. Ignace is young and Gaylord's backfield is huge. Pick - Gaylord.

Boyne City at Elk Rapids: Boyne City is a young, but improving team. Pick - Boyne City.

Notre Dame at MSU: Notre Dame's team which is going to be ticked off following a loss to Michigan. MSU is a team which loses to teams like Kansas. Pick - Notre Dame.

UCLA at Nebraska: One of the few tough games on Nebraska's generally wimpy schedule. We're calling an upset here. Pick - UCLA.

Wisconsin at Colorado: Wisconsin has had some injury problems, but they're still healthy enough to beat Colorado. Pick - Wisconsin.

Detroit at Dallas: Monday night and Detroit's playing? This can't be. The last time Detroit had a Monday night game they had a different quarterback. Bobby Layne, wasn't it? Dare I pick two upsets in one week? Sure, I dare. Pick - Detroit.

Green Bay at Philadelphia: Green Bay got beat by Miami, but Miami's a good team. Pick - Green Bay.

Washington at New York Giants:

The Giants' defense is under-rated. Offensively, their new quarterback is coming around. Washington may start the rookie at quarterback, but he may be over-rated. Pick - New York Giants.

New York Jets at Miami: Astute fans didn't believe all the pre-season stuff about Marino not being the quarterback he was before the injury. After Miami starts the season 3-0, they also won't believe all the hype about Marino being super human. Pick - Miami.

SCRAPBOOK

This old photo was kicking around in the Courier files. There was no identification with it and we're not sure of the exact year it was taken. We suspect it was sometime during the late '60s or early '70s. Some of the faces are familiar. In fact, it wouldn't be surprising if some of these players now have sons of their own in the Charlevoix middle or high school football program.

Driver spends 12 hours in lake

A car reportedly driving at a very high rate of speed down McSaubia road catapulted over boulders and came to a stop upside down on the edge of Lake Michigan. The driver, Deborah Sue Bowman, was pinned in the car from about 10:30 Sunday evening until she was found by Alex Belenski at 10:00 the following morning. Bowman was unable to crawl out of the crushed vehicle, so she spent the night trapped beneath the car.

Bowman told sheriff's officers at the scene that she was swerving to avoid an unknown vehicle. Her car hit the boulders, flew about 40 feet through the air, and rolled over when it impacted with the beach.

Deputy sheriff Pat Avery reported that there were no signs of alcohol at the scene.

Bowman was taken to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, where she was treated and released. According to Avery, it appeared that she suffered only some damage to her nose.

The Charlevoix city and township fire department assisted the sheriff's department with the rescue.

Deborah Sue Bowman spent the night in the shallow water of Lake Michigan, pinned inside her crumpled car. Bowman reported that she swerved to avoid another car leaving the turn-around at the end of McSaubia Rd. Her car vaulted over the boulders and flipped after hitting the beach. Charlevoix Personified

Rosalynde Johnston, standing, and sister Anna Belle Webb wait by the flowers in their front yard for any signs of the butterflies they've raised. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

It is said that people tend to resemble their pets. Anna Belle Webb and Rosalynde Johnston are two women who tend to resemble their pet passions. The two sisters, both ninety-something, are still embracing life with the zest of buoyant youngsters. Webb's passion is butterflies. Butterflies are free-spirited creatures, things of beauty, fragile, yet captivating. So is Anna Belle Webb. Her younger sister, Johnston, is a strong, clever woman with a quick wit and sparkling eyes. She is a feisty match for the river trout she loves to pursue. The two live together in Webb's house on Park Avenue. If they care about one thing more than their passions in nature, it is each other. Webb and Johnston's frequent visitors are treated to the show of sisterly synergy. When Webb wanders in her story telling, Johnston is there to reel her in. When Johnston starts to fade into the background, Webb verbally lassos her and brings her back into the picture.

"Rosalynde, show the picture of you with that trout you caught," Webb will say, adding proudly. "My sister is a wonderful fisherman." Johnston is self-effacing, yet with prodding from her sister she displays a picture of herself with a whopper of a trout she caught in the Au Sable River.

Webb, who is almost completely blind, raises butterflies with the help of her sister. The motion of a flying butterfly against the bright sky is one of

Champlin steers Charlevoix through school changes

By Laurie Lounsbury

Cynics and doubters who came to meet Dr. John Champlin last week left the meeting with a sense of cautious hope for the Charlevoix Schools.

Champlin was hired by the Charlevoix School District to help steer the schools into outcome based education. Champlin calls the project Quality Schools. The idea of outcome based education is to determine what you want your students to know when they complete school, then change the process of schooling to get that result.

Champlin outlined the principles of Quality Schools before fielding questions from the audience. He opened his talk by cautioning parents, "What was good enough for you isn't good enough today. We must be irreverent about standard practices that aren't getting what we want."

Champlin said it is imperative for schools to throw out old ways of doing things that don't work today. "A single teacher in a classroom can't serve kids well. You have to work as a team," Champlin said.

Champlin's no nonsense approach to revamping education takes a strategy of "Either join in the process or get out of the way." His expectations for teachers and support staff are that they must be willing to continuously learn, they must be willing to act on the knowledge they learned, and they must be willing to act on the knowledge they learned, and they must be willing to help others learn. "These three things can revolutionize the school system," Champlin said.

Champlin's plan for students doesn't break down learning certain things at a certain grade level. He says students must work at one aspect of learning until they get it right. There is no passing or failing a subject. The students work at something until they know it. Some students learn at a slower rate than others, and should not be advanced to a higher level of learning until they master the preceding level. "Don't fail students and then remediate them. Teach them right the first time," Champlin said.

Champlin has no interest in orthodox approaches to solving problems. If a student needs more time studying reading, then Champlin would make the time for reading, borrowing time from other subjects. He would sacrifice social studies or science class time for reading time. Students don't need to learn about the Civil War in social studies, Champlin said. If a student really wants to know about the civil war, they can look it up in a book, as long as they know how to read. Champlin said reading, writing and doing math computation are what is important. Everything else can be learned at a later time if the three core subjects are in place.

Parents looked skeptical when Champlin said he would not tolerate teachers who weren't willing to Teaching the how, along with the what, of taking tests

By Laurie Lounsbury

If a child does poorly on the MEAP test, (Michigan Education Assessment Program) it doesn't necessarily mean he or she didn't learn the information they needed. It could mean the student didn't learn how to take the test. That's why seventh grade teacher Jim Kanine forthrightly states he'll be focused on one particular topic for the first month of school - teaching kids to take the MEAP test.

The MEAP test is given to students in fourth, seventh, and tenth grade. The purpose of the test is to make sure our schools are teaching the knowledge objectives required by the state of Michigan. The pressure is on our schools to make sure our students are learning what they're supposed to learn when they're supposed to be learning it.

"If I can make these kids aware of how this test operates, they stand a better chance of being successful." Teacher Jim Kanine, on teaching MEAP testing skills to students

By 1997, students will be required to pass the MEAP test in order to get a state endorsed diploma. In the future, school funding will be tied in with the number of students who pass the MEAP test. "We darn well better teach what the state is testing," said Middle School Principal Dennis Van Guilder.

For many students, the problem is not what the state is testing, but how they're doing the testing. The MEAP test asks for more than correct answers. The ambiguously phrased questions ask a student to think critically, use good judgment and exercise logic. Some questions have no wrong answers. They have good answers, better answers, and the best answer. It's up to the student to decide what is best. Fourth grade teacher Mary Ann Chew said of the test, "There is far more critical thinking involved. It used to be more rote testing. It has advanced in difficulty because of the material covered and the critical thinking."

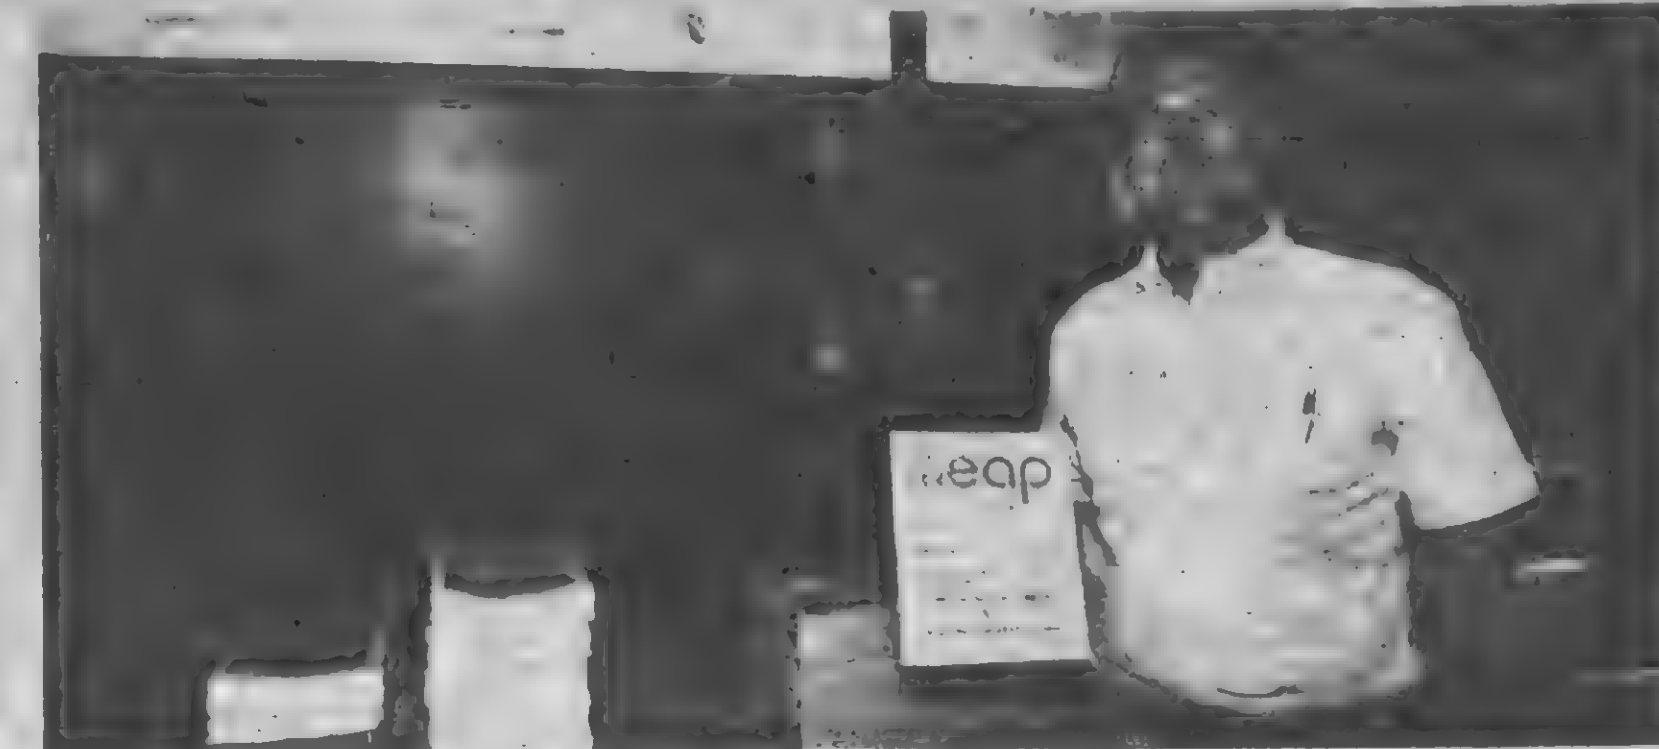

Kanine wants his seventh graders to be prepared for that kind of testing. "If I can make these kids aware of how this test operates, they stand a better chance of being successful," Kanine said.

Until testing day arrives in the first week of October, Kanine is shaking up his usual teaching style. He phrases questions the same way they're phrased on the test. He discusses the difference between a good answer and a better answer. "I'm not teaching the MEAP (content), I'm teaching strategies," he said. "If our kids know how to take the test, they'll do all right," he added.

Middle School Counselor Steve Stargardt has mixed feelings about the test. "The MEAP is very controversial," Stargardt said. Stargardt taught sixth grade math before becoming school counselor this year. He taught the curriculum that will show up on the seventh grade MEAP test. A positive aspect of the MEAP, according to Star-

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

For many Charlevoix people, autumn is their favorite season of the year. The pace is less frantic than summer, yet often enough the weather is still nice. In fact, for those of us who don't like the weather too hot, a nice autumn day is even better than a hot summer day. During the past two weeks, Charlevoix has definitely taken on the air of autumn. The leaves are beginning to change colors and there's beginning to be a chill in the air in the evening. Autumn in Charlevoix may not be as frantic as summer, but there's still plenty going on. We've had several golf tournaments in recent weeks, among them the Charlevoix Rotary's annual porker golf outing Sept. 20 organized by Dan Barron with the assistance of other Rotarians. There's a Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce business after hours Sept. 22. Plans are also being made for the annual Apple-Fest early in October and Ralph McRae and El Kaiser are working on the Charlevoix County Industrial Fair which will take place later in the month. From a retail perspective, autumn never is quite what summer is, but if the weather stays decent, business is sometimes fairly good right up through October.

Hunters are already beginning to take to the woods. The season opened for some forms of small game Sept. 15. Other small game seasons and the archery deer season will begin Oct. 1. Even firearm deer hunters need to be planning ahead. Hunters who wish to apply for doe permits need to take care of that within the next couple of days. Archery hunting has grown incredibly popular in recent years. Much of the increase is due to technological advances which have made bows easier to use and more effective. However, that's not the entire reason the sport has grown popular. The woods is just a great place to be during October. To begin with, it's so much warmer than it is in November. You can sit in a tree or ground stand comfortably and just enjoy the tranquility or even read a book. In October, once the leaves fall, you can often hear deer, raccoons, squirrels, birds, porcupines and other animals well before you see them coming. To people who don't hunt, it probably seems like sitting in a tree in the woods would be boring. There's nothing going on. In truth, there are usually a lot of things going on in the woods. You've just got to sit down, shut up and take the time to see them.

Charlevoix hosted a blood drive this past Thursday. We've been having blood drives in this town for years at the American Legion Hall. The Charlevoix blood drives are a wonderful example of how well a coordinated volunteer effort can function. Many of the same people have been with the program for years. They've been doing blood drives long enough so that they know what tasks need to be done and they get to work and carry them out.

The only problem with the Charlevoix drive is that there are never enough donors. Granted, people are busy and other people have some fears, real or imagined, about giving blood. But probably the biggest reason more people don't donate is that they just don't happen to think about it on the day of the drive. Giving blood isn't something which is all that difficult. The physical pain is minuscule. At the Charlevoix drive, you're normally in and out in less than an hour.

An interesting cross section of the community shows up to donate. This past Thursday, at the stock table, I had a nice conversation with high school students Travis Wood and Jacqueline Hogan as well as Virginia Schairbaum and Marilyn Izor.

Zebra mussels have made their way to Charlevoix. Recently, Tom Duke came into the Courier office with several in the bottom of a plastic foam coffee cup. Ben Cunningham of R.B. Lyons Marine Construction was doing some work on pilings at the former Fairport Marina complex, which Duke now owns. When they pulled up a piling, they noticed some clumps of shells attached to it. As it turns out, the shells were zebra mussels. Duke said the things held on tight to the piling when they were still alive, but came off easier once they dried out. Meryl Keller from the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Station said he's not surprised to hear that people are now finding the zebra mussels in Charlevoix. He said it was only a matter of time. The zebra mussels are aptly named. They look like a snail with zebra stripes. They're not native to the Great Lakes and biologists still aren't sure exactly what their overall effect will be. From a biological standpoint, they haven't seem to hurt much. In fact, they improve water clarity. Industries have had problems with them blocking intake pipes, but now they're figuring out ways to back-flush the pipes with chlorine to clear out the critters. Two other imports are also being monitored by Great Lakes biologists. One is a little fish called the ruffe. It's about the size of a perch and has been spreading out of Duluth Harbor in Minnesota. It's not much to eat and biologists are afraid it will compete for food with perch. The other import is a tiny water flea called B.C. These little critters are about plankton size. They eat the small zoo plankton which is a key food source for small fish. If the small fish are then able to eat the B.C.s, then there probably won't be too much of a problem. But the B.C.s have a long, pointed tail and biologists are afraid that tail might harm the digestive tract of small fish.

People leaving garbage around is a problem

Editor,

I was appalled at the letter from Mrs. Pair when she berated a north side grocer for not allowing her to put her personal garbage in his dumpster. Good customer, or not — she was definitely infringing on his personal property and in essence stealing from him — stealing space only, to be sure, but also it would amount to stealing money. At the V.F.W. and the American Legion it was found necessary to lock their dumpsters, because this member or that member might decide it was cheaper and easier to take their garbage and put it in the dumpster instead of leaving it at their own home to be picked up. If each member brought one bag each night, they would not have had enough room for their own garbage, and yet had to pay possibly $28 to $35 per dumpster pick-up. So it was with the grocer. If each customer put only one bag in his dumpster, he would have been paying umpteen dollars each week to accommodate the customers who did not have to pay for their garbage pick-up.

The Rainbow Shoppe also found this to be true, with people wanting to get rid of unwanted broken furniture, TVs that did not work, etc., etc. The Rainbow was kind enough to pick up the items, presumably for re-sale, only to find that their kind deeds resulted in having to pay extra to have those broken unusable items hauled to the dump, costing a great deal per month. Please realize what you're doing when you think it is "only one bag" and you are a "good customer," or "good member" — it may not cost you anything but pride, but it costs the dumpster owner a great deal of money. Mrs. Pair said she would patronize Oleson's instead of the north side grocer — so be it — but I am sure Oleson's does not want her refuse either!

Thanks for home tour

Editor,

We want everyone in this area to know what a wonderful group of women belong to Kappa Sigma Sorority. They work year-round to put together a fantastic home tour that is the event of the season in Charlevoix. And, very importantly, the proceeds of the event go to make Charlevoix Area Hospital a better hospital for all it serves.

Pam Barnes, chairman, and Theresa Corcoran, co-chairman, were a great team this year and motivated hundreds of volunteers to join in making the event so successful. Each member of Kappa Sigma deserves a blue ribbon for all that they did to help.

Over $5,000 contributed to the hospital as a result of the home tour will go toward the purchase of two fetal monitors for our new single room maternity unit.

We thank also the home owners who allowed their homes to be scrutinized by thousands of people. They were especially beautiful homes and we enjoyed the opportunity to see them.

This is a wonderful coming together of the community on the hospital's behalf and we are deeply grateful.

Sincerely,
Richard L. Krueger, President
